emmergency drills," she said.

The Quincy Police Department, the Health Department and Gorman's Office of Emergency Management also have roles to play in the response to the simulate attack.

The simulation assumes the attack will leave 25 dead and 150 injured, none of them in Quincy.

The exercise is scheduled to start at 4 o'clock on the morning of Sunday, Sept. 17, but Quincy will not become involved until 5 a.m. when its emergency workers are called to a staging area.

The initial explosion will be in a basement laboratory in an Everett home. The resulting fire will spread to a nearby liquified natural gas (LNG) facility.

Next a "dirty" bomb — an explosive device impregnated with radioactive waste — will go off in the Cambridge Galleria, a shopping mall, and another bomb will be found at the Lechmere MBTA station, also in Cambridge.

Most federal, state and local agencies in the Boston area will be involved as well as the National Guard and local hospitals.

The drill is sponsored by the State Office of Public Safety and the Boston Office of Homeland Security and paid for by a grant of federal funds.

Prostate Cancer Screening Clinic At QMC

Quincy Medical Center (QMC) and the Marie A. Curry Fund will host a free evening Prostate Cancer Screening Clinic Tuesday, Sept. 19, in the Ambulatory Care Department at QMC, 114 Whitwell St.

The clinic furthers the efforts to bring vital cancer screenings to uninsured and underinsured South Shore residents.

The American Cancer Society recommends annual prostate cancer screening for males beginning at age 50 and earlier, if at an increased risk.

Screening attendees will receive prostate-specific antigen blood test and a digital rectal exam, performed by a board-certified urologist on staff at QMC.

Pre-registration is required. To schedule an appointment, call toll-free, 24-hour Physician Referral Service at 1-877-479-CARE.

Phelan Proposes City Join In Community Mutual Health Aid

By MIKAELA SLANEY

Plans, submitted by Mayor William Phelan, are under review to unite multiple Public Health Agencies from different cities and towns in a Mutual Aid Agreement, which will assist a community in the event of an emergency.

The City Council was scheduled to review the agreement at the Tuesday night meeting.

City Council President Douglas Gutro said the agreement is designed to provide mutual aid to communities in the event of a situation where a community health department is not able to handle a situation alone, such as an outbreak of bird flu or the Eastern Equine Encephalitis virus.

"There's enormous value to pooling resources and expertise," said Gutro. "The mutual aid agreement assures that we have that work out there."

According to the contract, the receiving community will not have to pay for the assistance, however, the parties may agree instead to develop a reimbursement for services among themselves. The receiving community may apply for federal assistance.

There is no requirement to provide assistance, and communities are not expected to deplete their own resources, but only to consider requests and provide assistance when able.

For the agreement to take place, it must be approved by the City Council and the mayor.

Towns in the Quincy region (4B) are to include Arlington, Belmont, Watertown, Somerville, Cambridge, Brookline, Newton, Wellesley, Needham, Dedham, Westwood, Norwood, Milton, Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Cohasset, Scituate, Norwell, Hanover, Hull, Winthrop, Chelsea, Revere and Everett.

Task Force Finds 11 Illegal Rooming Houses

A task force that has been investigating code violations in city buildings has discovered 11 illegal rooming houses in the city and a number of code violations.

"They have been able to close the rooming houses and fix the code violations," Mayor William Phelan told his weekly televised new conference. "It's working well."

Among the most dangerous code violations are boarded up doors that are not only a hazard to the people living in the building but a peril to firefighters who might be called.

Metropolitan Commission Meeting Sept. 14

Public's Input Sought On City Beaches

The newly formed Metropolitan Beaches Commission will hold a public meeting Thursday, Sept. 14 on the status of Quincy's public beaches.

Community leaders and the general public will be invited to give their input at the meeting to be held from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the Beechwood Knoll School, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

What is working well and what is not will be the focus at the meeting.

City Council President Doug Gutro, a member of the commission and one of the spearheads for improvements at Wollaston Beach and Boston Harbor said:

"The commission is seeking public input on the next generation of improvements at Boston Harbor Beaches.

"I've had the opportunity to participate in hearings in East Boston, Lynn and Nahant, and what I think the commission is finding is a lot of the issues we're finding at Wollaston Beach are similar to those across the State Boston Harbor Beach system. For example, public safety jurisdictional issues, property maintenance, and the need for further capital investment.

"This hearing really allows Quincy residents that use and love Wollaston Beach to help identify remaining problems and challenges, but more importantly develop solutions."

Gutro said that the mission of the commission is "to identify and take to the next level and improve on recent investments and solve remaining problems."

Later this year, the commission, co-chaired by Senator Jack Hard of South Boston and Representative Anthony Petruccelli of East Boston will issue a comprehensive report on the state of the region's public beaches.

The report will also present recommendations for short and long-term measures to strengthen the beaches as valuable recreational resources.

Sept. 11 Remembrance At Fire Stations Monday

The Quincy Fire Department will commemorate the 5th anniversary of the terrorist attacks and the losses suffered at the World Trade Center, the Pentagon, and in Pennsylvania Monday, Sept. 11, outside each fire station in the city.

The remembrance will commence at 9:45 a.m., with an alarm at 9:59 a.m., the time of the collapse of the South Tower, followed by a moment of silence. The public is invited to the event at their respective neighborhood fire station.

Deputy Fire Chief Gary Smyth said that the police department and city officials, including members of Mayor William Phelan's office and the City Council, have been invited to attend the remembrance, which has been held annually.

"I'd like members of the community to feel more than welcome to attend," said Smyth. "It's a special day for different city departments and members of the community to recognize the 5th year of the terrorist attack."

City Hall Worker Pleads Innocent To Cocaine Charge

Maria E. Hurley, 43, of Bicknell St., a clerk in the assessor's office at City Hall for 15 years, pleaded innocent to drug charges in Quincy District Court and was released conditionally for appearance Oct. 2.

It was the second drug offense for Hurley, who was charged with possession of a Class B substance (cocaine) on a subsequent offense, and conspiracy to violate the substance control act.

"It's unfortunate," Mayor William Phelan told his Tuesday news conference on Quincy Access Television.. "People have problems. This person has problems she has to deal with. It's unfortunate."

Also charged in the case was Manuel Gonzalez, 34, or Dorchester, who also pleaded innocent to charges of trafficking in cocaine with intent to distribute, a drug violation in a school zone and giving a false name to a police officer.

He was order held in $20,000 cash bail for appearance at a conference Oct. 2.

Hurley was released with the proviso that she remain drug and alcohol-free, attend three Alcoholics Anonymous or Narcotics Anonymous meeting a week and make no contact with her co-defendant Gonzalez.

The District Attorney asked that she be held in $2,500 personal surety but it was denied.

David Traub, spokesman for District Attorney William Keating, said Hurley left City Hall on her lunch break about 12:40 p.m. Thursday and got into a red jeep with Gonzalez.

They had driven a short way when police stopped them and found a small quantity of what they identified as cocaine. They said Gonzalez gave them a fake name.

Hurley was arrested in May, 2004, charged with distributing cocaine in downtown Quincy on her lunch break and was convicted in Quincy District Court but retained her job in the assessor's office.

Police said last week's arrest began with a tip from inside City Hall which resulted in Hurley being placed under police surveillance.

$80,000 Invested In Beale Street Sewers

The sewer system on Beale Street is to receive $80,000 in repairs, transferred from the Sewer Rehabilitation Fund.

City Council Douglas Gutro said the City Council was to review the appropriation at the Tuesday night meeting.

"I'm grateful that city crews acted promptly to overt potentially serious impact to sewer service in Wollaston Center," he said.

Norfolk County First In New DA Guidelines

The Massachusetts District Attorneys Association released a report last Friday recommending guidelines for the interrogation and identification of persons suspected to crimes.

But is came as no surprise to police departments in Norfolk County where District Attorney William Keating has insisted on them for the better part of a year.

"We put them in place in Norfolk County over a year ago," said Keating. "We had strong support from a lot of police departments. Quincy was very enthusiastic and extremely active."

The Norfolk County plans dates from July, 2004, when Keating held a seminar on implementing new eye witness identification procedures to cut down on false identifications.

WILLIAM KEATING

"The police in our area have adopted many of the standards we set in that seminar," said Keating. "It has not only led to better identifications it has given juries more confidence knowing we have these procedures."

The guidelines put forth in the MDAA's report include electronically recording interrogations, specifying at least six people in a live lineup and having an officer with no interest in the case handle the lineups.

The report also recommends that the state increase staffing at the State Police Crime Lab to speed up the analysis of DNA samples to help reduce the backlog. The process has been cut from 18 months to 10 months over the past year.

Keating put his office to work on developing the new procedures in October, 2001, shortly after a DNA test exonerated Ed Bailey, who was widely believed to have slain Irene Kennedy in Walpole.

They looked at the record of 217 individuals on the Department of Corrections computer and checked the DNA. The project was completed in June, 2003. It showed no cases of erroneous convictions.

"But it was an important project," said Keating."It led to the eyewitness training seminar in July, 2004."

The keynote of the seminar was provided by Jennifer Thompson Cannino, who identified through two trials the man who raped her only to find out, through DNA testing, that it was another man who had assaulted her.

"These new procedures will save police the wasted effort of chasing false leads, build stronger cases for prosecutors and keep victims from making unwitting mistakes," said Keating.

"Perhaps more importantly, with those new procedures the chances of an innocent person being accused drops precipitously.

"This is a case where everyone wins. It's a win-win situation."

Warnings Stenciled At Drains

Beach Pollution Battle Taken To The Streets

By MIKAELA SLANEY

The war on water pollution was taken to the streets when MIT freshmen stenciled warnings against dumping next to storm drains that lead to Wollaston Beach and Boston Harbor.

Under the direction of The Boston Harbor Association (TBHA), Massachusetts Institute of Technology groups last Friday, painted "Don't Dump. Drains to Wollaston Beach" next to drains from Lakin Square to Labidine Street. The stenciling project was part of MIT's "City Days" orientation program that volunteers time to improving the environment.

Vivien Li, executive director of TBHA, said that they approached Council President Douglas Gutro, Ward 5, with the intentions of doing the city a public service. Gutro suggested the stenciling project, saying it would have a long-lasting effect.

"Nobody values it more than me, the fact that you're taking time out of your day to do this," Gutro told the groups before they set to work. "What you are doing is important."

Gutro said a large issue with public dumping is that most people are unaware of the damage it causes.

"People have no idea that it goes to Wollaston Beach. People think it's treated," Gutro told the students. "You're going to have people say 'that's ridiculous, there's no way that drains to Wollaston Beach.'"

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin also came to the event and welcomed the volunteers. "This is an effort that's ongoing," said Coughlin.

"I think everyone comes to MIT to make a difference," said Holly Bellocchio, MIT freshman from Seneca Falls, NY. "This is one small step in that direction. Hopefully the first of many."

The state currently has a $7 million investment underway to improve Wollaston Beach roadways and public amenities, said Gutro. The city has also invested $30 million in sewer improvements, he said.

Quincy Sun Photos/Noreen O'Shea

This summer, TBHA also distributed absorbent bilge water pads and bilge oil absorbers to boaters to retain petroleum products that would pollute Boston Harbor. The free pads were funded by the Massachusetts Environmental Trust. Captain's Cove Marina, Marina Bay, Town River Yacht Club and city of Quincy supported the effort.

TBHA suggests easy ways for the average person to help the environment:

- Dispose of trash, including cigarette butts, in trash receptacles. Cigarettes are non-biodegradable and contain toxic chemicals.
- When on a boat, always store trash securely onboard and dispose of it after returning to land.
- Separate recyclables from regular trash.
- Purchase products with minimal packaging.
- Pack food in reusable containers.
- Particular care when disposing of nylon fishing line, as it can entangle fish, people and propellers.
- Be a good neighbor and pick up trash on land and water. If trash blows overboard while on a boat, retrieve it.

To learn more about TBHA call 617-482-1722 or visit www.tbha.org.

Looking for an investment that's guaranteed to grow?

What's the main problem with stock market investments and mutual funds? Simple – you just can't be sure that your money will grow. In fact, you can't even be sure that your principal won't shrink. And while no one would deny that market-based investments should at least be considered as part of a diversified investment plan, sometimes you have money you don't want to put at risk in any way. Maybe it's money you're going to need soon. Maybe it's your IRA or Roth IRA. Maybe you're a conservative saver who simply wants investments that are guaranteed to grow. We understand. Which is why we don't sell stocks. We don't sell mutual funds. We don't sell annuities. Colonial Federal is a community bank providing competitive-rate options for today's conservative saver. If you're looking for a safe investment that's 100% guaranteed to grow, come see us. THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 12, 1846, English poet Elizabeth Barrett sneaks out of the house and meets Robert Browning at St. Marylebone Parish Church, where they are married. She returned home for a week, keeping the marriage a secret, then fled with Browning to Italy.

• On Sept. 13, 1916, Roald Dahl, author of "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory" (1964), is born in South Wales. He also wrote the screenplays for "Charlie" (with a title change — the movie was called "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory") and "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang" (1968).

• On Sept. 17, 1934, 18-year-old actress Olivia de Havilland makes her stage debut at the Hollywood Bowl. De Havilland became an accomplished actress, and is best remembered for her role as Melanie in "Gone with the Wind."

• On Sept. 16, 1949, Warner Bros. introduces the Road Runner in the cartoon short "Fast and Furry-ous." Like the sounds of countless other Warner Bros. cartoon characters, the Road Runner's cheerful "beep, beep!" was provided by Mel Blanc.

• On Sept. 15, 1954, the famous picture of Marilyn Monroe, laughing as her skirt is blown up by the blast from a subway vent, is shot during the filming of "The Seven Year Itch." The scene infuriated her husband, Joe DiMaggio, who felt it was exhibitionist. The couple divorced shortly after.

• On Sept. 14, 1964, writer John Steinbeck was presented the U.S. Medal of Freedom. Steinbeck had already received numerous other honors and awards for his writing, including the 1962 Nobel Prize and a 1939 Pulitzer Prize for "Grapes of Wrath."

• On Sept. 11, 1971, former Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev, one of the most significant figures of the Cold War, and certainly one of the most colorful, dies. In 1964, Khrushchev's opponents organized a political coup against him and he was forced into retirement. The remainder of his life was rather solitary — he was forgotten by most and reviled by many in Russia.

Who's Riding The Winner?

Who's riding the winner?
You can find leading Quincy political figures in the camps of all three Democratic candidates for governor.

Some very active. Some not so much. But all hoping their man will be in the winner's circle in the Sept. 19 primary.

GABRIELI

PATRICK

REILLY

Chris Gabrieli has the biggest local support line-up:

Mayor William Phelan, who has openly endorsed him; former Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton, his Quincy area coordinator; County Commissioner and former city clerk John Gillis, Rep. Bruce Ayers, Rep. Ron. Mariano, Councillors John Keenan, Michael McFarland and Dan Raymondi, City Clerk Joseph Shea, Bob Cerasoli, former state inspector general; former councillors Alicia Gardner, Tom Fabrizio and Bryan Connolly; Tom Koch, executive secretary Park, Cemetery and Forestry Department.

Atty. General Tom Reilly has Rep. Steve Tobin, former city councillor Mike Cheney and Mike Berry of IBEW Local 103 actively behind him. Councillor Joe Finn is with him, too, but in a less active role.

Both state Senator Mike Morrissey and City Council President Doug Gutro voted for Reilly at the Democratic convention. But both say they are not active in the campaign.

MORRISSEY

GUTRO

"I am not endorsing anyone in the primary," says Morrissey. "I will endorse the winner and campaign for him in the final election."

Gutro appears to be doing the same thing.

You might say there are a couple of "houses divided" in this campaign.

Shea is with Gabrieli but his wife, Josephine, a delegate, is backing Patrick.

"They're all for Gabrieli," Morrissey says.

But the winner of this one is only half-way there.

He still has to face Republican Lt. Gov. Kerry Healey in the Nov. 7 final showdown. And she's no political push-over.

WHAT DOES AN "unsung hero" look like?

One looks like P.J. Foley.

FOLEY

Foley quietly gives freely of his time to environmental and conservation projects and causes to benefit the city.

He's a member of the Mayor's Open Space Committee, the Beaches and Coastal Commission and for years has been dedicated to preserving the marshes.

And he is deeply involved in the effort to determine whether wind energy is feasible in Quincy's future.

P.J., a technician for Verizon, puts his heart and soul into any project he takes on. Quincy is a richer, better community because of him and others like him.

And if you have ever wondered what the "P.J." stands for, it's Patrick Joseph named for his grandfather who also was P.J.

GEORGE PARKER, who owned the Yellow Cab Co. of Quincy, died six years ago. But his generous Labor Day tradition is very much alive.

GEORGE PARKER

It started in 1976 when The Sun became the Quincy-South Shore Pledge Center for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

George came by with two $400 checks, one company, one personal to help get us off to a good start.

And for the next 10 years it became an annual ritual with George arriving each Labor Day with $800. He would drop the check off and disappear. Didn't hang around for a "thank you."

During those 10 years, The Sun pledge center raised over $1 million for Jerry's Kids. As The Sun expanded, we ran out of the necessary space to set up a pledge center and reluctantly closed it.

But that didn't stop George.

For the next 12 years he kept coming to The Sun office around Labor Day with $800. In 1999, he wasn't feeling well but sent a check for $1,000.

At the time of his death in May, 2000 his total donation to MDA had reached $19,000. But that wasn't the end.

The Labor Day weekend after his death two more checks for $800 arrived at The Sun for Jerry's Kids.

One check for $500 from George's brother, Joe, and his wife, Joan, of Brockton. And the other a $300 Yellow Cab Co. check from Wayne McCulley, George's long-time friend and associate.

JOE PARKER

Sadly, Joe died last April.

But the tradition goes on.

Two more checks for $800 arrived for this Labor Day. A $500 one from Joe's wife and Wayne's $300.

That brought the total to so far $25,000.

Joan wants the tradition to continue in memory of both George and Joe.

Both of whom thought Jerry's Kids were very special.

Fund Raiser Sept. 17 For Wildlife Clinic

Release Chiropractic will host a fund raiser for the New England Wildlife Clinic in Weymouth Sunday, Sept. 17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 720 Washington St. (Route 53), Weymouth.

The clinic is composed of highly trained veterinarians that specialize in the care of wild and exotic animals at low or no cost, thanks to money raised by donations.

Therapists from Release Chiropractic will perform their massage for $1 per minute and there will be raffles, food and giveaways with all proceeds going to the clinic.

Also contributing to the event will be Eatin' Healthy, Dog's Rule, Morris & Yalowchuk, North River Crafts, Euro Trattoria, Bikram Yoga Quincy and others.

The fund raiser will be held, rain or shine.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS AN OLD POSTCARD from the Harvard Aeronautical Society's 1910 aeromeet in Squantum, 96 years ago this week. Over $60,000 in prizes were offered for the newly developed propeller driven aircraft to set records at the meet, only the second to be held in the United States. Other contests attracted a human powered helicopter, two mankites and this propeller driven dirigible piloted by Cromwell Dixon who was only a teenager. He was to fly this balloon from Squantum to Beacon Hill, but he mistook the Christian Science Mother Church as the dome of the State House and lost the contest. Now the site of The Moorings at Squantum Gardens and Beechwood-on-the-Bay, the 500-acre field setup for this meet later became Dennison Airport and then Squantum Naval Air Station. The event attracted over 20,000 visitors to Quincy, including President William Howard Taft. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Shea Keeps Them Guessing On Mayor Bid

This Week

By FRANK McCAULEY

The question of whether City Council President Charles L. Shea will run for mayor will apparently remain hot political conjecture until shortly before the time for filing nomination papers Sept. 10.

Shea said he would issue a statement Monday or Tuesday as to his political plans. At this point there are only two declared candidates for mayor, incumbent Amelio Della Chiesa and Louis Caruso, a laborer in the Park Department.

(Ed. Note: Council President Shea did announce for mayor, filed his papers, was nominated in the primary and lost to Della Chiesa in November.)

NORTH QUINCY BRANCH LIBRARY WINS APPROVAL AT PREVIEW OPENING

The new North Quincy branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library stocked with 15,000 books won solid approval from guests at a preview opening.

The branch will be formally opened with a ribbon cutting ceremony Sept. 8. The new facility, which cost nearly 300,000, represents "historically the first instance when the city of Quincy has spent a penny for a library building," according to D. Foster Taylor, chairman of the Thomas Crane Public Library Board of Trustees.

KEEPING UP WITH THE RED SOX

Red Sox pitcher Gene Conley returned from the disabled list as the Red Sox entered the final month of the 1963 season. Despite sweeping a double-header from the Baltimore Orioles by scores of 4-3 and 2-0, the Sox, with a 67-71 record, remained 23 games behind the American League leading New York Yankees.

A 'Thank You' For August Moon Festival Success

Every year, the August Moon Festival is a wonderful way for the Quincy community to come together in celebration of the culture and traditions of the area's large Asian population.

Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) is proud to join with so many of the area's businesses, agencies, media sources, government officials, police officers, and exceptional volunteers to make this a possibility. The 19th annual August Moon Festival on Sunday, Aug. 20 was, once again, a great success.

QARI extends sincere thanks to our sponsors for their financial support. We would like to mention in particular our Grand and Diamond Sponsors: Kam Man Food; Mohegan Sun/Sunshine Travel; the city of Quincy; and Comcast. Our media sponsors, The Patriot Ledger and The Quincy Sun, allowed us to get the word out so that over 6,000 people - not only from Quincy, but from other areas in Massachusetts and even from other states - attended and enjoyed the day.

We are especially grateful to our dedicated and hard-working committee members and volunteers who gave every ounce of their effort to ensure that everything ran smoothly. It is, in particular, encouraging to see so many young people invested in and giving back to their community.

Thank you, thank you for working with us to make the 19th event such an outstanding one. We look forward with great anticipation to the 20th August Moon Festival in 2007!

Teaching And MCAS Testing

There has been a lot of contemplation lately about MCAS testing.

Education is a very complicated endeavor. There are, mainly, three factors that affect educational success: One is students and their ability and motivation. Two is the living environment of each student's home. Three is the quality of teachers. That is why a most brilliant teacher can achieve average results with average students and an average teacher can achieve brilliant results with brilliant students.

Home environment contributes greatly to the student's achievement. Students are longer with their parents than they are with their teachers. Testing is a factor. If tests are composed by different teachers, who would use the same textbooks, the test would be different and the results would also be different.

That is why there is no surprise about so much ado about MCAS testing. And many questions arise. First, who composed MCAS tests? Are the MCAS tests composed by the same teachers who teach the subjects tested? How many teachers, if any, who teach the courses tested, take part in composing MCAS tests?

Do the teachers who teach the courses to be tested have access to the MCAS test before the students are tested? And if the teachers know what MCAS tests will ask students, should the teachers be allowed to give the students the answers to the questions to be asked on the test during regular classes? If the students are not told what the MCAS tests want them to know, how can the students decide what to remember?

And then, if it is important for students to learn what MCAS makers consider important, what is wrong for teachers to teach them that? And if the teachers fail to do that, how can anybody expect the students themselves would know what the MCAS test makers want them to know?

Therefore, the teachers who use all educational skills possible to prepare their students to learn and to understand the MCAS test, should be rewarded and not dismissed.

One thing ought to be kept in mind by all those who make decisions on education, that the psychiatrists claim that the readiness for serious learning begins at the age of seven.

Just Thinking About The Weather

Isn't it amazing, we had another summer with periods of very hot and humid weather. Surprise, surprise.

On a couple days, temps soared toward the three digit number. One hundred degrees on a day or two. Thank God we don't live in the southwest, but as even they say, 100 degrees without the humidity is just normal heat.

This past weekend, temps started falling. Afternoons still summer-like but overnight temps fell below 60 degrees. People started showing up for work in jackets complaining about the cold.

If we're lucky we'll get a few more hot and humid days before the snow sets in, then we'll be wishing for 100 degrees again.

Point Webster Students Participate In Fair

The third annual Parent in Partnership Point Webster Middle School Math and Science Fair was recently held at Roche Brothers Supermarket.

Nearly 170 sixth and seventh graders participated. The fair had an "Estimation Station," where 7th graders Haira Alves and Lorena Guimaraes tied guessing the correct number of 890 jelly beans in a jar. Annie Maloney, a 6th grader, won popcorn contest with an estimation of 935 to the actual 963. Tiffany Malvarosa, a 6th grader, won the M&M contest with a correct guess of 630.

M.F. Foley Company gave a presentation where students saw fish, eels, and other water creatures. Students learned to grow tomatoes in water without soil, and built 3-D toothpick and marshmallow figurines, which were used to count faces, edges, and vertices. There was also a birthday booth where a formula was used to guess participants' ages.

Participants completed surveys to determine characteristics of an average shopper at the market. When students returned to the school, they tallied the results and created graphs for math class.

The Crane Library Announces September Films

Sept. 14, 7p.m.: The Japanese anime series Chrono Crusade is intended for adults and teens aged 13 and older and is not suitable for younger audiences. The story takes place in 1928 when jazz is hot, bootleg liquor is king and the idle rich of a nation have discovered a horrifying new past-time: summoning demons! To combat this growing threat, a new order of "holy warriors" has arisen. This is the story of Sister Rosette, an "elite exorcist in the Order of Magdalene," whose soul has been bound by alchemy to that of the devil Chrono. Armed with sacred ammo, they form an unstoppable team, ready to wage war at a moments notice, because when the gates of hell are opened, they must put the devils back.

Sept. 21, 7p.m.: The Norwegian film Monster Thursday is the first of a new monthly series of film screenings for adults. Although the film is unrated, it is not recommended for ages under 17 without parental permission. In the series, old friends Even and Tord live on Norway's west coast. A handsome career man and an excellent surfer, Tord marries Karen whom Even has always loved. Despite the fact that Karen is expecting a child, Tord goes on a business trip to Singapore and asks Even to look after Karen while he is gone. With Tord away, Even decides to make his move. He even decides to learn to surf to impress Karen, but which way will the waves break?

Directed by Arild Ostin Ommundsen, Monster Thusday won a Grand Jury Prize for World Cinema at the Sundance Film Festival. "Monster Thursday marks the emergence of an electrifying new voice in Scandinavian cinema," said Trevor Groth of Sundance Film Festivals.

Children's Corner Accepting Applications For New Season

Children's Corner, Quincy's drama, dance, and voice studio, is accepting applications for its upcoming season beginning Sept. 11 running through May of 2007.

Students grades 3-9 are welcome to apply. Classes are Mondays from 3:30-6:30 p.m. on Cottage Avenue, across from Quincy Courthouse.

Director John F. McDonald of JM Productions and choreographer Laurie (O'Connell) Graf have been providing the youth of Quincy and other nearby towns with professional instruction in performing arts each year since 1999. The goal of the program is to provide students a well-rounded education on stage as well as backstage. Students will help produce two live performances at the end of the program in May. Past productions, including adaptations of major Broadway hits such as Annie, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, and Peter Pan have been successful with sellout audiences at each performance.

This year's production is a compilation of Wicked, the hugely popular and critically acclaimed stage show The Wiz, and the all time classic, The Wizard of Oz. The theme-based nature of this year's show provides an opportunity for a wide-range of talent to be cast. Students will receive intense training in drama, dance, and voice by skilled and professional performers.

Enrollment is limited in order to allow all students the opportunity to learn from the experience and thrive in the environment. It also reinforces the philosophy of the artistic director McDonald who believes that "every child is a star," and that Children's Corner "gives them the opportunity to shine."

For more information call McDonald at 617-786-SHOW(7469) or email him at jfm@jmproductionspresents.com.

Degan Road Race Sunday Here And In Baghdad

And it will also be simultaneously held in Iraq, where 60 American law enforcement officers stationed in Baghdad will start their own race in Degan's honor.

U.S. Marshal Kevin Roche, a friend of Degan's and a Quincy native, came up with the idea for the Baghdad race while he's in Iraq helping to train police officers.

Degan, a Quincy native, earned numerous awards during his career, including the prestigious Attorney General's Award for Excellence in Law Enforcement. In addition to being a marshal, he also served as a lieutenant colonel in the Marine Corps Reserves.

The 10K road race will begin at 10 a.m. followed by the 5K road race and the free kids' fun run.

Registration will be held at Adams Field Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 8 to 9:30 a.m. before the race. Fee is $20.

All pre-registered runners can pick up their bib numbers and T-shirts Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. at Adams Field.

The road race, which includes three miles of beach front road, will start and finish at Pageant Field. Prizes will be awarded to all first-, second- and third-place division finishers.

Refreshments will be served to all runners and families. There will be a DJ, raffles and pony rides.

For more information, call 617-576-9860 or visit www.deganroadrace.com.

STATE AWARD — Sen. Michael Morrissey (right) congratulates Joseph DiStasio, owner of D & B Tree Service in Quincy, at the State House, where DiStasio received a "Veteran Friendly Award" from the Massachusetts Department of Veterans' Services. The Veterans' Outreach Initiative for Competitive Employment (VOICE) provides a link to give resources to veterans by identifying more than 800 veteran-friendly employers in the Commonwealth. D & B Tree Service was cited for its work in hiring and employing veterans. DiStasio has worked extensively with the Department of Labor and career centers across the state to facilitate employment for veterans.

Prize-Winning Tomatoes At Farmers' Market

Two tomato growers, who are among the contributing farmers for the Farmers' Market, achieved top honors at the 22nd annual Massachusetts Tomato Festival, Boston.

The Farmers' Market, located in the John Hancock Municipal lot, across from the court house, is open Fridays 11:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. rain or shine.

Scott Freitas of Freitas Farm of Middleboro and Glenn Stillman of Stillman Farm and Greenhouses of Lunenburg sell tomatoes that are considered among the best in the state.

Stillman Farm tomatoes won first prizes in two categories: their "jet star" tomatoes won for the slicing category and their "striped German" tomatoes won in the heirloom category.

Jeff Cole of the Federation of Massachusetts Farmers' Markets said: "What differentiates the produce at Farmers' Markets from the conventional stores or supermarkets? They pick the produce early that day of the market, (they) have not been stored in warehouses or distribution centers, and have not been handled by several middlemen or brokers, nor traveled across the country or from different lands."

Massachusetts is considered the largest tomato-producing state in New England. According to the Massachusetts Department of Agricultural Resources, some 5.6 million pounds of tomatoes are grown annually with a farm "gate value" of 5.6 million.

Prenatal Exercise At YMCA Pool

The South Shore YMCA will offer prenatal exercise classes in the pool Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30-7:30 p.m. beginning the week of Sept. 17. For more information call 617-479-8500.

Diane Patrick, Ward 4 City Councillor Jay Davis and School Committee member Anne Mahoney recently visited residents of 1000 Southern Artery Senior Citizens Center in Quincy, where they talked with residents about democratic gubernatorial candidate Deval Patrick.

Specifically, the trio talked about Patrick's background, the elements of his policy plan for older adults and about his grassroots campaign, which has energized voters of all ages in every corner of the Commonwealth.

Diane Patrick, Davis and Mahoney encouraged those they spoke with to get involved in the conversation about the future of Massachusetts and to make their voices heard with all of the candidates for the state's highest office.

"Deval Patrick continues his effort to engage as many people as possible in the issues and ideas that are driving the race for governor," Davis said. "I am supporting Deval because his interest in what matters most to the citizens of Quincy and every city and town across the state is genuine. His commitment to the issues and to the people who will be governed is evidenced by his early and consistent focus on the issues that matter and by his unprecedented grassroots campaign."

Diane Patrick told the more than 100 people who gathered for coffee and dessert that Deval has spent much of his life in multigenerational homes, including the years he, his mother, and sister shared a room in his grandparents' home on the South Side of Chicago. She spoke of the more than 20 years that Deval's mother, Emily, lived with the Patrick family, noting Deval's significant personal experience as a caregiver for his mother toward the end of her life.

For more information, contact Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis, a local Deval Patrick coordinator at 617-472-8722, Register of Probate Patrick McDermott at 617-594-0640, School Committee member Anne Mahoney at 617-479-2046 or the campaign's main office at 617.367.2006

Mayor's Literacy Benefit Golf Tournament Oct. 2

Proceeds from this year's event will again benefit the early intervention literacy programs in the Quincy Public Schools.

"This event has helped raise much-needed funding for a cause that should be important to us all — helping young people learn how to read," Phelan said. "With your support, we can help a young person overcome a literacy obstacle that may be stifling their ability to learn across a range of subjects and could be sapping their enthusiasm. If we can turn that around at a very young age, we can change a person's life."

The golf tournament will be followed by a fund-raiser at Quarry Hills that will feature silent and live auctions, food, entertainment and more. Tickets will be sold separately to the evening fund-raising event.

Corporate sponsors, hole sponsors, golfers and auction prizes are being sought. Cost to enter a foursome is $1,000. Those who would like to support the event are asked to call Dave Murphy in Mayor Phelan's office at 617-376-1990.

"Every year we enjoy a great day on this beautiful course," Phelan said. "This is one of the most enjoyable events of the year and certainly one of the most rewarding. I encourage those who are considering supporting this cause to call us and help our young people."

Alzheimer's Forum On Memory Oct. 19

The Alzheimer's Association and the Council on Aging will present an informal talk on memory loss Thursday, Oct. 19, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Koch Park and Recreation Complex, One Merrymount Parkway, Quincy.

Thomas Fox Activated For Future Deployment In Support Of Operation Iraqi Freedom

THOMAS FOX

Army National Guard Spec. Thomas A. Fox Jr. has been mobilized and activated for a future deployment to an undisclosed overseas location in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Fox, a military police with two years of military service, is assigned to the 101st Field Artillery, Brockton.

He is the son of Thomas A. and Lynn P. Fox of Sea St., Quincy.

Operation Iraqi Freedom is the official name given to military operations involving members of the U.S. armed forces and coalition forces participating in efforts to free and secure Iraq. Mission objectives focus on force protection, peacekeeping, stabilization, security and counter-insurgency operations as the Iraqi transitional governing bodies assume full sovereign powers to govern the peoples of Iraq.

Members from all branches of the U.S. military and multinational forces are also assisting in rebuilding Iraq's economic and governmental infrastructure, and training and preparing Iraqi military and security forces to assume full authority and responsibility in defending and preserving Iraq's sovereignty and independence as a democracy.

Prostate Cancer Screening Clinic Sept. 19 At Quincy Medical Center

Quincy Medical Center (QMC) and the Marie A. Curry Fund will host a free evening Prostate Cancer Screening Clinic Tuesday, Sept. 19, in the Ambulatory Care Department at QMC, 114 Whitwell St.

The clinic furthers the efforts to bring vital cancer screenings to uninsured and underinsured South Shore residents.

The American Cancer Society recommends annual prostate cancer screening for males beginning at age 50 and earlier, if at an increased risk.

Screening attendees will receive prostate-specific antigen blood test and a digital rectal exam, performed by a board-certified urologist on staff at QMC.

Pre-registration is required. To schedule an appointment, call toll-free, 24-hour Physician Referral Service at 1-877-479-CARE.

Sister Paschala Noonan Keynote Speaker

11th Senior Conference To Be Held Sept. 16

SISTER PASCHALA NOONAN

Sister Paschala Noonan, sister of the late John Noonan, for whom the event is named, will be the keynote speaker at the 11th annual Senior Conference Saturday, Sept. 16, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Middle School, 50 Calvin Rd.

Sister Paschala, a Kentucky Dominican nun, is the author of "Signadou," a history of the Kentucky Dominican Sisters, and the winner of a number of journalism awards. She lived in Watertown and is planning a pictorial history of the Kentucky Dominicans.

The conference was named in honor of John Noonan, the longtime chairman of the Quincy Council on Aging, who died earlier this year.

Sister Paschala will speak at 9 a.m. following the registration period which begins at 8 a.m. Her talk is followed by "Cooking for Fitness" with nutritionist Jayne Davis, and "Serenity Through Tai Chi," with instructor Keith Buckley.

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Business Association, will demonstrate how to use makeup, clothing and accessories, and Police Lt. Dan Minton will cover an array of safety measures that should be taken to avoid being victimized.

Psychologist Dr. Claire Weiss will talk about preplanning funerals and review trends in cremation, and attorney Tom Williams, an expert on elder issues and Medicaid laws will speak on estate planning.

Dr. Gary Gibbons, CEO of Quincy Medical Center, will answer questions on today's system of medical care, and Tom Hannon will describe "reverse mortgage," the government plan to allow seniors to convert a portion of their home equity into tax-free cash.

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele and Nurse Ruth Jones will present the facts and fiction of an influenza pandemic, Dorothy Ann Vitale of the Norfolk District Attorney's office will outline the methods of identity thieves to gain access to senior's data.

Mayor William Phelan will be the featured speaker at the luncheon. which is scheduled for 12:30 p.m.

For more information, call Quincy Elder Services at 617-376-1245, or the Mayor's Office of Constituent Services at 617-376-1421.

Sleep Disturbances Lecture Oct. 24

A lecture on sleep disturbances will be 10a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 24 at the Frenno House, 540 Hancock St.

Dr. Gabrielle Freedman with the Quincy Council on Aging will discuss the problems of getting a good night's sleep. She will review tips on nutrition and have a question and answer segment.

Residents Can Vote Through Friday

Bianculli Family Finalists In Celtics-RE/MAX Home Court Contest

The Bianculli family of Quincy is a finalist in the Boston Celtics and RE/MAX of New England Home Court Program.

Quincy residents can vote for the Bianculli family through tomorrow (Friday) by logging on to www.celtics.com.

The winner will receive a renovation of their home basketball court and a free community basketball clinic. Both the makeover and clinic will feature a Boston Celtics player.

The home court makeover will consist of a driveway or court resealing, a brand new basket stanchion, backboard, electronic scoreboard, a ball rack and other Celtics-themed adornments.

The Celtics are now accepting entries for the third and final tier of the RE/MAX of New England Home Court Program. Fans who submitted entries are automatically entered in the third contest. The winner will be chosen later in the season.

"The Boston Celtics and RE/MAX of New England would like to congratulate the three finalists in the latest Home Court contest," said Celtics Chief Operating Officer Rich Gotham. "We're excited to give Celtics fans the opportunity to select the next winner in this exciting program. The three families are very deserving candidates and the Celtics would like to wish them the best of luck."

To enter, fans submitted essays along with photos explaining their need for a home court makeover. A panel of Celtics players and front office staff along with RE/MAX of New England employees selected the first contest winner.

"Coming off a very successful debut of the Home Court Program we are looking forward to another makeover and wish all the finalists good luck," said RE/MAX Vice President Jay Hummer. "Real estate is all about servicing families in our local communities and we are proud to partner with the Celtics on this great program, which gives back to our neighborhoods."

A 14-1/2 Footer Takes Sunflower Contest Honors

The winner stands tall in the Tyler St., North Quincy yard of Dottie Brooks, where it was grown by her grandchildren, with help from her.

"We are delighted to have had wonderful city-wide participation again this year," said Sharron Beals, executive director of the Beechwood Community Life Center, sponsor of the contest in conjunction with Almquist Flowerland and The Quincy Sun.

Two hundred packets of hybrid sunflower seeds were donated by Almquist and distributed by Beechwood and The Sun.

The family will receive a Family Fun Basket with gift certificates, games, books, toys donated by Beechwood, The Sun and other Quincy businesses.

The Richard and Sandra Duclos family of Park Ave., Squantum won an honorary award for their 9 foot, 5 inch sunflower which had the largest bloom reported.

Simple Wills At Council On Aging

Attorney Ed Conroy will help seniors to complete free, simple wills, the third Friday of every month, at the Council on Aging Office, 83 Saratoga St.

For an appointment, call 617-376-1506.

Pre-School Hours Stand Corrected

Several errors appeared in the story on school openings in last week's Quincy Sun.

There is a pre-school program at the Wollaston School. The first session runs from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; and 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Tuesday.

The pre-school programs at both the Snug Harbor Community School and the Amelio Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center are from 7:35 to 10:15 a.m. and from 11:10 a.m. to 1:50 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There are no pre-school classes at either school on Tuesday.

Replacing Bathroom Tiles

Q. The previous owner of our house redid the tile in the upstairs bathroom himself, and it isn't the best job. Several of the ceramic floor tiles along the base of the bathtub are loose, cracked or broken. What's the fastest way to fix this? — Chuck B., Quincy, Mass.

A. Check first for water damage in the underlayment beneath the tiles. Apparently, the tiling job wasn't top-notch, because the effect of constant weight (of the tub), improperly applied caulk and water spilling down the sides of the tub have caused the tiles to loosen and the seal along the tub base to weaken.

Minimal water damage can cause the plywood underlayment to swell, making it difficult or even impossible to place new tiles evenly. Long-term water damage can spark other issues, like wood rot or mold.

Remove all the loose tiles from the floor and pry up broken and cracked tiles around the perimeter of the area. If necessary, scrape away old grout from the underlayment to get a better view of the damage. Look for dark water spots, sniff for mold (or visually identify it) and run your fingers along the plywood to feel for uneven areas. Press down with your fingers or the tip of a screwdriver to see if the wood feels spongy or gives way easily. If the wood is damaged or wet, it will need to be replaced before tiling can be done.

Once the underlying floor has been deemed healthy, the bathroom tiles can be replaced. Remove old grout and waterproof caulking from the edge of the bathtub base and clean debris from the repair area. For a small repair job, tiles can be arranged prior to installation so you can match them with the existing tile pattern and cut tiles to size if necessary.

To install, start from the base of the tub and work outward to the rest of the bathroom tile. Apply adhesive to the bottom of each tile, set into place, and place spacers between the new tile, the old tile and the tub base (spacers will keep the tiles far enough apart to allow grout to fill in properly). Once complete, apply grout liberally to the spaces, scraping away excess. Be sure to apply grout between the tiles and the bathtub base, too. Let the grout dry completely, then apply new waterproof caulk along the bathtub base and the newly installed tile. Wipe away any grout residue or film with a damp cloth.

On Wollaston Hill

10-Unit Apartment Building Sold

Century 21 Annex Realtors Dianne Demarkles and Gus Confalone recently worked together to complete the sale of a 10-unit apartment building located on Hospital Hill in Quincy.

DIANNE DEMARKLES

GUS CONFALONE

Realtors are beginning to see an increase in asking prices for apartment buildings. Investors are able to pay one price per unit, renovate the space into a condo and turn a profit once it is sold.

Agents are finding that buyers, such as the one Confalone represented, are willing to pay higher asking prices for properties because they know that they will be able to turn a profit.

According to Demarkles, the sale was complex. "The property was valued at more than one million dollars, leading to much involvement from the banks to complete this transaction. Usually, the down payment for residential properties is 25 percent. Due to the high asking price, the owner was looking for a deposit of 30 percent," she said.

An 18-year real estate veteran, Demarkles is a resident of Wollaston. In her spare time, she is an avid bird watcher and member of the Massachusetts Audobon Society.

Confalone has been an agent at Century 21 Annex Realty for the past 20 years. His son, Dino, is also an agent out of the Quincy office.

For more information, call the Quincy office at 617-472-4330.

QCAP Workshop For Homeowners Sept. 26

Quincy Community Action Programs will sponsor a workshop for homeowners Tuesday, Sept. 26 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., fourth floor, Quincy Center.

The workshop is open to the public.

Homeowners will learn about financial and maintenance issues. Specific topics include equity loans and refinancing, home maintenance, government sponsored repair programs for homeowners, and dealing with mortgage default.

Speakers at the workshop will include a mortgage lender and a contractor.

"QCAP is holding this workshop as a natural follow-up to our monthly homebuyer seminars," said QCAP Housing Coordinator Rona Goodman. "It helps QCAP fulfill its mission of assuring stable housing for South Shore residents."

The workshop is free but registration is required.

For more information and to register, contact Kerri Clifford at 617-479-8181 ext. 119.

O'Donnell Office Hours Here Sept. 14

Norfolk County Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell will hold scheduled office hours at Quincy City Hall on Thursday, Sept. 14 from 10 a.m. to noon in the second floor Conference Room.

The Register or staff will be available to help answer questions or concerns about any Registry of Deeds matter, and will have information available about the Massachusetts Homestead Act, as well as an Internet computer link that can be used to confirm the status of mortgage discharges or other recent filings. No appointment is needed.

This program is particularly intended for Quincy residents who might have difficulty traveling to the Registry's Dedham office.

Registry staff cannot give legal advice, but can provide answers to basic questions and general information.

The Registry of Deeds is the principal office for real property records in Norfolk County, and is a basic resource for land record information.

For further information regarding the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds, call 781-461-6116 or visit the Registry website, www.norfolkdeeds.org.

Homebuyer Workshop Sept. 11, 16

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore, in conjunction with Brockton Housing Partnership, will hold a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop Sept. 11 from 6 to 8 p.m. and Sept. 16 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

They will be held at the Cape Verdean Association, 575 North Montello St., Brockton, and will be taught in Cape Verdean. Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive a homebuying certificate.

All potential first-time homebuyers are encouraged to attend. Participants will have the opportunity to be pre-qualified by a lender.

Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

There is a $15 fee per person. There will be refreshments and free gifts.

Call 617-770-2227, ext. 31, or visit www.neighborhoodhousing.org.

Century 21 Annex Realty's Ged Phelan Receives Coach Of The Year Award

Phyllis Rudnick, broker/owner of Century 21 Annex Realty in Quincy announces Realtor Ged Phelan recently received the Southeastern Massachusetts High School Boys' Basketball "Coach of the Year" award.

Phelan, who works out of the company's Quincy office, was recognized after leading the Archbishop Williams High School boys' basketball team to victory in the Division III South Championship, closing out the most successful season in the school's 57-year history.

The "Coach of the Year" award is voted on by the Massachusetts Basketball coaches Association, a group comprised of high school coaches from every district in the state. Phelan said he was honored to receive an award from his colleagues, although individual recognition has never been his motivation for coaching.

GED PHELAN

"Coaching isn't about getting the credit or winning a trophy," Phelan said. "For me, it's about teaching morals and responsibility to children. It is gratifying to see my players improve and succeed on and off the court."

Phelan joined Century 21 Annex Realty in 2004. He grew up in Quincy and enjoys spending time with his family.

In his spare time, Phelan likes to golf, go fishing and do yard work. He lives in Hingham with his wife, Julie, and their two sons, Patrick and Casey.

Quincy Community Action Programs (QCAP) will hold a free homeownership workshop Sept. 16 and 17.

The 10-hour program will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., fourth floor, Quincy.

The workshop will focus on the buying process from start to finish, including determining what price is within a buyer's budget, locating a property at that price, negotiating for the home, applying for a mortgage, inspecting and insuring the property, and closing the deal.

Experts will include a real estate broker, an attorney, a home inspector, two mortgage lenders and QCAP counselors.

The workshop is open to all regardless of income level. QCAP is a CHAPA, MHFA and HUD approved First Time Homebuyer Counseling Agency. Participants who attend both sessions can obtain completion certificates which are pre-requisites for various mortgage assistance programs for qualified first-time homebuyers, especially City of Quincy, MHFA and QCAP.

Registration is required. To register or for more information, contact Kerri Clifford at 617-479-8181, ext. 119.

New Health Reform Law: What It Means

By REY SPADONI

On April 12, 2006, Governor Romney signed into law the Massachusetts Health Care Reform bill, aimed at providing health insurance coverage to nearly all Massachusetts residents.

Since that time, regulators and health plans have been working hard to meet the stringent requirements of this new law and national health care experts have been watching Massachusetts closely due to the potential broader policy implications of this new program.

Yet despite these history-in-the-making proceedings and all of the national attention, most people in Massachusetts are hard pressed to explain what the new law actually means and how it could impact them or their families.

According to some informal polling, nearly nine out of ten individuals who will be impacted by this program remain unaware of the upcoming changes. Furthermore, although the new law is comprehensive and far reaching, legislators left many of the details on implementation to regulators who are feverishly working to develop specific policies and procedures according to the mandated timeline.

There are three major components to the new law, including the expansion of the Massachusetts Medicaid program, the creation of new subsidized private insurance programs designed to cover the uninsured population, and various commercial insurance market reforms.

Over the next three years, approximately 90,000 Massachusetts residents will be newly enrolled into the state Medicaid (MassHealth) program. Some of the new enrollees will be due to changes in MassHealth eligibility (for example, approximately 27,000 children will be enrolled because of changes in family income requirements) and expanded outreach to individuals who are currently eligible for coverage but who, for various reasons, have not yet been enrolled into the program.

The most significant component of the health reform law is the creation of new, subsidized health insurance products through the Commonwealth Care Health Insurance Program (CCHIP). These insurance products will have benefits that are similar to MassHealth coverage for Medicaid recipients and will target over 200,000 individuals who are presently uninsured. Set to be implemented this October, individuals will be able to purchase premium subsidized (based on family income levels) HMO products, offered by several Massachusetts health plans, including Boston Medical Center's HealthNet Plan.

REY SPADONI

The Commonwealth Health Insurance Connector, the new regulatory agency established to oversee the development and ongoing management of these new programs and headed by former Tufts Health Plan executive, Jon Kingsdale, recently issued more specific product information.

For those individuals earning less than 100 percent of the federal poverty level (FPL), enrollment for the new products will begin on Oct. 1, 2006. This translates to an annual income level of $9,800 per year and for a family of four, approximately $20,000.

The health insurance products will have no member premiums and modest co-payments for services, comparable to MassHealth levels. Therefore, for individuals and families who earn less than these threshold salary limits, the new insurance products will be offered with no monthly fees and only modest co-payments for services such as physician office visits.

Beginning in January of 2007, individuals and families who earn between 100 and 300 percent of the FPL will be able to obtain health insurance through the CCHIP program. Premium levels as well as co-payments vary from low to high, allowing consumers to purchase the appropriate level of coverage based on price. For these individuals, there will be a sliding scale, based on income, for determining the amount of premium that they will be required to pay each month.

This is one of the more controversial components of the new law, with the framers arguing that individual responsibility for paying a portion of the premium will result in wiser and more engaged health care consumers. Advocates, on the other hand, maintain that individuals who earn between 100 and 300 percent of the FPL will struggle to afford the required monthly premiums and may have to choose making these payments instead of other necessary purchases, such as for food, clothing and housing.

Beginning in July of 2007, there will be an individual mandate to purchase this coverage. In other words, Massachusetts residents who have the opportunity to purchase these affordable insurance products will be required by law to do so. The penalties for not purchasing this coverage will increase over time, from the loss of the state personal income tax exemption in 2007 to greater financial penalties in later years.

Finally, there are other insurance reforms in the law designed to improve the affordability of products for individuals who are employed by companies that do not offer insurance and who earn over 300 percent of FPL, as well as for young adults between the ages of 19 and 26 who do not yet have access to employer sponsored health insurance.

The law also provides various incentives for employers with more than ten employees to offer insurance products.

At Quincy Medical Center, we are working with our partners, including Boston Medical Center's HealthNet Plan, to make sure that our patients and the residents within our service area have access to high quality and affordable health insurance coverage.

Here's the Secret to Flat Abs

Q. I'm 44 and work out at the gym 3-4 times per week. I do 30 minutes of cardio, then 30 minutes of weight machines. I alternate — one day all leg machines, the next day all arms, plus I always do ab exercises, including 100 to 150 sit-ups on the ball. I am pleased with the way my arms and legs look, but I'm not getting the results I want for my abs. What is the best way to trim and tighten ab muscles?

A. Congratulations on your commitment to your exercise routine and the results you are seeing. The workout routine you described has many of the components of a well-balanced exercise program. Strength and cardiovascular training are key to helping strengthen muscles, joints and bones and increasing the endurance and capacity of your heart and lungs.

Since you're seeing results with the rest of your body, I am sure you are seeing results within your abdominal region — perhaps not the results you seek, but I can assure progress is being made.

With the quest to "see" our abdominal muscles, it is important to remember that you cannot spot train. You're seeing results with your lower and upper body because you are completing exercises to strengthen all of your muscle groups and combining that with a cardiovascular program, not just because you are lifting weights.

You are more than likely getting the same results from your abdominal muscles in the area of strength. Just as your arms are responding to the exercises you are performing by getting stronger, so are your abs. You can tell this by how well you are able to complete sit-ups on the ball. It should be easier to complete 100 sit-ups now than when you first started. This proves you are getting stronger and hopefully more stable, which is the goal of doing abdominal exercises.

Many exercisers assume abdominal exercises are the key to "flat abs." Your abdominal muscles and the body fat over the top of your abdominals are two separate matters. The exercises you have been completing concentrate on improving the function, strength and stability of your abdominal muscles, and exercise combined with proper nutrition and a consistent positive lifestyle help lower body fat. It IS possible to have strong abdominals and not be able to "see" them.

Don't make the mistake of focusing on what is NOT changing as much as you would like and recognize what IS changing. You ARE seeing results, so know that your whole body is changing, although you still have goals to reach.

You are right on point with exercising three to four times a week — continue to do so. There is no need to add hundreds of abdominal exercises to reach your goal. You wouldn't do hundreds of repetitions on the leg press machine, so why go overboard with sit-ups.

A huge factor in this equation is your nutritional habits. If you are not practicing a healthy nutrition plan, begin to incorporate proper eating habits into your everyday routine. Without proper nutrition, seeing the results you desire will be difficult.

NO WATERED-DOWN RISK

Water pipes (hookahs), which have a long history of use for smoking tobacco in the Middle East, North Africa, and Asia, are now becoming increasingly popular in the United States. Because the smoke of the tobacco passes through water before the smoker inhales it, many believe that water pipes filter out the harmful components in tobacco smoke. However, new research has found that water pipe smoke contains the same toxins as cigarette smoke. This raises the risk of gum disease, among other things. (Past studies have suggested that hookah smoking increases heart rate and blood pressure and impairs lung function). In fact, researchers found that water pipe smokers were five times more likely than non-smokers to show signs of gum disease.

This column helps emphasize the importance of not smoking. Everyone who wants a beautiful smile – and everyone should have a healthy one. We want you to receive the highest quality, complete, affordable dental care. We keep abreast of all new procedures, and we would like to increase public awareness of the importance of preventive oral health care. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we stress preventive health care for the entire family. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. Your oral health requirements, from restorative to cosmetic considerations, will be met with the latest technology. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Gum disease is marked by inflammation and redness in the gums in its earlier stages. It may later lead to destruction of the bones and soft tissue supporting the teeth and possible tooth loss.

New Program Targets Child Obesity

Helping To Raise Healthier Kids

(NAPS) Schools and parents are working together to help keep kids fit and in good health. That's why there's now a new program to try to show kids how to avoid joining the nearly one in three Americans between 6 and 19 who are overweight.

In fact, the U.S. has one of the highest obesity rates of any industrialized country. This is affecting kids' health not just later in life, but right now. According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, poor fitness in young adults is associated with the development of cardiovascular disease risk factors. In addition, 70 percent of overweight teens could become obese adults.

According to the Department of Health and Human Services, treating obesity-related illnesses and complications adds billions of dollars to the nation's health care costs. Prevention, however, is a better investment, and that means teaching children healthy habits as early as grade school.

Now 6th graders across the country are the fortunate targets of a major outreach addressing nutrition and fitness.

Power of Prevention through Fitness and Nutrition is part of an ongoing initiative by the American Association of Clinical Endocrinologists (AACE) to combat the childhood obesity epidemic and encourage students to maintain healthy lifestyles. The President's Council of Physical Fitness and Sports has partnered with AACE to produce an important component of the project, a handout called Rx for Physical Activity, which outlines how physical activity can be incorporated into children's lives.

• Get a dog, or rather get your youngsters a dog. Walking the dog means walking themselves.

• Look for ways children can get exercise outside of organized team competition. For example, hiking, fencing and martial arts may hold some appeal for kids who aren't into basketball or soccer. The important thing is to get them up and moving rather than slumped in front of the television set.

• Set a good example. Kids learn from their parents. If they never see their parents engaged in some form of exercise, or if they see them eating a lot of unhealthy foods, they'll receive the wrong signals.

• Make healthy snacks, such as carrots and ranch dressing, available when kids come home from school hungry.

7 Common Symptoms Never Ignore

(NUC) - Symptoms we all experience occasionally are rarely cause for concern. Yet even mild symptoms may be signs of serious illness.

Dr. J. Edward Hill, president of the American Medical Association and faculty member at the Family Medicine Residency Center in Tupelo, Miss., provides the following guidelines as to when common symptoms may be dangerous.

• Abdominal pain: The usual causes are gas, stress, viral or bacterial infections, such as food poisoning. But abdominal pain that lasts more than a day or two, causes severe cramps or is accompanied by nausea or vomiting could be appendicitis, gallbladder disease, gallstones, ulcers or stomach cancer. Call your doctor.

• Back pain: Call your doctor if pain from muscle pulls or spasms does not improve after a week. Pain accompanied by fever, tingling, numbness or shooting leg pains may indicate a spinal infection. See your doctor or go to an emergency room immediately.

• Chest pain: Physical overexertion is usually the reason for chest pain. Suspect a heart attack if the pain is accompanied by a pressing or crushing sensation, radiates from the chest to other parts of the body or is accompanied by heavy sweating, nausea or vomiting. Call 911.

• Constipation: Usual causes are insufficient fiber or water in the diet. Sudden constipation or alternating bouts of diarrhea and constipation may signal colon cancer. Call your doctor.

• Fatigue: Inadequate sleep and bad diet are typically to blame for tiredness. Significantly more fatigue than usual in the absence of any lifestyle changes could indicate heart disease. Schedule a checkup immediately.

• Headache: Fatigue or emotional stress can cause headaches. Yet anyone who gets them more than once a month or is incapacitated by a headache needs a complete medical workup immediately. Headaches that increase in frequency, are unusually severe, or are accompanied by other symptoms, such as nausea, slurred speech or vision changes, could be a sign of stroke, an infected or a ruptured brain blood vessel, meningitis or a brain tumor. Call 911.

• Heartburn: Common causes include indigestion — often from eating fatty or spicy foods — and gastroesophageal reflux disease. But if this condition occurs more than once a week, it can damage the esophagus and is linked to esophageal cancer. If you need antacids more than twice a week, see your doctor.

Want to Stay Lean? Think Green

By JENNIFER GROSSMAN
For NewsUSA

(NUC) - Think losing weight on an all-you-can-eat diet is the stuff of infomercials? Think again.

Obese subjects placed on a vegan diet —excluding meat and animal products, but not limiting calories — lost more weight than a control group that followed a low-calorie, low-cholesterol diet, in a collaborative study by George Washington University and Georgetown University.

The veg edge: approximately 13 pounds lost over 14 weeks for the vegan dieters, versus 8 pounds for the control group.

More recently, the same researchers reviewed 87 studies on vegan or vegetarian diets, concluding that the high-fiber, high-water, low-fat content of vegan or vegetarian diets — not calorie counting per se — was responsible for weight loss. Indeed, overweight individuals who "went vegan" lost about a pound per week, regardless of additional lifestyle changes made.

Other research found that vegetarian women weigh less. After evaluating the diet and health data of 56,000 Swedish women, Tufts University researchers found the meat eaters were significantly more likely to be overweight when compared to their vegetarian peers: 40 percent of carnivores, compared to 25 percent of vegetarians and 29 percent of flexitarians, or semi-vegetarians (those who avoided meat but ate fish and eggs).

If a slimmer figure isn't enough incentive to go greener, how about a longer life? A study published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition found that a low meat intake was associated with a 3.6-year increase in life expectancy.

Yet another reason to minimize meat and make more room for plant-based protein on your plate: A recent Mayo clinic analysis of data from nearly 30,000 postmenopausal women found a 30 percent lower risk from heart disease among those who ate the most vegetable protein from beans and nuts in place of either carbohydrates or animal protein.

A large-scale analysis of dietary patterns and prostate cancer risk found that animal products such as meat and dairy were the strongest risk factors, while fruit and vegetable consumption had the most protective benefit.

Processed meat may be the unhealthiest of all, according to a study from the University of Hawaii and the University of Southern California, which found those who consumed the most processed meat had a 67 percent higher risk of developing pancreatic cancer. Diets rich in red meat and pork increased the risk by about 50 percent.

If you're like most Americans, your problem isn't getting enough protein and simple carbohydrates; your challenge (and health opportunity) is to increase consumption of fruit, vegetables and legumes.

Quincy Visits Canton, North Quincy At Somerville

Presidents, Red Raiders Open Season Friday

FOOTBALL

With the renovation of Veterans Memorial Stadium still ongoing and the threat of Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE) and West Nile Virus in southeastern Massachusetts, the schedules for the two high school football teams are tentative.

Athletic Director Jim Rendle said the sites and times are still to be determined at this point.

But the one date that is set in stone is Friday night when both Quincy High School and North Quincy High School kick off their seasons on the road.

In non-league match-ups, Quincy travels to Canton and North Quincy heads to Somerville, both games starting at 7 p.m.

The home openers are scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 21, with North Quincy against Randolph and Friday, Sept. 22, with Quincy against Falmouth.

The Presidents finished with a 6-4 record a year ago, their fourth winning season in the last five years, and will look to continue their success under head coach Bob Noble who is entering his eighth season.

The Red Raiders have struggled in recent years and are coming off a 2-9 season, but there's optimism with a new coaching staff led by head coach Jim Connor, an assistant coach the past two years and a former offensive lineman at Boston College.

The 2006 schedule:

North Quincy

• Friday, Sept. 8, at Somerville
• Saturday, Sept. 16 at Sandwich
• Thursday, Sept. 21, vs. Randolph
• Friday, Sept. 29, at Falmouth
• Friday, Oct. 6, vs. Plymouth North
• Friday, Oct. 13, at Dennis-Yarmouth
• Friday, Oct. 20, vs. Nauset
• Friday, Oct. 27, at Marshfield
• Friday, Nov. 3, vs. Whitman-Hanson
• Friday, Nov. 10, at Plymouth South
• Thursday, Nov. 23, vs. Quincy

NQ Girls Soccer Start Season Friday

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team is taking aim at another state tournament berth and a run at the Atlantic Coast League North Division crown.

The Red Raiders have qualified for the Division 1 South tournament for nine straight years. Head coach Paul Bregoli enters his 12th season at the helm and feels this team could be very special.

"We have a solid nucleus of girls returning this year, some of whom have been varsity players for four years," Bregoli said. "Our captains will be a key to our success."

North Quincy opens its season at Hanover Friday night for a non-league game, marking the first time the Red Raiders and Indians will have met.

Leading the Red Raiders will be Bridget Coleman, a two-time ACL all-star who Bregoli will move to inside midfield this season. Jillian Benn, an ACL all-star last year, will display her skills at outside midfield.

Keriann Cabral, one of North Quincy's most versatile players, will see time at both forward and midfield. Megan Therrien appears to be healthy again and will start up front.

Emily Milone, a junior and an all-EMass selection last season, is slowly rounding into form after off-season knee surgery. Milone tallied seven goals and nine assists last year.

Also returning at outside midfield is senior Lauren Stille, who finished with nine goals and six assists a year ago.

Mary Kate Stille will be counted on to provide the scoring punch for North Quincy as Caitlin McCleary, the ACL's leading scorer in 2005, is now at UMass-Dartmouth.

Seniors Melissa Mendall and Tara Whooley return in the back as starters while Ali Russell is also looking strong in pre-season. Bregoli said juniors Kerry Coughlin and Simone Leary have been very impressive in pre-season scrimmages and should provide depth in the defensive end. Katie Forde will also see time on defense.

Bregoli said Kristen Ruck, up from junior varsity, has looked good up front as have sophomores Kerry Donaghey and Brittany Folkins. Carolyn Casper and Erin Murtagh will provide depth at forward.

Midfielders Tara McFarland, Natalie Djerf and Danielle Kelly have looked good in scrimmages as well, Bregoli said. Sophomore Amy Carchedi will be a valuable asset at both midfield and forward.

Senior Kristin Reamer returns as the goalkeeper. She posted two shutouts and a 1.33 goals against last year. Challenging Reamer will be sophomore Siobhan Carnell.

YMCA Offers Marathon Training

Five Youngsters Win Hot Shot Hoop Crowns

The Quincy Recreation Department crowned five youngsters as champions in the recent annual Hot Shot Basketball Competition.

The winners:

• Jenay Cedrone of Faxon Road, midget girls division.
• David Lawlor of Beechwood Park, midget boys division.
• Taylor Shepard of Squantum Park, junior girls division.
• Connor Clifford of Atlantic Park, junior boys division.
• Matty Costa of Fenno Street, senior boys division.

Runners-up:

• Josh Hayward of O'Rourke Park, midget boys
• Annie Dow of Squantum Park, junior girls
• Terrence Rooney of Perkins Park, junior boys
• Greg Gaffney of Fore River Park, senior boys.

The event was conducted as part of the department's supervised playground program under the leadership of sports specialist Dan DiNardo. Meaghan Foley, Jimmy Burke and Bonnie Hirtle also assisted.

The Hot Shot Basketball Competition is a one-minute timed basketball shoot-off in which participants score points by successfully making shots from "hot spots" at different locations on the court.

A CAPABLE BATTERY

When replacing your car battery, pay attention to its cold-cranking rating. Weather extremes are hard on batteries, and it takes a stronger battery to start a vehicle in cold weather. Under cold conditions, the chemical reaction inside the battery produces voltage slowdowns. This means that more time is required to produce the voltage necessary to activate the starter. Batteries are rated 100% effective at 80 degrees F. When the temperature drops to freezing, battery output drops to about 65%, and it falls to approximately 40% at 0 degrees. Be sure to consider their cold-cranking ratings when comparing brands and sizes of batteries. Batteries should have a minimum of 1 amp cold-cranking capacity for every cubic inch of engine displacement.

Be sure to choose a battery that fits all of your needs. Everybody has different requirements from their vehicle, and there is a battery to match your specific needs. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we can ensure you choose the right battery, and that it is installed properly. Questions regarding batteries? Please come to 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree, or call 781-843-1550 today. Sunoco and most major credit cards honored.

HINT: A battery's reserve capacity refers to its unassisted ability to power the ignition system, headlights, and taillights.

O'Rourke-Mass Fields, Perkins Playgrounds 6-On-6 Soccer Champs

The Quincy Recreation Department recently held its annual 6 on 6 Soccer Tournament with more than 80 children representing 15 playgrounds participating in the event.

The double-elimination tournament was divided into three age groups: midgets (ages 8 to 10), juniors (ages 11-12) and seniors (ages 13-16).

In the Junior Division, Perkins overcame the heat and was able to bring home first place. Tommy O'Brien, Terrence Rooney, Coleman McCarron, Eileen Skudras, Shawn Grady, Jimmy Farnham and Abby O'Connell played their hearts out.

Falling just a little short were the youngsters from Beechwood: Jaclyn Scuzzarella, Danielle Mullaney, Laura Nee, Briana Mullaney, Jacklyn Merchant, Liz Kelly, Hannah Donovan, Kiera Clifford, Colleen Lethin and Simon Chau.

In the Senior Division, Perkins once again came away with the victory. Donovan Flynn, Enos Liagami, Paul O'Rourke, Chris Mariano, Corinc Barry, Emily Rooney and Zach Tucker put on a great show.

After a long day, the boys from Squantum had to settle for second place: Billy Kiley, Brian McLean, Nick Hutchings, Nick Couture, Tommy Dow, James Flaherty and Bobby Fontana.

Chip In For Cancer Golf Classic At Granite Links

The annual Chip in for Cancer Golf Classic will be held Thursday, Sept. 21, at Granite Links Golf Club in Quincy to benefit the Jimmy Fund.

Entry fee is $195. All tournament proceeds support cancer research and treatment at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston. For more information, call 866-521-GOLF.

Each year Jimmy Fund Golf, the nation's oldest and largest grassroots golf program for charity, brings together hundreds of volunteers and thousands of golfers who are united in their love for the game of golf and their desire to fund cancer research.

Starting with individual benefit tournaments dating back more than 50 years, just after the Jimmy Fund was founded, Jimmy Fund Golf has steadily grown to more than 150 tournaments annually since it was formerly organized in 1983. In 2005, Jimmy Fund Golf events collectively raised $5.5 million.

Registration Due Friday For City Tennis Tourney

The tournament, open to all Quincy residents, begins Sept. 13 and will have 12 divisions of play for boys, girls, men and women. Fee is $15 for adults and $8 for youth under age 16.

The draw will be posted Sept. 11 and 12 from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the municipal courts at Russell Park behind the Center for Technical Education.

A Job Well Done

On Sunday, Aug. 27, at approximately 10 p.m., Officers Mike Kelly and William Horick were dispatched to the area of Hancock and Willet Streets to investigate a call of a suspicious black male following a woman. Upon arrival, the officers interviewed the female victim, who stated that the suspect followed her home but fled when the police cars approached.

LT. DAN MINTON

A further description was given as being about 40-45 years old, wearing dark clothing and a hat. Numerous officers checked the area to no avail.

On Monday, Aug. 28, at 5:15 p.m., both officers were again dispatched to meet the same caller after being stalked again. The victim stated that the suspect followed her home to her apartment from CVS. She said that she ran home and locked the door. She said that the suspect began banging on her door, demanding that she come out. She yelled to him that she was calling the police and the banging stopped. The victim was able to add that the suspect was heavy set and sometimes pushed a shopping cart.

Having worked the area for many years, Officer Horick broadcasted a description and identity of a suspect. About an hour later, Officer Lane Watkins came across the suspect at the 7-11 Store in Wollaston. The officers questioned the suspect, who told them that he did follow the victim on several occasions and that he knew her. The suspect was transported to the victim's building, where the victim positively identified the suspect.

When told of the suspect's remarks that he knew her, she said that she did not know him at all. The suspect, a 38-year-old homeless man, was charged with "Intimidation." Officers in the area will continue to make frequent checks to keep the suspect from returning.

Nice work!

In this case, the victim acted quickly after observing that the suspect had been following her on at least two occasions. There may have been more occasions since the suspect knew exactly where the victim lived. If you believe that someone is following you, trust your instincts – don't wait for something to actually happen. If possible, do not go directly home since this will provide the suspect with a location to find you – coming and going!

Look for public places that are open and have customers – the more the better. Tell an employee that you think you are being followed and feel threatened by someone you don't know. Ask them to call "911." It is unlikely that the suspect will come in if he thinks that others know about him.

In this case, Papa Gino's, Tony's Pizza, Dunkin' Donuts (where we sometimes go) and the Prime Gas Station would be options. If you are in an area where there are no people, consider flagging down a motorist or go to a home and ask them to call the police. Often, just the contact with others will be enough to have the suspect back down.

People, by nature, are good and if a female or child comes seeking help, most will call and stand by until help arrives. Having a cell phone handy makes it easy to contact the police. If you do not have one, pretending can sometimes work – simply use an object resembling the shape of a cell phone and look at the suspect as you pretend to talk to the police. If you cannot afford a cell phone plan, consider purchasing a disposable cell phone for emergency situations.

Another option is to ask friends or relatives to hand you down a cell phone (and charger) they don't use anymore. All cell phones, even those without a contract, have "911" capabilities.

The most important point to remember is that once you lead the suspect to your home, he knows where you live!

Lt. John Steele, commander of the Day Patrol Division, states there have been a few occasions recently at "Open Houses" where jewelry, and other small items have been stolen. If you have in the process of selling your house, whether through a Realtor or on your own, be sure to remove items of value that can be concealed and taken from your home.

It is also a good idea to re-secure your home after everyone leaves, like checking the locks on your windows and cellar door. An "Open House" can be an opportunity for criminals to scope out a house and return later, especially if they believe that no one is living there.

Tall plants

Cutting back minimizes the need to support tall-growing plants. But some plants still fall over — such as climbing roses, delphiniums, gladiolas, hollyhocks, peonies, snapdragons and sunflowers. Use stakes, trellises or twine to keep them upright.

A Job Well Done

On Sunday, Aug. 27, at approximately 10 p.m., Officers Mike Kelly and William Horick were dispatched to the area of Hancock and Willet Streets to investigate a call of a suspicious black male following a woman. Upon arrival, the officers interviewed the female victim, who stated that the suspect followed her home but fled when the police cars approached.

LT. DAN MINTON

A further description was given as being about 40-45 years old, wearing dark clothing and a hat. Numerous officers checked the area to no avail.

On Monday, Aug. 28, at 5:15 p.m., both officers were again dispatched to meet the same caller after being stalked again. The victim stated that the suspect followed her home to her apartment from CVS. She said that she ran home and locked the door. She said that the suspect began banging on her door, demanding that she come out. She yelled to him that she was calling the police and the banging stopped. The victim was able to add that the suspect was heavy set and sometimes pushed a shopping cart.

Having worked the area for many years, Officer Horick broadcasted a description and identity of a suspect. About an hour later, Officer Lane Watkins came across the suspect at the 7-11 Store in Wollaston. The officers questioned the suspect, who told them that he did follow the victim on several occasions and that he knew her. The suspect was transported to the victim's building, where the victim positively identified the suspect.

When told of the suspect's remarks that he knew her, she said that she did not know him at all. The suspect, a 38-year-old homeless man, was charged with "Intimidation." Officers in the area will continue to make frequent checks to keep the suspect from returning.

Nice work!

In this case, the victim acted quickly after observing that the suspect had been following her on at least two occasions. There may have been more occasions since the suspect knew exactly where the victim lived. If you believe that someone is following you, trust your instincts – don't wait for something to actually happen. If possible, do not go directly home since this will provide the suspect with a location to find you – coming and going!

Look for public places that are open and have customers – the more the better. Tell an employee that you think you are being followed and feel threatened by someone you don't know. Ask them to call "911." It is unlikely that the suspect will come in if he thinks that others know about him.

In this case, Papa Gino's, Tony's Pizza, Dunkin' Donuts (where we sometimes go) and the Prime Gas Station would be options. If you are in an area where there are no people, consider flagging down a motorist or go to a home and ask them to call the police. Often, just the contact with others will be enough to have the suspect back down.

People, by nature, are good and if a female or child comes seeking help, most will call and stand by until help arrives. Having a cell phone handy makes it easy to contact the police. If you do not have one, pretending can sometimes work – simply use an object resembling the shape of a cell phone and look at the suspect as you pretend to talk to the police. If you cannot afford a cell phone plan, consider purchasing a disposable cell phone for emergency situations.

Another option is to ask friends or relatives to hand you down a cell phone (and charger) they don't use anymore. All cell phones, even those without a contract, have "911" capabilities.

The most important point to remember is that once you lead the suspect to your home, he knows where you live!

Lt. John Steele, commander of the Day Patrol Division, states there have been a few occasions recently at "Open Houses" where jewelry, and other small items have been stolen. If you have in the process of selling your house, whether through a Realtor or on your own, be sure to remove items of value that can be concealed and taken from your home.

It is also a good idea to re-secure your home after everyone leaves, like checking the locks on your windows and cellar door. An "Open House" can be an opportunity for criminals to scope out a house and return later, especially if they believe that no one is living there.

Tall plants

Cutting back minimizes the need to support tall-growing plants. But some plants still fall over — such as climbing roses, delphiniums, gladiolas, hollyhocks, peonies, snapdragons and sunflowers. Use stakes, trellises or twine to keep them upright.

Dear World...

My young son starts to school today... It's going to be sort of strange and new to him for awhile, and I wish you would sort of treat him gently.

You see, up to now he's been king of the roost... He's been boss of the backyard... His mother has always been near to soothe his wounds and repair his feelings.

But now things are going to be different.

This morning he's going to walk down the front steps, wave his hand, and start out on the great adventure... It is an adventure that might take him across continents, across oceans... It's an adventure that will probably include wars and tragedy and sorrow... To live his life in the world he will have to live in, will require faith and love and courage.

So, World, I wish you would sort of look after him... Take him by the hand and teach him things he will have to know.

But do it gently, if you can.

He will have to learn, I know, that all men are not just, that all men are not true.

But teach him also that for every scoundrel there is a hero... that for every crooked politician there is a great and dedicated leader... Teach him that for every enemy there is a friend.

Steer him away from envy, if you can... And teach him the secret of quiet laughter.

In school, World, teach him it is far more honorable to fail than to cheat... Teach him to have faith in his own ideas, even if everyone says they are wrong... Teach him to be gentle with gentle people and tough with tough people.

Try to give my son the strength not to follow the crowd when everyone is getting on the bandwagon... Teach him to listen to all men – but teach him also to filter all he hears on a screen of truth and take just the good that siphons through.

Teach him, if you can, how to laugh when he is sad... Teach him there is no shame in tears... Teach him there can be glory in failure and despair in success.

Treat him gently, World, if you can, but don't coddle him... Because only the test of fire makes fine steel... Let him have the courage to be impatient... Let him have the patience to be brave.

Let him be no man's man... Teach him always to have sublime faith in himself.

Because then he will always have sublime faith in mankind.

This is quite an order, World, but see what you can do... He's such a nice little fellow, my son! – Dan Valentine

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

There's no month like September. Parents eye their six-year-olds as they take their first steps toward the school bus. Older students leave home for their first adventure in dormitory life. College and high school graduates find themselves looking for jobs. Year in and year out. September brings gradual and unusual changes in the lives of many of us.

Parents and teachers wonder about the personality and influence of a new teacher. Teachers do not choose their students and may find themselves in a roomful of strangers. The first days of school often reveal which students will test a teacher's intelligence, patience, or perseverance for the ensuing school year.

September is a month of new things: books, tablets, pencils, prints, plaids, plains and, of course, blue jeans. It is a time to start again with new ideas, new activities and new friends.

What happens in a new school year has far-reaching effects on all of us. It matters not if we are eight or eighty, school is everyone's business...

Richard F. Weston, 90

Retired Standard Service Bureau Employee

A funeral service for Richard F. Weston, 90, a lifelong Quincy resident, was held Wednesday at First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

He died Aug. 31 at John Adams Healthcare Center in Quincy.

Mr. Weston worked for the Standard Service Bureau for more than 32 years, retiring in 1977.

A World War II Army veteran, he served in Europe with the 951st Engineers.

He was an active member of First Baptist Church of Wollaston, where he was head usher for 25 years and on May 1, 1977 he was elected an honorary deacon.

He sang with various choral groups in New England and was made a lifetime member of the Wollaston Glee Club in 1997, having been a member for 60 years.

He was also a member of the Quincy Historical Society and his name is listed on the Quincy's "Walk of Names" located outside City Hall.

Mr. Weston graduated from Quincy High School in 1934 and from the Burdett School of Business in Boston. After the war, he lived in North Quincy before moving to Wollaston in 1950.

RICHARD F. WESTON

Husband of the late Reta G. (Burgess) Weston, he is survived by a son, Richard B. Weston of Stoughton; and several cousins.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Donna M. White, 58

Insurance Agent

A funeral Mass for Donna Marie (Dalton) White, 58, of Marshfield, formerly of Easton, owner of the former Donna M. White Insurance Agency of Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday at St. John's Church, Marshfield.

Mrs. White founded the insurance agency in Quincy in 1990 and in 1991 she was nationally recognized when she received her CPCU status. Most recently, she worked at the Celia Insurance Agency in Quincy.

An avid golfer, she was a member of the Marshfield Country Club and served as treasurer of its Women's Association.

Born in Boston, she was raised and educated in Dorchester. She graduated from Cardinal Cushing High School in South Boston in 1965 and from Emmanuel College in 1969. She lived in Easton for 13 years before moving to Marshfield 23 years ago.

She is survived by her husband of 36 years, Francis K. "Frank" White; a son, Daniel F. White of Plymouth; two daughters, Kerrianne L. Gloster of Mahwah, N.J., and Lindsay K. Daniels of Franklin Lakes, N.J.; three brothers, Robert Dalton of Hyannis, Allan Dalton of West Lake Village, Calif., and Richard Dalton of Needham; a sister, Kathleen MacAfee of Needham; six grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Couch Cemetery, Marshfield.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Kenneth Lyons, 87

Led Public Sector Union

A funeral Mass for Kenneth T. Lyons, 87, of Quincy, founder and leader for 40 years of the National Association of Government Employees, based in Quincy, was celebrated Sept. 1 at St. Agatha Church, Milton.

He died Aug. 29 at Milton Hospital.

Mr. Lyons founded the union in 1961, shortly after President John F. Kennedy issued an executive order affirming the right of federal employees to organize. Until 2001, he was the national president of NAGE and of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers. He was also international vice president of the Service Employees International Union, an AFL-CIO organization with which NAGE is affiliated.

Mr. Lyons built NAGE into one of the nation's largest public sector unions and enjoyed access to presidents from Kennedy to George H.W. Bush. He was credited with persuading Gerald Ford to sign a landmark bill providing benefits to the families of police officers killed in the line of duty.

After being fired as president in 2001 following allegations of financial irregularities, Mr. Lyons waged a fight to regain control of the 40,000-member union. But a federal judge upheld the firing in August 2002, clearing the way for the election of his successor.

Mr. Lyons began his career at the Boston Naval Shipyard in Charlestown after graduating from Medford High School in 1939.

He graduated from the Navy's Industrial Relations School and was the youngest shipyard supervisor in the country at the time. After the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, he passed up the automatic military service deferment his job carried and enlisted in the Navy.

The bulk of his service during World War II was spent with the Navy's amphibious forces in the Atlantic. Several years later, he was recalled to active duty with the Navy during the Korean War.

His recall came after he formed the Federal Employees Veterans Association, FEVA, and was elected its national commander.

During the 1960s, he inserted himself into the civil rights struggle by welcoming blacks as equal members of the union. When an all-white group of employees at the Charleston (S.C.) Naval Shipyard insisted in 1964 on having a separate NAGE charter, Mr. Lyons went there and confronted white workers in their meeting hall. After telling them that, as head of the union, he would not grant them an exclusive charter that would deprive black workers of representation, the hall fell silent.

Mr. Lyons is survived by his wife, Evelyn (Ferris) Lyons; three daughters, Kim Saliba of Quincy and Claire Caso and Lorraine Reilly of Waltham; a son, Kenneth T. Lyons Jr. of Waltham; two sisters, Elizabeth O'Brien and Frances Murphy; many grandchildren and great-grandchildren; and nieces and nephews.

Burial was Sept. 1 in Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne.

Funeral arrangements were by Dolan Funeral Home, Milton.

Sunday School Registration At Houghs Neck Congregational

Houghs Neck Congregational Church is now accepting registrations for the 2006-2007 Sunday School year.

Sunday School classes will begin Sunday, Sept. 24 with a Registration/Rally Day at the church, 310 Manet Ave. Regular classes will meet every Sunday at 9:30 a.m. October through June. Classes are offered for children grades kindergarten through 6th grade.

"We have an exciting year planned that's built around our new curriculum," said Jennifer McCauley Logue, director of the Sunday School program. "'Walk with Me' uses the best-loved stories of the Bible, combined with songs and activities, to share the gospel with children. We'll also be holding a traditional Christmas pageant with parts for all of the Sunday School students, and many other activities."

Children and their families do not need to be Houghs Neck residents or members of Houghs Neck Congregational Church in order to participate in the Sunday School program. "All children grades K-6th are invited to participate," Logue said.

To receive a registration form or for more information, call (617)328-1384 or email jennmccauley@aol.com.

Passport Acceptance Hours Extended In September

Areas requiring passports for travelers will soon be extended, and the Quincy Center Post Office, 47 Washington St., is increasing passport acceptance hours during September, National Passport Month.

In addition to normal passport acceptance hours, 10a.m.-4p.m., Monday through Friday, and Saturday 8a.m.-noon, the office will be open Saturdays from 2-6p.m., exclusively for passport application acceptance.

Beginning Jan. 8, 2007, a passport will be required to travel by air or sea to Canada, Mexico, Bermuda, South America, Central America and the Caribbean. On Dec. 31, 2007, this requirement will be extended to include all land crossings to Canada and Mexico.

The average cost is $97 for adults 16 years and older, with separate payments of $30 to the U.S. Postal Service for processing fees, and $67 to the State Department for the passport application fee. For those under 16 years of age, total cost is $82 with separate payments of $30 to the U.S. Postal Service, and $52 to the State Department.

For expedited passport service, add $60 per application, payable to the State Department. Two-way overnight delivery is encouraged. In such cases, the application is mailed via Express Mail® with delivery costs made payable to USPS.

To help the passport application process go smoothly and efficiency, the Postal service recommends:

- Bring in proper proof of American citizenship: either a certified birth certificate issued by the city, county or state; a previous passport, a certificate of citizenship, or a naturalization certificate. A hospital-issued birth certificate alone is not acceptable.
- Bring proof of identity: either a previous U.S. passport, a naturalization certificate, a certificate of citizenship, or a current valid driver's license, government ID or military photo ID.
- To save time, download passport applications at www.usps.com/passport to complete an application beforehand.

'Neighborhoods First' Topic For Montclair/Wollaston Tonight

The Sept. 7, 7:30 p.m. meeting of the Montclair/Wollaston Neighborhoods Association (MWNA) will address Mayor William Phelan's "Neighborhoods First" initiative at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Harvard and West Squantum Streets.

The community meeting will address concerns for the MWNA neighborhoods and city, and Phelan's plans "to establish neighborhood advocacy groups to participate in the development of solutions and initiatives to strengthen the community and improve quality of life issues."

Queries, ideas and concerns will be documented and compiled on a spreadsheet. Non-members of the MWNA are invited to attend, and let their opinions be heard.

MWNA meets the first Thursday of each month, 7:30 p.m. at the Church of the Good Shepherd.

Bereavement Support Group At Quincy Medical

Quincy Medical Center, 114 Whitwell St. will host a free, seven-week Bereavement Support Group, beginning Wednesday Sept. 13.

The support group will meet Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 5:30 p.m. for the seven consecutive weeks. The group is designed to help adults who are coping with the recent death of an adult loved one to alleviate feelings of grief and begin the healing process.

"Grieving people often feel isolated in their pain and perceive that the world only wants to see and hear from happy people," said Rev. Esther Bowen, director of Pastoral Care at Quincy Medical Center. "If you need an emotionally safe place where you can be yourself and process your grief experience, then perhaps this support group may work for you."

The program is free, however, pre-registration is required. For more information or to register, contact the Quincy Medical Center Pastoral Care Department at 617-376-5502.

Mature Driver Safety Course Sept. 7, 14

A two-day safe driving course for the mature driver will be held Sept. 7 and Sept. 14 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at Marina Place, 4 Seaport Dr., North Quincy.

The course is $10, payable in advance. Checks may be made payable to the AARP. Lunch will be served.

THE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY of the 9/11 terrorist attacks on the Trade Center Twin Towers in New York City, the Pentagon and the heroically thwarted one in Pennsylvania was observed at a solemn ceremony in Central Fire Headquarters Monday.

Solemn Observance At Fire Headquarters

Remembering Sept. 11, 2001

By MIKAELA SLANEY

With a U.S. flag fluttering at half-staff, the fifth anniversary of the 9/11 terrorist attacks that took 3,030 lives was observed Monday at a solemn remembrance ceremony at Central Fire Headquarters.

Firefighters, police and residents joined in remembering the victims who lost their lives in the hijacked planes attacks on the World Trade Center Twin Towers in New York City, the Pentagon in Washington and the heroic passenger-forced crash of one of the planes in Pennsylvania.

Mayor William Phelan, state Senator Michael Morrissey and City Councillor John Keenan were among those attending.

A "5-5-5" alert blared through the Quincy Fire Department radio system from inside the station, marking the moment when the South Tower of the World Trade Center collapsed at 10:05 a.m.

The North Tower fell at 10:28 a.m.

Firefighter William Knox read the Fireman's Prayer, and Captain Paul Keenan read the Police Officer's Prayer.

"I'd like to thank Mayor (William) Phelan, invited guests and the public for coming here today, to remember all the victims of the 9/11 attack at the World Trade Center, the Pentagon, and the crash site at Shanksville, Pennsylvania," said Fire Chief Timothy Pettinelli.

"Five years ago today a total of 3,030 people lost their lives including 343 fire fighters and 75 police officers.

"Today will be an emotional day for the city of New York Fire Department because two weeks ago, on a Sunday afternoon two fire fighters died trying to make a rescue in a store fire. So far this year in the United

Despite Close Democrat Race For Governor

Light Vote Seen For Primary

Despite a tight three-way race for the Democratic nomination for governor, a light vote is seen here in next Tuesday's primary election.

Ninety percent of that turnout, he feels, will be Democrats voting for the three gubernatorial contenders:

Boston businessman Christopher F. Gabrieli, Deval L. Patrick, of Milton, an attorney who served in the Justice Department in the Clinton administration, and Atty. General Thomas F. Reilly of Watertown.

Shea points out that there are only four contests in the primary election, three Democrat and just one Republican.

"And," he notes, "there are no local contests for state senate, state representative and county seats which would bring a heavier vote."

The candidates are Deborah B. Goldberg, former Brookline selectman chairman, Worcester Mayor Timothy P. Murray and Andrea C. Silbert of Harwich, a political newcomer.

Secretary of State William F. Galvin is being challenged by political newcomer John Bonifaz of Boston in the only other contest on the Democrat ballot.

The lone contest on the Republican ballot is between Kenneth G. Chase of Belmont and Kevin P. Scott of Wakefield for the U.S. Senate nomination.

Lt. Gov. Kerry Healey of Beverly has no challenger for the Republican governor nomination. Neither does States 69 fire fighters have died in the line of duty. May God rest their souls."

Steven Sweet, Quincy firefighter and piper with the Boston Baelica Fire Brigade performed "Amazing Grace" on the bagpipes. Officer Donald Sautter sang the National Anthem.

"It doesn't seem possible that it was five years ago," said Ernie Arienti, president of the Quincy Fire Department Fire Fighter's Local 792.

Arienti said that a resolution was adopted Sept. 1 by the International Association of Fire Fighters (IAFF) procuring Sept. 11 as a day of remembrance for all fallen fire fighters lost in the line of duty. He said read the resolution to the crowd:

"Whereas the 5th anniversary of the most devastating terrorist attacks to ever hit our home is upon us, whereas the profound acts of cowardice of terrorists on Sept. 11 2001 resulted in the horrific loss of life at the World Trade Center Towers the pentagon and the rural field of Shanksville, Pennsylvania, and whereas our brothers and sisters responded to the attacks rescuing thousands of citizens as they always do displaying the honor, commitment, sacrifice above and beyond the call of duty that has come to define the fire fighter's profession.

"And whereas the fire fighter who perished that day and those who worked as part of the massive recovery support efforts remain pillars of courage to all for their selfless acts of bravery and devotion to their fellow citizens; and whereas the loss of our brothers in the collapse of the World Trade Center towers following those attacks has burned a place in the public consciousness of the date 9/11 and made it a remembrance for fire fighters throughout the world.

"And whereas memorials and monuments like those at Ten House in New York City and the IAFF Fallen Fire Fighter Memorial in Colorado Springs give us a place to reflect on the selfless acts of courage and duty of not only those who fell on Sept. 11, but those we have lost since and those who carry on, therefore be it resolved, that the delegates of the IAFF 48th Biennial Convention deem that 9/11/ of each year be solemnly recognized as a day of remembrance for all fire fighters who fall in the line of duty, everywhere."

The resolution was first read at the IAFF 48th Biennial Convention, Aug. 27.

Police Captain John Dougan also included a moment of silence in the ceremony for James Cochrane, a Quincy police officer who was fatally injured in a motorcycle-auto accident Sunday.

OVERUSE INJURIES IN CHILDREN

As fall sports get underway again, it's important to know the types of foot and ankle injuries that put your child at risk. Because your child's bones, ligaments, and tendons are not fully developed, it's important to treat injuries that may compromise development. Heel growth plate inflammation, for example, is a common sports-related injury in children, occurring from muscle strain and repetitive stress. Achilles tendonitis is an overuse injury that typically results from repetitive running and pounding. Plantar fasciitis is heel pain that develops due to inflammation of the fibrous tendon spanning the sole of the foot. Stress fractures, hairline breaks that result from repetitive stress, are often first noticed by persistent heel pain.

For those who participate in sports activities of any kind, professional attention and guidance can help reduce the potential for discomfort and injury. And since difficulties with your feet can adversely affect your comfort and lifestyle, we invite you to call us for an appointment at 781-986-3668 to receive comprehensive podiatric care geared to your individual footcare needs. Sports medicine is one of our specialties here at 999 North Main Street, Randolph, in the MEDICAL OFFICE BUILDING, where we see emergencies as promptly as possible. Office hours are now also available at Quincy Medical Center and Milton Medical Building.

HINT: If your child complains of pain, avoid trying to get him or her to play through it. There may be an injury that requires rest or treatment

Mayor William Phelan has scheduled a public meeting regarding the location of the city's new regulation track Monday, Sept. 25, at 6:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall.

The meeting will solicit input from the community regarding two sites: Faxon Field on Southern Artery and Pageant Field in Merrymount Park.

"I recognize the importance of a track facility for our children and our community," Phelan said. "This facility was one of the cornerstones of my proposal to invest $4 million in our park and recreational facilities. I would like the public to weigh in before we make our final decision."

Other major projects included in the park improvement bond are renovations to Adams Field, creation of the city's first female athletic complex at Mitchell/McCoy Field, new synthetic turf surface at Veterans Memorial Stadium, improvements to city beaches, citywide tree planting, neighborhood park improvements and more.

"We are investing in our community and in our quality of life," Phelan said. "Utilizing the hotel/motel tax revenues, we are able to improve our community without impacting our taxpayers."

SACRED HEART SCHOOL students and faculty take a moment to remember those who lost their lives in the 2001 Sept. 11 attacks at a remembrance Monday outside of the school.

Aviva Donates Office Furniture To Nine Quincy Public Schools

Aviva Life Insurance Company's community involvement program has recently donated hundreds of office furniture items that will be distributed to nine public schools in Quincy.

In conjunction with Aviva's recent move from Newport Office Park to Batterymarch Park, the company made a non-tax deductible donation of office furniture to the Quincy Public Schools valued at approximately $22,000. Items included desks, chairs, tables, credenzas, file cabinets and bookshelves.

"Quincy Public School administrators, staff and students continue to praise and thank Aviva for its generous donation of office furniture," said Dr. Rick DeCristofaro, Quincy's superintendent of schools. "So many Quincy Public School staff are beneficiaries of this exciting and wonderful initiative. How fortunate for Quincy Public Schools to partner with Aviva."

"We're thrilled to have the opportunity to help our good friends in the Quincy Public Schools in this way," said Hans Carstensen, Aviva's president and CEO. "During a recent Big Sister Little Sister visit to one of the schools, an Aviva Community Involvement Committee member spotted some of the donated furniture in a classroom. She later told me how proud she felt to have helped make a difference. I think all of us at Aviva feel that way about our partnership with Quincy Public Schools.

Vets Adviser At COA Office

John D. Miller of Home Care Partners, will be at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., each Wednesday to advise veterans or their surviving spouses of their in-home care benefits.

To schedule an appointment, call the Council on Aging at 617-376-1506.

Sacred Heart School Holds Sept. 11 Remembrance

Sacred Heart School students and faculty of grades 1-8 remembered those killed five years ago in the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on New York, Washington D.C. and Pennsylvania Monday, at an outside service, with prayer, singing and a moment of silence.

At 8:46 a.m., the moment the first plane hit the World Trade Center in New York, students were lead in prayer by Sacred Heart School Principal Katherine Hunter. Then, as sounds of airplanes heading to Logan Airport were heard overhead, students and faculty held a moment of silence to honor victims. The remembrance concluded with the ringing of church bells to the tune of the "Star Spangled Banner" and "God Bless America." Students sang along, and people who walked by stopped and joined in the singing.

The remembrance was held in the shadow of the Sacred Heart Church which draped the same 15 by 25 American Flag which was draped across the church the day of the 2001 attacks.

Campaigning By Train

(Henry Bosworth decided to take the day off and has dug into the archives this week for one that appeared in July, 1999.)

Nowadays presidential candidates hop on a plane to get to campaign stops.

It does get them there quickly.

But I think both the voters and the press got a closer in-person look and impression of them when they traveled by train back in the good old days.

The train rolled into the station and the candidate spoke from the rear platform with the crowd gathered around to look him over and listen to what he had to say.

They called them "whistle stops." But sometimes the train just whistled and didn't stop.

Like in 1948 when Harry Truman roared right through Quincy, right past the birthplaces of John and John Quincy Adams without even a pause.

I was assigned to cover him that morning and caught up to him in Brockton where he did stop and speak.

Adlai Stevenson, four years later, was a different and more fun story.

STEVENSON

I traveled with Stevenson aboard his campaign train from Boston to Quincy to Rhode Island Oct. 27, 1952.

And whenever I look back on that day it reminds me how dramatically the lives of some people can change in just a few short years.

There were only 3,000 people in the then Republican stronghold of Quincy who turned out at the old Quincy Depot to see and listen to the Democratic presidential nominee.

Stevenson spoke eloquently (some think he was sometimes too eloquent), sprinkling his words with bits of humor. His special target here in Quincy that day was Wisconsin Senator Joseph McCarthy who was on his famed witch hunt.

Stevenson had a Hollywood star supporting cast with him. Among those aboard the train: Humphrey Bogart, Lauren Bacall and Robert Ryan.

Bacall, a very attractive young woman, got off the train and stood nearby listening to Stevenson. But as I recall, I don't think too many people actually recognized her or realized she was standing there.

David Crowley, then a city councillor and a Democratic candidate for Congress, had the honor of introducing Stevenson.

I don't remember his exact words but the introduction went something like this: "... and now, ladies and gentlemen, I give you the next President of the United States, Adlai E. Stevenson."

Crowley was wrong, of course. The next President of the United States would be Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But Crowley that day did introduce the next Democratic president though neither he nor the crowd realized it at the time.

For on the rear platform of the train with Stevenson but quite overshadowed by the man from Illinois was a man from Massachusetts — a young, slim Congressman named John F. Kennedy.

KENNEDY

But Kennedy was but a political "also" in the Stevenson party. Eclipsed not only by Stevenson but by Gov. Paul Dever, too.

Yet, in just eight short years, he would be elected President and Stevenson would become his ambassador to the United Nations.

I also remember then Police Captain William Ferrazzi, later to become chief, who was in charge of security for Stevenson's visit.

FERRAZZI

He had 40 men positioned around the Quincy Depot and others posted on bridges along the railroad tracks.

And, on buildings.

And who could have dreamed that the young Congressman standing with Stevenson in Quincy that day would become President but was to keep a tragic date with fate below a building in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

"You've got to watch those buildings," Ferrazzi had said.

Someone didn't in Dallas.

'Money Conference For Women' Sept. 30

The "Money Conference for Women," presented by State Treasurer Timothy P. Cahill, will be at the Marriott Hotel, Sept. 30.

In conjunction with the YWCA New England Regional Council, the conference will focus on money management, retirement and investment strategies for all ages and economic backgrounds.

The free event is intended for people who are living from paycheck to paycheck, and unable to save for retirement, those who have out-of-control spending habits, and those who wish to own a house, start a business, or build savings.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS OLD POSTCARD shows Wollaston Beach from near Sachem Street when the beach and roadway were first built along Quincy's tidal coastline almost 100 years ago. In the 19th century, the marshes along here were home to windmills that pumped water at Josiah Quincy's salt works. The Strand, which is just out of view on the right, and Chick Street, to the south, were the waterfront roads along here when the marshes were first laid out for house lots, which was just after the Quincy's sold the land in the late 1800s. The state then built this roadway and sandy beach by using fill from Rufe's Hummock and Half Moon Island that was just off the coast of Adams Shore. The ramps on the right went up to bathhouses that were built on pilings on the site of today's Beachcomber. Remnants of the old fence shown here still exist. Legislature's Work Topic Of Citizen's Seminars

A series of five citizens legislative seminars will be held in October and November to help constituents learn more about the workings of the Massachusetts General Court (the Legislature).

They are scheduled for Wednesday mornings Oct. 18 and 25 and Nov. 1, 8 and 15.

"State government affects nearly every aspect of our lives," said Sen. Michael Morrissey. "It is important for every citizen to understand how the legislature functions."

Each seminar will feature two presenters who may be legislators, agency heads or other policy makers. Each presentation will be based on a the topic of the day.

After a brief intermission for coffee and conversation, participants will break into small groups led by legislator faculty members for an informal and candid discussion of the issues.

Those interested should contact Alicia Gardner in Morrissey's office at 617-722-1494 with their names and addresses by Friday, Sept. 29, in order to apply. Placement will be made on a first come, first served basis.

Thinks Annual $26.50 Is A 'Bargain' For Community Preservation Act

Numerous communities around Quincy, including Hingham, Scituate, Weymouth, Randolph and Braintree have passed the Community Preservation Act ballot question because they have concluded the CPA just makes basic "dollars and sense."

For a relatively small real estate tax surcharge they are receiving matching funds from the state for open space, historic preservation, affordable housing programs, and some recreational projects.

In Quincy, the average homeowner would pay only an extra $26.50 annually (1 percent of the annual tax based on an average assessed value of $365,548 minus an exemption of $100,000 and with most homeowners over 60, or in low-income families being exempt).

City-wide, this adds up to $1.1 million which the state matches equally for a total of $2.2 million at the outset for these very worthy and chronically under-funded purposes. With a very small investment from individual homeowners, the combined community effect is very powerful.

Honestly, what can an individual or family buy for $26.50 a year, $6.63 a quarter, 51 cents per week or 7 cents a day? When we consider our essential and discretionary spending, $26.50 a year is a minuscule investment.

Having lived in Quincy since 1955 and having owned a home here since 1971, I have paid and continue to pay my fair share of taxes to support a superior quality of life and services. $26.50 once a a year to protect open space, preserve unfunded historic sites, help others have an affordable home or purchase land for public recreation? That's a bargain I'm willing to make and why I will vote for the Community Preservation Act in Quincy on the November ballot.

A Thank You To Tom Koch, Park Dept.

I just wanted to thank Tom Koch and his staff for a beautiful job they have done in our city. It is so nice to drive through the city and see all of the beautiful landscaping and flower arrangements.

My sister was home from Arizona and she was very impressed on how the city looked, as she has not been back to Quincy in over 10 years.

So again, Tom, thank you and your staff for making the City of Presidents look outstanding.

43 Candidates In City Preliminary Election

This Week
1969
37 Years Ago

By FRANK McCAULEY

The spotlight on Quincy's Oct. 7 preliminary election will be on City Council and School Committee contests. This is how the political picture shaped up after a total of 43 candidates filed nomination papers to officially become contenders.

No 11th hour "big name" opponent turned up to challenge Mayor James R. McIntyre's bid for a third term.

The lone opposition will be Robert Preble of 27 Crosby St., Houghs Neck, a 35-year-old plumber and political newcomer.

Two familiar faces, former Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia, candidate for an at-large council seat, and former School Committee member Charles T. Sweeny, candidate for the School Committee, have returned to the political arena in comeback bids.

GROUNDBREAKING FOR SENIOR CITIZENS FACILITY IN QUINCY POINT

Mayor McIntyre and the Rev. Peter V. Corea, Quincy Housing Authority chairman, officiated at groundbreaking ceremonies for a new senior citizen facility to be located on the site of the old Washington School in Quincy Point. The 14-story complex will have 156 units. Attendees at the ceremony included Ward 2 Councillor and state Rep. Clifford H. Marshall, the Rev. Bedros Baharian, Planning Board chairman; Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue, and Rep. Joseph E. Brett.

KEEPING UP WITH THE RED SOX

The 1969 Red Sox, with a 74-63 record, were third in the six-team American League East, 19 1/2 games behind the Baltimore Orioles. Rico Petrocelli, with a .307 batting average, and Reggie Smith, with a .316 average, were among the top 10 hitters in the American League.

Even Fire Fails To Interrupt Bob Barker's Repair Mission

By TOM HENSHAW

Less than four days after a smoky fire threatened to end Bob Barker's life's work, he was back at the old stand, repairing typewriters as he has done for 58 years.

And the next day, his son, Gerald, 48, was making office calls, as usual.

"Me retire?" said the 74-year-old Barker, who is known as "Doc" for his policy of house or office calls to mend ailing writing machines. "What am I going to do? Stay home?"

The electrical fire that filled Barker's shop at 5 Maple St., Quincy Center, with smoke really wasn't that bad; it just came at the wrong time.

The blaze broke out around 5 o'clock Thursday evening, the usual closing time. But Barker had closed early that day to take his wife, Marilyn, to their 49th anniversary dinner or he might have caught it earlier.

No one was hurt and there was no estimate of damage.

"Most of it was smoke damage," he said. "They broke down the front door and the door to the service department to get at the fire. But it wasn't as bad as it seemed.

"We started repairs right away. I was there Saturday. We reopened for business Monday. I expect we'll have the lights back on at noon today (Tuesday)."

Barker's typewriter repair business dates back to 1932, the year he was born, when his father, Edward, began selling and fixing the popular brands, Remingtons, Royals, L.C. Smiths and Coronas.

They were still the most important writing machines in 1948 when Bob and his brother, Lou, took over the business after their father was hurt in an auto accident.

Another brother, his twin, Dick, operated Barker's office supply store in Quincy Square for many years before falling victim to the big boxes like Staples and Office Max.

Over the years, Barker's business has expanded from manual typewriters to include those operated electrically as well as copiers and fax machines. Business has dropped off since computer came..

"Twenty years ago," said Barker, "we had three full-time mechanics, a bookkeeper and I was the salesperson. Now there's myself, my son and a part-time bookkeeper.

"We do a lot of IBMs and other electrics but everything is electronic now. Electrics are mechanicals you plug into a wall. Electronics operate off a circuit board."

Son Gerald handles the service work on the electronic word processors, giving the Quincy Typewriter Service a modern touch. The young Barker installed an computer for his father but the elder Barker won't touch it.

Barker has worked on typewriter keyboards in German and French, but no Japanese or Russian Cyrillic, and every now and then he is surprised with a new request from a customer.

"I had a call yesterday," he said, "from a woman who wanted a coin-operated typewriter like they have in the library. I had to tell her the coin turned on the electricity, not the typewriter."

When he isn't repairing broken typewriters, Barker may be found working on the 1913 Model T Ford he has in the garage of his home on Middle Street in East Weymouth.

In the past, he has also owned a 1922 Maxwell and a 1922 Model T Ford Sedan, which he used to drive occasionally in antique auto parades.

"I sold them," he said. "I had no place to put them."

But he still has a place to put old typewriters which not even a fire can take away from him.

Quincy Officer Dies In Motorcycle Mishap

Police from all corners of New England and beyond are headed to Quincy today for the funeral of one of their own, Officer James Cochrane, who died Sunday, a day after he was thrown from his motorcycle in a collision with an automobile.

Cochrane, 38, an eight-year member of the Quincy police motorcycle unit but off duty at the time, was making a left turn across traffic on Southern Artery Saturday when he collided with a Ford Focus and was thrown 25 feet and lost his helmet..

Obituary On Page 26

He was taken to Boston Medical Center where he died Sunday afternoon.

"Jamie was a genuinely nice individual," said Police Chief Robert Crowley. "He always had a smile on his face. I don't think I have ever seen him in a bad mood."

Police said the driver of the Ford Focus in the accident, Michael Brown, 42, of Quincy, will be charged with misdemeanor vehicular homicide, failure to yield and driving to endanger.

Delahunt Forum Tonight On Academy Nominations

Congressman Bill Delahunt will sponsor an information forum tonight (Thursday) for local high school students and their families interested in educational opportunities at US Service Academies.

BILL DELAHUNT

The two-hour forum is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Martison Elementary School, 275 Forest St., Marshfield. It open and free-of-charge to all southeastern Massachusetts residents. Registration begins at 6:30 p.m.

The session will feature admissions representatives from the US Military Academy (West Point, NY), Naval Academy (Annapolis, MD), and Air Force Academy (Colorado Springs, CO) as well as the Coast Guard Academy (New London, CT), Merchant Marine Academy (Kings Point, NY), Norwich University (Northfield, VT), and Massachusetts Maritime Academy in Buzzards Bay. Also participating will be officials of the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) scholarship program.

Forum participants will outline procedures for pursuing a congressional nomination to the academies. Tenth Congressional District residents who graduate from high school by June 2006 are eligible to apply for the academic year 2007-2008. The application deadline for next year's potential nominees is Nov. 1.

All applications are evaluated over a period of several months by the Tenth Congressional District Academy Nominee Selection Committee. The names of the students recommended by the committee will be forwarded by Delahunt to the respective academies, where they compete for final admission and appointment.

For additional information on the forum or about the nomination process, call Delahunt's office, toll-free, at: 800-794-9911. In addition, application forms are available online through the congressional website at www.house.gov/delahunt/svcacad.htm.

International Buffet Changing To China Pearl

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

For those who have enjoyed dining at the International Buffet at the Kam Man Plaza at Quincy Ave., for almost seven years, a new "tea and dining experience" awaits as it will be changed to a dim sum type restaurant called China Pearl.

The License Board Tuesday gave its unanimous approval for the new concept and granted the transfer of the common victualer, all alcoholic restaurant license presently held by New York Super Buffet, Inc. doing business as the International Buffet to L & M Enterprises.

The vote of approval is with the condition that any interior construction has to be approved by the city's Inspectional Service, headed by Jay Duca.

Yu Mei Zheng will remain as manager.

Atty. George H. Neos, Jr. representing the restaurant said the new dining experience will include a series of Asian entrees served in a dim sum method.

Waiters and waitresses will go around each table of four with small steam tables featuring steamed shrimp, vegetables and many other dishes. Patrons will choose one or two items which Noes called 90 percent "dietetic".

Noes said instead of eating food from a buffet which has been there all day, the new restaurant will have sit down dinners and customers can choose what kind of tea from several different kinds. Noes said the tea is free.

Noes said because of the increase in the Asian community, the restaurant will also have a function room for weddings, birthdays and other events which makes it the first Asian eatery in Quincy to have such a room, he said.

Brian Moy, manager of the LLC Enterprise said the new concept will gradually take place as renovations are completed.

Chairman Joseph Shea said the change now needs the approval of the Alcohol Beverage Control Commission. (ABCC)

LICENSE BOARD BRIEFS

•Granted a one day permit to Lucia Treggiari for the 3rd annual Chowder Festival at the Marina Bay Skilled Nursing & Rehabilitation Center, 2 Seaport Drive, Sunday, Sept. 24 from 2 to 4 p.m.

•Granted a one day permit to the Beechwood Knoll School PTO, 225 Fenno St. for the 9th Annual Fall Festival, Saturday, Oct. 9 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. H. Scott Smith is PTO vice president.

•Granted a one day permit to Dorothy Francis, president of the Gama Phi Beta at Quincy Collage to hold a car wash at Wal-Mart Saturday, Sept. 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Proceeds will benefit Big Brother,Big Sister.

•Granted a one day extension of premises to the Robert J. Nickerson Post in Squantum for the Annual Clambake Saturday, Sept. 16. from 2 p.m. until closing.

•Granted a self service license to Fouad Alzaiak, doing business as Quincy Gulf, 9 Franklin St. Even though the cost will be around $50.000, Alazaiak said the move will save him money on payroll. He said the pumps will have to have a fire alarm on top of each as well as space for credit cards.

•Granted a common victualer to Newport Liquors, doing business as Richard's Market, 243-247 Atlantic St. for a common victualer license.

•Granted to Jimmy Liang permission for the Chinese United Association Headquarters, USA, 665 Hancock St. for a meeting Sunday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Police Chief Robert Crowley said the closing of Hancock, Beale and Cushing is not possible, but instead there will be " no parking signs" posted on those streets.

He also asked Laing to hire a police detail for the event.

•Granted a one day permit to Patti Jaehning for a three mile walk conducted by the American Lung Association in memory or her father who died four years ago with cancer. The walk will start at Pageant Field at 10 a.m. and return at 2 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the American Lung Assoc.

•Granted a one day beer and wine license to Margaret LaForest for the Houghs Neck Community Council Chowder Contest Sept. 24 at the Houghs Neck Maritime Center from 2 to 6 p.m. Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly, who endorsed the event, will be the judge for the competition. He said the contest is open to everyone.

9th Annual Quincy ArtsFest This Weekend

The 9th annual Quincy Arts Fest will take place this weekend at the Richard J. Koch Park & Recreation Complex, 1 Merrymount Parkway.

Saturday hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The event is sponsored by the city and Quincy Access Television.

"The city of Quincy is proud to support an event that features some of the finest artistic talent in the region," said Mayor William Phelan. "I extend my thanks to Quincy Access Television for their continued support of this event and commend their efforts and the success they continue to experience in the field of visual arts."

The Quincy ArtsFest features a Juried Art show, Juried Photography show, Quincy Art Association Members' show and a Young Artists' show. Awards will be presented in multiple categories, including a $5000 prize for Best in Show. This year's display has more than 400 entries from the artists and photographers from the South Shore and Greater Boston area.

In addition to the art exhibit, there will be live entertainment throughout the weekend. The complete entertainment schedule:

SATURDAY

10 a.m. - 12 noon: Koo Koo the Clown. Koo Koo brings his comedic magic show and juggling skills to the main stage of ArtsFest. Be sure to catch his "Strolling Buffoonery" as he mingles with the crowd.

11 a.m.-2 p.m.: Caricature Artist, Face Painting.

1-3 p.m.: Riverside Repertory Company: Join this troupe of talented young folks as they sing and dance their way through the Great American Songbook.

SUNDAY

10:30 a.m.-1 p.m.: Caricature Artists.

11 a.m.-2 p.m.: Face Painting.

12 noon: Forbes School of Irish Dance.

1 p.m.: St. Kevin's Alumni Drum & Bugle Corps.

There will be children's activities all weekend, including mini sailboat decorating, pumpkin decorating, ornament design and much more. There will also be a food court featuring pizza, hot dogs, popcorn and other treats and refreshments.

Approximately 20 local crafters will have their specialties on display. Raffles will be conducted and select artwork will be available for purchase. Art demonstrations will take place throughout the weekend focusing on watercolor, portraits, pastel and pottery.

"I strongly encourage residents to join me in participating in this family-oriented, weekend-long celebration of the arts in beautiful Merrymount Park," Phelan said.

Gummy Smudge Tests Patience

Q: I would be most grateful if you could advise me how to remove the gummy smudge that I created while trying to remove a price label from the dust cover of a 1980s-era phonograph. I'm not sure what the cover is made of — vinyl, perhaps — but I ruined the looks trying to pick the tag off, and I have to put a book on top to cover the mess. How can I get it nice and clear again? — Shirley W., Staatsburg, N.Y.

A. Start by trying plain old dish soap and water, and a lint-free soft cloth that won't scratch the clear plastic. (Unplug the record player and lay towels around the spot to be cleaned so water doesn't drip onto sensitive parts of the equipment.) Dip a corner of the cloth in the soapy water and dampen the gummy area, let it soak for a couple of minutes, and gently rub back and forth. The water, soap and friction have the best chance of clearing up that gummy label residue, although it may take several tries to do so.

Another possible solution utes, then rub with a cotton cloth. Cooking oil or even an all-purpose lubricating oil could work, too.

If the plastic isn't clear, after soaking I would recommend scraping away the smudge with a putty knife or even a razor blade. But that and the use of any solvents that might react with the plastic could leave a permanent mark. Auto parts stores do sell ice scrapers with plastic-coated edges that reduce scratches on windshield glass, so you could give one a try.

In any case, be patient — work at the smudge with nonabrasive materials, and if in doubt, hold off. That smudge is temporary — if tough to remove — but care must be taken during the cleaning process to prevent permanent damage. If it doesn't come clean and you have to put the book over it again, play to your strengths: Put a copy of "Hamlet" or something over the stain. That way, visitors will be impressed with your pursuit of knowledge and your taste in music, all in one.

How To Make Wise, Informed Decisions

Take Control Of Energy Costs

By JEFFREY MAYER

(NAPS) This sumnier, Americans found themselves facing yet another oil shortage, with prices at the pump approaching record highs. The U.S. Energy Secretary recently said that the climbing gas prices are a "crisis" for the country and "families are hurting."

The facts are inescapable, and we can't afford to sit around hoping that prices will drop, the waiting period might never end. We are grappling with an increasingly severe energy crisis that promises long-term consequences for all, especially families and small businesses. Now more than ever, consumers need to be made aware of every option available to them that could provide protection from steeper energy bills in the future.

It often seems like there is nothing we can do during times such as these. After all, how can we stop buying gas for our cars? We still need to get to work, take our kids to school, and run our daily errands. Simply put, we cannot stop living. We also cannot rely on government to come up with a plan that will soften the bite that energy costs take out of our wallets.

However, there is something we can do. We can make wise and informed decisions about how we consumer energy in our homes.

Last winter, millions of homes and businesses that rely on natural gas for their energy needs saw their bills climb as natural gas prices rose. This was due in large part to the effects of Hurricane Katrina, which disrupted the operations of approximately 20 percent of our natural gas supply. If we had actually experienced a rough winter, natural gas prices could have been double or triple what we saw.

While we are obviously unable to control unpredictable factors such as geopolitical crises, natural disasters or unusually cold winters, something we can take direct control over is our heating bills. Energy suppliers are finally giving homeowners and small business owners the tools to do what large companies have done for years: control the financial impact of energy volatility.

Today, prices for natural gas are at their lowest levels since Katrina hit the Gulf Coast nearly a year ago. Given the volatile nature of energy prices, now is an excellent time for consumers to take control of their energy bills by choosing their energy providers and enrolling in a fixed-rate plan. customers are insuring themselves against future increases in natural gas prices. If history is any guide, this is one of the most sensible things a consumer can do to lessen the financial impact of the constantly fluctuating demand for energy.

In the long run, the threat of rising energy costs underscores the need for a more concerted effort by energy suppliers to educate families and small business owners about options that will allow them to take control of their own energy bills. By taking action to lock in rates, consumers can protect themselves from future energy crises that are likely to put a severe strain on their pocketbooks or cut into profit margins. Taking control will allow them to sleep a little easier knowing that they are in charge.

Mayer, an expert in the field of energy risk management, is the president and CEO of MXenergy. For more information visit www.mxenergy.com.

Maureen Mazrimas Receives Certificate From REALTOR Magazine

Friends of Star of the Sea Co-Chairperson Maureen Mazrimas was recently presented with a Certificate of Merit from REALTOR Magazine for her dedication to community service.

The certificate reads, "The National Association of Realtors and REALTOR Magazine thank you for this unselfish commitment to improving the quality of life for others."

MAUREEN MAZRIMAS

The certificate recognizes Mazrimas' work with several community organizations, but especially recognizes her work with the Friends of Star of the Sea – the group fighting to reestablish the faith community of Star of the Sea in Squantum to full "parish" status.

"I am very proud of Maureen for receiving this notable award," said Sean Glennon, co-chairperson of Friends of Star of the Sea. "Maureen has worked tirelessly and has volunteered countless hours for community organizations over the years. It is an honor for me to be her friend and to serve with her on the Friends of Star of the Sea executive committee."

Renting Vs. Owning: Equity And Tax Advantages

(NAPS) Homeowners who have already secured their dream home know what a great investment they've made.

However, millions of renters continue to have misconceptions about the home-buying process, often delaying a purchase by saying "it's too complicated" or "interest rates are too high." What renters don't realize is that in the long term they can't afford not to buy a home, particularly as rents start to increase in many parts of the country.

For many Americans, owning a home is the cornerstone of their financial wealth. Building equity in a home, combined with tax advantages offered by both federal and state governments, has driven home ownership to record levels. Currently, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, 68.7 percent of American households have chosen home ownership over renting for these as well as other reasons. •

Buying a home is not as complicated as it may seem. As with any large investment, it's important to thoroughly understand the purchasing process and the obligations associated with taking out a mortgage. Over the years, reputable mortgage institutions, such as GMAC Mortgage, have made the home-buying process simple and easy to manage for potential homebuyers, especially first-time buyers.

Information on many commonly asked questions about buying a home for the first time is available at www.gmacmortgage.com. For Latino consumers, the company offers bilingual loan officers who can provide information either in person, in selected markets or by telephone, by calling the company's toll-free hotline 888-330-4622.

The company's website also features a renting vs. owning calculator, which can help a consumer determine the difference between the two based on the actual rent that a consumer pays now or may pay in the future.

One of the key steps in determining whether someone should become a homeowner versus a home renter is understanding how the amount they dedicate each month to paying for shelter could better serve them through the building of equity.

For example, a renter with a monthly rent payment of $600, after five years will have spent $36,000 on rent. In 10 years, that number rises to $72,000. That's a large amount paid with no equity in return.

Now, if the same amount were applied to paying a mortgage, a portion of each month's payment would go toward paying down the principal (the price the home was purchased at, less a downpayment), which would allow them to build ownership in the property.

In addition, the interest paid each month, as well as the property taxes, may be deductible on federal income taxes, a tax advantage not available to renters. This may be checked by a local tax advisor or the International Revenue Service.

On the flip side, probably the most important advantage of renting is the flexibility it offers in terms of moving. The mortgage industry understands this concern and has created numerous financing products that allow a home-owner to better manage his or her cash flow as it relates to anticipated changes, such as moving to a larger home, relocation or other financial pressures. A mortgage professional can help to better understand the types of financing options available to suit individual circumstances.

Historically speaking, interest rates remain at their lowest levels in years. When thinking about owning a piece of the American Dream, contact a mortgage professional to learn more about mortgages and to better understand the advantages of owning versus renting.

Quincy Community Action Programs (QCAP) will hold a free homeownership workshop Sept. 16 and 17.

The 10-hour program will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., fourth floor, Quincy.

The workshop will focus on the buying process from start to finish, including determining what price is within a buyer's budget, locating a property at that price, negotiating for the home, applying for a mortgage, inspecting and insuring the property, and closing the deal.

Experts will include a real estate broker, an attorney, a home inspector, two mortgage lenders and QCAP counselors.

The workshop is open to all regardless of income level. QCAP is a CHAPA, MHFA and HUD approved First Time Homebuyer Counseling Agency. Participants who attend both sessions can obtain completion certificates which are pre-requisites for various mortgage assistance programs for qualified first-time homebuyers, especially City of Quincy, MHFA and QCAP.

Registration is required. To register or for more information, contact Kerri Clifford at 617-479-8181, ext. 119.

Computer Seminar At Registry Of Deeds Today

Register of Deeds William O'Donnell will host an informational seminar on computer assisted land records research at the Registry of Deeds in Dedham, Thursday, Sept. 14 from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The seminar is intended for both real estate professionals and the public. the program will include a brief presentation, written reference materials, and hands-on exercises.

There will be opportunities for basic and advanced questions and answers.

Computer assisted land records research is available at the Registry and on the Internet at www.norfolkdeeds.org.

"The services have proven valuable tools for customers, and we hope that this seminar will be helpful and informative," O'Donnell said.

The seminar is free. Persons planning to attend should register by phone (781-461-6116).

A Job Well Done

On Sunday, Sept. 3, at approximately 1:30 p.m., Officer James Cassidy was dispatched to the Fu Shen Beauty Salon on Hancock Street in Quincy Square to investigate a larceny.

LT. DAN MINTON

Upon arrival, the officer interviewed a female employee who stated she just had her black leather handbag stolen from the salon. She added she believed a customer and her friend took the bag.

Cassidy provided a description of the suspects to all patrol units in the area and obtained further information. The male had a ponytail, which helped searching officers. Detective Ralph Willard notified communications that he saw a couple matching the description walking south past Dunkin' Donuts in Quincy Square.

The victim said she left her bag on the floor adjacent to where customers wait for service. She told Cassidy a man (suspect No. 1) was sitting next to where the bag was while waiting for the female (suspect No. 2) having her eyebrows waxed. The victim said it was only seconds after they left that she noticed her bag missing. She said the bag had a cell phone and a wallet with $20 in cash.

Minutes later, Officers David Pacino and Tom Pepdjonovic, who were working the area in plain clothes and in an unmarked car, found the couple in the parking area of the Fours Restaurant. As the officers identified themselves, they also noticed the female had freshly manicured eyebrows and the male had a ponytail.

When asked if they had been at the beauty salon, suspect No. 2 confirmed she had her eyebrows waxed. Pacino asked her if she knew anything about a handbag missing from the salon and she said she did not and opened her handbag to let the officers look in.

Pacino observed in plain view a plastic bag containing six hypodermic syringes and a silver metal cap holding a dark substance consistent with heroin. The officers questioned the suspects further and both suspects admitted they took the handbag, but stated it was a misunderstanding.

Suspect No. 1 said he thought the bag was suspect No. 2's bag so he put it inside her bag. Suspect No. 2 said when suspect No. 1 told her, she took the bag out of her bag and left it on a bench in front of the Stop & Shop office building on Hancock Street.

The officers made note in their reports that the handbags did not look alike; the victim's being black leather while suspect No. 2's syringe-filled cloth handbag was maroon and white. Willard located the stolen handbag on the bench and proof inside that it was that of the victim and returned it to the victim, who said the only thing missing was the $20 in cash.

Cassidy placed both suspects under arrest. Suspect No. 1, a 48-year-old Hyde Park resident, was charged with "Larceny Over $250 (leather handbag/contents)" and suspect No. 2, a 28-year-old Quincy resident, was initially charged with "Larceny Over $250" and "Possession of Class A Drug."

During the inventory search of her property, four small yellow pills in a container attached to her key chain believed to be Clonopin were found. Suspect No. 2 said she had a prescription at home for the pills, but since she did not have the pills in a prescription bottle nor the prescription with her, she was additionally charged with "Possession of Class E Drug." Photos of the recovered handbag were taken and returned to the victim. Nice work!

In this case, the victim provided the suspects with an opportunity. It is unlikely the suspects came in looking to commit a crime, but not having much ethics, succumbed to the opportunity.

The victim was fortunate to have the handbag back, minus the $20. Aside from the cost of the bag itself, replacing the cell phone with all your personal information as well as many sentimental items can be a tedious task. Think of all the credit cards, debit cards, bankbooks and other personal/financial information that you may carry around in your purse or wallet. How long would it take to notify all the companies that your documents have been stolen?

What if you didn't make all the notifications? For some people, they carry so many forms of identification in their handbags or wallets, they can't remember what is in there and this is often the initial step for a criminal to steal your identification. Even a library card and other minor forms of identification can be sufficient for a criminal to become you! Now is a time to think about what you really need to carry around. There is even a credit card company television commercial asking you, "What's in your wallet?"

—Mary Lynch, moved from Quincy

Like many, Mary Lynch had lived in her Quincy house for a long time and was a little hesitant to move to Linden Ponds, a dynamic community on the South Shore. But after taking a closer look, she decided it was the perfect place to live. "I've made some really good friends here," says Mary.

Since moving to Linden Ponds, Mary can now pursue her hobbies without the worries that used to come with owning a house. "I go to some of the exercise classes, and I play dominos and cards—I'm having a great time," says Mary.

You too can start enjoying the care free Linden Ponds lifestyle.

We're coming to your town! Call now to reserve a seat at our next informative luncheon at The Neighborhood Club. We'll also send you a FREE Information Kit.

(Cont'd From Page 1)

Quincy Democrat incumbents unopposed are:

Congressman William Delahunt, state Treasurer Timothy P. Cahill, state Sen. Michael W. Morrissey, state Reps. Bruce J. Ayers, Stephen Tobin and Ronald Mariano.

Norfolk County Democrat incumbents without opposition are Dist. Atty. William R. Keating of Sharon, Clerk of Courts Walter F. Timilty Jr. of Milton, Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell of Norwood and County Commissioner Peter H. Collins of Milton.

The breakdown of Quincy's 53,803 registered voters: Democrats, 24,859; Republicans, 6,183; Unenrolled (independent), 22,335; all others, 426.

Because of the city's approximate 5,000 Asian registered voters, Shea again this year has printed posters in Chinese and Vietnamese identifying the locations of the city's 30 polling places and other voter information.

The posters are being placed at each of the polling precincts, in public buildings and in the windows of businesses with high visibility.

And, with the assistance of John Brothers, executive director of Quincy Asian Resources, Shea will have 12 translators at the six heaviest Asian populated precincts.

Those precincts are:

Ward 3, Precincts 4 and 5: Wollaston School, 205 Beale St.

Ward 5, Precincts 4 and 5: Beechwood Knoll School, 225 Fenno St.

Ward 6, Precinct 2: Sacred Heart School, Glover Avenue.

The polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday.

City Democrats To Hold Primary Night Results Party

The Quincy City Democratic Committee will host an "Election Night Results Party" on primary night next Tuesday at the Adams Inn-River Room starting at 7:30 p.m.

The committee invites Democrats to join and watch as the results come in to see who will be the Democratic nominee for Governor this November.

Hors d'oeuvres will be provided along with a cash bar. For more information, contact Charles Phelan, chairman of the Quincy City Democratic Committee at 617-472-6339.

Tobin Supporting Gabrieli For Governor

"I voted for him at the convention and am endorsing him and actively supporting him," Tobin said Tuesday.

Tobin was responding to an item in the Sunbeams column which inadvertently listed him as among the supporters of Atty. General Tom Reilly.

Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk Sunday

The ninth annual Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk to benefit the Marie A. Curry Fund will begin working on its second million dollars Sunday, Sept. 17.

The goal of the leisurely, four-mile, non-competitive stroll is to raise $175,000, topping last year's record $167,500 for the fund that underwrites free cancer screening for underinsured men and women.

The seaside walk will start at 9:30 a.m. on Pageant Field in Merrymount Park. Registration is at 8 a.m. and lunch will be provided by Outback Steakhouse following the walk.

Since its inception in 1998 as the Marie Curry Walk, the event has raised some $1,056,600 for the fund, which has spent $136,712 to benefit 591 women.

It also provided the funding of $170,951 to purchase state-of-the-art equipment for the Radiology Department underwrote $25,192 for a free educational seminar in breast cancer.

The fund was started in 1995 by the Curry Family with a $100,000 endowment at QMC to provide free screening mammography to women in need.

It was expanded to include ultrasonography and other breast biopsy services for low income women and later free prostate cancer services to men.

The walk is organized by Quincy Medical Center with honorary chairs Bob Curry of Curry ACE Hardware and chairman of the QMC Board of Trustees, and Hank Bradley, director of Quincy Veterans Services, and the QMC Cancer Walk Committee.

In addition to the stroll and the lunch, Sunday's walk will also be a Family Fun Day, including a pre-walk breakfast catered by area Dunkin' Donuts and warm-up exercises led by a certified fitness instructor.

Musical entertainment will be provided by DJ Suzie Cue and there will be clowns and face-painting.

For the second year, the Quincy-based Rural Lodge of Freemasons will offer free of charge their Child Identification Program (CHIP) at Pageant Field throughout the walk.

CHIP is a national program designed to aid designed to aid in the identification of missing children by providing parents with a file containing fingerprints, a video-taped interview, dental impression and more.

For the fifth year, "Images of Honor and Memory," a collection of pink, blue and white sand-filled containers, will be on display during the walk at Pageant Field.

Each container is inscribed "In Honor of" a cancer survivor (white), or "In Memory of" someone who died of cancer (pink for women, blue for men).

Last year, more than 500 "Images of Honor and Memory" filled Ruth Gordon Amphitheater adjacent to Pageant Field. They are available with a $5 donation; forms may be picked up at Quincy Medical Center.

For more information or to participate in the walk, call 617-376-2022 or visit www.quincymc.org.

Two days after the walk, on Tuesday, Sept. 19, QMC and the Marie A. Curry Fund will host a free evening Prostate Cancer Screening Clinic in the Ambulatory Care Department at the Center, 114 Whitwell St.

Attendees will receive a prostate specific antigen (PSA) blood test and a digital rectal exam (DRE), performed by a board-certified urologist on the QMC staff.

Tim Cahill Endorses Patrick For Governor

State Treasurer Tim Cahill of Quincy has thrown his support to Attorney Deval Patrick in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor in the Sept. 19 primary.

He called Patrick, who lives in Milton, the strongest candidate to help the Massachusetts economy grow and the Democrats' strongest chance to win the governor's office.

"I understand the importance of building and running an effective and independent administration and I know Deval Patrick will do just that as governor," said Cahill.

"Deval has built an impressive, grassroots, issue-based campaign. His organization will not only help him win, but also help him govern."

Patrick in turn praise Cahill for his accomplishments as treasurer, a post he won in 2004 in an upset in a four-way Democratic primary and a win over a strong Republican.

"I am honored to earn the support of Treasurer Cahill today," he said, "and I look forward to working with him to manage our state's finances.

DEVAL PATRICK (right) is endorsed by State Treasurer Tim Cahill.

"The Treasurer has an impressive record, particularly in achieving record returns on the state's pension funds and building public-private partnerships for economic development and affordable housing."

Cahill called Patrick the most fiscally responsible of the candidate for governor and the only candidate who has been straight with the voters on the issue of taxes.

"Deval Patrick's position on taxes is the most fiscally responsible and honest one given where our state finances are right now," said Cahill.

He said he agreed with Patrick that the tax to cut is the property tax and that "a rollback of the income tax would mean a cut in local aid and an increase in property taxes."

Prior to announcing his candidacy for governor, Patrick held the top civil rights post in President Clifton's Justice Department and was general counsel to Coca Cola and Texaco.

Gabrieli Supporters To Rally Sept. 15

The Norfolk County Gabrieli Committee will hold sponsor a rally in support of Chris Gabrieli Friday, Sept. 15, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Adams Inn, 29 Hancock St., North Quincy.

Gabrieli, a Boston businessman and a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in the Sept. 19 primary election, has compiled an impressive list of Norfolk County supporters.

Also former Councillors Bryan Connolly, Tom Fabrizio, Alicia Gardner, Steve McGrath, Joe Newton and Chuck Phelan.

"I'm proud to have the support from local officials who understand their communities and the need to get real reform and real results for the people of Massachusetts," said Gabrieli.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

Hang Sauna Suit Out to Dry

Q. My husband and I saw someone at our gym wearing a sauna suit while working out the other day. He looked like he was working really hard, and was sweating profusely and looked extremely hot. My husband seemed really interested in his workout and even went over and talked him. Before my husband gets any bright ideas, is there any benefit to wearing a sauna suit, and is it safe?

A. The quick answer to your question would be NO, not to the average person looking to maintain a healthy lifestyle. Sauna suits typically have been used by athletes such as wrestlers or boxers who are looking to quickly drop pounds through water weight in order to make "weight" before a contest. This technique is only used as a last resort and is not a "training style."

Sauna suits often look like large trash bags and are designed to hold heat to the body, causing the body to sweat profusely in an effort to cool itself. This sweating can result in the temporary loss of water weight; however, the key word here is "temporary," since it does not facilitate any long-term weight loss and could actually put a person at risk.

You may have seen the member at your club wear not only a sauna suit, but also a heavy warm-up suit over it. Since the sauna suit itself is not heavy but made of material designed to hold exercising in this condition greatly outweigh any short-term result — if there is any result.

As your body sweats to cool itself, it becomes dehydrated and loses valuable minerals and nutrients in your sweat that it needs to survive. Dehydration is a serious concern and should not be taken lightly. The reason the member at your gym may have looked as if he was working so hard is because he WAS. Dehydration can cause a decrease in the body's performance, and with the lose of sodium through his sweat, he is also asking his body to perform without the support it needs to exercise safely or to recover after exercise.

The use of a sauna suit is definitely not recommended for anyone with any medical condition such as diabetes, high blood pressure and heart conditions. Although your desire to take off pounds may be great, the use of a sauna suit could cause you to lose a whole lot more than weight.

As you know, there is no express road to living a healthy lifestyle. A smarter alternative to losing weight includes taking part in daily physical activity, completing an exercise program at least three times a week, and making positive nutritional choices. You can make the sauna a part of your lifestyle, but leave the suit at home.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea Wyatt at letters.kfws@ hearstsc.com or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service,

How To Handle Seasonal Allergies

Sniffling, Sneezing Season Is Here

It's the same thing every year – as soon as the temperatures cool down, the allergies flare up.

But seasonal allergies don't have to ruin your fall fun, say respiratory therapists from the American Association for Respiratory Care. The key is knowing how to handle them.

"Some of the worst pollen of the year comes in the fall, especially ragweed, says Linda A. Smith, BS, RRT, a staff therapist at Bay State Medical, Inc., in Hanover, MD. "Also, mold grows throughout the summer and the spores are ripe to become airborne with one good breeze."

Seasonal allergies hit people with asthma particularly hard because their airways are already inflamed and hypersensitive. "One common type of asthma is allergic asthma, "says Smith. "When people with allergic asthma are exposed to their allergens they can have a full blown asthma attack, possibly requiring a trip to the doctor."

Regardless of what causes your allergies, however, treatment consists of two components – medications and environmental control. People with seasonal allergies benefit from antihistamines, decongestants, and nasal steroids, all of which are designed to minimize symptoms. Those with allergic asthma often require "controller" medications to treat the underlying inflammation causing the condition, and "rescue" medications to help relieve symptoms during an acute attack.

When it comes to environmental control, Smith says seasonal allergy sufferers should keep windows closed and use a clothes dryer rather than hang clothes outside to dry. Staying inside when the wind picks up is a good idea too.

"The pollen becomes airborne and is much more easily inhaled," she says. "The pollen also lands on your hair and clothing." A quick shower and hair wash, along with clean clothes, can help remove those allergens once you come back inside.

People with allergic asthma may have indoor allergies as well, so cleanliness indoors is a must too. "Changing the bedclothes weekly, not having carpet, and limiting or eliminating stuffed animals all help to reduce the asthmatic response," says Smith.

It goes without saying that no one with allergies or asthma should ever smoke or allow themselves to be exposed to secondhand smoke from others.

Smith says respiratory therapists are experts in helping patients get the most out of their allergy and asthma care. "The respiratory therapist can educate the patient about the allergen/antibody reaction and how to avoid the allergen. The therapist can also educate the patient about their medications, including proper dose and technique of administration," she says.

Education is important, continues Smith, because people who understand their conditions are more likely to stick with their treatment. "The most compliant patient is the most informed patient."

Respiratory Therapists (RTs) are specially trained and licensed respiratory health care professionals assisting physicians in diagnosis, treatment, and management of respiratory diseases. RTs provide care in hospitals, outpatient centers, physicians offices, skilled nursing facilities, and patients homes.

Allergies Are A Big Problem

Allergies and asthma affect one out of every four Americans, report respiratory therapists from the American Association for Respiratory Care (AARC).

Here's a quick overview of the problem:

- Allergies and asthma can be managed with proper care and treatment, but there is no cure for either condition.
- Allergies may be inherited; children with one afflicted parent stand a one in three chance of developing allergies themselves. The odds increase to seven in ten if both parents have allergies.
- The most common outdoor allergens are grass and weed pollen; mold spores; dust mite and cockroach allergen; and cat, dog, and rodent dander.
- Allergies are the most common chronic condition in children, with more than 40 percent reporting limited activities due to their allergies.
- Hay fever is the 5th leading chronic condition in adults, resulting in nearly 4 million lost or missed workdays per year.
- Allergies cost the economy nearly $7 billion each year.

'Look Good, Feel Better' Program Sept. 18

The American Cancer Society will hold a "Look Good...Feel Better" program" Monday, Sept. 18 from 6 to 8 p.m. at South Suburban Oncology, 700 Congress St., Quincy.

The program is designed to help patients maintain their personal appearance while undergoing treatment for cancer. The free session features cosmetologists leading group sessions, providing tips and practical techniques for coping with hair loss and changes in the skin that often result from chemotherapy or radiation therapy.

To pre-register for the Sept. 18 program in Quincy, call Colleen Whitehouse at 617-376-6435.

For more information, call 1-800-ACS-2345.

"Look Good...Feel Better" offers free, one-time beauty consultations with a licensed cosmetologist or aesthetician to women who are currently undergoing cancer treatment.

"Look Good...Feel Better is as much about improving and maintaining self-image and confidence as it is about appearance " said Marianne Arruda Martin, American Cancer Society Community Executive, Cancer Resource Network. "Patients enjoy the opportunity to spend time in a relaxed, non-medical setting with others in the same situation. And the free make-up and instruction from professionals helps them look and feel better."

The American Cancer Society estimates that approximately 662,870 American women will develop some form of cancer this year. The good news is that, thanks to advances in medicine, the five-year relative survival rate of all cancers is 65 percent.

A variety of patient services, support programs and comprehensive cancer information are available through the Society's toll free 1-800-ACS-2345 number, which operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week, in both English and Spanish and its Web site at www.cancer.org.

Free Prostate Cancer Screening Sept. 26

Milton Hospital will host a free prostate cancer screening for men on Tuesday, Sept. 28 from 4 to 7 p.m., on the second floor of the hospital in the Brooks wing.

Registration is required for the screening appointment. Call the Milton Hospital Community Education Department at 617-696-8810.

Participants must have their blood drawn in advance during the week of Sept. 18. Blood drawing may be completed on a walk-in basis in the Milton Hospital laboratory, located on the ground floor of the hospital. No appointment is necessary for the laboratory.

According to the Prostate Cancer Foundation, more than 234,000 men in the United States will be diagnosed with prostate cancer this year. When caught and treated early, prostate cancer has a cure rate of more than 90 percent.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

ON THE FRONT LINES

Much like dentists themselves, dental hygienists have firsthand knowledge of preventing and treating tooth decay and gum disease. During a professional cleaning, dental hygienists remove soft and hard deposits from teeth as well as assess the health of the gums. In addition, they examine patients' teeth and gums in search of other diseases or abnormalities. Aside from removing calculus, stains, and plaque from teeth, hygienists take x-rays, chart the depth of pockets around teeth, and apply such cavity-preventive agents as fluorides and pit-and-fissure sealants. Moreover, hygienists educate patients on the relationship between diet and good oral health, as well as the importance and practice of healthful dental habits that lead to fewer cavities and reduced gum inflammation.

You can do a great deal to help yourself and the hygienist as you are in control of your mouth between visits to the practice. Your hygienist will have show you how to remove plaque with a toothbrush and fluoride toothpaste, as well as how to clean between your teeth with floss, tape or little brushes. We are currently accepting new patients. If you know of anyone in need of quality dental care we would appreciate your referrals. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where our purpose is to help people reach and commit to the highest level of dental health personally appropriate to them. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Dental hygienists often take impressions of teeth that lead to the creation of the trays used for professional tooth whitening.

Commit 3 Turnovers But Hold On For 14-6 Victory

Presidents Preserve Win Over Canton

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School football team escaped Canton last Saturday afternoon with a 14-6 victory in its season opener.

The Presidents almost gave away the game by committing three turnovers and six penalties, but junior linebacker Diego Arredondo preserved the win with an interception in the end zone with less than a minute remaining.

"We won, but in a lot of first games there's always a lot of mistakes," said head coach Bob Noble. "It should not have been as close as the final score indicated. We had a number of opportunities but we were a little sloppy.

"We were fortunate enough to come away with a victory. As well as Canton played we should've done better than we did. We stopped ourselves more than the opponent did and from a coach's view that's aggravating."

North Quincy Bows In Opener - Page 23 -

Quincy has two weeks off to iron out the wrinkles before returning to action Friday, Sept. 22, against Falmouth at home. The game is tentatively scheduled to be played at Adams Field at 7 p.m.

"I saw Falmouth play Marshfield last Friday," Noble said. "Falmouth gave Marshfield everything they could handle and had an opportunity to win late in the game. Falmouth is going to be a good team this year. They have a lot of returning players from a year ago. We need to step up and play better than we did in week 1.

"The good thing is we have two weeks until we play again. That's a lot of time to correct mistakes on both sides of the ball. What mistakes we made are easily correctable so it's not like we can't improve. It's just a matter of holding onto the football."

Senior captain Tom Hazelhurst turned in an impressive all-around performance, catching six passes for 27 yards and a touchdown and rushing seven times for 40 yards and another score. Defensively, the linebacker recorded an interception, forced fumble and a sack.

"Tom Hazelhurst was the star of the game," Noble said. "He does a little bit of everything for us. The headline could be 'Tom Does It All.' He had a tremendous all-around game for us."

Quincy engineered a strong opening drive, marching 75 yards capped by a Hazelhurst 2-yard TD run. Arredondo added the extra point for the 7-0 lead.

Canton got on the board in the second quarter with a 35-yard TD jaunt and trailed, 7-6, at halftime.

The Presidents couldn't hold on to the ball early in the second half, fumbling on their first two possessions.

They scored their second touchdown late in the third quarter when senior captain/quarterback Matt Boyle fired a 6-yard TD pass to Hazelhurst. Arredondo's extra point made it 14-6.

Quincy, which failed to score on a first-and-goal earlier, came up with its huge goal-line stand at the end. Canton had a first-and-goal at the 3-yard line before Arredondo's pick.

Boyle, a three-year starter, completed 14-of-20 passes for 95 yards and a TD, hitting seven different receivers. Expect more pass attempts the rest of the season as Noble plans to run a shotgun, no-huddle, spread offense as Quincy's strength is its skill position players.

"We distributed the ball around to a lot of different people which makes us tough to defend because you can't concentrate on one guy. We threw 20 times and that will probably be a low number this year," Noble said.

"For us to be successful we have to spread everybody out. That really requires our quarterback to play extremely well. Boyle's a proven quarterback. He's 6-2, 190 pounds and has a very good arm."

Arredondo, who rushed for 54 yards on 10 carries, is the starting tailback and he has the difficult task of replacing Everton DeCastro, who rushed for 12 TDs and more than 1,200 yards a year ago.

"Our weakness is our offensive and defensive lines," Noble said. "We graduated some pretty good players, three first-team all-stars on the offensive line and the entire defensive line. It's going to be an ongoing issue."

Defensively, newcomers on the line are Oriol and junior Devon Gillen at defensive end and Cugini and senior Steve Kussman, who hasn't played since his freshman year, at defensive tackle.

The secondary includes Aikens and Tucker at safety with junior Joe Reggiannini, a transfer from Archbishop Williams, at cornerback with a rotation of players at the other cornerback position.

"Our defensive front is inexperienced at this point in time," Noble said. "We need some work as we're in a transition from a year ago. All the guys coming in here were backups and JV players a year ago."

Quincy Youth Basketball Registration Sept. 23

Quincy Youth Basketball will hold registration for boys and girls in grades 1 to 10 Saturday, Sept. 23, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex, 1 Merrymount Parkway, Quincy.

Teams are small (10 to 12 players) for grades 3 through 10, which allows each child the opportunity to fully participate during the games. Practice is one hour per week on Friday nights beginning in late October or early November. Games begin the first Sunday in December and continue into March for playoffs. All games are officiated by IAABO-certified referees and feature 20-minute halves. Fee is $90 and includes instruction, games, playing jersey and trophy.

Our Under 8 Rookie League for first- and second-graders is an instructional, co-ed program that focuses on the fundamentals of the game of basketball. Teams are limited to no more than 12 players and usually include two coaches per team. Practice is one hour a week on Saturdays beginning in November and continuing through February. Fee is $45 per players and includes instruction, practice shirts and a trophy.

Proof of Quincy residency for all players is required along with a photocopy of the player's certified birth certificate (new players only).

As a bonus for returning players in grades 3 through 10 this year, there is a $20 refund for those who refer a friend (new to the program) who registers.

Coaches and assistant coaches are always welcome. For more information, call Susan or Chris at 617-479-8911 on Mondays or Wednesdays from 3 to 8 p.m.

Sacred Heart's Fr. Heery Golf Tournament Oct. 4

Sacred Heart Parish will host its 14th annual golf tournament Wednesday, Oct. 4, at Presidents Golf Course, West Squantum Street, North Quincy.

The event has been dedicated to the memory of Father Cornelius Heery, who was pastor of Sacred Heart Parish for 20 years until his death in 1996.

The best ball scramble play will begin with a 1 p.m. shotgun start. Check-in will begin at noon at the clubhouse.

Entry fee is $125 per golfer, which includes the greens fee, cart, shirt, dinner and awards. Individual golfers and foursomes are encouraged to register.

An awards dinner will be held in the gazebo at the Best Western Adams Inn following the tournament.

Pre-registration is encouraged as each year the roster of 120 players fills early and golfers are turned away.

Individuals, groups and companies may sponsor a green for a tax-deductible donation of $150. All donations are welcomed. All proceeds directly benefit Sacred Heart Parish and Sacred Heart School.

For registration or sponsorship information, contact the Sacred Heart rectory at 617-328-8666 or visit the parish Web site at www.sacredheartquincy.org.

STOPPING POWER

From a safety standpoint, nothing is more important than your vehicle's ability to stop effectively. With this in mind, do not wait to hear squealing sounds emanating from your discs and rotors before you decide it is time for brake service. By the same token, because braking systems work under hydraulic pressure, check the master cylinder as well to make sure that the level of brake fluid in the system is not leaking through brake lines, hoses, or caliper components. If it is deemed necessary to replace worn brake pads, inspection of the thickness of the rotors will reveal if they should also be replaced. The rotors must be within manufacturer specifications for the brakes to work effectively.

At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we provide services that will leave you feeling confident in the stopping power of your automobile. If you fear that your car, truck, or SUV has brake problems please bring the vehicle to 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree to be checked. Preventative maintenance is the key to assuring the safety of your car. "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT. A spongy feel to the brakes is usually an indication of trapped air in the hydraulic system.

Yellow Cab Softball Champs

Yellow Cab recently captured the Dorothy Quincy Softball championship with a thrilling, 2-1 victory over Play It Again Sports in extra innings.

The game was a pitchers' duel as Yellow Cab's Rachel Selbert and Play It Again Sports' Nicole Parry combined to allow only five hits through seven innings.

Play It Again Sports scored first in the second inning when a hustling Erin Chiocchio scored from third base on a hard hit ball by Donna Niosi.

Yellow Cab tied the game an inning later when Meghan White smashed the ball back to the pitcher and beat out a close play at first base, allowing Lizzie Kelley's great base running to score her from second.

From then on, Yellow Cab's strong pitching and superior defense from Jacki Hughes, Kelley, Kaleen Campo, Lauren Campo and Stephanie DiPietro kept the game tied into extra innings.

Finally, in the bottom of the seventh, with runners on first and second, Yellow Cab got only its second hit of the day when Hughes crushed a ball over the outfielders to score Brittany Haviland with the game-winning run.

Yellow Cab coaches thanked the girls for a fantastic season and thanked parents for their help and support.

SOCCER

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team opened up its season last Friday on a positive note with a 2-1 victory at Hanover.

But there was some bad news mixed in as well when senior keeper Kristin Reamer was taken off the field after a collision with a Hanover forward in the first half. She injured her knee and there is no word on her condition at this point.

Sophomore Siobhan Carnell replaced her and was brilliant in her varsity debut with seven saves.

"Carnell was terrific in net," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "I am concerned, however, over the loss of Reamer, who has two years of varsity experience behind her."

North Quincy, which played at Fontbonne Tuesday, will travel to Falmouth Friday at 4 p.m. and to Whitman-Hanson next Monday at 4 p.m.

North Quincy and Hanover controlled play at different stages of the match, but it was the Red Raiders who dominated early. Mary Kate Stille was sent in alone by junior Emily Milone but was stoned by the Hanover keeper.

Scoreless at halftime, Mary Kate Stille stole the opening Hanover kickoff and passed to her older sister, Lauren, who gave it right back to her. The younger Stille found senior captain Megan Therrien, who pushed a shot from 12 yards out past the Indians keeper 40 seconds into the second half.

Assistant coach Peter Coleman had scouted Hanover the previous day and alerted the Red Raiders to the Indians' opening play.

North Quincy held on to the lead thanks to the fine defensive work turned in by junior backs Simone Leary and Kerry Coughlin. Leary did an outstanding job of defending Hanover's best player.

Hanover tied the game at 1-1 with 12 minutes left, but the Red Raiders responded four minutes later. Mary Kate Stille chipped in a perfect pass to Milone, who outraced the keeper to the ball and floated a beautiful shot into the net for a 2-1 lead.

"We had all we could handle with Hanover," Bregoli said. "They have four excellent club players whose skills gave us fits. Defensively, we were solid. Coleman, Cabral and Jillian Benn were all exceptional in the second half. We also got a big lift from Paige Bonanni and Natalie Djerf in the second half."

Quincy Boys Bow To Brookline

The Quincy High School boys' soccer team dropped a 2-1 decision to Brookline in its season opener last Friday at Varsity Field.

Scoreless at halftime, Brookline scored with 30 minutes remaining in the game for a 1-0 lead.

But the Presidents responded about two minutes later. Junior Rory Elliffe hit a direct kick from 35 yards that bounced off the cross bar and senior Levi Boakye dove to head the ball past the keeper.

Brookline tallied the game-winner with six minutes left in the game while Quincy was playing with only 10 men on the field.

"We did all right," said head coach Kevin Orcutt. "It wasn't beautiful but we didn't have a full team either. They controlled the game. We had some kids that never played before but the kids hung tough. I thought we might be able to pull a tie out of it."

Quincy assistant captain Jonathan Conso turned in a strong game with nine saves in goal. Senior head captain Charles Dybaud and senior assistant captain John Cameron also played well.

Quincy (0-1) returns to action Friday afternoon at 4 when it hosts Nauset at Varsity Field.

Like many 7-year-old boys, Benjamin Raybuck of Quincy enjoys playing with Legos and bugging his twin sister, Suzanne.

Unlike many others, however, Ben was diagnosed with cancer in March and is now undergoing treatment at the Jimmy Fund Clinic at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston.

"Ben feels loved by his care providers and the relationship he has built with them keep him happy about returning to the clinic over and over again even though he knows he will be facing difficult treatments," says his mother, Kim Raybuck.

Since his diagnoses, Ben has been interested in learning the ins-and-outs of fundraising so he can donate money to Dana-Farber and one of its partners, Children's Hospital Boston.

"I think his interest in trying to give back to both organizations speaks volumes about the positive experience we have all had," Kim says.

On Sunday, Sept. 17, Ben will be one of the more than two dozen Jimmy Fund patients who will be featured as "Heroes" of the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk. As a Hero, Ben's photograph will be posted on a mile marker located along the 26.2-mile route from Hopkinton to Boston. Ben hopes to participate in a portion of the walk if he is feeling well enough after the start of radiation treatment.

"We are hoping he will be able to attend and encourage the participants with his enthusiasm and energy," Kim says.

Over its 17-year history, the Jimmy Fund Walk has contributed more than $40 million to support cancer research and care at Dana-Farber. This year, more than 6,000 walkers are expected to participate in the event to raise more than $4.75 million for the world-renowned Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Among the walkers will be a team from Rockport Shoes that will walk in Ben's honor.

All participants on the Hopkinton (26.2 miles) and Wellesley (13.1 miles) routes must raise a minimum of $200 in contributions; for the three-mile Boston Walk, the requirement is $200 for walkers age 13 and older and $100 for walkers age 12 and younger.

Those who raise more than $750 achieve Pacesetter status. Pacesetters receive special recognition from the Jimmy Fund and are invited to a celebration at the start of the next walk season. Participants are encouraged to form teams and walk in honor of those who have been affected by cancer.

Walkers may choose to walk the entire route from Hopkinton to Boston, walk 13.1 miles from the half-way point in Wellesley or join patients and their families in the three-mile Boston Walk from the Harvard Medical School Quad.

The walk begins in Hopkinton at 7 a.m., in Wellesley at 11 a.m. and at the Harvard Medical School Quad at 2:15 p.m. All walkers will finish at the Copley Square finish line where they will receive a medal and be greeted by a victory parade, complete with a band, speaking programs and refreshments.

Registration for the 18th annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk and financial contributions can be made online by visiting the Jimmy Fund Walk site at www.jimmyfundwalk.org or by calling 866-JFW-HERO.

North Quincy Kicks Off League Play Saturday At Sandwich

Somerville Ruins Raiders' Opener, 28-13

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School football team kicked off a new era last Saturday night at Somerville, but it will have to wait another week to see if it is any different than the past.

The Red Raiders, who haven't had a winning season since 1996, held a 13-12 lead before surrendering two fourth-quarter touchdowns en route to a 28-13 loss in their season opener under new head coach Jim Connor.

"The score doesn't indicate the type of game it was," Connor said. "Somerville is a good team this year. We beat them the past two years but their coaches are doing a good job. Somerville's past doesn't indicate the type of team they are this year."

North Quincy (0-1) will look to rebound Saturday afternoon at 1:30 when it begins Atlantic Coast League play at Sandwich, which is coming off a 25-3 loss to Hingham.

"I told the kids they should be angry but they have to turn the page," Connor said. "We have to start looking ahead to Sandwich. Win or lose, you can't look at the past week and you have to move on. As a team we weren't very aggressive. This week we need to take the game to Sandwich."

Somerville jumped out to a 6-0 lead but North Quincy answered quickly when junior running back Terrence Sibley took a toss and ran 35 yards for the touchdown to even the score in the first quarter.

With 25 seconds left in the half, Somerville returned an interception for a touchdown to go up 12-6 as the two-point conversion failed.

Instead of heading into halftime deflated, junior Danny Jackson pumped some life back into North Quincy, returning the ensuing kickoff 85 yards for the score. Senior Dave Guerriero added the extra point for a 13-12 advantage at the break.

A scoreless third quarter, North Quincy drove to the Somerville 40 early in the fourth quarter before stalling. Somerville stunned the Red Raiders on its next series when its running back shed numerous tackles for an 85-yard TD run.

"That broke our hearts," Connor said.

Somerville added another touchdown for a 28-13 lead. North Quincy had two more opportunities to put points on the board but it turned the ball over in the red zone each time, fumbling inside the 15-yard line and throwing an interception in the end zone.

Senior quarterback Shaun McBrien completed 5-of-12 passes for 90 yards and Sibley finished with 85 yards rushing. Defensively, senior outside linebacker Steve Matos played well and Guerriero, a defensive back, had an interception.

"The kids seemed to be nervous," Connor said. "There was a lot of excitement and anticipation for the season to begin and I think they felt some pressure of this being the season that turns around. We're still hoping for that."

Connor, 25, a former lineman at Boston College, served as an assistant coach the past two seasons under Bill Shaughnessy.

VETERANS MEMORIAL STADIUM, shown here last Friday, has an outside chance of hosting the North Quincy and Quincy football home openers next week. The installation of the carpet is scheduled to begin this week. "We're still debating where's the best place to play those games and we're keeping all our options opened," said Athletic Director Jim Rendle. "We'll probably make a decision by next Tuesday. We have our fingers crossed the stadium could be ready." Rendle said other options include playing at Adams Field, playing in Milton or Braintree, or postponing the games to later in the season. North Quincy will play Sept. 21 against Randolph and Quincy Sept. 22 against Falmouth, both games at 7 p.m.

North Quincy High School Freshman Girls Blank Brockton, 4-0

The right foot of left forward Rachel Lucier, who scored the first goal with an assist by right forward Emma Smith.

The Red Raiders added three more goals in the second half from right forward Laura O'Donnell and midfielders Devon McKay and Cara Murtagh. Midfielder Maria DiPietro notched two assists and midfielder Samantha Bonanni one.

Helping defensively were Lindsey Repucci, Nikki Ingram, Jackie Kelley, Danielle Rodeck, Jacqueline Griffin and Megan Mahoney. Midfielders Mabel Setow, Amy Lo and Nicole Bannister along with forward Kristin Peterson also played well.

Head coach Frank O'Donoghue said the win will help the girls as they travel to Marshfield, Duxbury and Whitman-Hanson in the coming weeks. North Quincy will play its home games at Bishop Field, Montclair.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) As tensions ease on the home front, you can once more focus on changes in the workplace. Early difficulties are soon worked out. Stability returns as adjustments are made.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A new romance tests the unattached Bovine's patience to the limit. But Venus still rules the Taurean heart, so expect to find yourself trying hard to make this relationship work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's a good time to consider home-related purchases. But shop around carefully for the best price — whether it's a new house for the family or a new hose for the garden.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A contentious family member seems intent on creating problems. Best advice: Avoid stepping in until you know more about the origins of this domestic disagreement.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A recent job-related move proves far more successful than you could have imagined. Look for continued beneficial fallout. Even your critics have something nice to say.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Ease up and stop driving yourself to finish that project on a deadline that is no longer realistic. Your superiors will be open to requests for an extension. Ask for it.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You should soon be hearing some positive feedback on that recent business move. An old family problem recurs, but this time you'll know how to handle it better.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Some surprising statements shed light on the problem that caused that once-warm relationship to cool off. Use this newly won knowledge to help turn things around.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your spiritual side is especially strong at this time. Let it guide you into deeper contemplation of aspects about yourself that you'd like to understand better.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your merrier aspect continues to dominate and to attract folks who rarely see this side of you. Some serious new romancing could develop out of all this cheeriness.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're always concerned about the well-being of others. It's time you put some of that concern into your own health situation, especially where it involves nutrition.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Just when you thought your life had finally stabilized, along comes another change that needs to be addressed. Someone you trust can help you deal with it successfully.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a sixth sense when it comes to finding people who need help long before they think of asking for it. And you're right there to provide it.

For more information, call 617-773-7432.

Houghs Neck Congregational Church To Host 'Country Fair' Sept. 30

A scavenger hunt, chicken barbecue and contests from quilting to pie baking are among the highlights of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church Country Fair Saturday, Sept. 30 at the church, 310 Manet Ave.

The day-long event begins at 9 a.m. with a scavenger hunt. Fair booths will be open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., with booths for baked goods, homemade fudge, crafts, fresh produce and refreshments, including hot dogs, burgers, popcorn and cotton candy. In addition to country fair contests for quilting, pie baking, jams and jellies, flower arranging and funniest pet photo, the event will feature prize raffles as well as games and activities for the family.

A "Houghs Neck Idol" singing contest will be held at 3 p.m., with prizes for the winners.

The fair will conclude with a chicken barbecue from 5 to 7 p.m. and the awarding of prizes to contest and raffle winners.

For contest entry details or for more information on the fair, call 617-479-2311, e-mail hncc@comcast.org or visit www.hncong.org.

Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, will host a "Harry Potter Halloween Celebration" Saturday, Oct. 28 beginning at 1 p.m.

"This year's Harry Potter celebration will be based on the latest movie, Harry Potter and the Goblets of Fire," said Rev. Dr. Susan F. Jarek Glidden, pastor of Quincy Community United Methodist Church. "Everyone will once again have the opportunity to receive a 'magic wand,' to be part of the Sorting Ceremony, and to participate in Quidditch tryouts, but the remaining activities will be brand new.

"In keeping with the movie, this year we will be holding 'preliminary tryouts' for the Tri-Wizard Tournament," Pastor Jarek Glidden said.

Last year's event was so popular it sold out. Those wishing to participate should make their reservations early. Call 617-773-0854.

Cost of the event is $6 per person, $20 for a family of four; and children three years and under are free. Every child must be accompanied by an adult.

Last Halloween, the church welcomed a delegation from Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, the school Harry Potter attends. Afternoon festivities included a Sorting Ceremony, "classes" in Herbology, Potions, Divinations, and Care of Magical Creatures, Quidditch tryouts, a Defense Against the Dark Arts Scavenger Hunt, and a traditional Hogwarts Halloween Feast.

The afternoon was so much fun and so successful that the Hogwarts delegation will return to Quincy Community United Methodist Church for another visit Oct. 28.

OBITUARIES

Clara Yeomans, 93

Community Activist, Quincy Sun Citizen Of The Year

A funeral Mass for Clara (Kaminski) Yeomans, 93, of Quincy, a community activist and conservation pioneer, was celebrated Monday in Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mrs. Yeomans died Sept. 1 at Queen Anne's Nursing Home, Hingham.

Born in Chelsea and raised in Everett, she moved to Quincy in 1951.

Before marrying Frank Yeomans in 1948, she had worked as a legal secretary in Boston.

She was very active in her children's education, participating in various PTAs and clubs, particularly as one of the principle supporters of the North Quincy High School Science Club. She judged at many science fairs in Quincy and Hingham.

She was involved in the Girl Scouts, including leading summer day camps in the Blue Hills and Moswetusset Hummock.

She participated in many local clubs and organizations, including the Wollaston Garden Club, Quincy Symphony Guild, Polish-American Women's Club of Greater Boston, and the League of Women Voters.

She was an avid outdoorswoman. She traveled throughout the U.S., Canada, Europe, and the Caribbean.

Her most significant contribution to the community was her pioneering work in conservation and the environment. She understood the need for attention to open spaces and the earth in the 1960s before ecology became a cause.

A charter member of the Quincy Conservation Commission, she served on it for 35 years from 1965 to 2000. She enjoyed sharing her knowledge of the tidal marshes and the Blue Hills with local students..

She was instrumental in the creation of Grossman Park, along Fenno Street in Quincy.

She was the recipient of many awards, including the 1989 Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year for her pioneering conservation efforts and her longtime dedicated service to the environment. At the ceremony she remarked that she had "loved every blade of grass and petal of flower."

Other awards included a 30-foot spruce tree planted and dedicated to her by the City of Quincy in Safford Park in December 2004.

Wife of the late Frank Yeomans, she is survived by a daughter, Ann Yeomans of Quincy; a son, Frank Yeomans of New York City; and several nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Lydon Funeral Home, Quincy.

Joseph Schlager, 86

Schlager Auto Owner, WWII Veteran

A funeral Mass for Joseph F. "Jim" Schlager, 86, of Milton, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated Sept. 9 at St. Mary's Church, Quincy.

He died Sept. 6 at Quincy Medical Center.

Mr. Schlager founded with his wife Schlager Auto Body & Towing in Quincy in 1956, celebrating their 50th year in business.

A World War II Navy veteran, he was honorably discharged in 1946. He received a Presidential Unit Citation along with a World War II Victory Medal, 2 star Asiatic-Pacific Theatre Medals.

Mr. Schlager raised beagles and took them to fox hunts in Maine and New Hampshire. He also had a passion for horses. Along with his wife, they entered quarter horses in several shows. They went on 35-mile horseback rides in the Blue Hills and also rode with the Hanson Riding Club in Plymouth.

Born in Quincy on Willard Street, he walked from his home in West Quincy to work on a relative's pig farm that

He met his wife, the late Doris B. (Bushman), when he was 6 years old. They married in 1942.

He is survived by a son, James Schlager of Quincy; a brother, Richard Schlager of Florida; two grandsons and a great-granddaughter.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Donations may be made to Quincy Public Schools, c/o Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, 70 Coddington St., Quincy, MA 02169.

James M. Cochrane, 38

Quincy Police Officer

A funeral Mass for James M. "Jamie" Cochrane, 38, of Quincy, a Quincy police officer, will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 10:30 a.m. at St. John's Church, 44 School St., Quincy.

He died Sunday at Boston Medical Center from injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident the previous afternoon in Quincy.

Officer Cochrane had eight years of service with the Quincy Police Department and served most of his career with Special Operations in the Motorcycle Unit.

He previously worked for several years with the Tunnel Workers Union, Local 88.

He was an avid motorcycle enthusiast for more than 23 years.

Born in Boston, he was raised in Quincy and graduated from North Quincy High School in 1986. He received his bachelor's degree in criminal justice from the University of Lowell and his master's degree in criminal justice from Anna Marie College.

He is survived by his wife, Maria A. (Styles) Cochrane; his parents, Edward H. and Elaine (Keefe) Cochrane of Quincy; two brothers, Edward T. Cochrane and Thomas J. Cochrane, both of Quincy; a sister, Judi Borowski of Warwick, R.I.; his grandmother, Gertrude

(Stokinger) Keefe of Quincy; his father-in-law, Christopher Styles of Weymouth; three nieces, three nephews and many aunts, uncles, cousins and fellow officers and friends.

He was the father of the late Caroline S. Cochrane and the late Mia S. Cochrane. He was the grandson of the late Thomas L. Keefe, the late Edward H. Cochrane and the late Dorothy (Webster) Cochrane.

Burial will be in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Dorchester.

Visiting was 3 to 8 p.m. Wednesday at Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Ellen P. Sheehan, 65

Retired Human Resources Administrator

A funeral Mass for Ellen P. Sheehan, 65, of Rockland, formerly of Quincy, a retired human resources administrator, was celebrated Sept. 9 at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

She died Sept. 5 at home.

Ms. Sheehan was a human resources administrator with the former RNS, which would later become the MIB Group of Westwood. She spent six months working for the company in Ireland where she worked with local groups in conducting training sessions. She retired in 2001 after 36 years.

She previously worked as a dental assistant in the Quincy Health Department for a few years in the early 1960s.

Throughout her career, Ms. Sheehan pursued continuing education courses at Bentley College, taking courses that pertained to her field of human resources.

Born in Quincy, she graduated from Quincy High School and from the Forsyth Institute of Boston. She lived in Quincy before moving to Rockland a few years ago.

She is survived by three sisters, Catherine L. Morin of Sandwich, Anne M. Donna of Brockton and Mary E. Bersani of Quincy; many nieces and nephews; 13 grandnieces and grandnephews and a great-nephew.

Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Donations may be made to St. Mary's Church, Renovation Fund, 95 Crescent St., West Quincy, MA 02169.

Cecilia B. Mattie, 95

Homemaker, Retired Cook's Assistant

A funeral Mass for Cecilia B. "Sis" (McNeil) Mattie, 95, of Quincy, a homemaker and retired cook's assistant, was celebrated Sept. 8 at St. Joseph's Church, 556 Washington St.

She died Friday at the Eventide Home.

Mrs. Mattie worked for 17 years for 1000 Southern Artery, where she also lived for the last 22 years.

Born and educated in Sydney, Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia, she lived in Quincy for 80 years.

Wife of the late Michael P. Mattie, she is survived by a daughter, Mary Post of Quincy; a son, Michael "Eddie" Mattie of Lake Ozark, Mo.; four grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

She was the grandmother of the late Edward Mattie.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Sadness is something that everyone must encounter at some point in life. Perhaps it is designed to teach us lessons which are not or could not be learned in any other way. If one doesn't have a little sadness, how can one know when he is happy? . . . Sadness can be the last chapter or the beginning of a new chapter of life, depending on how we react. Remember the old tongue twister, "The bit of bitter butter made the better butter bitter?" If one becomes bitter, it closes life to new experiences, but if one faces it with courage, it can teach something and open new channels of life.

Joy is a live, activating force with the power of strengthening one and spreading radiance to everyone around you. It is reaching out to share a part of your life with someone who is sad and discouraged.

You may not know what to say to a friend in his hour of sadness, but your presence will be worth many words. Take sorrow by the hand, shove darkness aside and force in the light. The harvest of joy is most often reaped by the hand of helpfulness.

What we turn to in the hour of sadness is determined in a good measure by what we strive for in our hours of joy.

Get Ready - Get Set - GLOW. "Where there is sadness, let me sow joy."

Dear World...

My young son starts to school today... It's going to be sort of strange and new to him for awhile, and I wish you would sort of treat him gently.

You see, up to now he's been king of the roost... He's been boss of the backyard... His mother has always been near to soothe his wounds and repair his feelings.

But now things are going to be different.

This morning he's going to walk down the front steps, wave his hand, and start out on the great adventure... It is an adventure that might take him across continents, across oceans... It's an adventure that will probably include wars and tragedy and sorrow... To live his life in the world he will have to live in, will require faith and love and courage.

So, World, I wish you would sort of look after him... Take him by the hand and teach him things he will have to know.

But do it gently, if you can.

He will have to learn, I know, that all men are not just, that all men are not true.

But teach him also that for every scoundrel there is a hero... that for every crooked politician there is a great and dedicated leader.... Teach him that for every enemy there is a friend.

Steer him away from envy, if you can... And teach him the secret of quiet laughter.

In school, World, teach him it is far more honorable to fail than to cheat. Teach him to have faith in his own ideas, even if everyone says they are wrong... Teach him to be gentle with gentle people and tough with tough people.

Try to give my son the strength not to follow the crowd when everyone is getting on the bandwagon... Teach him to listen to all men – but teach him also to filter all he hears on a screen of truth and take just the good that siphons through.

Teach him, if you can, how to laugh when he is sad... Teach him there is no shame in tears.... Teach him there can be glory in failure and despair in success.

Treat him gently, World, if you can, but don't coddle him... Because only the test of fire makes fine steel... Let him have the courage to be impatient... Let him have the patience to be brave.

Let him be no man's man... Teach him always to have sublime faith in himself.

Because then he will always have sublime faith in mankind.

This is quite an order, World, but see what you can do... He's such a nice little fellow, my son! - Dan Valentine

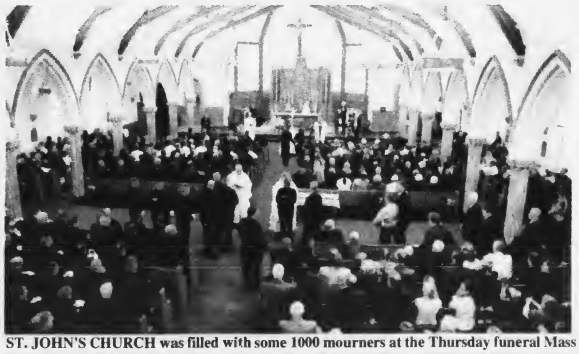
A Sad Farewell

MRS. MARIA COCHRANE, wife of Quincy Police Officer James "Jamie" Cochrane, 38, fatally injured in a private motorcycle and auto collision Sept. 9, is escorted from St. John's Church following a funeral Mass Thursday by her father, Christopher Styles and Police Sgt. Mark Kennedy. Lining the steps are (left) Mayor William Phelan, Quincy District Court Clerk Magistrate Arthur Tobin, his wife, Shirley, City Council President Doug Gutro, Councillors Leo Kelly and Jay Davis. At the right are Police Chief Robert Crowley, State Treasurer Tim Cahill, Sheriff Michael Bellotti, Councillor Brian McNamee and Dist. Atty. William Keating. Quincy Sun Photos/Robert Noble

QUINCY POLICE AND those from many communities salute as the coffin of Quincy Police Officer James Cochrane is brought into St. John's Church. An estimated 1,000 police, fire and other law enforcement officials took part in the tribute.



ST. JOHN'S CHURCH was filled with some 1000 mourners at the Thursday funeral Mass for Quincy Police Officer James Cochrane, 38, with an overflow of 300 in the lower church. The Mass was celebrated by his cousin, Rev. Joseph White, pastor of St. Francis DePaul Church, South Boston. Here some receive Holy Communion. Other Photos on Page 17.

Voter Turnout Nearly 29 Percent

It's Patrick, Murray Here And Statewide

Deval L. Patrick of Milton won the Democratic nomination for governor Tuesday with Worcester Mayor Timothy P. Murray taking his running mate spot.

Quincy voters were in step with those in the state but the victory margin here was razor close.

Patrick, who served in the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department in the Clinton Administration, edged Boston businessman Christopher F. Gabrieli by just 94 votes.

Patrick had 35.30 percent of the vote with 4,983 to Gabrieli's 34.64 percent and 4,889.

Patrick and Murray will square off in November against Republican gubernatorial candidates Lt. Gov. Kerry Healey and Reed V. Hillman of Sturbridge, lieutenant governor contender, both of whom were unopposed in the Republican primary Tuesday.

Atty. General Thomas F. Reilly was third in the Democratic primary for governor with 4,219 votes – 670 behind Gabrieli.

Murray edged Deborah Goldberg, former chairman of the Brookline selectmen, by 206 votes here. He had 5,435 to her's 5,229. Andrea Silbert of Harwich, a political newcomer, lagged behind with 2,377.

In the only other contest on the Democrat ballot, Secretary of State William F. Galvin crushed John Bonifaz of Boston, another political newcomer, by a vote of 10,893 to 1,504.

There was only one contest on the Republican ballot which caused little interest here.

Kenneth G. Chase of Belmont and Kevin F. Scott of Wakefield sought the GOP nomination for U.S. Senate to challenge Senator Edward Kennedy in November. Chase got only 505 votes here and Scott 382.

The Quincy voter turnout was 28.62 percent – a little

Quincy Sun Begins Its 39th Year

The first issue of The Sun appeared Sept. 26, 1968 and for the 38 years since, we have concentrated our news coverage entirely on Quincy.

We are proud to carry the name Quincy in our banner and to be part of this great city. We have been blessed with loyal readers, many of whom have been with us since the first issue.

Some of our readers are now in virtually all of the other 49 states, including Hawaii and Alaska, former Quincy residents who want to keep up on what's going on "back home." They tell us receiving The Sun by mail is like getting a letter from home.

We feel that today's Quincy Sun is tomorrow's Quincy history. Keeping it accurate is important to you and to us.

As we begin our 39th year we want to again thank you – our readers and advertisers – for your continued support and encouragement these past 38 years.

And, of course, a special thank-you to our faithful newscarriers who bring The Sun to Quincy homes.

We look forward to the future with optimism and faith in Quincy and are proud to be its community newspaper.

Thank you, most sincerely.

Correction

The Sun had an error in its Sept. 14 issue regarding the accident in which Officer James Cochrane, 38, a member of the Quincy Police Department's Motorcycle Unit, was fatally injured.

Police said a Ford Focus driven by Michael Brown, 42, of Quincy, made a left turn across traffic on Southern Artery colliding with the personal motorcycle operated by Cochrane who was off duty at the time.

The Sun regrets the error.

Wollaston Beach Work 6 Months Behind; But Mid-November Finish Seen

By TOM HENSHAW

Despite complications, the $7 million capital improvement project to Wollaston Beach is "only about six months behind the original schedule."

"(But) the contractor anticipates being substantially completed by mid-November," the State Department of Conservation and Recreation reported last week.

"Some modifications and accomodations to the schedule will also be necessary because of a sewer reconstruction project just initiated by the city."

The DCR comments on progress in the Wollaston Beach project were contained in a memorandum to Sen. Michael Morrissey and members of the Metropolitan Beach Commission.

The DCR and its contractors have been under fire lately for what its critics see as delays in work to help the traffic flow, improve water quality and add to the amenities along the beach.

A spokesman for the DCR said the memo was not in response to critics but the first of an occasional series of reports of progress on the job of rehabilitating the beach.

"Now that work has come 'above ground' impatience to see the completed project grows," said the memo, which was signed by the DCR's Joseph R. Orfant.

"The Commission can expect to hear comments on the pace of this construction work.

"The logistics of reconstructing a roadway with an ADT of 35,000 vehicles while maintaining access to restaurants, yacht clubs, and homes is daunting.

"Sourcing the proper nourishment sand caused a major delay early in the project with a ripple effect on other project items such as the entranceways."

Orfant said seawall repair work and roadway drainage presented problems that required "redesigns, renegineering and new work mobilizations."

The power company revised its requirements which added to efforts to power up new traffic signals and relocate street lighting, he said.

In an effort to "tame" the high volume of traffic (35,000 autos every day), Orfant said, the DCR considered narrowing Quincy Shore Drive to two travel lanes but agreed to retain four narrow ones.

The parking would be reconfigured to create a wider beachside walkway and areas for new amenities such as foot and body showers, benches, bike racks, shade shelters and fountains.

"The new million and a half dollar traffic signal system is the backbone of the traffic calming strategy," said Orfant.

"The sophisticated, interconnected 21st century system will regulate through traffic to 30 miles an hour and finally neighbors will be able to exit their streets during busy periods.

"Pedestrians crossing the Drive will no longer have to race against speeding drivers."

While the DCR has been working on traffic, sea wall repairs and other amenities, the city has been dealing with water quality problems.

"The city has been televising, relining and replacing storm drain and sewer lines, detecting and removing illegal sewer connections and adding and improving pump stations," said the DCR<

"Aggravating the water quality problem is the slow tidal flushing of shallow Quincy Bay which means that pollutants stay resident in the bay for longer periods.

"While all these efforts have resulted in improvements, Wollaston Beach is still vexed by persistent water quality violations after storms and frustratingly and inexplicably in dry weather spells as well."

Orfant called the $7 million project "the capstone of a series of major improvements over the past 10 years which included an early beach re-sanding on the north and south ends of the beach."

It also included acquisition and construction of Don Kent Park, a new tot lot at Caddy Park, new ramp accessways to the yacht clubs and a $3 million sea wall between Rice Road and Furnace Brook Parkway.

Ward 5 Association Seeks New Members

The Ward 5 Community Association is accepting membership applications. The association serves residents of the Beechwood Knoll, Wollaston Center, Wollaston Beach, Hospital Hill, Quincy Center and Mass. Field Neighborhoods.

This past June the group hosted the successful "Taste of Ward 5" event. In addition, they hold community information meetings, candidates' nights, and offer college scholarships to eligible members. The annual membership fee is $10 and includes a subscription to the association's quarterly newsletter.

Applications are available at the association's new website www.ward5quincy.blogspot.com, or by calling 617-835-1253.

Phelan To Form Sea Street Safety Advisory Committee

Mayor William Phelan is seeking Quincy residents to participate on a committee to make recommendations on design improvements along Sea Street to improve pedestrian and vehicular safety along this busy and important road.

"Improving safety along the Sea Street corridor is a major enhancement to the quality of life in Merrymount, Adams Shore, Houghs Neck and also Germantown," said Phelan. "This important and busy stretch of road can be dangerous for pedestrians and motorists alike. This committee will work with the Department of Public Works and our traffic consultants to improve the safety and aesthetics of this very important roadway."

Residents wishing to participate can forward a letter of interest to DPW Commissioner Steve O'Donnell, c/o Sea Street Safety Advisory Committee, 55 Sea St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Letters of interest should be to the Department of Works by Oct. 1.

"Some of the best improvements that we have made in our city have come from residents at neighborhood meetings," Phelan said. "Who knows the neighborhoods better than the residents that live there every day. Their input is very valuable to the process and I encourage residents to participate."

"There are changes that we can make that would be of benefit to the pedestrian safety and improve the look of the street," added O'Donnell. "With the proper planning and locating an appropriate funding mechanism, we can make some much-needed changes along Sea Street."

Mary Smith Appointed City Principal Planner

Mayor William Phelan has appointed a Quincy landscape architect, Mary Smith, as Principal Planner in the city's Department of Planning.

"Mary brings a unique skill set and tremendous experience to our Planning Department," said Phelan. "She will assist us in a wide range of projects and I am glad to have her on our team."

"I've worked in Quincy for 25 years in private development and I've watched Quincy change and develop," said Smith. "Now, I'm excited about the prospect of working with the Planning Department and the Mayor's Office in their efforts to revitalize Quincy Center. I look forward to putting my planning experience to good use throughout the city."

MARY SMITH

Smith owned and operated Mary Smith Landscape Architects in Quincy Center. She has worked on a wide variety of successful local design projects.

Dennis Harrington, Director of Planning and Community Development said, "Mary comes to us at a time when her experience in landscape architecture will be of great value in the redesign of our downtown and in the improvements of our local business districts. She compliments our existing staff very well and I am excited to have her in our department."

Smith is an accomplished artist. She and husband Dana Ahearn live in the Merrymount neighborhood.

Quincy Plays Role In Biggest Anti-Terror Drill

If Sunday's simulated terrorist attack on Greater Boston was designed to seek out flaws in homeland security, then it was a success.

"It went very well," said Tom Gorman, the former fire chief who is Quincy's director of Emergency Management.

"We have to meet in the next couple of weeks and see what worked and what didn't. Now we know what to brush up on."

Quincy played only a minimal role in what was dubbed Operation Poseidon, the most extensive antiterrorism drill ever in New England.

"We supplied mostly manpower," said Gorman. "The drill was centered in Everett, Revere, Chelsea, Cambridge and Somerville."

The scenario called for an explosion of a bomb in a home in Everett followed by terrorist threats to an LNG tanker, the explosion of a dirty bomb in the CambridgeSide Galleria and the discovery of unexploded bombs in the Lechmere T station.

The initial explosion was timed for 4:30 a.m. and the drill began two hours later.

Gorman himself spent the drill evaluating performances in the Emergency Operations Center in Somerville for which he will have to compile a report.

Four Quincy firefighters under Capt. Jim Kennedy went to the Galleria in Cambridge to help check radiation levels and work on decontamination procedures among the simulated victims of the blast.

Quincy police officers went to the Boston Regional Intelligence Center (BRIC), "as we would do in a real emergency," said Sgt. Bob Gillen, who, with Lt. Don Greenwood Sr., handles Homeland Security.

"We interviewed sources, both open and undercover, to see whether or not the emergency is an isolated incident," he said.

The Quincy Police Marine Unit was sent to watch the Coast Guard conduct the evacuation of a threatened LNG tanker in the harbor.

Back To School Night For Parents At QHS

Quincy High School will hold a Back to School Night for parents Thursday, Sept. 28 from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

The evening is designed for parents to meet their child's teachers. Parents will also be provided with information on the curriculum and student expectations.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 22, 1776, Nathan Hale, a Connecticut schoolteacher and captain in the Continental Army, is executed by the British for spying. Before being hanged, legend holds that Hale said, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

• On Sept. 21, 1866, H.G. Wells, a pioneer of science fiction, is born in Bromley, England. His classic novel "The Time Machine" (1895), about a man who journeys to the future, was a success, as was "The War of the Worlds" (1898).

• On Sept. 19, 1900, Robert Parker and Harry Longbaugh, better known as Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, rob the First National Bank in Winnemucca, Nev., marking the first time that the duo worked as a team.

• On Sept. 23, 1930, R&B pioneer Ray Charles is born. Ray Charles (Robinson) broke ground by fusing gospel with blues and other secular musical styles. He went on to score a number of successes, including his hit song "Georgia On My Mind."

• On Sept. 18, 1955, Ed Sullivan's popular talk show, originally called "Toast of the Town," changes its name to "The Ed Sullivan Show." Among the many celebrities who made their TV debut on the show were Bob Hope, the Beatles and Walt Disney.

• On Sept. 24, 1961, the sitcom "I Love Lucy" airs its last episode. The show, created by Lucille Ball and her husband Desi Arnaz, ran for 10 years. Ball had insisted that Arnaz be cast as her husband the show, despite the insistence of network executives that no one would believe a white American actress would be married to a Cuban bandleader.

• On Sept. 20, 1984, Marvin Gay Sr. agrees to a plea bargain agreement that will keep him out of jail for shooting and killing his son, singer Marvin Gaye, during an argument on April 1. Marvin Gaye, who added the "e" to his name when he broke into show business, was one of Motown's biggest stars, with hits such as "I Heard It Through the Grapevine."

That Sneaky Hurricane

You might say, if you'll pardon me, that it was a bastard.

It had no name.'

And was sneaky. And real mean.

It arrived here unannounced 68 years ago today.

There have been others here since. But they had names like: Carol, Diane, Donna, Gloria, Hugo, Bob, Bonnie, Danielle, etc.

But we knew they were coming.

Unlike that no-name one. The one remembered simply as the Hurricane of 1938. And not with fondness by those who were around then.

Hurricanes prowling the East coast were rare then and not tracked from as far away as Africa like they are with today's sophisticated equipment.

This one slipped into the area when no one was looking.

Before it left, it claimed 600 lives in the New England area and caused millions of dollars in damage.

Considering you could buy a pretty nice house for $3,000 back then, those millions of dollars in damage would translate into billions of dollars today.

The late Thomas Burgin, who was Quincy's mayor at the time, once recalled:

BURGIN

"It came in around 5:30 p.m. We had no advance warning. It just arrived unannounced.

"Trees and wires came crashing down. Utility poles were scattered about. Windows in the stores downtown were blown in. Boats were torn loose off the yacht clubs.

"There were 3,900 trees down city-wide and all the fire alarm boxes and police boxes were out of commission. There was no electricity."

Burgin called in the National Guard – for the first time ever here in peace time.

"We were afraid of the stores being looted. And we needed extra help and patrols in other areas," he said.

Squantum, Houghs Neck and Germantown were cut off from the rest of the city by mountainous flooding high tides.

Winds reached 90 to 100 miles per hour. And gusts topped that.

"As I remember," Burgin said, "the eye of the hurricane came right over Quincy.'

"It took us weeks to recover and get back to normal. It was a horrible storm and certainly left a lasting impression on me. I will never forget it."

And, no one else who was around back then will either.

COHEN

ABE COHEN and the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights of which he is vice president, will share honors at a double-header celebration Friday, Sept. 29.

Cohen, a long-time people's champion whose dedicated service includes the Fair Housing Committee and the Quincy Community Action Program, will be marking his 90th birthday.

The Coalition will be celebrating its 30th anniversary.

The event will be from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Club House at the Aquarius Condominiums, 34 South St.

For more information, call Merrie or Sandy Eaton at 617-472-4935 or Enid Lubarsky, 617-479-4360.

QUESTION: If the U.S. Weather Bureau invited you to name a hurricane what name would you choose?

I kinda like Sharron.

SMILE DEPT.: Fr. Raymond Kiley told this one at St. John's:

A wife couldn't wait to tell her husband that she had got him a most unusual gift for his birthday.

"It's a cemetery lot," she exclaimed.

He was quite surprised but agreed it was a most unusual gift.

At his next birthday, however, she had no gift at all for him and he wondered why.

"Because," she said, "you didn't use the one I gave you last year."

Scenes From Yesterday

Growing up in Roxbury, I was always visiting relatives in Quincy, in Houghs Neck, on Upland Road before it was re-named Burgin Parkway.

Every time I drive on Burgin Parkway two things happen. I remember that big white house at the corner of Adams St., full of memories. And I look at the statue of John Adams hidden from view. Adams deserved a better fate than that I often think.

Recently, I had an idea. They just moved that giant granite ball from the rotary at the shipyard. The island looks so bare without that ball which has been relocated at the City Hall.

Why not re-locate that great statue of John Adams from its hideaway along Burgin Parkway and place it at the rotary.

Quincy's gateway to the south could be a great place for John Adams. We could even rename the rotary John Adams Circle.

Just an idea but I think it's worth further study.

Morrissey Upsets Brett In State Representive Primary

This Week
1976

By FRANK McCAULEY

Rep. Joseph Brett's long political career appeared to have ended when he was upset by 22-year-old Michael Morrissey for the Democratic nomination for state representative in the third Norfolk District.

Morrissey drew 2,373 votes to 1,525 for Brett, 69, who was seeking his 10th two-year term in the Legislature. John McIntire of Squantum polled 478 votes.

Young Morrissey happily hung a sign on a fence on East Squantum Street after the results were in. It said, "Good morning, thank you!"

Congressman James A. Burke easily won re-nomination to a 10th term in Congress, defeating Patrick H. McCarthy of Randolph by more than 11,000 votes.

TAX RATE TO BE SET

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia announced Quincy's fiscal 1977 tax rate will be set shortly. LaRaia said he "feels the increase will be at least $25 per thousand."

KEEPING UP WITH THE RED SOX

The Red Sox, with a 68-74 record, were in fourth place, 19 1/2 games behind the first-place New York Yankees. Luis Tiant was the team's leading pitcher with an 18-11 record. Outfielder Fred Lynn led the Red Sox in hitting with a .318 average.

Houghs Neck's Best Chowder Is Up For Vote Next Sunday

Houghs Neck residents, past and present, are invited to the second annual Houghs Neck Reunion "Chowdafest" Sunday, Sept. 24, from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Maritime Center, 137 Bayview Ave.

Admission is $5 per adult and each attendee will get to sample the chowders and vote for Houghs Neck's Favorite Chowder in both the individual and restaurant categories.

The individual winner will receive a cash prize and winners in both categories will be featured in the October edition of the Houghs Neck Bulletin. Restaurants should provide five gallons of chowder.

For those who eschew chowder there will be lazyman's lobsters fresh off the vessel November Gale and steamed hot dogs with a cash bar for soda, beer and wine.

Proceeds of the chowdafest will go to benefit the Houghs Neck Community Council's many programs.

"We chose the Maritime Center because many Neckers haven't seen it since Wally Hurley used to rent boats there," said Margaret Laforest, the event coordinator.

"The Maritime Center has been renovated and features a community room and a youth center on the lower level."

The boat ramp adjacent to the Maritime Center will be closed during the event as a safety measure.

"Last year's event attracted a large crowd and we're concerned for the safety of the crowd," said Laforest. "We apologize for an inconvenience this may cause the local boaters."

The public boat ramp by Perry/Parkhurst Beach will be open that day at no charge to users.

To enter the chowder contest, or to purchase tickets or for more information, call Laforest at 617-471-1806.

Quincy Access Television Open House Saturday

Quincy Access Television will hold its fourth annual open house at its studio, 88 Washington St., next to the Thomas Crane Public Library, Saturday, Sept. 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The public is invited to visit the studio where they may watch a live program while in production and learn the easy steps to becoming a QATV producer.

The new mobile production van will be available for tours.

Saturday will also feature the debut of "QATV Photography Gallery," a community-centered art exhibition space located at Quincy Access Television. This month's exhibition will feature Quincy Access Television members' photography.

Refreshments will be served. There will be a special guest for children.

Quincy residents who attend the open house may be eligible to enter a drawing for a digital camera.

Line Dancing For Seniors

The Quincy Council on Aging will hold a line dancing class for seniors every Thursday at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

RAY O'HARE (left), Erica Pressman and Gregg Carlo star in the North Quincy Community Theater's season-opening production of Something to Hide.

British Mystery To Open North Quincy Theater Season

The first show of the 2006-07 season for the North Quincy Community Theater will be the British mystery, Something to Hide, by Leslie Sands, directed by Tracy Phelan.

The performances will take place on the weekends of Oct. 6-7 and Oct. 12-14 at 8 p.m. at the Black Box Theater in North Quincy High School.

Tickets are $15 for adults, $12 for seniors and students. A season subscription for three plays is $30, a $15 savings off the regular ticket price.

Tickets can be ordered or reservations made by calling 617-769-0232 or visiting the website www.nqct.org.

Other productions planned this season include the comedy-drama Visiting Mr. Green in March and the farce Lie, Cheat and Genuflect in June.

ENC Choral Union Seeks New Members

The Eastern Nazarene College Choral Union, a choir of ENC students and members of the public, seeks new members for the Fall 2006 semester.

All adult singers are welcome regardless of experience or music-reading ability. High school-aged singers may also join with consent of the music director. Auditions are required and membership is free.

The choir will perform Handel's Messiah in December with members of the Quincy Symphony Orchestras and four professional soloists.

Rehearsals are held from 7-9p.m. Monday evenings in the Cove Fine Arts Center on the campus of Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston. The first rehearsal will be Sept. 11. New members will be welcomed at that rehearsal and the following rehearsal, Sept. 18.

For more information, call Professor Delvyn Case, Music Director of the ENC Choral Union, at 617-745-3614. Directions to the ENC campus are available at www.enc.edu or by calling the Music Department at 617-745-3715.

"WORKER BEE" STUDENTS from Broad Meadows School and alumni assisted at the 11th annual Senior Conference, showing people around the school, and answering questions. Keynote speaker Sister Paschala Noonan stands in the background. Teacher Donna Willoughby was the organizer.

Sr. Paschala Noonan:
'Live Life, Reach Out To Others'

Avoid Golden Age 'Glummies' Seniors Advise At Conference

By MIKAELA SLANEY

"From the moment that we are born until we die, we're growing older. We don't stop the process of getting older, sometimes unfortunately we stop the process of growing," Sister Paschala Noonan told a roomful of seniors Saturday.

Sister Paschala served as keynote speaker for the 11th annual Senior Conference, held at Broad Meadows School. Last year the conference was named for her brother, John Noonan, longtime chairman of the Quincy Council on Aging. He lived to see last year's conference named in his honor, but died months later.

"It was wonderful that (John Noonan) found out before he died. It was one of the highlights of his life," she said.

Other speakers at the event included: John Molloy, chairman of the Council on Aging Board, Larry Teglieri, principal of Broad Meadows School, Rick DiCristofaro, superintendent of schools, Tom Clasby Jr., director of Quincy Council on Aging, and Mayor William Phelan.

Sister Paschala, a retired nun with the Kentucky Dominican Sisters, earned journalism awards for experiences recounted in her novel "Signadou."

Sister Paschala advised the crowd to avoid the "golden age glummies," by making new friends and living life to the fullest, much like her brother. She spoke of her brother's infectious passion for life and zest for learning new things. She said that he taught himself to play the keyboard as a senior.

She said that he played horseshoes, took walks and valued physical fitness. He had competed in Senior Olympic meets since 1982 and registered for the 2006 Games three days before his death.

At the 2005 event he won the three-mile-walk. Sister Paschala smiled as she recounted learning later that her brother was the sole contestant.

"In my mind I was picturing the Boston Marathon at Heartbreak Hill, all the people were there and my brother leading the pack and getting the trophy," she said. The crowd laughed as she held up her brother's modest trophy which stood a couple inches high.

She told the crowd to ask themselves whether they were too old to make a telephone call, write a note to somebody who is housebound or to pass on a Council on Aging bulletin to someone who hasn't been able to come get one. She asked whether they were too old tell a story to a child or to listen to someone who is lonely.

"One of the things you need to do is to reach out to others," she said. "It's not how long you live, but it's what you do with those years, and you have no excuses for not doing something."

Broad Meadows Middle School "workerbee" students assisted with the program, guiding participants through the school and answering questions.

Following the dissertations, seniors participated in betterment programs. Instructors included: Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Business Association, Police Lt. Dan Minton, Psychologist Dr. Claire Weiss, Attorney Tom Williams, CEO of Quincy Medical Center Dr. Gary Gibbons, Tom Hannon, Health Commissioner Drew Scheele, Nurse Ruth Jones, Dorothy Ann Vitale of the Norfolk District Attorney's office, Historian Tom Galvin, and Dr. Charles Rippberger, Physician of the Year at Quincy Medical Center.

Also present at the conference were: Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis, City Council President Douglas Gutro, School Committee member Anne Mahoney, former City Councillor Pat McDermott, Norfolk County Register of Probate, and Tom Fabrizio, director of Quincy City Constituent Services.

City Democrats To Host Unity Meeting Saturday At Sons Of Italy

The Quincy City Democratic Committee will host a Democratic Unity Meeting Saturday, Sept. 23 from 9 to 11 a.m. at the Quincy Sons of Italy Hall, Quarry St., West Quincy.

The meeting is sponsored by Quincy's Democratic federal, state, county and local officials and more than a dozen unions. The event is part of the state Democratic Party's Victory '06 Campaign to elect Democrats to State House and Congress, with the governor's race being the most prominent elected office sought.

"This meeting represents an unprecedented effort to mobilize our Democrat Party base into a single force this November," said Quincy Democratic City Committee Chairman Charles Phelan.

The two-hour meeting will involve organizing volunteers to support the Democratic Party's ticket in the general election in November. This ranges from providing sign locations, making phone calls, and volunteering for the election Nov. 7.

"Everyone who wants to help get Democrats elected in November should try to come to this meeting," said state Sen. Michael Morrissey. "We need your help this year."

Those who want to participate but are unable to attend should contact the Quincy Democratic City Committee Chairman, Charles Phelan, at 617-472-6339.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

John And Jim's 'Marvy' Marinade

They say that chances of catching a foul ball at Fenway Park is one in 12,000. Well it happened to our young grandson John who lives in New York with his mom and dad, our son Jimmy and daughter-in-law Suzanne. They spent the weekend at our home and planned to go to the Red Sox game.

John is an avid baseball fan, and although he likes the Yankees, he still watches and likes the Red Sox. So he was thrilled when his dad was able to get tickets to a Red Sox game on a Saturday afternoon. His first time at Fenway Park.

Some people wait for years to catch a baseball. It was lucky that John took his glove to the game and was able to catch a foul ball thrown by Red Sox catcher, Doug Marabelli.

He was so excited as people took his picture, and one women actually ran up to him and gave him a big hug. People were yelling "hey, sign this kid up."

Anyway, you wouldn't think that this story leads to a recipe would you?

We were expecting a gathering at our house (almost 40) for a cook-out and although most of my preparation was completed, I hadn't marinated the sirloin steak tips.

Our son said he and John make a great marinade with Coca-Cola. Well my curiosity made my decision for them to go ahead and do it.

Here is the recipe , the steak was not only tender, but truly delicious. It got raves!

Special Steak Marinade
12-16 ounce bottle of Coca-Cola
2-3 cloves garlic
1/2 cup orange juice orange zest from one orange
2 tablespoons thyme
a pinch of chili powder
1 teaspoon paprika
1/3 cup olive oil
salt and pepper

Mix altogether and rub steak sparingly. Marinade for a couple of hours over overnight if you have the time. It makes even the tough pieces tender.

After it was grilled, it was not only tender, but had a distinct flavor and delicious!

Comcast Awards $25,000 Grant To Quincy Asian Resources

The Comcast Foundation has awarded a $25,000 grant to Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) to support the language, cultural and economic development needs of the growing Asian American population in Quincy as they seek to assimilate themselves into the wider community.

The Comcast Foundation grant will enhance and expand QARI's ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) for Living and Employment program, boosting enrollment by 100 to serve more than 240 students this year in an effort to significantly reduce the current waiting list.

The funds will also support curriculum development and training and supervision to classroom assistants and tutors, and provide other services to students, such as supplemental one-on-one tutoring and computer-based practice sessions.

"Comcast is committed to making a difference in the communities where our customers and employees live and work," said Tom Coughlin, Vice President of Comcast's Southeastern Massachusetts Region. "We are proud to partner with Quincy Asian Resources and the city of Quincy to expand the learning opportunities for our Asian American neighbors as they transition to their new home."

In addition to Comcast's support, the city of Quincy has also partnered with QARI providing classroom space in City Hall since Sept. 2005.

Mayor William Phelan said:

"We are proud to partner with Quincy Asian Resources to assist with their English language classes. I congratulate Comcast for their commitment to this important program and I look forward to its continued success."

John Brothers, QARI's executive director expressed his gratitude for the support of Comcast and the city of Quincy.

"This is a unique partnership between the business community, the public sector and a private not-for-profit organization, he said. Comcast is contributing essential financial means, the city of Quincy is providing logistical support and facilities and QARI is delivering high-quality programming, a successful recipe to enabling the Asian population to help meet the needs of Massachusetts in the future."

"QARI's ESOL program is an invaluable resource because it is the foundation for educational and employment opportunities," said Senator Michael Morrissey, a longtime supporter of the organization. "I am happy to see Comcast's commitment to this important local program that stresses and emphasizes the importance of learning English."

According to statistics cited by QARI, the Asian population in Quincy has rapidly increased over the last 15 years, underscoring the importance of enhancing support services as these individuals transition into the greater Massachusetts community. Data from the 2000 U.S. Census indicates that Quincy's Asian American population grew by 144 percent since 1990, making it the fastest growing racial group in the city. At that time, Asian Americans made up 13.4 percent of the total Quincy population. Just five years later, Asians now make up 27 percent of the students in the Quincy school system.

Cherry Ma, who emigrated to Quincy earlier this year from Guangzhou, China, has benefited from the services provided by QARI, after initially finding it difficult to learn the language, adjust to American culture and be so far away from family and friends. Thanks to QARI, Cherry was able to secure a position at Quincy Medical Center and recently began classes at Quincy College, where she will study nursing, a career she previously had in China. Most importantly, she now feels comfortable in her new home, saying, "the more people I meet, the happier I am here. I think America is a nice place to live!"

The Comcast Foundation was founded by Comcast Corporation in June 1999 and is the company's chief source of charitable support to qualified non-profit organizations. Since its inception, the foundation has donated more than $30 million to organizations in the communities where Comcast serves. More information about the foundation and its programs is available at www.comcast.com under "in the community."

Formed in 2001, Quincy Asian Resources (QARI) is a non-profit social service agency dedicated to promoting the development of the area's Asian-American population to benefit the wider community. It is a community-based agency that collaborates with other organizations to accomplish its objectives. It has 15 institutional members (other not-for-profit organization).

QARI provides services to the growing Asian population in Quincy and surrounding areas, including ESOL, citizenship and computer classes, and multi-lingual information and referral services to those seeking public services and educational programs.

Each year, QARI plans and organizes the Quincy Lunar New Year Festival and Quincy August Moon Festival, which bring together the Asian and the non-Asian community to celebrate Asian culture and heritage. QARI is located at 1509 Hancock St., Quincy Center. For more information contact them at 617-472-2200 or visit www.qari.info.

The meeting is open to the public.

Mayor's Fundraiser Oct. 2 To Aid Literacy Programs

Mayor William Phelan will conduct his annual Mayor's Cup fundraiser to help raise money for the Quincy Public Schools' early literacy intervention programs Monday, Oct. 2 at the Granite links Pavilion.

The fundraiser will feature entertainment from Java Jive, "the world's smallest big band," who have performed at the Arts in the Parks, First Night and many regional events. The evening will also feature fine food and live and silent auctions with prizes available.

The event will take place from 6-9 p.m. at the Granite Links Pavilion. Tickets are $25 and can be purchased by calling 617-984-8771.

"We have made great strides in helping our young people overcome literacy obstacles," said Phelan. "Through the support of our community we can continue our progress in helping our young people succeed."

Auction items available include Patriots' tickets, a suite at the TD Banknorth Garden for a Bruins or Celtics game, dinner theatre packages, limousine packages, children's birthday packages, autographed sports memorabilia, a dinner party for ten people, personal chef services, travel vouchers, and many other gift and specialty packages.

To donate an item for the auction, call 617-376-1990.

"I want to thank those in our community that have supported this great event," said Phelan. "Through their assistance, we are raising valuable dollars to help children learn to read and succeed."

The Mayor's Cup golf tournament will precede the fundraising event. For those wishing to golf or sponsor a hole, call Dave Murphy at 617-376-1990.

Tips To Paint Like A Pro

(NAPS) Ask professional painters how they get consistently beautiful results every time and they often reply: first prime, then paint.

In fact, research shows that one coat of tinted primer and one coat of paint will give a better-looking, longer-lasting paint job than two coats of paint. Here's why:

• Primers provide a foundation for paint. Ordinary paint is formulated to provide rich, beautiful color, but don't expect paint to do a primer's job. High-quality primers like Zinsser's Bulls Eye 1-2-3 are much richer in resin than ordinary paint and stick to the surface to provide a firm base for paint. Pleats it sticks to glossy, hard-to-paint surfaces, paneling, cabinets, glossy paints and vinyl siding, without sanding.

• Primers make colors look better. Because they create a sealed, stain-free surface for paint, primers make colors look vibrant and beautiful. They hide previous colors, even dark blues and reds, and prevent them from showing through new paint.

• Primers prevent common problems. Because primers are formulated to prevent problems such as cracking, peeling and blistering, they'll make any painted surface durable, washable and longer lasting.

• Primers save money. one gallon of high-quality paint costs more than one gallon of high-quality primer. By tinting primer towards the paint color, less paint is needed, and it gets rid of the extra step.

• Priming is easy. Bulls Eye 1-2-3 (for light and pastel colors) and Bulls Eye 1-2-3 Deep Tint (for medium and dark colors) are specially formulated for tinting. Just ask a paint store or home center clerk to add the same colorant they use to mix the paint to the primer.

For more helpful tips for a professional-quality paint job, visit www.zinsser.com, or call 732-469-8100.

SENIOR NEWS LINE

No Need to Fear Reverse Mortgage

All someone has to say is, "reverse mortgage," and most seniors back away. We've just heard too many bad things, mostly involving scams where seniors lose their homes. Or we don't understand the paperwork. Or we want to avoid the high transaction fees. Besides, we just spent the bulk of our adult lives getting the house paid off. Why would we want to take out another mortgage?

Why indeed. Because for some of us the income from a HUD-approved Home Equity Conversion Mortgage (HECM) could add hundreds of dollars a month to our retirement income.

In a reverse mortgage, we take out a percentage of the equity that's in our home. The difference is that we don't have to pay it back as long as we live in the house. When the house is sold, the lender collects the balance of the loan.

There are several ways we can get money from a HECM reverse mortgage, either as a lump sum or as term (length of time), tenure (fixed payments as long as we occupy the home) and line of credit.

How much you can get in a reverse mortgage depends on a calculation using your age and the value of your home. The AARP has a calculator at: www.rmaarp.com.

There are some requirements for getting a HECM. You must be aged 62 or older, have a low mortgage or own your home outright, and you must attend the free reverse mortgage counseling offered by HUD.

For more information call HUD at 1-800-569-4287. A HUD counselor will make sure you understand all the guidelines. To find HUD-approved counseling, call 1-888-466-3487. After you have three different offers for a reverse mortgage, call HUD back and a counselor will make sure you understand all the language in the potential contracts.

INTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Home Renovations: Miminizing Stress

(NAPS) Tackling a home renovation can be costly and time consuming, but it doesn't have to be a headache. There are ways to minimize the stress.

An 18-month-long renovation was recently completed at the Marriott London Grosvenor Square Hotel. The renovation took place with a minimal amount of disruption and inconvenience, thanks in large part to Ilse Mohr, executive housekeeper. Based on her experience, Mohr offers several suggestions to help renovation and cleanup go smoothly:

1. Work from a pre-defined plan. Without one, there will be no clear direction for the builders, and no recourse if things aren't right.

2. Decide what to achieve. For example, in the hotel's executive lounge, the goal was to create a comfortable yet functional place where guests could come to relax, eat and drink, socialize or get work done. There needed to be a hospitality desk, area to answer email, comfortable and flexible seating, an area to watch television and kitchen facilities.

3. Minimize changes. It's too easy to change things in mid-stream, but there would be significant extra costs and much more time used, even for minor changes.

4. Keep the end in sight. keep a drawing or rendering of the finished product nearby to keep focused through the upheaval.

5. In the kitchen, decide what kind of food will be prepared and what will be needed. Don't place a refrigerator (cold) beside the stovetop (hot). Place everything within reach to minimize walking around and maximize convenience.

6. in the bathroom, for a stand-up shower, install a hand shower. not only can the shower be adjusted to a person's height, the showerhead can also be removed and used to clean the bathtub.

7. Be cautious when choosing material for walls and floors. Limestone, for example, is popular but porous and takes a long time to dry. Shiny surfaces, such as marble, need to be treated and sealed.

8. When cleaning, start in one area and work around, cleaning one surface, one cupboard at a time until back at the starting point again.

9. Don't dust until after making the bed. It makes more dust. Vacuuming is always the last thing to do.

10. Be careful in cleaning surfaces, because just about any chemical cleaner or polishing solution will build up and make a surface sticky or dull. For more information visit www.marriott.com.

Workshop For Homeowners Sept. 26

Quincy Community Action Programs will sponsor a workshop for homeowners Tuesday, Sept. 26 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., fourth floor, Quincy Center.

The workshop is open to the public.

Homeowners will learn about financial and maintenance issues. Specific topics include equity loans and refinancing, home maintenance, government sponsored repair programs for homeowners, and dealing with mortgage default.

Speakers at the workshop will include a mortgage lender and a contractor.

"QCAP is holding this workshop as a natural follow-up to our monthly homebuyer seminars," said QCAP Housing Coordinator Rona Goodman. "It helps QCAP fulfill its mission of assuring stable housing for South Shore residents."

The workshop is free but registration is required.

For more information and to register, contact Kerri Clifford at 617-479-8181 ext. 119.

Reverse Mortgage Topic

Ed Barrett, a reverse mortgage specialist, will discuss his specialty on the first and third Wednesdays of the month at 1 p.m. at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy.

Reverse mortgage is a new program offered by the federal government thst allows seniors to convert a portion of their home equity into tax free cash.

For an appointment, call Ann Bruce at 617-376-1506.

Saggy Door Needs Straightening

Q. One of our bedroom doors doesn't close all the way because it sticks on the doorjamb. How can we fix this? — Clive C., Birmingham, Ala.

A. Over time, all houses settle a bit, and door frames can get a little out of whack. Or, a door's hinges can start to work loose. Or both. The result is a door that sticks a little whenever it's opened or closed. To straighten out that door in its frame, grab a helper, your toolkit and some cardboard shims.

Check the health of the hinges first. Have your helper try to straighten the door a bit, and look at the hinges as he does so. If screws holding the hinge plates in place seem loose, they need to be tightened.

This is best done by removing the door from its hinges before tightening the screws. Remove the door by knocking out the lower hinge pin first, then the upper hinge pin (always have your helper in place to control the door). Tighten the hinge screws; if any of the screws won't tighten down, remove the entire hinge and reset the screw holes by tapping a wooden dowel (a golf tee works well, too) coated with wood glue into the stripped hole. Allow the glue to dry for an hour, then drill a new pilot hole, replace the hinge and screw into place. Re-hang the door and check to see if it still sticks.

If it still sticks significantly (you need to tug the door to open it), try placing a cardboard shim (a thin piece of any cardboard cut to the same size) underneath the lower hinge to see if that raises the door a bit. This can misalign the latch, so don't shim too much.

If the bottom of the door sticks only a bit, try sanding the bottom of the door where it scrapes the jamb, until the door closes and opens smoothly.

Newcomers Finding The American Dream

Joseph Chan of Quincy is helping second and third generation Chinese Americans step out on their own and begin their new lives on the South Shore.

Chan has had his real estate license for 20 years, but only in the past year has he started using it to help young families find homes as an agent with the Jack Conway Co. Quincy office.

Chan has worked as a consultant for biotechnology companies, helping them find laboratory space to lease and to buy.

"As I was working in the industrial side of real estate in the Boston and Cambridge area, people who worked for those companies were asking me to help them buy homes," said Chan.

JOSEPH CHAN

Chan was born in China and came to the United States in the 1970s. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago and has lived in Quincy since 1980.

"I love to work with non English speaking Chinese people because they feel very comfortable with me and I like being able to help them," said Chan. "Younger Chinese Americans are leaving Chinatown in Boston and coming to Quincy because they want to be out of the city, but still be able to visit their families using the MBTA." Chan says he believes over 20 percent of the population in Quincy is of Asian ancestry.

Chan said he decided to join Jack Conway because of the excellent training programs they offer, which he says makes him a better agent.

"I want to be able to offer the best service possible to my clients and Jack Conway Co. takes education of their associates a top priority," he said.

Chan is married and has two children. He still runs a commercial consulting office in Quincy Center.

To contact Joseph Chan call the Jack Conway & Co. Quincy office at 1-617-479-1500. Or email jchan@jackconway.com

The Jack Conway Co. was founded in Hingham Square in 1956, and operates 45 sales offices from Boston to the South Shore, South Coast, and Cape Cod. The firm also runs Conway Financial Services, a mortgage company.

Mortgage Lenders Creating 'Affordability' Loans

(NAPS) Whether it's a dream home, vacation property or retirement condo, consumers face a housing market this year in which climbing interest rates are driving up the costs of buying a home.

Shopping for, and financing, an affordable home has become an increasingly daunting process in many frenzied markets. The median national home price now hovers around $224,000, but prices in hot areas often soar well above.

To address this dilemma, mortgage lenders have introduced a new crop of "affordability" loans, and homebuyers are turning to them as a means to comfortably manage their home financing over the long run. These nontraditional loan products are designed to create a reasonable monthly payment and eliminate dreaded rate increases and "pocketbook shock" from payment resets.

In fact, according to Opteum Financial Services, one of the nation's fastest-growing residential leaders, "affordability" mortgages, such as fixed-rate interest-only products, longer-term (40 year) fixed-rate mortgages and 80-20 loans, are exploding in demand. A few years ago, fixed-rate interest-only mortgages barely existed. According to another financial service firm, UBSAG, these loans now account for around eight percent of all new residential mortgages taken out in the U.S., and they're growing each month.

Here are some major trends to watch:

Long-Term, Fixed-Rate Interest-Only Loans

Interest-only (IO) loans have received the most headlines in recent years, but as interest rates creep upward, many consumers, including first-time homebuyers, are shying away from short-term IO loans in favor of longer-term fixed-rate IOs to avoid upward payment adjustments.

John Palmiotto, senior vice president for Opteum, said, "Since the average American keeps a mortgage for less than 10 years, fixed-rate IO loans can often help homeowners leverage their buying power in the beginning. After 10 years, when the loan fully amortizes, the assumption is that the borrower's income will also have grown and thus can comfortably absorb the remaining principal portion of the payment."

Momentum Of 40-year Loans

While 30-year fixed mortgages have been the "blue-chip" standard, 40-year fixed-rate balloon loans are now gaining major popularity. The appeal is that these loans offer a "happy medium" payment nearly halfway between an interest-only loan and a 30-year fixed. The drawback is its long payback term of 40 years.

The best approach for buyers is to work with their loan officer to educate themselves about the variety of product offerings out there that not only manage their cash flow but that will also be the best choice for their personal financial situation.

A Clean Home

(NU) - As you clean your home, remember to dig beneath the surface, because what you can't see can hurt you.

A room may appear immaculate, but millions of germs and bacteria are lurking where you least expect them. Consider equipping your home with a high-efficiency whole-home air purifier like the new Infinity Air Purifier from Carrier Corp. This purifier captures and kills airborne allergens, bacteria, mold spores and viruses.

QMC Awarded $2.5 Million As Essential Health Care Provider

Quincy Medical Center will receive $2.5 million in funds from the Commonwealth's new Essential Community Provider Trust Fund.

Competitive grants were awarded to specific hospitals and community health centers across the state considered essential to the health and well being of their area.

"As we enter the critical implementation phase of healthcare reform, we're counting on these providers more than ever to deliver high quality services at affordable prices," said Health and Human Services Secretary Timothy Murphy.

"The award is a vote of confidence in the hospital and the care we provide to South Shore communities," said Gary Gibbons, MD, President and Chief Executive Officer of Quincy Medical Center. "We are honored to be recognized by the Trust Fund for our importance to the communities we serve and are greatly appreciative of our state legislative delegation and Quincy city officials and their continued championing of QMC's vital role in the health and education of South Shore residents."

The Trust Fund was established under the new health reform law. Many of the essential providers that receive awards from the Fund will be integral to the efforts to enroll uninsured residents into the new health plans that will be offered as part of reform.

"We believe we can play an important role in making this new health reform effort a success," Dr. Gibbons said.

Quincy Medical Center (www.quincymc.org) is a 232-bed acute care community-teaching hospital providing South Shore residents with comprehensive medical and surgical services. The Medical Center's Alliance for Quality with Boston Medical Center (BMC), formed in 1999, brings academic medicine to the community. At Quincy Medical Center, physicians from Boston Medical Center direct the departments of medicine, surgery, anesthesia, emergency medicine, and psychiatry.

Additionally, physicians from BMC who are board-certified in a range of medical and surgical specialties work with community physicians to ensure the continuity of patient care. Presently one of the one of the fastest growing hospitals in Massachusetts, Quincy Medical Center has earned outstanding quality scores from national, specialty and state accrediting agencies, including a top rating from the American College of Surgeons' Commission on Cancer.

Senior Discount For Symphony Concert

—Mary Lynch, moved from Quincy

Like many, Mary Lynch had lived in her Quincy house for a long time and was a little hesitant to move to Linden Ponds, a dynamic community on the South Shore. But after taking a closer look, she decided it was the perfect place to live. "I've made some really good friends here," says Mary.

Since moving to Linden Ponds, Mary can now pursue her hobbies without the worries that used to come with owning a house. "I go to some of the exercise classes, and I play dominos and cards—I'm having a great time," says Mary.

QMC Cancer Walk Raises $130,000 For Curry Fund

The estimated 1,200 people who strolled along Quincy Shore Drive in the sunshine Sunday raised more than $130,000 to support cancer care services for all at Quincy Medical Center.

Participants, young and old, added another chapter to the Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk, which began in 1998 as the Marie A. Curry Walk.

Since then, walkers have now raised more than $1,386,600 for the Marie Curry Fund which provides free cancer screening for uninsured and underinsured men and women.

For those who chose not to walk the four miles, donations for the walk are still being accepted and can be sent the Quincy Medical Center Development Office, 114 Whitwell St., Quincy 02169.

"From the elementary school students who walk alongside their Cub Scout pack to the community teams who participate in honor of a friend or loved one who has faced cancer to the business owners who generously lend their support each year, the community support for the Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk is outstanding," said Dr. Gary Gibbons, QMC president and CEO.

"The tremendous community support for the Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk and the Marie A. Curry Fund furthers our efforts to ensure that all South Shore residents have access to advanced, high quality cancer screenings and services."

In addition to the walkers, more than 100 businesses served as sponsors of the walk, including:

Supporting sponsor ($5,000) - Commonwealth Building, Inc.

Contributing sponsor ($2,500) - Adams Plaza Donuts (dba Dunkin' Donuts), Aslanis Seafoods, Inc., Caldwell Banker Urban Communities, Fallon Ambulance Service and Quincy Rehabilitation and Nursing Center.

In addition to the beachfront stroll, walk participants also enjoyed a full day of family festivities, including pre-walk aerobics and post-walk massage therapy courtesy of Bay State Physical Therapy.

Also breakfast donated by area Dunkin' Donuts, lunch donated by Outback Steakhouse and musical entertainment by DJ Susie Cue. Freemasons of Massachusetts offered their Child Identification Program (CHIP) for parents of young children.

Honorary chairs for the event were Bob Curry of Curry Hardware and chairman of the QMC Board of Trustees, and Hank Bradley, director of Quincy Veterans Services, and the QMC Cancer Walk Committee.

The fund was started by Bob Curry with a $100,000 endowment in 1995 to provide free screening mammography at QMC to women in need.

The fund and later the walk were named for his late wife, Marie, who died of cancer. Free prostate cancer services to men were added later.

WALKERS create a traffic jam on Merrymount Parkway as they approach Southern Artery.

CURRY FAMILY children and grandchildren get ready for the start of the QMC Cancer Walk.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

FROM START TO FITNESS

by Andrea Wyatt M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

Stability Ball Is Not for Beginners

Q. At home the only exercise equipment I have is a stability ball. It came with a sheet of exercises and instructions on how to use the ball. I put these exercises together for a total body workout that I do three days a week. Are these workouts beneficial, or should I try to do something more?

A. The stability ball, also known as a fitness or physio ball, has become a popular exercise tool both at home and in fitness facilities. The large inflated ball, which looks like a pool- or child's toy, can be used to perform a variety of exercises.

The stability ball should be used as a tool to provide an unstable environment while completing exercises. This unstable environment is a progression from completing the exercises in their more basic form. The unstable environment encourages the body to recruit as many muscle groups as necessary to complete the exercise effectively. This recruitment can help improve muscle stabilizers.

It is important that you first perform correctly in a stable environment any exercises you would like to do on the ball. For example, before completing abdominal exercises on the ball, first perfect your technique on the floor.

The stability ball can be used while actually seated on the ball, against the wall, under your feet while lying down or even to provide slight upper body resistance.

It is important to have the right size stability ball for your height. While seated on the ball, your hips and feet should be parallel with each other. A sizing chart normally accompanies the ball to help you determine which size ball is right for you.

A basic total body workout that you can complete several days a week includes push-ups, back extensions, shoulder press, ball squats, leg curls and abdominal exercises, to name a few. Performed correctly, it can be a great workout.

Teamed with cardiovascular exercise and proper nutrition, your stability ball workout can be part of a great fitness program. Remember to be careful when trying new exercises on the ball, and don't complete an exercise on the ball until you feel comfortable performing the exercise without the ball.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. Good Health News From Granite Medical

An Ounce Of Prevention

By DR. NILS HOERNLE

"Don't ever get old!" my grandparents used to tell me. How can I avoid it, I wondered? After some reflection it occurred to me that what they really meant was, don't get unhealthy. Losing your health, it seemed, was about the same as growing old. Was the opposite also true, though? Is it possible for us to grow old without losing our health?

DR. NILS HOERNLE

The human body is truly remarkable, but for all its wonders, it does not come with an owner's manual. Fortunately, today we know a great deal about preserving our health. In this series I intend to discuss our current understanding of the major health risks, and some of the ways to prevent or minimize them. With a little wisdom and a little luck, it may be possible for many of us to live full and active lives well into our later years.

In the not-so-distant past, infectious diseases and poor sanitation resulted in the death of a large proportion of people. Yet with the advent of antibiotics, sanitation and hygiene, infectious diseases now make up only a small percentage of the death toll.

The leading causes of death today have shifted. Heart disease, cancer, and stroke now account for over 50%, with infectious diseases accounting for well under 20%. Surprisingly, many of the leading causes of death today are actually lifestyle diseases. These are highly preventable, and to a large degree, are the results of choices we make on a daily basis.

Lifestyle refers to the way we choose to live, or in some cases, are compelled to live by our circumstances. However, some of the most important aspects of lifestyle from a health standpoint are simple things we tend to take for granted – diet, exercise, sleep and stress. In fact, these four seemingly simple things account for much of the declining health in America today.

All too often, in our twenties and thirties, we tend to take our health for granted, perhaps working long hours or sacrificing a good night's sleep to meet a stressful deadline. We may grab some fast food on the way home, lie down on the couch with a computer or in front of the TV, perhaps with a drink or some dessert, and then finally go to bed. By the time we reach our 40's and 50's the poor diet, stress and lack of sleep and exercise translate into obesity, high blood pressure, high cholesterol and high blood sugars. We may start to develop back aches, joint pain, acid reflux, anxiety and insomnia. When we reach our 60's and 70's, these early conditions develop into full-fledged diseases such as heart attacks, diabetes, arthritis, sleep apnea and even cancers. If we smoke or drink we may start to develop lung or liver disease. Often by this point there is irreversible organ system damage.

Since about 1970 this progression has been accelerating in America, with many of these illnesses occurring at younger ages. Men are having heart attacks in their 40's and children are getting adult-onset diabetes. These disturbing trends are largely the result of the lifestyle changes occurring in western countries, as driving cars and hectic schedules replace exercise and restorative sleep, and fast food and packaged foods replace a more traditional diet of vegetables and fruits, whole grains, fish and nuts.

Recent advances in our medical understanding are fascinating, and we now know much about what it takes to stay healthy. This series of articles will focus on each of the main risks to good health, including not only early detection of disease, but also the prevention of some of the most common illnesses, including diabetes, heart attacks, strokes, cancers, osteoporosis, arthritis and lung disease.

By making a few relatively simple changes in our lifestyles, we can greatly improve our chances of leading long and fruitful lives. We may be able to tell our grandchildren, "Don't worry about getting old – just be sure to preserve your health!"

Amount Of Nicotine In Cigarettes Increased Significantly Since 1988

The amount of nicotine a smoker gets from smoking a cigarette has increased steadily over the past seven years, according to a new report released by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health (DPH).

The study found that, regardless of brand, the amount of nicotine that is actually delivered to the smoker's lungs has increased significantly. The data was collected from reports submitted to DPH from 1998 to 2004 by all tobacco companies that sell cigarettes in the state, as required by Massachusetts General Law Chapter 307B and Department of Public Health Regulations CMR 660.000.

Massachusetts is one of only three states in the country to require tobacco companies to submit this information annually.

"This is a story that needs to be told," said Gail Bork, program director for the Blue Hills Tobacco-Free Community Mobilization Network. "Smokers and their loved ones need to know that they're getting more nicotine than in the past, and they made need additional help in trying to quit."

The report found that:

• Overall, nicotine yields increased 10 percent from 1998 to 2004.

• As of 2004, 93 percent of all cigarette brands were rated high nicotine.

• Marlboro, Newport and Camel, the three most popular brands chosen by youth smokers, all delivered significantly more nicotine.

• Kool, a popular menthol brand, increased 20 percent. More than two thirds of African American smokers use menthol brands.

According to a number of major recent health studies, the nicotine in tobacco is a highly addictive drug that affects nearly every organ in the body.

• Increased levels of nicotine may make it more difficult for the average smoker to quit.

• Increased levels of nicotine consumed by pregnant women can lead to developmental delays in childhood as well as low birth weight infants.

• Nicotine changes the way that insulin works in the body. Smoking raises blood sugar levels, placing smokers at higher risk for developing diabetes and making it harder for those who already have diabetes to control blood sugar levels.

• Medications that treat depression and other mental illnesses can lose their effectiveness when combined with nicotine.

• Non-smokers, especially children, who are exposed to second-hand smoke can inhale up to seven times the amount of nicotine inhaled by a smoker.

Although cigarette smoking has declined in Massachusetts and in the U.S., Bork said tobacco use remains the number one preventable cause of death and diseases in the Commonwealth and the world.

More than 900,000 Massachusetts residents still smoke, and more than three of four say they want to quit. More than 9,000 Massachusetts children and adults die each year from the affects of tobacco use.

The recent Health Care Reform Act provides MassHealth subscribers with free nicotine replacement therapy (patch, gum, lozenge, etc.) and face-to-face or telephone counseling. Nearly 40 percent of MassHealth subscribers at smokers.

The Commonwealth also provides free telephone help for all smokers at 1-800-TrytoStop, and a website at www.TrytoStop.org.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

GOING WITH THE (WHOLE) GRAIN

There is already research to show that eating a diet rich in whole grains lowers a person's risk of developing diabetes and heart disease. Now, a recent study indicates that a diet packed with whole grains may also lower the likelihood of developing gum disease. This finding is based on analysis of the diets and health status of over 34,000 men over a 14-year period. Those men who reported eating the most brown rice, dark breads, popcorn, and other whole grains (about three servings per day) were 23 percent less likely to develop periodontitis (inflammation of the gums that also involves the underlying bones) than those who ate less than one serving of whole grains daily.

This column about the benefits of whole grains has been brought to you in the interest of better dental health. We believe in preventive dentistry. We know that you wish to receive your general dental care from a highly trained, caring staff; therefore, professionalism is very important to you. Our promise to you is that our office will provide you with dental care of the highest quality available, utilizing the most modern procedures and an extremely qualified staff. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. It is thought that eating more whole grains improves glucose metabolism, which lowers blood glucose levels, which reduces the risk of periodontitis.

North Quincy At Randolph Today,
Quincy Vs. Falmouth In Weymouth Friday

Home Football Openers Shifted To Road Sites

By SEAN BRENNAN

The city's two varsity high school football teams will have to wait until early October to take advantage of any home-field advantage that may have come with playing at Veterans' Memorial Stadium or Adams Field.

North Quincy and Quincy High School have been forced to re-schedule their home football games that were to be played this week on Thursday night and Friday night, respectively.

The North Quincy Red Raiders (0-2), who are looking to earn their first victory of the season, were slated to play Randolph High School this Thursday at 7 p.m. at Adams Field.

The game, which would have been North Quincy's first home game of the season, has been moved to a 4 p.m. start on the road at Randolph High School.

The Red Raiders will have to deal with an even shorter week of preparation than had been expected as a result of the threat of the Triple E virus that has plagued the South Shore in the early weeks of the high school season. The game time change from 7 to 4 p.m. and the change from a home game to an away game are two obstacles the Red Raiders will need to overcome if they hope to earn that elusive first win of the year.

North Quincy now has the daunting task of going on the road to play against a Randolph team that defeated Middleboro High School, 34-22 last weekend. The victory ended a 12-game losing streak for the Devils, one that had stretched back to the 2004 season.

The Quincy Presidents (1-0), who were scheduled to play this Friday at Adams Field (7:00) against Falmouth High School in their home opener, have also had their game moved. Quincy will play a revised home game against the Clippers on Friday at 7 p.m. at Weymouth High School (Commercial Street, South Weymouth).

The Presidents, coming off a bye-week, will be looking to up their record to 2-0 with a victory over Falmouth.

The cancellations of both home games for the local high schools are the result of the yet unfinished renovations to Veterans' Memorial Stadium and the city's concern for the playing field at Adams Field.

Quincy Athletic Director Jim Rendle expressed hope that come Oct. 6, the local teams will be able to open play at Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

"North Quincy will play their home opener against Plymouth North at Veterans' Stadium on Oct. 6," said Rendle. "The field turf is being installed today (Monday, Sept. 18) as we speak. The turf will have two weeks to settle and any additional field work that may be required will be finished in time for North Quincy's game on the 6th of October."

Quincy will host Marshfield High School on Friday, Oct. 13th on the new Veterans' Stadium turf.

Raiders 'Sandwiched' By Big Plays, Turnovers

Football

There is an old football cliché that says that a team that commits the most turnovers during the course of the game is most likely going to lose.

Add in four plays of close to 50 yards or more against your defense and your chances of winning become even more remote.

Case in point was the North Quincy Red Raiders contest this past Saturday against the Blue Devils from Sandwich High School. North suffered its second loss of the young football season, 26-6.

"Our defense was pretty solid, except for the four big plays that Sandwich had," said head coach Jim Connor. "What really hurt us all game was the number of penalties that we committed. We shot ourselves in the foot with 100 yards in penalties, after having no penalties last week."

The two teams were evenly matched throughout the first-half of play. The Red Raiders finished the first half tied with Sandwich 6-6, but North Quincy was unable to put anymore points on the board, while at the same time, breaking a cardinal rule in football by turning the ball over four times on the day.

The turnovers proved costly for North Quincy in the second-half, as Sandwich scored three touchdowns to turn a tight game into a blow-out loss. The Blue Devils' Brendon Kelliher scored all four of his team's touchdowns, including two back-breaking runs of 48 and 59 yards.

North Quincy's lone score came on a one yard scramble by quarterback Shaun McBrian in the first quarter. On the defensive side of the ball, the Red Raiders were led by senior defensive back/safety David Guerrero's 14 tackles and an interception by free safety Dennis Martin.

"We need to play a clean game this week if we want a chance to win," said Connor. "Our defensive was solid, but we were rotating guys in and out after our fullback got hurt. We need to play better this week."

North Quincy's scheduled home opener this Thursday at 7 p.m. against Randolph High School has been moved from Quincy to Randolph. The team now faces the prospect of going on the road to face an excited Randolph team that is coming off a 34-22 victory over Middleboro. That win ended a 12 game losing streak and gave Randolph their first win since 2004. – SEAN BRENNAN

Presidents Fall To Nauset

Boys Soccer

The Quincy Presidents' boys soccer team lost to Nauset High School last Friday, 5-0.

The team's record now stands at 0-2, 0-1 in league play. The team, under the guidance of head coach Kevin Orcutt, is still searching for an identity on both sides of the ball.

"With all the new faces that we have this year on both offense and defense, it is going to take some time for us to work as a complete unit," said Orcutt. "We did not play all that well defensively against a good Nauset team. We went down 3-0 early and it was an uphill battle from that point on."

The Presidents dropped a 2-1 decision to Brookline High School in their season opener. The team will look to get on track this week when they host Plymouth North on Wednesday and Plymouth South on Friday. Both home games this week will be at 4:00 at the Varsity Field.

ENC Edged By UMass

The U/Mass-Boston Beacons (3-1) came from behind to defeat the Eastern Nazarene Crusaders (0-5-1) 2-1 in recent NCAA Division III Men's Soccer action.

On a rain soaked day, the Crusaders took an early first-half lead on a 40 yard free kick goal by Quincy's own Erik Ranstrom. Ranstrom's boot found its' way into the penalty box where a group of players caused Beacons' keeper Paul Maniscalo to adjust his positioning to their movement, allowing Ranstrom's ball to find the back of the net. The goal was Ranstrom's first tally of the season.

U/Mass tied the game in the 56th minute when John DiPietro drove to the Crusaders' end line and crossed the ball to the far post where Henry Martin put a diving header by ENC keeper Steven Bracale. The Beacons completed their comeback after being awarded a penalty kick as a result of a collision in the box between Bracale and DiPietro. DiPietro converted the PK and the Beacons staved off the Crusaders' late second half attack to seal the victory.

Kim LeBel Earns Spot On Quinnipiac Softball

Former Quincy High School softball player, Kim LeBel, has earned a roster spot on the Quinnipiac women's softball team for the upcoming season.

LeBel, a three-time Atlantic Coast League all-star and a two time Patriot League All-Scholastic at Quincy, made the team at the Division I school as a walk-on. LeBel, who played both left-field and catcher at Quincy, was coached by head coach Mike Seder and will now have the opportunity to play competitive softball at the highest collegiate level.

Women's Fitness Classes

The Quincy Recreation Department, in cooperation with the Mayor's Commission on Women, will conduct two women's fitness classes at the Fore River Clubhouse.

The classes begin Sept. 18 and conclude Dec. 1.

Both programs will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 8:15 or 9:15. The instructor will be Karen Gaughan.

Each class includes exercise to improve and strengthen flexibility, endurance and overall fitness. Adaptations in the exercise allow each participant to work out at their own pace.

Cost of the program is $60. Registration is on a first-come, first-serve basis.

JOINT PAIN

Constant velocity (CV) joints are the primary drive-train components. They provide power transfer to the front wheels as well as allow for steering and suspension movement. Packed in grease and covered with rubber boots, CV joints don't require any maintenance. Still, the CV joints should be regularly inspected for leaks and cracks. In the event that the boots deteriorate and begin to leak, they will splatter grease on the inside of the wheel and on the suspension that will not be evident from the outside of the vehicle. It must be viewed from underneath. Replacing a boot immediately after a leak or crack is found costs a fraction of what it would otherwise cost to replace a CV joint.

CV joints can end up being costly repairs, if they completely fail. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we can inspect the CV joints and hopefully catch a problem before complete CV joint replacement is necessary. If you have any question regarding CV joints call 781-843-1550. If you want your CV joints looked at by a professional please bring your automobile to 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree. Open: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: Popping or clicking noises when turning, or clunking noises while accelerating may be indicative of the need of a new CV joint in a front-wheel drive car.

Bob Foley Club Jr. Farm Champs

Bob Foley Club recently defeated Timmins Club, 8-2, to capture its second straight Quincy Junior Farm League championship.

The champions posted a perfect 13-0 record this past season to extend its winning streak to 20 straight games over two years.

It scored three runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to defeat Yellow Cab, 5-3, in the second game and it doubled up Timmins Club, 4-2, in the semi-final game.

Lady Presidents Travel Basketball

The Lady Presidents Travel Basketball Program will begin its 2006-7 season with open gym time for prospective players and parents to meet the coaches and prepare for tryouts.

Girls in the 5th-8th grade are welcome to participate while coaches run through two nights of drills and scrimmages

Sessions will be held at the Lincoln Hancock School on the following Friday nights: Sept. 29 and Oct. 6 from 6-8 p.m. There will be a $5 fee per session for the open gym nights.

Tryouts are scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 10 and Thursday, Oct. 12 at Lincoln Hancock from 6-8 p.m. There is no fee for tryouts.

If you have any questions, call Kathleen Papile (617-770-0849) or Donna Parry (617-328-0885) for more information.

Additional information on the program and the Old Colony League will be distributed at the open gym sessions and tryouts.

The coaching staff for the 2006-7 season is as follows; Peter Papile and Rob Cerasoli (5th grade), Mike Toldness (6th grade), Chrissy Niosi and Tony Chiocchio (7th grade) and Janice Sullivan and Kerry Connolly (8th grade).

Quincy Youth Basketball Registration Sept. 23

Quincy Youth Basketball will hold registration for boys and girls in grades 1 to 10 Saturday, Sept. 23, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex, 1 Merrymount Parkway, Quincy.

Teams are small (10 to 12 players) for grades 3 through 10, which allows each child the opportunity to fully participate during the games. Practice is one hour per week on Friday nights beginning in late October or early November. Games begin the first Sunday in December and continue into March for playoffs. All games are officiated by IAABO-certified referees and feature 20-minute halves. Fee is $90 and includes instruction, games, playing jersey and trophy.

Our Under 8 Rookie League for first- and second-graders is an instructional, co-ed program that focuses on the fundamentals of the game of basketball. Teams are limited to no more than 12 players and usually include two coaches per team. Practice is one hour a week on Saturdays beginning in November and continuing through February. Fee is $45 per players and includes instruction, practice shirts and a trophy.

Proof of Quincy residency for all players is required along with a photocopy of the player's certified birth certificate (new players only).

As a bonus for returning players in grades 3 through 10 this year, there is a $20 refund for those who refer a friend (new to the program) who registers.

Coaches and assistant coaches are always welcome. For more information, call Susan or Chris at 617-479-8911 on Mondays or Wednesdays from 3 to 8 p.m.

Presidents Ladies Association Ladies Mix Results

The Presidents Ladies Association held their Ladies Mix this past Saturday at Presidents Golf Course. The winning team of Melanie Curtin and Gary Curtin took 1st Gross, followed by the team of Barbara Quinn and Jim Fitzroy at 2nd Gross. Sue Martinelli and Bob Meehan rounded out the top three, finishing in the 3rd Gross position.

Roberts McCann and Murt Naughton (1st Net), Gail Keefe and Keith Cross (2nd Net), Liz Harrington and Dave Pomarico (3rd Net) and Pat Hagan and Paul Ritchie (4th Net) finished out the day's top seven.

In Division I stroke play, Carol Mather won 1st Gross and Marian Conroy finished in 1st Net. Christine Rivard (1st Gross) and Mal Nestor (1st Net) were the winners in Division II stroke play, while Division III play saw Gail Keefe finish in 1st Gross with Rita Callahan taking 1st Net.

Chip In For Cancer Golf Classic Today At Granite Links

The annual Chip in for Cancer Golf Classic will be held Thursday, Sept. 21, at Granite Links Golf Club in Quincy to benefit the Jimmy Fund.

Entry fee is $195. All tournament proceeds support cancer research and treatment at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston. For more information, call 866-521-GOLF.

Each year Jimmy Fund Golf, the nation's oldest and largest grassroots golf program for charity, brings together hundreds of volunteers and thousands of golfers who are united in their love for the game of golf and their desire to fund cancer research.

Starting with individual benefit tournaments dating back more than 50 years, just after the Jimmy Fund was founded, Jimmy Fund Golf has steadily grown to more than 150 tournaments annually since it was formerly organized in 1983. In 2005, Jimmy Fund Golf events collectively raised $5.5 million.

North Notches 3-1 Road Record

Girls Soccer

When the season started two weeks ago, the North Quincy girls' soccer team was faced with the prospect of opening their season with four straight road games, including a game against Falmouth High School, a team the Red Raiders had not beaten on the road since the 1999 season.

Instead of wilting in the late summer sun, the Red Raiders head into their home opener (Wednesday versus Marshfield) with a competitive 3-1 record. Highlighted among the team's wins is their season opening victory over Hanover (2-1) and their non-league win at Fontbonne Academy (4-2).

The team knocked off Falmouth High School on the road for the first time in seven years last Friday, 1-0.

The Raiders only loss so far is a 6-2 defeat to Whitman-Hanson Regional High School, the 9th ranked team in the Boston Globe's EMass soccer rankings.

The Raiders best win on the young season took place in the rain last Friday in Falmouth. The first half saw both defenses hold their ground. NQ's Bridget Coleman, Ali Russell, Tara Whooley and Melissa Mendall all played well and helped control the pace of the game by limiting any Falmouth attacks to long shots on Raiders' goal keeper, Siobhan Carnell.

Midway through the second half, North Quincy's relentless pursuit helped force a key turnover at mid-field. The team counter-attacked, with Lauren Stille hitting a streaking Emily Milone with a perfect pass. Milone faked the last Falmouth defender before beating a diving Clippers' goal keeper to give the Red Raiders a 1-0 lead.

Carnell, who earned her first varsity shutout, came up with two outstanding saves late in the half to preserve the team's first win at Falmouth since 1999. Other notable performances for North was the play of Simone Leary, Kerry Coughlin and Paige Bonanni.

North was looking to start the season with four consecutive victories, but came up short against a powerful and skilled W-H team. The Panthers scored one minute into the game on a goal by sophomore star Kristie Mewis. W-H put North in a tough spot when they scored again ten minutes later, eventually going up by a score of 5-0. North got on the board on a goal from senior captain Bridget Coleman. Coleman's goal sparked a fire on the Raiders' side of the pitch, and the team responded with another goal from Mary Kate Stille on a perfect pass from senior captain Jillian Benn. The final result, a 6-2 loss, does nothing to take away from the team's solid 3-1 start.

"I'm pleased with our start, especially with our four opening road games and being 3-1," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "We have played four good teams to open the season, with Whitman-Hanson establishing themselves as the team to beat in the ACL. I was very pleased with our effort against Falmouth- That was a great win for our kids. I also feel we made some positive strides in the W-H game, outscoring them 2-1 over the final 50 minutes of play. If we can maintain that attitude, we'll be fine."

Sacred Heart's Fr. Heery Golf Tournament Oct. 4

Sacred Heart Parish will host its 14th annual golf tournament Wednesday, Oct. 4, at Presidents Golf Course, West Squantum Street, North Quincy.

The event has been dedicated to the memory of Father Cornelius Heery, who was pastor of Sacred Heart Parish for 20 years until his death in 1996.

The best ball scramble play will begin with a 1 p.m. shotgun start. Check-in will begin at noon at the clubhouse.

Entry fee is $125 per golfer, which includes the greens fee, cart, shirt, dinner and awards. Individual golfers and foursomes are encouraged to register.

An awards dinner will be held in the gazebo at the Best Western Adams Inn following the tournament.

Pre-registration is encouraged as each year the roster of 120 players fills early and golfers are turned away.

Individuals, groups and companies may sponsor a green for a tax-deductible donation of $150. All donations are welcomed. All proceeds directly benefit Sacred Heart Parish and Sacred Heart School.

For registration or sponsorship information, contact the Sacred Heart rectory at 617-328-8666 or visit the parish Web site at www.sacredheartquincy.org.

Greg Buck Memorial Scholarship Fundraiser At PawSox A Success

The second annual Greg Buck Memorial Scholarship fund-raiser turned out to be another success with many friends and relatives attending a recent Pawtucket Red Sox game in Rhode Island.

The scholarship fund is in memory of the late Greg Buck, who graduated from North Quincy High School in 1992. He received his bachelor's degree in design of the environment from the University of Pennsylvania and went to Harvard University where he was studying to complete a master's in architecture at the time of his death in 2004.

Buck was a runner and three-season captain of the track team at North Quincy. He was also a winner in the Massachusetts Science Fair at MIT three years in a row, winning second place twice and third place once.

The scholarship is given to a graduating senior at North Quincy High School who is involved in track or another school sport and is interested in studying architecture or a related field at a four-year college.

Mandy Li, who is attending Northeastern University in September, received this year's award. Previous recipients were Prasert Wiwatyukhan (2004) and Piya Wiwatyukhan (2005), who are studying engineering at Wentworth Institute.

Standing: Steven Ross, coach Bill Cook, Adam Cook, Aaron Clancy, Ryan Harty, Tyler Beach, Garrett Kulig, Jake Treynor, Eric McLoughney, coach Rick Beach and Nolan Flynn.

Bob Foley Club Jr. Farm Champs

Bob Foley Club recently defeated Timmins Club, 8-2, to capture its second straight Quincy Junior Farm League championship.

The champions posted a perfect 13-0 record this past season to extend its winning streak to 20 straight games over two years.

It scored three runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to defeat Yellow Cab, 5-3, in the second game and it doubled up Timmins Club, 4-2, in the semi-final game.

Lady Presidents Travel Basketball

The Lady Presidents Travel Basketball Program will begin its 2006-7 season with open gym time for prospective players and parents to meet the coaches and prepare for tryouts.

Girls in the 5th-8th grade are welcome to participate while coaches run through two nights of drills and scrimmages

Sessions will be held at the Lincoln Hancock School on the following Friday nights: Sept. 29 and Oct. 6 from 6-8 p.m. There will be a $5 fee per session for the open gym nights.

Tryouts are scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 10 and Thursday, Oct. 12 at Lincoln Hancock from 6-8 p.m. There is no fee for tryouts.

If you have any questions, call Kathleen Papile (617-770-0849) or Donna Parry (617-328-0885) for more information.

Additional information on the program and the Old Colony League will be distributed at the open gym sessions and tryouts.

The coaching staff for the 2006-7 season is as follows; Peter Papile and Rob Cerasoli (5th grade), Mike Toldness (6th grade), Chrissy Niosi and Tony Chiocchio (7th grade) and Janice Sullivan and Kerry Connolly (8th grade).

Quincy Youth Basketball Registration Sept. 23

Quincy Youth Basketball will hold registration for boys and girls in grades 1 to 10 Saturday, Sept. 23, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex, 1 Merrymount Parkway, Quincy.

Teams are small (10 to 12 players) for grades 3 through 10, which allows each child the opportunity to fully participate during the games. Practice is one hour per week on Friday nights beginning in late October or early November. Games begin the first Sunday in December and continue into March for playoffs. All games are officiated by IAABO-certified referees and feature 20-minute halves. Fee is $90 and includes instruction, games, playing jersey and trophy.

Our Under 8 Rookie League for first- and second-graders is an instructional, co-ed program that focuses on the fundamentals of the game of basketball. Teams are limited to no more than 12 players and usually include two coaches per team. Practice is one hour a week on Saturdays beginning in November and continuing through February. Fee is $45 per players and includes instruction, practice shirts and a trophy.

Proof of Quincy residency for all players is required along with a photocopy of the player's certified birth certificate (new players only).

As a bonus for returning players in grades 3 through 10 this year, there is a $20 refund for those who refer a friend (new to the program) who registers.

Coaches and assistant coaches are always welcome. For more information, call Susan or Chris at 617-479-8911 on Mondays or Wednesdays from 3 to 8 p.m.

Presidents Ladies Association Ladies Mix Results

The Presidents Ladies Association held their Ladies Mix this past Saturday at Presidents Golf Course. The winning team of Melanie Curtin and Gary Curtin took 1st Gross, followed by the team of Barbara Quinn and Jim Fitzroy at 2nd Gross. Sue Martinelli and Bob Meehan rounded out the top three, finishing in the 3rd Gross position.

Roberts McCann and Murt Naughton (1st Net), Gail Keefe and Keith Cross (2nd Net), Liz Harrington and Dave Pomarico (3rd Net) and Pat Hagan and Paul Ritchie (4th Net) finished out the day's top seven.

In Division I stroke play, Carol Mather won 1st Gross and Marian Conroy finished in 1st Net. Christine Rivard (1st Gross) and Mal Nestor (1st Net) were the winners in Division II stroke play, while Division III play saw Gail Keefe finish in 1st Gross with Rita Callahan taking 1st Net.

Chip In For Cancer Golf Classic Today At Granite Links

The annual Chip in for Cancer Golf Classic will be held Thursday, Sept. 21, at Granite Links Golf Club in Quincy to benefit the Jimmy Fund.

Entry fee is $195. All tournament proceeds support cancer research and treatment at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston. For more information, call 866-521-GOLF.

Each year Jimmy Fund Golf, the nation's oldest and largest grassroots golf program for charity, brings together hundreds of volunteers and thousands of golfers who are united in their love for the game of golf and their desire to fund cancer research.

Starting with individual benefit tournaments dating back more than 50 years, just after the Jimmy Fund was founded, Jimmy Fund Golf has steadily grown to more than 150 tournaments annually since it was formerly organized in 1983. In 2005, Jimmy Fund Golf events collectively raised $5.5 million.

North Notches 3-1 Road Record

Girls Soccer

When the season started two weeks ago, the North Quincy girls' soccer team was faced with the prospect of opening their season with four straight road games, including a game against Falmouth High School, a team the Red Raiders had not beaten on the road since the 1999 season.

Instead of wilting in the late summer sun, the Red Raiders head into their home opener (Wednesday versus Marshfield) with a competitive 3-1 record. Highlighted among the team's wins is their season opening victory over Hanover (2-1) and their non-league win at Fontbonne Academy (4-2).

The team knocked off Falmouth High School on the road for the first time in seven years last Friday, 1-0.

The Raiders only loss so far is a 6-2 defeat to Whitman-Hanson Regional High School, the 9th ranked team in the Boston Globe's EMass soccer rankings.

The Raiders best win on the young season took place in the rain last Friday in Falmouth. The first half saw both defenses hold their ground. NQ's Bridget Coleman, Ali Russell, Tara Whooley and Melissa Mendall all played well and helped control the pace of the game by limiting any Falmouth attacks to long shots on Raiders' goal keeper, Siobhan Carnell.

Midway through the second half, North Quincy's relentless pursuit helped force a key turnover at mid-field. The team counter-attacked, with Lauren Stille hitting a streaking Emily Milone with a perfect pass. Milone faked the last Falmouth defender before beating a diving Clippers' goal keeper to give the Red Raiders a 1-0 lead.

Carnell, who earned her first varsity shutout, came up with two outstanding saves late in the half to preserve the team's first win at Falmouth since 1999. Other notable performances for North was the play of Simone Leary, Kerry Coughlin and Paige Bonanni.

North was looking to start the season with four consecutive victories, but came up short against a powerful and skilled W-H team. The Panthers scored one minute into the game on a goal by sophomore star Kristie Mewis. W-H put North in a tough spot when they scored again ten minutes later, eventually going up by a score of 5-0. North got on the board on a goal from senior captain Bridget Coleman. Coleman's goal sparked a fire on the Raiders' side of the pitch, and the team responded with another goal from Mary Kate Stille on a perfect pass from senior captain Jillian Benn. The final result, a 6-2 loss, does nothing to take away from the team's solid 3-1 start.

"I'm pleased with our start, especially with our four opening road games and being 3-1," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "We have played four good teams to open the season, with Whitman-Hanson establishing themselves as the team to beat in the ACL. I was very pleased with our effort against Falmouth- That was a great win for our kids. I also feel we made some positive strides in the W-H game, outscoring them 2-1 over the final 50 minutes of play. If we can maintain that attitude, we'll be fine."

Sacred Heart's Fr. Heery Golf Tournament Oct. 4

Sacred Heart Parish will host its 14th annual golf tournament Wednesday, Oct. 4, at Presidents Golf Course, West Squantum Street, North Quincy.

The event has been dedicated to the memory of Father Cornelius Heery, who was pastor of Sacred Heart Parish for 20 years until his death in 1996.

The best ball scramble play will begin with a 1 p.m. shotgun start. Check-in will begin at noon at the clubhouse.

Entry fee is $125 per golfer, which includes the greens fee, cart, shirt, dinner and awards. Individual golfers and foursomes are encouraged to register.

An awards dinner will be held in the gazebo at the Best Western Adams Inn following the tournament.

Pre-registration is encouraged as each year the roster of 120 players fills early and golfers are turned away.

Individuals, groups and companies may sponsor a green for a tax-deductible donation of $150. All donations are welcomed. All proceeds directly benefit Sacred Heart Parish and Sacred Heart School.

For registration or sponsorship information, contact the Sacred Heart rectory at 617-328-8666 or visit the parish Web site at www.sacredheartquincy.org.

Greg Buck Memorial Scholarship Fundraiser At PawSox A Success

The second annual Greg Buck Memorial Scholarship fund-raiser turned out to be another success with many friends and relatives attending a recent Pawtucket Red Sox game in Rhode Island.

The scholarship fund is in memory of the late Greg Buck, who graduated from North Quincy High School in 1992. He received his bachelor's degree in design of the environment from the University of Pennsylvania and went to Harvard University where he was studying to complete a master's in architecture at the time of his death in 2004.

Buck was a runner and three-season captain of the track team at North Quincy. He was also a winner in the Massachusetts Science Fair at MIT three years in a row, winning second place twice and third place once.

The scholarship is given to a graduating senior at North Quincy High School who is involved in track or another school sport and is interested in studying architecture or a related field at a four-year college.

Mandy Li, who is attending Northeastern University in September, received this year's award. Previous recipients were Prasert Wiwatyukhan (2004) and Piya Wiwatyukhan (2005), who are studying engineering at Wentworth Institute.

B.C. High Dedicates Field To Quincy's Jim Cotter

Legendary Football Coach Honored

Boston College High School honored legendary football coach Jim Cotter of Quincy with a field dedication ceremony before its season opener against two-time defending champion Brockton.

BC High's new, artificial turf playing surface at Viola Stadium was dedicated in his honor. After a tribute in front of his family and friends and the entire crowd, the field was blessed and a new Cotter Field plaque was unveiled.

Cotter, 69, stepped down at the end of the 2004 season after 41 years as head football coach of the Eagles. A 1955 graduate of the school, he has served as athletic director, guidance counselor, teacher and, currently, special assistant to the president for alumni affairs.

BC High, a consensus top five preseason pick, knocked off Brockton, 27-20.

'Mr. Penguin' Winner In Recreation Department's Arts, Crafts Display

The Quincy Recreation Department's recent annual Arts and Crafts Display at City Hall plaza attracted a large turnout once again this year with more than 500 ballots cast for the 19 different projects.

After the two-day exhibit and the votes were tallied, "Mr. Penguin" of O'Rourke Park captured first place.

Taking second was "Under the Sea," a detailed diorama showing the underwater wonders of Black's Creek created by the staff and camp members of Happy Acres Day Camp, including supervisor Katie McEvoy.

Squantum Playground's large-scaled Wheaties box, "The Breakfast of champions," finished in a close third place.

Recreation Director Barry Welch said the children, recreation leaders, and the arts and crafts specialists deserve extra recognition for the hard work involved in producing such great projects.

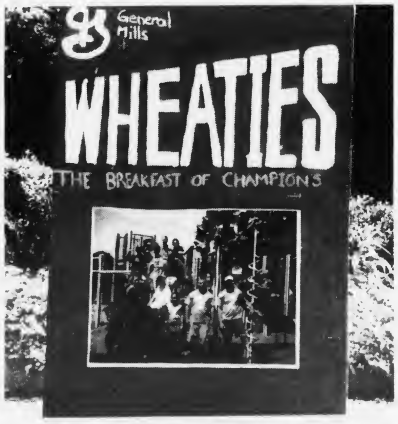
Arts and crafts specialists Christina Conley, Erin Croke, Shelly Donovan and Kristen Grazioso organized the exhibit and voting.

O'Rourke's participants included Devin Djerf, Nick Carbone, Liam Cain, Tara Sullivan, Emily Sullivan, Maria DiPietro, Stephanie DiPietro and Courtney Byrne along with recreation leaders Katherine Shea, Coleman McDonagh and Chris Boyd.

Squantum's participants were Annie Dow, Colleen Bellotti, Meghan White, Katie White, Caroline Kiley and Kathleen Calnan along with recreation leaders Rich Russo, Ian Jorgensen and Suzie Sweeney.

The participants at all 19 playground locations worked hard in order to receive prizes generously donated by local business establishments.

MR. PENGUIN created by O'Rourke Park captured first-place honors in the Quincy Recreation Departments' recent annual Arts and Crafts Display.



THE BREAKFAST of Champions Wheaties box created by Squantum Playground finished in a close third place.

"Many thanks to the kind generosity of Balducci's, Spukie's, Ginger Betty's, The Pizza Connection, Time Out Pizza and Dairy Freeze for donating prizes to our winners," Welch said. "Their generosity helps insure that the hard work of these youngsters does not go un-rewarded. Their sponsorship helped to make this year's event tremendously successful."

A Job Well Done

On Sunday, Sept. 10, at approximately 4:30 p.m., Officer Paul Foley was dispatched to Germain Avenue near the Clifford Marshall School to check on a large group of youths with sticks.

LT. DAN MINTON

Officers William O'Neill and John McGowan assisted on the call. When Officer Foley arrived on scene, numerous youths fled.

Neighbors came out and stated that the youths were preparing to fight other youths from another part of the city. The officers located some of the youths and learned that the fight was to take place later that night at the Marshall School. The youths were advised not to return to the area.

While checking the area, Officer Foley came upon a vehicle parked in the wrong direction, with two males in the front and two females in the rear seats. The officer, believing that they might be part of the troublemakers, pulled up alongside the vehicle and advised them that there could be trouble in the area and it would be wise to leave the area.

As Officer Foley left, he used his MDT (mobile data terminal) computer to check the registration of the vehicle, which was registered to a female with 27 adult arraignments. Officer Foley decided to inquire further and as he approached, the vehicle drove off and turned into a rear parking lot of a nearby home without using its directional. This perked the officers' interest because the driver had just told him that he was not from the area and would be leaving.

Officer Foley stopped the vehicle, approached from the right side and immediately observed a golf club resting on the seat next to the front passenger's leg. When asked what he was doing with the golf club there, the passenger said, "I don't know, it's not mine."

Sgt. Terrence McDonnell, Officers Paul Murphy and William O'Neill backed up Officer Foley. The driver did not have any identification but stated he lived on nearby South Street, which contradicted what he originally said. The driver was told to step out of his vehicle and once he emerged, Sgt. McDonnell saw a small glassine baggy sticking out from under his seat, which appeared to be a large amount of marijuana.

A further search revealed a second glassine baggy containing six mini-zip lock baggies with more marijuana.

The rear passengers were removed but no other drugs or contraband were found.

The driver was placed under arrest and transported to the police station, where the "Automated Fingerprint Identification System" provided the driver's actual name. A criminal record check showed that the suspect also had four outstanding warrants, for drug assault charges. In addition to the warrants, the suspect, an 18-year-old Quincy resident, was charged with "Possession of Class D Drug with the Intent to Distribute" and "Providing a False Name to a Police Officer Following an Arrest."

Compost materials

A compost pile needs a proper ratio of carbon-rich materials, or "browns," and nitrogen-rich materials, or "greens." Among the brown materials are dried leaves, straw, and wood chips. Nitrogen materials are fresh or green, such as grass clippings and kitchen scraps.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) After much traveling this year, you're due for some settled time with family and friends. Use this period to check out situations that will soon require a lot of serious decision-making.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Keep that keen Bovine mind focused on your financial situation as it begins to undergo some changes. Consider your money moves carefully. Avoid impulsive investments.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You'll need to adjust some of your financial plans now that things are changing more quickly than you expected. All the facts you need haven't yet emerged, so move cautiously.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Personal and professional relationships dominate this period. Try to keep things uncomplicated to avoid misunderstandings that can cause problems down the line.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) That elusive goal you'd been hoping to claim is still just out of reach. But something else has come along that could prove just as desirable, if only you would take the time to check it out.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) This is a good time to get away for some much needed rest and relaxation. You'll return refreshed and ready to take on the workplace challenge that awaits you.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Confidence grows as you work your way through some knotty situations. Watch out for distractions from well-meaning supporters that could slow things down.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Consider spending more time contemplating the possibilities of an offer before opting to accept or reject it. But once you make a decision, act on it.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You're in a very strong position this week to tie up loose ends in as many areas as possible. Someone close to you has advice you might want to heed.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Congratulations. This is the week you've been waiting for: After a period of sudden stops and fitful starts, your plans can now move ahead with no significant disruptions.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're in an exceptionally strong position this week to make decisions on many still-unresolved matters, especially those involving close personal relationships.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) The new moon starts this week off with some positive movement in several areas. A special person becomes a partner in at least one of the major plans you'll be working on.

BORN THIS WEEK: You work hard and get things done. You also inspire others to do their best. You would do well heading up a major corporation.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Service Of Remembrance, Healing At Community United Methodist Oct. 1

A service of remembrance and healing will be held Sunday, Oct. 1 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

The 11th annual interfaith service commemorates lives lost to domestic violence and honors survivors.

Marjorie Clapprood, executive director of One Family, Inc., will be the featured speaker at the event which provides a time and place to mark both personal and communal losses, honor survivors who have reclaimed their lives, and to renew the commitment to ending family and partner violence and abuse.

The evening will include personal testimonials, musical performances, and a traditional candlelight vigil in memory of all Massachusetts victims who died Oct. 2005 to present.

A tee-shirt exhibit crafted by and for victims will be on display as well as critical resource information.

Childcare will be available.

The free public event is sponsored by the South Shore Coalition for the Prevention of Domestic Violence, Quincy churches, and area organizations and individuals.

Any donations will go to DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended), a comprehensive program in Quincy.

Quincy Community United Methodist Church is next to CVS across from the MBTA/Red Line/Wollaston, and is wheelchair accessible.

Street parking is available.

Quincy Community United Methodist To Celebrate World Communion Sunday

Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, will join all United Methodist Churches worldwide in celebrating World Communion Sunday Oct. 1.

At the 10:30 a.m. service, music from several different countries will express the global nature of Communion in Christianity. Sunday School students will bring a variety of breads forward and will place them on the altar; these same breads will be shared during Holy Communion.

"Fellowship in early Christianity included both a worship service and a shared meal – sort of an early version of a pot luck supper," said Rev. Dr. Susan E. Jarek-Glidden, pastor of Quincy Community United Methodist Church. "Quincy Community United Methodist Church will follow this tradition by sharing the same breads used at Holy Communion as part of a Sandwich Luncheon."

This is the second year the church will celebrate World Communion Sunday in this way. People are asked to bring different kinds of sandwich fillings for the sandwich luncheon.

"Last year we had everything from cold cuts to seafood salad to sliced cheese," said Rev. Dr. Jarek-Glidden, "so there's literally something for everyone to enjoy, including those with food allergies."

In addition to the worship service, Sunday School classes area also held at 10:30 a.m.

For more information, call the church at 617-773-3319.

Houghs Neck Congregational Church To Host 'Country Fair' Sept. 30

A scavenger hunt, chicken barbecue and contests from quilting to pie baking are among the highlights of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church Country Fair Saturday, Sept. 30 at the church, 310 Manet Ave.

The day-long event begins at 9 a.m. with a scavenger hunt. Fair booths will be open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., with booths for baked goods, homemade fudge, crafts, fresh produce and refreshments, including hot dogs, burgers, popcorn and cotton candy. In addition to country fair contests for quilting, pie baking, jams and jellies, flower arranging and funniest pet photo, the event will feature prize raffles as well as games and activities for the family.

A "Houghs Neck Idol" singing contest will be held at 3 p.m., with prizes for the winners.

The fair will conclude with a chicken barbecue from 5 to 7 p.m. and the awarding of prizes to contest and raffle winners.

For contest entry details or for more information on the fair, call 617-479-2311, e-mail hncc@comcast.org or visit www.hncong.org.

Bethany Congregational Church

Bethany Congregational Church, 18 Spear St., Quincy Center, will have Sunday worship at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Gary W. Smothers will conduct the service and preach a sermon entitled "Sermons From Mark 11) The Quiet House and the Challenge of Action." There will also be a children's message.

Childcare will be available for infants and toddlers.

Fellowship follows the service in Allen Parlor. Light refreshments will be served.

Vets Adviser At COA Office

John D. Miller of Home Care Partners, will be at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., each Wednesday to advise veterans or their surviving spouses of their in-home care benefits.

To schedule an appointment, call the Council on Aging at 617-376-1506.

OBITUARIES

Everett C. Kidder, Sr., 98

Career Military Officer

A graveside funeral service for Quincy native Everett C. Kidder Sr., 98, a career military officer and World War II and Korean War veteran, was held Sept. 13 in the Groveland Cemetery, Scituate.

Mr. Kidder died Aug. 24 at his home in Petersburg, VA.

After Pearl Harbor, Mr. Kidder enlisted in the Army Air Corps, was commissioned a second lieutenant and served in northern Burma and Assam, India, from 1942 to 1945.

He was a member of the 51st Fighter Control Squadron, with duties that included airstrikes and guiding transport planes between India and China. He was promoted to lieutenant and then to captain.

After World War II, Mr. Kidder worked for Prudential Insurance Co. in Boston and was recalled to service in 1950 during the Korean War. He commanded a radar air defense squadron on Resolution Island off southern Greenland.

His service assignments during the Cold War included duties in Alaska, New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, Georgia and Tokyo. During this time he was promoted to major and lieutenant colonel, and received numerous commendations and awards.

He trained NATO troops in radar intercept procedures at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla., and received a commendation from the Japanese Air Self Defense Force for his efforts to improve their air defense.

His last tour of duty was at Fort Lee, in Petersburg, where he retired in 1973.

He worked with disabled people and volunteered for the American Red Cross, the Petersburg Literacy Program and Meals on Wheels.

During the Great Depression, Mr. Kidder worked as a crew chief for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in New England, then, for a short time, for Prudential.

He was born in Quincy on July 21, 1908.

Husband of the late Velma Damon Kidder, he is survived by a son, Everett C. Kidder Jr. of Chattanooga, Tenn., and two granddaughters.

Funeral arrangements were by the J.T. Morriss & Son Funeral Home and Cremation Service, Petersburg.

Melina P. Ciapetti, 89

A funeral Mass for Melina P. (Maligno) Ciapetti, 89, of Quincy, a stitcher for many years at local garment stores, was celebrated Monday at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

She died Sept. 13 at home.

She was a member of St. John's Senior Citizens Club M-1 and enjoyed traveling.

Born in Portsmouth, N.H., she lived most of her life in Quincy.

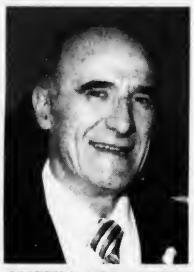
Wife of the late Everett Ciapetti, she is survived by two sisters, Mary D'Ambrosia of Weymouth and Anna Alongi of Quincy.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Bolea Funeral Home.

Joseph L. Bernasconi, 83

Manager At New England Telephone, Navy Commander During World War II



JOSEPH L. BERNASCONI

A funeral Mass for Joseph L. Bernasconi, 83, of Quincy, a Navy veteran of World War II, was celebrated Sept. 16 at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mr. Bernasconi died Sept. 13 at Deutsches Altenheim, German Center for Extended Care, West Roxbury.

He was a commander and naval aviator during World War II. He served in the South Pacific often flying off an aircraft carrier.

Mr. Bernasconi was employed as a manager at New England Telephone. He retired in 1986 after 46 years with the company.

He was a former member of the Parish Council at Sacred Heart Church. He was also active in Christ the King Church in Mashpee.

He was a member of the Quincy Knights of Columbus, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Retired Officers Association and the Pioneers Club.

Mr. Bernasconi was an avid gardener. He was also a "Jack of all Trades" who was talented in building, masonry, carpentry and plumbing.

He built a summer home in Mashpee and vacationed there for more than 50 years with family and friends.

Born in Boston, he previously lived in Dorchester before moving to Quincy 50 years ago.

Husband of the late Elaine M. (Hannigan) Bernasconi, he is survived by two daughters, Janet Larkin of New Jersey and Ellen Walsh of Needham; four sons, Stephen J. Bernasconi of Pennsylvania, Richard J. Bernasconi of Quincy, Mark Bernasconi of Alabama and Joseph J. Bernasconi of Roslindale; a brother Silvio Bernasconi of Braintree; two sisters, Nilda Rice of California and Janet Wallace of Quincy; and 11 grandchildren.

He was the father of the late David J. Bernasconi.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Donations may be made to the St. Vincent de Paul Society, 1524 VFW Parkway, Boston, MA 02132.

Calvin E. Kilpatrick, 82

Retired Marine Corps Sergeant Major

CALVIN E. KILPATRICK

A funeral service for Retired Marine Sgt. Maj. Calvin E. Kilpatrick, 82, of Quincy, a decorated veteran whose military career spanned three decades, was held Sept. 16 at Hamel, Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy Center.

Mr. Kilpatrick died Sept. 11 at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in West Roxbury.

He was a veteran of World War II, the Korean and Vietnam Wars.

Mr. Kilpatrick was wounded by North Vietnamese rocket fire during the 1968 Tet Offensive in the Vietnam War and awarded the Bronze Star for his actions in battle.

During the Korean War, he served as a drill instructor at Parris Island and with a Marine air wing.

He served at the Squantum Naval Air Station and the Hingham Ammunition Depot, and was a member of the honor guard at the activation of the South Weymouth Naval Air Station in 1953.

Mr. Kilpatrick retired from the military in 1976 in a ceremony aboard the U.S.S. Constitution in Boston.

He volunteered for more than 10 years at Jordan Hospital in Plymouth and at Plimoth Plantation in Plymouth.

He was also active in the William R. Caddy detachment of the Marine Corps League in Quincy and Disabled American Veterans Chapter 29 of Braintree.

Mr. Kilpatrick was a lifetime member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1822 of Plymouth.

He was an avid gardener and enjoyed ballroom dancing, reading and making ceramic items, especially Christmas trees for his family and friends.

Born July 22, 1924, he was raised in Quincy and attended Quincy schools. He left high school during the Depression to join the Civilian Conservation Corps and send money home to help his widowed mother.

He is survived by his wife, Ann (Scanlon) Kilpatrick; two sons, James Kilpatrick of Newton and Richard Kilpatrick of Brockton; four stepchildren, Mary Ann McIntosh of Weymouth, Patricia Rega of Abington, Valerie Michelangelo of Quincy, and William Dalton, Jr. of Braintree; 11 grandchildren, a niece and a nephew.

He was the husband of the late Geraldine (Nogueria) Kilpatrick.

Mr. Kilpatrick was buried with full military honors in Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to Father Bill's Place, 38 Broad St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Renato A. Tronca, 52

Plumber

A funeral Mass for Renato A. Tronca, 52, of Quincy, a plumber, was celebrated Sept. 16 at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Mr. Tronca died Sept. 13 at Carney Hospital in Boston after a brief illness.

Born in Anversa, Italy, he moved to America when he was 6 and settled with his family in Quincy in 1960.

He graduated from Quincy High School in 1972 where he played football and hockey.

He worked as a plumber with his brother, Mario Tronca, for many years at Tronca Plumbing and Heating in Quincy.

Mr. Tronca also played football for the Elks and served in the Army for nearly two years.

He is survived by his wife, Sylvia Wynands; three sons, Derek Tronca and Stephen Wynands of Plymouth; three daughters, Ellen Walsh of Pembroke, Laura Wynands of Attleboro and Kelly Wynands of Whitman; two brothers, Mario Tronca and John Tronca, both of Quincy; and many grandchildren.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

A wise man once said, "No single man makes history. History cannot be seen, just as one cannot see grass growing." Another wise quote comes to mind. . . History is the biography of mankind. Just as names make news, history is about people. Records of ancient, medieval and modern times are not primarily about events that took place. They are about things people did, how they reacted and how they responded.

The Old Testament is more than just the relating of events. It is more than just the relating of events. It is more than the writings of Hebrew poets and prophets. It is the story of people. It is the history of God's dealings with His people. It is like Emerson said, "There is properly no history, only biography."

Does it not make sense that if we are to understand the present, evaluate the past, and anticipate the future, we must do so on the basis of the personal interaction of men with their environments, and each other, and with God?

Office, Professional Employees Union Local 6 Headquarters Relocates

The Office and Professional Employees International Union (OPEIU) Local 6, representing professional and administrative employees within the trial court system of Massachusetts, as well as healthcare workers, the ambulance industry, municipalities, and a number of other occupations, has relocated its headquarters to 77 Parkingway, Quincy.

Until recently, OPEIU Local 6 maintained headquarters at another location in Quincy, at 1 Billings Rd.

Mary Mahoney, president of OPEIU Local 6, said the new office space offers more usable office space and a more convenient location for member services and the union's ongoing work.

"We see a number of great challenges and opportunities ahead," she said, adding, "We are working to help organize/unionize a number of workplaces that currently do not have such representation. This is a very busy and challenging time for us, and we look forward to carrying out our mission.

"It was important for us to remain in Quincy because of its location and its sense of community," she said.

The union has plans to host an Open House at its new location later this year.

Although Local 6 represents workers all across New England, many of their members are in Eastern Massachusetts.

OPEIU Local 6 is part of the national Office and Professional Employees International Union, first chartered by the American Federation of Labor in 1945. Nationally, the Union counts 115,000 members and is one of the larger unions in the AFL-CIO. OPEIU Local 6 serves more than 5000 members.

Mayor's Literacy Benefit Golf Tournament Oct. 2

Proceeds from this year's event will again benefit the early intervention literacy programs in the Quincy Public Schools.

"This event has helped raise much-needed funding for a cause that should be important to us all — helping young people learn how to read," Phelan said. "With your support, we can help a young person overcome a literacy obstacle that may be stifling their ability to learn across a range of subjects and could be sapping their enthusiasm. If we can turn that around at a very young age, we can change a person's life."

The golf tournament will be followed by a fund-raiser at Quarry Hills that will feature silent and live auctions, food, entertainment and more. Tickets will be sold separately to the evening fund-raising event.

Corporate sponsors, hole sponsors, golfers and auction prizes are being sought. Cost to enter a foursome is $1,000. Those who would like to support the event are asked to call Dave Murphy in Mayor Phelan's office at 617-376-1990.

"Every year we enjoy a great day on this beautiful course," Phelan said. "This is one of the most enjoyable events of the year and certainly one of the most rewarding. I encourage those who are considering supporting this cause to call us and help our young people."

To all persons interested in the above captioned estate, a petition has been presented praying that a document purporting to be the last will of said decedent be proved and allowed, and that MARGARET DESANTIS AHEARN of BOSTON in the County of SUFFOLK or some other suitable person be appointed executor, named in the will to serve without surety.

IF YOU DESIRE TO OBJECT THERETO, YOU OR YOUR ATTORNEY MUST FILE A WRITTEN APPEARANCE IN SAID COURT AT CANTON ON OR BEFORE TEN O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON (10:00AM) ON OCTOBER 25, 2006.

In addition, you must file a written affidavit of objections to the petition, stating specific facts and grounds upon which the objection is based, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) in accordance with Probate Rule 16.

WITNESS, HON. DAVID H. KOPELMAN, ESQUIRE, First Justice of said Court at CANTON this day, September 13, 2006.

INVITATION TO BID

INVITATION TO BID
CITY OF QUINCY, MASSACHUSETTS
PURCHASING DEPARTMENT
1305 HANCOCK STREET, QUINCY, MA 02169

The City of Quincy invites sealed bids/proposals for furnishing and delivering to the City of Quincy:

QUINCY COLLEGE ONLINE (WEB) REGISTRATION SYSTEM FOR JENZABAR TE SYSTEM OCTOBER 3, 2006 @ 11:00 a.m.

Detailed specifications are on file at the office of the Purchasing Agent, Quincy City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, 02169, between the hours of 8:30AM and 4:30PM.

Bids must state exceptions, if any, the delivery date and any allowable discounts. Bids/Proposals must be in a sealed envelope. The outside of the sealed envelope is to be clearly marked "BID ENCLOSED" with time/date of bid call.

Firm bid prices will be given first consideration. Bids/Proposals will be received at the office of the Purchasing Agent until the time and date stated above, at which time and date they will be publicly opened and read. Late Bids/Proposals, delivered by mail or in person, will be rejected.

If applicable, bids shall be in accordance with M.G.L. Chapter 30B, Chapter 149 as amended, and Chapter 30, Sections 39A, 39B and 39F-R.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept any part of a bid or the one deemed best for the City and waive any informalities in the bidding if it is in the best interest of the City to do so.

higher than was expected, but still light.

Of the 15,399 ballots cast, 14,259 were Democratic and only 1,140 Republican.

Local Democrat incumbents unopposed and their vote:

Congressman William Delahunt, 11,118; state Treasurer Tim Cahill, 11,418; state Senator Michael Morrissey, 11,085; Rep. Bruce Ayers, 4,422; Rep. Steve Tobin, 4,520; and Rep. Ronald Mariano, 1,890.

Unopposed Norfolk County Democrat incumbents and their vote:

Dist. Atty. William Keating of Sharon, 10,417; Clerk of Courts Walter F. Timilty, Jr., of Milton, 10,173; Register of Deeds William F. O'Donnell of Norwood, 10,209 and County Commissioner Peter H. Collins of Milton, 9,946.

City Clerk Joseph Shea attributed the low turnout to the fact that there were only four contests in the primary, three on the Democrat ballot and only one on the Republican.

Another factor, he said, was that all local Democratic incumbents were unopposed.

Over 100 Join Forces At Unity Meeting

Quincy Democrats Unite Behind Patrick In 'Grassroots' Campaign

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy Democrats, frozen out of the corner office in the State House for more than 15 years, made a show of united support Saturday for Deval Patrick of Milton, their nominee in the November election.

More than 100 of them, drawn from the defunct campaigns of Christopher Gabrieli and Thomas Reilly as well as Patrick, met at the Sons of Italy Hall to make plans for the upcoming race for governor.

Patrick, a former official in the Justice Department under President Bill Clinton who scored a landslide victory statewide in the three-way race, defeated Gabrieli by only 94 votes in Quincy.

The unity meeting was chaired by Charles Phelan, chairman of the Democratic City Committee.

Speakers at the unity rally included Cong. William Delahunt, who called the 2006 election "one of the most important governor's races in years," Sen. Michael Morrissey and John Walsh, Patrick's campaign manager.

Walsh stressed that grassroots campaigning was behind Patrick's victory in the primary election and he recommended similar activities for use against Republican Lt. Gov. Kerry Healey.

In Quincy, volunteers will be needed to host coffee hours for seniors, organize sign holding, put up lawn signs, write "Dear Friend" cards, make phone calls from phone banks and distribute literature.

Volunteers will also be needed to staff campaign headquarters at 39 Washington St., for the next six weeks until the Nov. 7 statewide balloting.

A fundraiser for Patrick has been tentatively scheduled for mid-October, since, after a costly primary fight, Democratic nominees usually face "a well-financed and often personally wealthy Republican nominee."

Other elected officials at the unity meeting, hosted by the Democratic City Committee, included:

Rep. Ron Mariano, Dist. Atty. William Keating, City Councillors Leo Kelly, Kevin Coughlin, Jay Davis and Mike McFarland, and School Committee members Anne Mahoney and Jim Timmins.

Those who were unable to attend but would like to participate in the Patrick campaign should contact Chuck Phelan, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, at 617-472-6339.

Volunteers should contact Jay Davis at 617-548-1902 or jdavis@gdc-law.com, or Anne Mahoney at 617-984-0274 or anne2cyclonedesign.com, or Pat McDermott at 617-594-0640 or pmnerca@aol.com.

A Proud Night For Mark Johnson

The City Council recognized Mark V. Johnson, of Troop 24 of Squantum, at Monday night's meeting, for recently earning Eagle Scout status, the highest achievement possible in scouting.

Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee read a commendation from the City Council, congratulating Johnson for his success. McNamee said that only five percent of scouts attain the status. "It's quite an achievement," he said.

Chinese Flag Still Stirs Emotions

By TOM HENSHAW

An apparently innocent but ill-conceived attempt to fly the flag of the People's Republic of China alongside the American flag over a Wollaston building has touched a nerve in Quincy.

To many in the city's burgeoning Asian population, it's the non-political flag of their former homeland.

But to veterans and others, particularly those who fought Communists in Korea and Vietnam, it's still the flag of the enemy.

The Chinese flag and an American flag flew briefly over the newly opened headquarters of the Chinese United Association (CUA) at the corner of Hancock and Beale Streets.

"The flag doesn't represent communism," said Jimmy Liang, the restaurateur and former city council candidate who has become the unofficial spokesman for the CUA. "It's the flag of China."

Tim Carrigan of Wollaston disagreed.

"What is offensive to me is the flag of an oppressive, totalitarian, communist dictatorship now flies proudly over Hancock Street, the birthplace of democracy," he said in a letter to City Councillor John Keenan that touched off the furor.

The headquarters office on the second floor at 665 Hancock St. was open Sept. 17 with Aimin Cui, deputy consul general from the Chinese consulate in New York and Mayor William Phelan in attendance.

Liang described the CUA

Offered As A Gift

Should City Accept Souther Tide Mill?

By MIKAELA SLANEY

It seems it's time to look the gift horse in the mouth.

Quincy was recently offered The Souther Tide Mill Property from a non-profit organization, but the gift has some assembly required. The property is considered rundown, and often inhabited by the homeless.

The assessed value for the property, given by the Mayor's Office, is $1,049,400, but restoration and maintenance costs are still unknown.

The question at Monday night's Environmental Committee meeting of the City Council was whether the costs of maintaining the three-acre property would outweigh the benefits of having city-owned waterfront property, that could promote local fishing and protect historic land.

Of the 27 miles of coastline, there is currently little or no public access to the waterfront, and most is used commercially.

The land, currently run by the Souther Tide Mill Historic Association, Inc., is located on the Town River and Town Brook. It includes three structures: the historic Souther Tide Mill which sits along the Town Brook, a smaller building that was used as an office building, and the outside building that was used as a lumber mill.

Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly and Dave Murphy, assistant to Mayor William Phelan, provided a video of the area to convince viewers that it was a natural treasure worth the upkeep. Despite the video, a public hearing yielded split results.

Former City Councillor Michael Cheney spoke against the immediate acceptance of the property. He said that although he does want to see the Souther Tide Mill property saved, the city should first research funding sources and costs of upkeep. He estimated $4 million in repairs, and said that a non-profit organization may receive more funding.

"I was hopeful that there would be a plan," he said. "We can't fix the property we have now, yet here we're going to take on a $6 or $7 million property... I haven't seen one dollar come in from a grant."

Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis disagreed. "If we think some other entity other than the city can do this, then we're fooling ourselves," he said.

Councillor Joseph Finn said that he has received nothing that equates to a business plan, but Kelly insisted that there are several funding sources available.

Cheney said that while he was a City Councillor, a non-profit group "begged the city to take it, but the administration said 'no.'"

Cheney said maintenance of the property would increase the tax burden by $3.4 million, and that residents would not be able to enjoy what they were paying for, as public access would be limited. "We're going to spend all this money for property we can't even go in," he said.

"As time went on... the property fell apart," said Cheney. "Now the building is a complete disaster." He said that homeless people seek shelter in the property, and that the floorboards are worn enough to fall through.

He said the mill is so deteriorated it would have to be torn down, which would defeat the purpose of giving it to the city.

Seven residents spoke in favor of the city taking the property, including the Harbormaster. They cited it's natural beauty and historic significance.

Dan Davis, vice president of the Boston Harbor Lobster's Association, spoke on behalf of lobster men, claiming that they are "just looking for a small part" of the property to use for business.

The meeting is set to continue in November, with additional information on legal liabilities, legal opinion, funding sources and upkeep costs.

"As soon as we vote on this, the city can get going," said Kelly. "The sooner the better."

Safety Issue Raised

Council Concerned Over Paving Of Gas Gate Boxes

By MIKAELA SLANEY

The City Council expressed concerns at Monday's meeting for the safety of Quincy citizens and firefighters, with the continued paving-over of gas electricity gate boxes throughout the city.

Carmen Fields, Media Relations director for Keyspan Energy, Quincy's local gas service provider, later told The Sun that gate boxes are mechanisms that allow utility operators to turn gas electricity on and off during construction or emergency situations. She said that the gate boxes can be found in various locations, including sidewalks and streets.

A recent letter from Councillor Joseph Finn, chairman of the Public Works Committee, and Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis, chairman of the Public Safety Committee, to D.P.W. Commissioner Stephen O'Donnell, reviewed a Massachusetts law. It said that "the appropriate gas company" must ensure that gate boxes are uncovered and accessible when the city paves streets and sidewalks.

The letter said that several resolutions to fix this problem have been "ignored by the 'appropriate gas company.'" Finn and Davis invited O'Donnell and representatives of Keyspan, to appear before the council to address these concerns.

"There is a responsibility there," Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin told O'Donnell. "Well over 9,000 gate boxes needed renovation."

Finn asked O'Donnell if he felt it is a critical situation if the gate boxes are paved over.

"Absolutely," said O'Donnell, but he insisted "we work very diligently to coordinate with the utility companies."

City Council President Douglas Gutro asked that the council be provided with a list of cases where gate boxes should have been lifted above ground, but weren't. Gutro said that the city has cause for concern over future paving. "My concern is that they're not getting the job done completely," he said. "The track record is not there."

Mayor William Phelan was made aware of the situation, and said in a letter that O'Donnell would follow up with a pre-project program, and that the topic "may be worthy of a City Council Public Works Subcommittee meeting."

Under Finn's recommendation, the City Council is inviting Fire Chief Tim Pettinelli to appear before the Council to represent the Fire Department on this matter.

According to the letter from Davis and Finn, the City Council will be looking into options to enforce the Massachusetts laws that protect gate boxes, and will ensure the Pavement Management Plan designed to address such issues.

The letter said: "The State Attorney General has even suggested penalties against paving contractors who knowingly pave over gate boxes as a possible way to ensure compliance. Surely, we as the city can provide some process as a way to protect our citizens and workers."

Over 60 Years Later

Quincy WWII Veteran Reunites With Soldier Whose Life He Saved

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

When Phil DiBona, who grew up in Quincy, saved a man's life during World War II, he searched for years to find out where he lived or if indeed he was still alive.

More than 60 years later as DiBona who now lives in Milford, Conn. was attending a DAV meeting there, he looked across the room and saw a man with the same insignia as he, the 45th Division serving in Italy under Gen. George Patton.

He walked across the room and introduced himself and found out through the conversation, that the man, John Simko was the man whose life he saved. And also that Simko had lived only a couple of towns away from Milford.

Both men attended the DAV meetings, but Simko's group merged with DiBona's in Milford and that's why they both were there.

PHIL DiBONA and JOHN SIMKO

While the two men who were in Division 15 were in battle in Mt. Casino, Italy, Simko was shot in the shoulder. DiBona, who was a First Aid Corporal, patched the wound, and while he was doing so, he, was also shot in his arm.

If DiBona hadn't been at the scene at that time, Simko's wound might have been fatal.

For that DiBona received one of his two purple heart.

Both men ultimately ended up in the hospital with casts on.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 25, 1913, 24-year-old Charlie Chaplin signs with Keystone, a production company known for its silent comedies. Chaplin will make more than a dozen movies in the next year alone, including "Making a Living," in which he played a mustachioed villain with a monocle.

• On Sept 29, 1907, Gene Autry, perhaps the greatest singing cowboy of all time, is born in Tioga, Texas. Autry's lasting fame came from his career as the film industry's favorite singing cowboy. His first movie, "In Old Santa Fe," was eventually followed by nearly 100 films. Autry died in 1998 at the age of 91.

• On Sept. 27, 1939, 140,000 Polish troops are taken prisoner by the German invaders as Warsaw surrenders to the superior mechanized forces of Hitler's army. The Poles fought bravely, but were able to hold on for only 26 days.

• On Oct. 1, 1940, the Pennsylvania Turnpike, America's first toll superhighway, officially opens for service. The Pennsylvania Turnpike was constructed at great expense, leveling any terrain obstructions that hindered efficient travel.

• On Sept. 30, 1954, the USS Nautilus, the world's first nuclear submarine, is commissioned by the U.S. Navy.

• On Sept. 26, 1982, the first episode airs of the television show "Knight Rider," starring David Hasselhoff as private eye Michael Knight. However, the real star of the show was "KITT," his talking car. KITT, a modified Pontiac Firebird complete with artificial intelligence and glowing red lights, assisted Michael in his detective work.

• On Sept. 28, 1991, legendary jazz trumpeter Miles Davis dies in Santa Monica, Calif., at age 65. The son of a St. Louis dentist, Davis began playing trumpet at age 13 and later moved to New York, where he became roommates with saxophone great Charlie Parker. Davis' hits include the classic album "Round Midnight."

The Speculation Stopped!!

The local political speculation mill closed down quickly when last week's Democratic primary results were in.

Deval Patrick closed the door and locked it.

PATRICK

PHELAN

The speculation centered around Mayor William Phelan.

Phelan had openly endorsed and supported Chris Gabrieli for the Democratic nomination for governor.

GABRIELI

If Gabrieli had won, so the speculation went, and gone on to defeat Republican nominee Lt. Gov. Kerry Healey Nov. 7, it could change the local political landscape.

Would Gabrieli make Phelan an offer he couldn't refuse? Like a judgeship. Or some high state post.

And if Phelan accepted, that would set the stage for a scramble for the mayor's office.

Who would run?

Joe Finn would be a likely candidate. He almost ran two years ago.

Council President Doug Gutro is interested. So are Mike McFarland and Kevin Coughlin. John Keenan hasn't publicly indicated he wants to be mayor. But he would be a strong potential contender.

And, of course, there always is Dan Raymondi who ran unsuccessfully against Frank McCauley in 1981 to succeed Mayor Arthur Tobin who was not a candidate for re-election.

Raymondi reportedly has a full war chest with which to launch a mayoral campaign.

And, if one or two of the councillors at-large did run, that would open up a couple of seats for a couple of ward councillors to shoot for. Which in turn would open up those ward seats to newcomers.

If Raymondi ran, his Ward 2 seat would be up for grabs.

And, so on and on went the pre-primary election speculation.

But Patrick ended all that.

Back to reality.

Phelan looks like he will go for a fourth term. Things are looking up for him and it is doubtful anyone in the city council will challenge him next year. If one were to, it mostly likely would be Finn.

Well, the speculation was interesting – while it lasted.

DAVIS

MAHONEY

GABRIELI HAD THE most local political support and lost Quincy by only 94 votes.

But the smiles election night belonged to the local Patrick camp: Norfolk County Register of Probate Pat McDermott and former city councillor; Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis and School Committee member Anne Mahoney.

And Steve Harold, Paul Harold's cousin, had to be smiling, too. He was with Patrick while the latter was still thinking about running and introducing him around Quincy.

BIGGEST VOTE GETTER here among the unopposed candidates on both the Democratic and Republican ballots was state Treasurer Tim Cahill with 11,418.

CAHILL

Behind him were Congressman William Delahunt (11,118), state Senator Michael Morrissey (11,085), and U.S. Senator Edward Kennedy (10,773).

Top contest vote-getter was Secretary of State William Galvin with 10,893.

Quincy, of course, is Cahill's hometown so a good vote for him isn't surprising.

But he's climbing the state Democratic ladder and someday could reach the governor's office.

Quincy Stop & Shop Stores Raise $67,500 For Jimmy Fund

Quincy Stop & Shop stores raised $67,500 as part of the 2006 Triple Winner Game.

The $67,500 is part of the $4 million raised in Stop & Shop stores across New England to benefit The Jimmy Fund.

Of the total raised by Quincy stores, the store at 65 Newport Ave. raised $47,500 and the store at 495 Southern Artery, $20,000.

The Triple Winner Game is a scratch card promotion in which every ticket is an instant winner, offering prizes of a free product, gift certificate or cash prize up to $10,000. Throughout the summer, store associates distributed the Triple Winner Game tickets for each dollar donated by customers to fight pediatric cancer.

"each year, our associates embrace this great program more and more," said Stop & Shop president and CEO Jose Alvarez. "As pediatric cancer has a face in every tragic case, so, too, does generosity have a face in every person who purchased a Triple Winner ticket. Together we have made a difference."

Dr. Mark Kieran, director of the Stop & Shop Pediatric Brain Tumor Clinic at Dana Farber, commented on what Triple Winner research dollars continue to mean in the fight against childhood cancer:

"Through the Triple Winner Game, Stop & Shop has put themselves on the front line against pediatric cancer, and they're helping us win the battle," he said. "Stop & Shop's support enables us to allow more options to treat patients, improving the chances of recovery and offering their families hope."

The Boston Red Sox partnered with Stop & Shop to help promote the Triple Winner program.

To date, the Triple Winner program has raised more than $38 million to support childhood cancer research and search for a cure.

The original North Junior High School was the center portion of today's building and was dedicated in February 1927. This school became Quincy's only six-year combined junior and senior high school with its first high school class graduating in 1934. The six-year arrangement lasted until the Atlantic Junior High opened in the 1960s and this became a three-year high school. Thank You For Making Farmers' Market A Success

Now that the season is turning to autumn, and the fall crops are still in full array at Quincy Farmers' Market 'til the end of October, I would like to publicly extend a sincere thanks on behalf of the farmers to the city of Quincy, Mayor Phelan's Office, Tom Koch from the Parks Department, and Les Brow, who's crew faithfully sections off an area for the market early Friday mornings. Thank you also to Mr. Kurbit of the city's Sign Department for the beautiful signs.

I would also like to thank all of our City Councillors, particularly Leo Kelly, Ward I Councillor, and Douglas Gutro, City Council President, for their faithful support. I would also thank Quincy Access TV, The Patriot Ledger and Quincy Sun for media publicity, Quincy 2000 for Farmers' Market inclusion and support, plus Mark Cary of Discover Quincy.

You will meet all these fine folks at the market shopping. You'll find Councillor Kelly at the Farmers' Market Fridays. You can see him listening to his constituents. It shows that the farmers' markets are also a convenient place to meet your City Councillors, not only to do your weekly, locally-grown produce shopping.

I see Councillors Leo Kelly and Doug Gutro at the Conservation Commission hearings, at the beaches and marshes Protection and restoration meetings, with their constituents. And finally, I like Councillor Kelly's booklet Guide to Quincy Beaches. It is a good resource, full of useful information. I hope our dedicated City Councillors serve our city for many more terms. Thank you all!

High Marks For Democratic Gubernatorial Candidates

My best congratulations to Deval Patrick for having won the Democratic Party primary for Governor.

My best congratulations also go to Chris Gabrieli and to Tom Reilly for having given their pledges to support Patrick to victory in November.

If Patrick wins in November, he will remember that Jimmy Carter and George W. Bush won their bids for Governor first before they won the Presidency. And Gabrieli and Reilly will not forget that Richard Nixon lost his bid for Governor of California before he won the Presidency.

The U.S. Senator Barack Obama deserves a special praise for having expressed his support for Deval Patrick before any other U.S. Senator did.

Personally, I graded with A+ all three Massachusetts Democrats, who took part in the Gubernatorial Primary.

Joseph LaRaia, a veteran politician who has held political office since 1960 and Richard J. Koch, Jr., a newcomer, were the big winners in the Tuesday, Sept. 22nd preliminary city election.

LaRaia, a former mayor, taking another step in his political comeback, topped the ticket in the councillor at large race with 7,044 votes and Koch was not far behind with 6,816 votes.

Others qualifying for the at large race on the November ballot, in the order of their finish, were School Committee member Patricia Toland, Timothy Cahill, incumbent Councillor at large John Quinn and William O'Hare.

School committee incumbents Mary Collins, Joan Picard and John Sullivan were nominated for four-year terms while Ward 2 community activist Ted DeCristofaro was the top vote getter in the race for Ward 2 city councillor. The voter turnout was 27.2 percent.

KEEPING UP WITH THE SOX

As the abbreviated season entered its final days, the Red Sox trailed the Detroit Tigers by 1/2 game in the seven team American League East Division. The Red Sox's second half record was 23 and 16 to Detroit's 24 and 16. The Sox beat the Yankees twice over the weekend by scores of 8 to 5 and 4 to 1. (Ed. Note: the season was interrupted by a 49-day strike.)

South Coastal Bank Awards $500 Grant To Quincy Art Association

South Coastal Bank announces Quincy Art Association has been awarded a $500 grant from its South Coastal Bank C.A.R.E.S. community giving program.

South Coastal Bank specifically designed C.A.R.E.S. to help local not-for-profit groups promote and encourage a sense of Community, Achievement, Responsibility and Excellence in children through exposure to the arts.

Quincy Art Association is dedicated to fostering and cultivating the visual arts through art education programs for children and adults as well as year-round special events and exhibitions.

The organization is using C.A.R.E.S. monies to fund children's art workshops during Quincy ArtsFest, a week-end-long art show featuring artwork and photography by children and adults from all over Massachusetts

For more information on South Coastal Bank C.A.R.E.S. or to download an application, visit South Coastal Bank's Web site, www.southcoastalbank.com, or contact community liaison Susan Lincoln at 781-681-7206.

Salem Seeking Volunteers For Haunted Ship Shows

It's Haunted Ship time again and the USS Salem needs help in entertaining and scaring its visitors in the days leading up to Halloween.

The pride of the US Naval Shipbuilding Museum is seeking volunteers to design, construct, write the script and even act in the event that begins Friday, Oct. 13, and continues weekends through Halloween.

This year, the non-profit organization has enhanced its annual production by adding guided ghost tours and a seance. The Haunted Ship is the Salem's biggest fundraiser.

A volunteer meeting onboard the retired heavy cruiser, docked at 739 Washington St. at the former Fore River Shipyard was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m.

For more information, or to volunteer, call Margaret Laforest at 617-224-2974 or visit www.hauntedship.com.

African-American Songteller Concert At Library Oct. 15

The Thomas Crane Library invites participants to "travel the world at your library" this year with new monthly series of cultural performances for all ages, Sundays from 3-4 p.m. at the library, 40 Washington St.

The series will feature music, dance, and stories from a variety of cultural traditions.

Oct. 15, "songteller" Janice Allen will take listeners on a rhythmic journey from the Georgia Sea Islands to the African continent, with a range of African and African-American percussion instruments and vocals. She combines a blend of African-American spirituals, gospel and Broadway musicals. Allen encourages audiences to dance and sing traditional African-American children's circle games.

JANICE ALLEN

Allen has toured nationally and made frequent concert appearances in Africa and Japan. She conducted the Boston children's choir that was featured at the Nelson Mandela Celebration at Boston Esplanade Hatch Pavilion before a live audience of over 200,000 people and a nationally televised audience. She is the winner of the 1989 Boston Parents' Paper Children's Entertainer of the Year award, and has performed lead roles in "Black Nativity," "Revels," and the Wheelock Family Theater musical "Sound of Music."

Other upcoming concerts at the library include South Indian music and dance, "Takademi," Nov. 19, and the "Chesara Trio," which features music from different lands for all ages Dec. 17.

All performances are sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library. For more information call the library at 617-376-1301, or visit www.thomascranelibrary.com.

October Movies Scheduled At Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library will feature two free Japanese screenings this month at the library, 40 Washington St.

The first film, a Japanese anime series "Trigun" will be Thursday, Oct. 12 at 7 p.m. "Trigun" takes place in the distant future on a deserted planet. Vash the Stampede is a gunfighter with a legend so ruthless that he has a $60 billion bounty on his head. Entire towns evacuate at the rumor of his arrival. However, the real Vash the Stampede is not the same man that rumor portrays him to be. The enigmatic and conflicted lead character in "Trigun" is actually more heroic in nature, as well as a complete and utter idiot at times. This program is intended for adults and teens aged 13 and older and is not suitable for younger audiences.

The library will also present the recently released Japanese film "Who's Camus Anyway," Thursday, Oct. 19 at 7 p.m. At a university in Tokyo, film students are working on a disturbing class project: a movie about a murderous student. The director, his assistant, and other members of the class have personal problems with life and love, and the story unfolds "just like in the movies." Directed by Mitsuo Yanagimachi, "Who's Camus Anyway" won a Best Picture award at the Tokyo International Film Festival. Although this film is not rated, it is not recommended for ages under 17 without parental permission.

Over 5,000 Attend 9th Annual Quincy ArtsFest

More than 5,000 attended the recent weekend 9th annual Quincy ArtsFest which featured over 500 works of art and photography.

The event included a juried art show, juried photography show, young artists show, live entertainment, art demonstrations, children's activity, a food court and other activities.

"From art enthusiasts to young families there truly is something for everybody at this event," said Mayor William Phelan. "The city is proud to continue to provide first-class events that appeal to a wide range of interests."

The ArtsFest was sponsored by the city of Quincy, Quincy Art Association, Quincy Park & Recreation Departments, and Quincy Access Television, sole corporate sponsor of the event for the third consecutive year.

Anet Paglierani, president of the Quincy Art Association expressed her pleasure with the overall success of the event.

"Each year we are amazed by the talent exhibited by the artists in the show. This year was our biggest display yet and the level of talent grew with it."

Paglierani said that the Art Association is already planning for next year's show.

TOM KOCH, executive director of the Quincy Park Department, Kristen Keohane of the Park Department and Barry Welch, Recreation Department director, had a lot to smile about at the successful Quincy ArtsFest.

More than 500 works of art and photography were on display throughout the weekend.

Virginia Wilson's "Harmonica Man" captured the "Best of Show" in the juried art show while "Working Late" by Lance Keimig took "Best of Show" honors in the juried photography show. In the young artists' exhibit, Faith Zeng's "Woman Sitting on a Bed" was awarded "Best of Show."

In addition, two awards acknowledged a painting and photograph with a focus on Quincy's landscape. The winners were Marshall Dyke's "Marina Bay" winning "best Quincy Painting, and Nancy Santry's "Constitution Common" winning "Best Quincy Photography.

Tom Koch, executive director of the Quincy Park Department, thanked the event sponsors and volunteers:

"The success of the show is a result of the dedicated efforts of the volunteers from the Quincy Art Association as well as the contributions from the local business community, particularly Quincy Access Television, who see the importance of the continuity this worthwhile event."

For more information on Quincy ArtsFest or related Quincy Art Association programs, call the association at 617-770-2482.

BRENDAN HANSBURY, 7, and Kristina Nardone, 7, had fun painting ceramics.

TOM KOCH, executive director of the Quincy Park Department, received a special award from Nancy Santry on behalf of the Quincy ArtsFest, "in recognition for his artistic talent in beautifying the city of Quincy with flowers."

Students' Scarves Add Extra To QMC Cancer Walk

Those who chipped in for an "Image of Honor and Memory" container at this year's Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk got a little something extra.

It was a cancer awareness scarf, designed and fashioned by students in Maryrose Mirick's Clothing 2 and Clothing Major classes at the Center for Technical Education.

"Images of Honor and Memory" is a collection of pink, blue and white sand-filled containers inscribed in honor and memory of a cancer patient displayed at Pageant Field, Merrymount.

A white container is "In honor of" a cancer survivor and a pink (for women) or blue (for men) container is "In memory of" a person who died of cancer.

This year, persons who donated $5 for a container also received one of the 300 pink scarves turned out by Mrs. Mirick's students.

Supplies were made possible by a grant from the Quincy Public Schools Community Service Support Grant funds and Joanne's Fabric of Hanover scoured nine of its chain stores for enough material.

Before she became a teacher, Mrs. Mirick was a member of the original QMC Cancer Walk, the Marie Curry Walk, as a director of the QMC Foundation.

Students who designed the finished scarves included:

Clothing 2, Period One - Elizabeth Bock, Nicole Bresnahan, Kayla Duggan, Jessica Giordani, Loren Golubio-Campbell, Leanne Hall, Briana Kiley, Kathleen McDowell, Amy Meloski, Shaneia Nelson, Kimberly Papile, Brittany Parker, Shannon Rice, Samantha Rodrigues, Janine Shappe, Rubina Zubcevic.

Clothing 2, Period 56 - Kathryn Carella, Christina Do, Shannon Hirl, Gabrielle Janes, Shannon Lally, Aline Martins, Stephanie Nye, Kaila Roach, Michelle Roman.

DEP Violations Cost Testa $75,000 In Yard Collapse

Testa Corporation has been fined $75,000 by the state for "numerous violations" found during inspections that followed the deaths of two workers in a craneway collapse at the former Fore River Shipyard in January, 2005.

The State Department of Environmental Protection (MassDEP) said Testa failed to file the required demolition notification with MassDEP before demolishing the craneway which collapsed on top of a turret building.

MassDEP also found that during the cleanup of debris from the collapse, the asbestos removal and cleanup was not done safely, asbestos was detected in the debris, water was not used and trick tracks were found in the asbestos debris.

Despite the fact that Testa is not a licensed asbestos abatement contractor, said MassDEP, its workers removed asbestos without notifying MassDEP and without using measures to control the release of asbestos fibers.

"Asbestos is a known carcinogen," said Richard Chalpin, director of MassDEP's Northeast Regional Office in Wilmington. "MassDEP will take swift and aggressive action against any one who fails to properly manage asbestos waste."

MassDEP issued unilateral orders to both Testa and March Fourth, owner of the site, to take corrective action. Testa then completed the remainder of the cleanup to MassDEP's satisfaction in May, 2006.

THE 73RD ANNIVERSARY of the Civilian Conservation Corps was observed recently at a State House luncheon, with eight former members of the depression-era public works group present. They were Francis Derwin of Quincy, northeast regional director of the National Association of CCC Alumni; Philip Gouzie of South Portland, Maine, first vice president; Ed DeSantis of Canton, Frank Evens of Marlboro, Donal Ball and Al Sarcione of Westfield, Hubert D'Ambrosio of Feeding Hills and Americo Cruz of Chicopee. They are pictured here with Sen. Michael Morrissey.

Photography Exhibit At Main Library

A public reception will be Sunday, Oct. 8 from 1:30-4:30 p.m.

"60+ Years of Photography" showcases work from the time Watson first used a camera in 1938 to digital images he has recently created in Photoshop. The exhibit will show how the reverse-color process and Color Key film was used to manipulate images before the advent of the personal computer and digital photography. Works on display will include both color and black and white pictorial, panoramic, and portrait photographs.

Watson joined the Photographic Society of America (PSA) and the Boston and South Shore Camera Clubs in 1965. He has exhibited in PSA-sponsored salons in the U.S. and 29 foreign countries, achieving PSA star ratings in nature and photo-travel slides and color print divisions and Galaxy rating in color slides. In 1967, Watson was among the top 25 exhibitors of color slides in the world.

Historical Societey To Lead Tour Of Berkshire Foliage

The Quincy Historical Society will conduct a foliage trip of the Berkshires Wednesday, Oct. 4, including a visit to the Museum of the Gilded Age in Lenox and the summer home of the sculptor Daniel Chester French in Stockbridge.

The bus will leave the QHS headquarters in the Adams Academy building, 8 Adams St., Quincy, at 7:30 a.m. and return about 6:30 p.m. Registration is $70 for Society member and $77 for non-members.

The Museum of the Gilded Age is a magnificent late 19th century mansion built for the sister of the financier J. P. Morgan. It was a featured prominently in the movie "The Cider House Rules."

Chesterwood was the summer home and studio of French, who created both the Concord Minuteman and the statue for the Lincoln Memorial. Many of his original master models are on exhibit in Chesterwood.

Lunch for the tourists will be at Jack's Grill in Housatonic, serving traditional New England cuisine including homemade soup, choice of pot roast with pan gravy or chicken pot pie, season fruit crisp and coffee or tea.

Ward 4 Community Center Receives $2,500

The City Council Monday night unanimously approved a $2,500 appropriation, transferred from the Ward 4 Mitigation Fund to the Ward 4 Community Center, West Quincy Teen Program.

Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis said that youths in his ward, ages 13 through 15, participated in a summer basketball league, and job training programs through the center.

Davis said that Mayor William Phelan has supported the center, and requested financial support to continue the programs.

Former Quincy Man Wins 'Green Chemistry' Award

A former Quincy man, widely known as the "father of Green Chemistry," has been selected to receive the 12th annual Heinz Award for the Environment, which carries with it a quarter of a million dollars in prize money.

Dr. Paul Anastas, 44, who acquired his basic scientific knowledge at North Quincy High School, Class of 1980, but now lives in Alexandria, Va., will receive the award at a private ceremony in Pittsburgh Oct. 24.

"Dr. Anastas and his green chemistry movement are addressing a question of global proportion one molecule at a time," said Teresa Heinz, chairman of the Heinz Family Foundation.

"He has not only pioneered a new process for decreasing, even preventing manufacturing waste, but his groundbreaking work has created an economic stimulus within industry that will help propel this approach far into the future.

"Over the past decade, he has already made significant contributions toward improving the health of our planet, and his legacy will be a cleaner, greener and smarter world."

Anastas contribution was to redesign benign chemical processes and products at the molecular level, thereby eliminating potential wastes before they are ever produced.

The changes brought about increased efficiency in processes, reduced costs associated with waste handling, disposal litigation and regulatory control, increased worker safety and decrease environmental pollution.

Thus began the "green chemistry" movement.

Dr. Anastas convinced the Clinton Administration to sponsor the Presidential Green Chemistry Challenge Award that inspired hundreds of companies to embrace his "Twelve Principles of Green Chemistry."

Since 1996, the award has recognized technologies that have eliminated 460 million pounds of hazardous chemicals and solvent, saved 440 million gallons of water and eliminated more than 170 million pounds of carbon dioxide.

Special Education Group Meets Every Second Tuesday

The Quincy Parent Advisory Council (QPAC) to Special Education will meet every second Tuesday of the month from 7 to 9 p.m. at Broad Meadows Middle School, 50 Calvin Rd., Quincy.

The next meeting is scheduled for Oct. 10 during which a volunteer will be available from 6:30 to 7 p.m. to address any specific question or concern a parent/guardian may have.

The Quincy School Committee's Subcommittee for Special Education will hold quarterly meetings in conjunction with QPAC to Special Education general meetings.

The meetings will offer a forum for parents/guardians, staff and administration to meet with School Committee members to address special education issues.

The next such meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Parker Suite of the Administrative Annex.

Neighbor's Complaints Against Tap Placed On Hold

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board Tuesday placed on its calendar complaints against Callahan's Tap, 296 Copeland St. when three neighbors refused to have any communication with owner Ed McNulty.

One neighbor Mrs. Henrietta Volpe who lives on the corner of Copeland and Furnace Ave. directly across the street from the tap said she would never have any dialogue with McNulty. She has been there for more than 50 years and has had many complaints against McNulty, she said. with no avail.

She said delivery trucks park right on the sidewalk, while patrons smoke outside with loud talking and disturbing the peace.

Volpe showed pictures of proof of several trucks during the past month.

One time she said, a truck knocked over a potted plant on her sidewalk.

Other neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Pitts spoke of patrons urinating around the Tap and doors open all day long so that the noise is louder than usual. He said many who are smoking outside are also talking on cell phones. They also called McNulty "uncooperative" when they complained to him.

Mr. Pitts said the problem of the parking is a "safety issue" because if a fire truck had to get by, it would be impossible.

When Mr. Pitts suggested that the Tap move to another location, Board Chairman Joseph Shea called it "wishful thinking" saying Callahans' had been there for more than 60 years.

Atty. Paul Hajjar said McNulty has already posted signs inside the Tap telling patrons not to park on the street as well as keeping the back door closed after 7 p.m. Also that all smoking be done in front of the building.

McNulty said delivery trucks come only once a week on a Thursday and stay about 20 minutes. The board advised McNulty to make sure the trucks do not deliver beer and wine before 7 a.m. and that they park on Copeland St. rather than Furnace Ave.

Ward Councillor Jay Davis speaking on behalf of his constituents said McNulty had addressed the problem of the delivery trucks, the parking and the noise and had promised to fix all three.

Jay Duca, director of inspectional services made the original motion to keep the issue on the calendar to be continued until January when the neighbors could return if they have any complaints.

Fire Chief Timothy Pettinelli suggested that Davis hold a neighborhood meeting in January.

Capt. Anthony DiBona who was sitting in for Police Chief Robert Crowley suggested they involve the community police officer with any further complaints.

Norfolk County Agricultural High School Open House Oct. 1

Norfolk County Agricultural High School will host an Open House Sunday, Oct. 1 from 1 to 4 p.m. on the school's grounds at 400 Main St., Walpole (one mile north of the intersection of Routes 1A and 27).

There is no rain date.

An old fashioned country hayride across the campus is one of the activities being planned for visitors.

The following demonstrations will be given by teachers, students, and alumni:

Residents of the 28 municipalities of Norfolk County pay no tuition. Out-of-county residents are assessed a tuition fee which is usually paid by the student's home school district.

Bus transportation is provided.

A unique blend of academics and agricultural/vocational training is offered at NCAHS, preparing students for a career or for further study. Many students continue their education at the collegiate or other post secondary level after graduation.

The open house provides an opportunity for families of 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th grade students, as well as current high school students considering a change in schools to find out first hand about the school's programs. The public is invited to all to inspect the campus and tour the facilities.

Health Fair At St. Agatha Oct. 7

St. Agatha Parish Nurse Program and Neponset Health Center will sponsor the Healthy Opportunities Health Fair Oct. 7 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the parish center, Adams Street, Milton.

A variety of health and safety information including health screenings, such as blood pressure, cholesterol, glucose, body mass index and skin cancer will be available free for area residents at the fair.

Representatives from local and Boston hospitals and fitness centers, will be on hand to answer questions and distribute information about any child, adolescent, adult and senior health topics, including: healthy eating, cancer prevention, medication safety, stress management and much more. Physicians, nurses, home care specialists and complementary medicine companies will be on hand. This event is multigenerational with something of interest for every age.

The goal of the health fair is to help parishioners and surrounding area residents become aware of the community resources available for staying healthy and for caring for loved ones.

The health fair is free of charge and open to the public. For more information call the Parish Nurse Office at 617-698-2439, ext. 121.

Phelan, Morrissey Thank Comcast For $25,000 Grant

By MIKAELA SLANEY

State Senator Michael Morrissey and Mayor William Phelan thanked Comcast at a press conference Sept. 20 for a $25,000 grant which will help assimilate the Asian American population in Quincy.

The grant will expand the literacy and employment program of Quincy Asian Resources Inc. (QARI). The program, English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL), teaches English skills to help the Asian population stay competitive in the job market. The grant is expected to boost enrollment from 100 to 240.

"Our world can be daunting enough without language barriers," said Phelan.

Richard Hung, president of the QARI board said the grant would "significantly increase the scale of the ESOL program," bringing a "higher level of service" for participants.

"When we grew up, the community was very different than it is today," said Morrissey. He said that there was only one Asian student in his graduating high school class. QARI statistics say that Asians now make up 27 percent of students in the Quincy school system.

"We try to give each client the resources, the means to go out into the world and survive and succeed," said Christina Liu, who works with QARI.

"To try to give people those skills... it really goes a long way," said Morrissey. "It really makes a difference in the lives of all the people in the city."

"We are very proud that we are able to make a $25,000 donation to such a worthy cause," said Tom Coughlin, Vice President of Comcast's Southeastern Massachusetts Region.

Also present at the event were John Brothers, executive director of QARI, and Charry Ma, a participant who has achieved success with the program.

Sovereign Bank is also a sponsor.

Fall session ESOL classes are underway. Basic, beginner, advanced beginner and intermediate classes take place at various locations throughout the city. The 16 week programs are $90, with a $25 book fee.

For more information or to register for these classes, call QARI at 617-472-2200.

Vision Deprived Meet To Learn New Skills

Seniors and others with limited vision meet twice a week Tuesdays and Fridays at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., to learn new skills from each other.

For more information, call the Council on Aging at 617-376-1506.

Adams Presidential Wreath To Be Laid At Church Oct. 30

The annual presidential wreath will be laid on the tomb of John Adams in United First Parish Church, Monday, Oct. 30, commemorating the 271st birthday of the second president of the United States.

The service to be held at 12 noon in what has come to be known as the Church of the Presidents will feature guest speakers who will reflect on the life and times of Adams, who was born Oct. 30, 1735.

The program also will feature the music of the Navy Brass Ensemble from Newport, R.I.

The service will conclude with the official presentation of the White House wreath, which will be laid on John Adams tomb in the church crypt, where his son, John Quincy Adams, and their wives also are buried.

Adams served as president from 1797-1801 and vice president under George Washington from 1789-1797 and lived to see his son, John Quincy, become the sixth president of the United States.

He died at his home in Quincy July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

—Mary Lynch, moved from Quincy

Like many, Mary Lynch had lived in her Quincy house for a long time and was a little hesitant to move to Linden Ponds, a dynamic community on the South Shore. But after taking a closer look, she decided it was the perfect place to live. "I've made some really good friends here," says Mary.

Since moving to Linden Ponds, Mary can now pursue her hobbies without the worries that used to come with owning a house. "I go to some of the exercise classes, and I play dominos and cards—I'm having a great time," says Mary.

You too can start enjoying the care-free Linden Ponds lifestyle

Property insurance is required. Flood insurance may be required. Applications subject to approval. Offer expires October 20, 2006.

Chinese Flag Still Stirs Emotions

as a civic organization of Asian businessmen, much like the Sons of Italy, who wish to establish programs for Chinese people in Quincy.

"We're more civic than QARI (Quincy Asian Resource, Inc.)," he said. "We want to start a dialogue with other organizations in Quincy."

The flag and an accompanying sign that identifies the group in Chinese and English lettering are both gone now but Building Inspector Jay Duca said he expects the CUA will file for a permit to replace them.

"They were taken down because they were illegal," he said. "I expect them to make a new application for the sign. They're entitled to it. No permits are given for national flags."

"Flags can be used to introduce a new product or service but they can be flown for only 60 days."

Signs, he said, can only cover 50 square feet on each side of the building.

The offending banner, red with one large and four small yellow stars, may have started out as a symbol of Communist China but it was since become a national flag.

"It's the same as our flag," said Liang. "The stars and stripes represent the states and the colonies."

"The big star is for the president of China and the small represent the farmers, the students, the soldiers and the teachers."

The pre-1949 Chinese flag, red with a blue square and white sunburst, is now the flag of Taiwan.

Liang said CUA plans to file for a permit to have a sign but it is being designed by a new company which will handle the permitting process.

Meanwhile, Henry Bradley, the city's veterans' services director, said he has heard a lot of complaints about the flag from both veterans and Asians.

"The Asians left the country to get out from under their rulers," he said. "They don't appreciate being followed to their new home.

"The veterans feel very strong about it. The feeling is strongest among Vietnam and Korean War veterans who had to deal with those people."

Councillor John Keenan said he has received a dozen or so phone calls and e-mails on the subject of the flag "and a lot of comment from people I run into."

"There doesn't seem to be any formal role the City Council can play in it," he said, "just the building inspector and maybe the zoning board.

"I've never been a fan of illuminated signs. When I was on the zoning board I had a reputation of being a stickler on signs.

"Maybe it's time to take another look at our sign ordinances. We have to keep up with what's going on in the sign world."

SENIORS BENEFIT FROM FOOT SURGERY

It's crazy to live with foot pain. Just ask the thousands of Americans who undergo surgery to successfully relieve foot pain every year, including many older individuals. A recent survey shows that 80% of elderly patients who elected to have surgery for their foot problems say they are very satisfied with the outcome. And 90% said they are better able to purse an active lifestyle with little or no pain thanks to their surgeries. The benefits of staying active throughout the senior years are well documented, which may explain why so many seniors are choosing to have foot surgery even after years of inactivity. Some specific foot conditions that may be helped by surgery include hammertoes, bunions, and arthritis.

We sincerely hope you are not suffering with painful, nagging foot problems because you think treatment might involve surgery. Many foot surgeries are now performed right in the podiatrist's office, and today's advanced, conservative techniques can save you discomfort, recovery time, and cost. If this sounds like something that might encourage you to seek professional care for your aching feet, please give us a call to see how our services can benefit you. We're located at 999 North Main Street, Randolph, in the MEDICAL OFFICE BUILDING. Office hours are also available at Quincy Medical Center and Milton Medical Building. Please call us at 781-986-3668 for an appointment.

HINT: When seniors decrease activity levels sue to foot pain, they increase their risk of developing cardiovascular disease, diabetes, depression, and bone and joint disorders.

Mayor's Literacy Benefit Golf Tournament Oct. 2

Proceeds from this year's event will again benefit the early intervention literacy programs in the Quincy Public Schools.

"This event has helped raise much-needed funding for a cause that should be important to us all — helping young people learn how to read," Phelan said. "With your support, we can help a young person overcome a literacy obstacle that may be stifling their ability to learn across a range of subjects and could be sapping their enthusiasm. If we can turn that around at a very young age, we can change a person's life."

The golf tournament will be followed by a fund-raiser at Quarry Hills that will feature silent and live auctions, food, entertainment and more. Tickets will be sold separately to the evening fund-raising event.

Corporate sponsors, hole sponsors, golfers and auction prizes are being sought. Cost to enter a foursome is $1,000. Those who would like to support the event are asked to call Dave Murphy in Mayor Phelan's office at 617-376-1990.

"Every year we enjoy a great day on this beautiful course," Phelan said. "This is one of the most enjoyable events of the year and certainly one of the most rewarding. I encourage those who are considering supporting this cause to call us and help our young people."

Morrissey Urges 'No' Vote On Grocery Wine Sales

Sen. Michael Morrissey, citing public safety and enforcement concerns, has announced his support for "No on Ballot Question 1" in the November general election.

Question 1 asks the voters to approve the sale of wine at grocery stores, convenience stores and gas stations, nearly doubling the number of retail outlets that could sell alcohol.

"In many case," said Morrissey, "clerks are not trained and are often underage and it will present a difficult enforcement problem. The ability to buy gas and wine at a gas station strikes me as a public safety hazard."

Morrissey said Massachusetts currently has some 2,500 liquor licenses available and passage of Question 1 would increase the number by almost 3,000.

"The alcohol business is already extremely competitive," he said. "The majority of alcohol licenses are small business owners and if Question 1 passes it will place a greater hardship on these local employers."

Right now, the number of available licenses is governed by the municipality's population and determined by state law. No corporation or entity may hold more than three licenses.

Morrissey compared the potential impact of Question 1 to the demise of neighborhood pharmacies following the surge in big box national chains.

Dorm Room Remodeling

Q: I am a new college student and just moved into my university's freshman dormitory. Frankly, it leaves a lot to be desired, but according to the university's rules I can't move into my own apartment for at least the first semester of this year. So I'm planning to do some remodeling. Can you tell me how to build a loft-style bed so I can lift my current bed up and out of the way to make more room? — Kerry in Boston

A: Hold on there — school dormitories have unique and usually much more stringent rules about remodeling than most apartments. So before you take a hammer and nail to anything, or even construct a free-standing structure to function as a sleep loft, review your copy of the dorm's rules and regulations.

Even if a certain amount of remodeling is allowed, the Resident Assistant must be notified and give approval before you start any work. In most cases, even if lofts are allowed they must be inspected by the R.A. (and sometimes a building inspector or other authority) to make sure they meet the school's safety standards.

Dormitories are designed to maximize available living space and allow students to focus on their studies, rather than be distracted by rent and utility bills, repair issues or remodeling projects. If your dormitory is not up to acceptable living standards — no heat, a bug problem, uncovered electrical outlets, broken lights or anything that can affect health and safety — notify the R.A. and the school's housing office in writing. Maintenance people are in place to make sure the dormitories meet applicable codes.

But if the issue is simply that the dorm doesn't match your tastes, you may be out of luck. You can certainly decorate with temporary decor like bedspreads, curtains and posters. Meantime, focus on the benefits of dormitory living and the lessons it has to teach about cooperative living — an experience that you will draw upon in many situations far beyond your college years.

Jack Conway Co. At South Quincy Festival

Jack Conway may be of Irish descent, but at the annual South Quincy Italian Festival recently, everyone in the Conway Quincy office was saying Ciao.

"We met a lot of wonderful people and had a chance to catch up with some old clients too," said agent Karen Boisson. "It was such a great family event and we were absolutely thrilled to be a part of it!" she said.

The Conway agents handed out many free real estate informational booklets and pamphlets, and held a raffle for a Conway Country blanket, for which the winner will be drawn soon

"Quincy is such a great city and theres always something going on, its exciting for us to be a part of this community," Boisson said.

The Conway Quincy office participates with a float in the annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade each year, and will also be holding a Halloween coloring contest.

Boisson says her office will also hopes to be part of the annual Fall Harvest Festival sponsored each year by the Quincy Business Association.

To contact the Jack Conway & Co. Quincy office call 617-479-1500, visit 253 Beale St., Wollaston, or email quincy@jackconway.com

The Jack Conway Co. is in its 50th year and is the largest independent real estate company in Massachusetts. There are 45 sales offices from Boston to the South Shore, South Coast, and Cape Cod. The firm also runs Conway Financial Services, a mortgage company.

Quincy Realtor Sponsoring Halloween Coloring Contest

Quincy youngsters age 4-12 are invited to demonstrate their best Jack-o-Lantern, skeleton, black cat, or witch in a coloring contest sponsored by the Jack Conway & Co. Realtors.

Coloring pages are available at the Conway Quincy office, 253 Beale St., or any Jack Conway open house through Sunday, Oct. 15. Drawings must be returned to the office in person, or through the mail, by Sunday, Oct. 29. Prizes will be awarded the week of Oct. 30.

All entries will be on display at the Conway Quincy office through Halloween. Call 1-617-479-1500 for more information.

Preparing For Power Outages

(NAPS) A recent survey found that a significant number of Americans expect to lose their electricity for 24 hours or more this year. Whether it lasts for several hours or several days, a power outage can damage home appliances, cause food to spoil and even put a family's safety at risk.

That same survey, conducted by the Propane Education & Research council, found that half of all respondents were concerned that their air-conditioning would shut down during an outage. Respondents were also worried about the loss of home security systems (25 percent) and the inability to use certain medical devices (29 percent).

However, experts warn that power outage-related threats don't stop there. The outages can keep sump pumps from working, affect electrically operated wells and water purifiers and even affect home business.

So how can people prepare for a power outage? One of the best ways may be a standby generator. The devices are wired directly into a home's circuit breaker box and turn on automatically whenever there's an outage. Unlike a portable generator, it doesn't have to be hooked into the home's electrical system in an emergency.

Choosing A Standby Generator

A generator may be bought from a home improvement retailer, or online retailer or from a generator dealer who will offer installation and service. Either way, make sure it comes from a reputable store or dealer and with a comprehensive warranty.

An average home's essential appliances will operate on an air-cooled standby generator with 7,000 to 13,000 watts of power. However, people with central air units that require a lot of energy to start up may need to buy larger generators. A certified electrician can provide an accurate reading of needs based on the appliances and circuits to be routed to the generator during an outage.

Powering A Standby Generator

Standby generators run on propane or natural gas during outages, which gives homeowners access to a reliable source of fuel to power their generator. Generators powered by propane tend to run longer than generators powered by other types of fuel. Plus, homeowners can store the propane in underground tanks that protect the fuel from the elements while keeping it readily available.

For more information, visit www.usepropane.com.

Is Homeowners Insurance In Synch With Needs?

(NAPS) A recent survey found that homeowners may want to build up their knowledge of how much insurance they need.

According to the Travelers In-Synch Homeowners Insurance Study, conducted independently by Harris Interactive, nearly 27 percent are not sure whether their insurance policy will cover the replacement cost of rebuilding if the home is damaged.

At least one quarter report that they are unsure whether damage caused by natural disasters is covered under their policy. Over one-third are unsure whether their policy will cover damage caused by a hurricane, and 42 percent are unsure about earthquake damage while 26 percent don't know about flood damage.

It's not just risks that should prompt homeowners to reassess insurance needs. Potential increases in value may also be a factor.

Many homeowners get insurance coverage when they buy a house but then don't revisit their policy for years. Even home improvements can impact coverage, remodeling, installation of burglar alarms, and major purchases, but the survey suggests that few people make sure their insurance remains appropriate.

The survey reaffirmed the value of working with an insurance agent to make sure that coverage types and levels are where they should be.

"We are encouraging people to talk to an independent agent to get more information about their coverage and to discuss their changing needs. It's about managing risks and keeping your insurance in synch with your risks," said Joseph P. Lacher, executive vice president of Travelers Personal insurance.

To help homeowners identify common risks, the company offers the In-Synch Challenge, a fun and informative game on www.travelers.com, that provides important risk mitigation information for homeowners.

Visitors are asked to tour homes and businesses and to solve common problems related to risks that policyholders typically overlook.

For example, one game asks participants to correctly place smoke detectors inside a home. Another challenges a home-owners understanding of high-worth items that can be found in the average living room.

Keeping insurance coverage up to date can help a family weather a variety of risks.

Put Moisture Back In The Home

(NAPS) As outdoor temperatures begin to fall, odds are that humidity levels inside the home are also falling. Warm, dry air that results from closed windows and heating systems that run for long periods of time begins to absorb moisture from everything around it.

Dry air pulls moisture from furniture and woodwork, leaving them dried out and sometimes cracked. Breathing in this air can be difficult, too, because it has a a similar effect on lungs. Homeowners frequently complain about increased respiratory problems, scratchy throats, nasal irritations and dry skin as the heat turns on.

It's no wonder. Wintertime relative humidity inside the home is 15 percent. That's less than the average humidity of the Sahara Desert, which stands at 25 percent. That's why most homes require additional moisture. Humidifying a home can protect the home and its contents and create a healthy environment as it improves the family's comfort level.

Fortunately, the heating, ventilation and air-conditioning industry offers a variety of products that can provide humidity for the home and return the moisture it desperately needs. A whole-house humidifier is a simple solution that can be installed in the home's ductwork. Air heated by a furnace or heat pump picks up moisture as it passes over the humidifier's evaporator pad, which is saturated with water.

Give The Home A Fresh Look

By JAMES and MORRIS CAREY

(NAPS) One way to give your home a fresh new look, without breaking the bank, is to invest a few hours in the much-needed home maintenance such as caulking.

Caulk is used by builders and contractors to prevent water from entering a home's seams and causing damage. Recaulking can prevent moisture from getting into walls and/or under tiles and floors where mold and rot can grow.

The cost of a tube or two of caulk and a bit of time may end up saving you the cost of major rot repair.

You can get by with a few basic types of caulks and sealants, such as latex or silicone and a can of spray insulating foam. Water-soluble latex caulk is for interior use along baseboards and around windows. Silicone caulks is better for use outdoors. If you plan to paint when finished buy a silicone caulk that can be painted.

You may also need a minitube of double-duty all-purpose adhesive caulk for household repairs, touch-ups and improvements, and a roll of new Tub & Tile Masking Tape by Polyseamseal.

Recaulking the bathtub is a great place to begin and it's easier than you might imagine. First, remove the old caulk by trimming it with a utility knife and then scraping or prying it out.

Once the old caulk is removed, clean and disinfect with one-part liquid chlorine bleach in three parts warm water with a dash of powered laundry detergent. Wearing gloves and eye protection and with good ventilation, scrub seams with an old toothbrush. Rinse well, dry completely and wipe down with denatured alcohol.

Next, lay down long, neat lines of tape, exactly 1/8 inches or 1/4 inches apart, cut to length for each wall to be caulked. Second, peel off the top "protective layer," revealing a strip of yellow tape with a wider backing underneath. One edge is 1/8 inches wider while the other side is 1/4 inches.

Finally, after deciding which size bead you want, just place that side of the tape (1/8 or 1/4 inches) both above and below the open seam, smooth it down and peel the backing away, leaving two straight, evenly spaced edging guides.

Then, lay in a bead of caulk, smooth it out with a wet finger and peel away the tape before the caulk dries. Special adhesive Duck brand Quick Corners Masking Tape Corners are also included.

For more information, call 800-624-7767 or visit www.polyseamseal.com.

The Carey brothers, James and Morris, are nationally renowned experts on home building, remodeling and everyday household maintenance.

A Job Well Done

On Saturday, Sept. 16, at approximately 1:30 p.m., Officers William Monteith and Michael Sullivan were dispatched to the Wash and Dry Laundromat on Washington Street to a complaint of a "male who exposed himself." Upon arrival, the officers met with the caller and learned the following:

LT. DAN MINTON

The caller said that he just returned to the laundromat to put his clothes in the dryer when he observed a man (suspect) next to him suddenly strip off all of his clothes and load them into a washing machine. He said the suspect was completely naked and exposed for about 30 seconds.

The caller immediately left the building to make sure that his young children, who were waiting in the car, did not witness the incident, then called the police. The witness stated there were five other people in the laundromat at the time but they were not in a position to see the suspect, who was naked for about 30 seconds.

He showed the officers where the suspect was standing, which was between the washer and the front window. The witness then directed the officers to the suspect, who was still in the laundromat but now wearing shorts and a shirt.

Officer Monteith spoke with the suspect, who stated, "I'm just doing my laundry." When questioned if he had his clothes on during that time, the suspect originally stated that he did, then added, "I may have stripped down to my boxers."

Officer Monteith asked him where the boxers were and the suspect said they were in the washing machine. He then asked the suspect how he was able to put the boxers in the washer without being naked and the suspect responded, "I'm having a bad day and I might have taken them off."

Officer Monteith advised the suspect of the seriousness of the offense, but the suspect did not seem concerned. Based on the information available, the suspect, a 41-year-old Quincy resident, was placed under arrest and charged with "Open and Gross Lewdness."

Nice work!

UPDATE: This is a follow-up to a story I wrote a few weeks ago regarding a woman being stalked in the Wollaston area.

On Tuesday, Sept. 19, at approximately 7:30 p.m., Officers Jamie Greene and Paul Brown of the Special Operations/Motorcycle Unit responded to the area of Hancock Street and Willet street for a call of a habitual stalker now standing outside the victim's house. The officers knew about the past incidents involving the female victim and the subsequent arrest of a suspect. The case is currently at the jury session level at Quincy District Court.

The officers found the suspect lurking in the foyer of an adjacent building. As Officer Brown detained him, Officer Greene interviewed the victim, who said that she was about to lie down, but decided to look outside her window because people had told her that the suspect was seen in the area in the past few days. Officer Greene confirmed that he could see the suspect from the window.

Officer Greene then questioned the suspect as to why he was standing there, as opposed to many other foyers in the area. The suspect did not say why, but did state that he was aware where the victim lived – the building, the floor and her apartment number! The suspect admitted that he was recently arrested for stalking the victim and blamed her for having him arrested, stating, "I was locked up for 18 days because of her."

In actuality, he served the time on an outstanding charge. Based on the totality of the circumstances, Officer Greene believed that the suspect willfully tried to intimidate the victim, so he placed the suspect under arrest for "Intimidation of a Witness," and transported him to the station for booking.

Nice work!

As you may recall, my main concern for the victim was that the suspect would return because he knew where she lived. If at all possible, do not lead the victim to your home!

REASON TO SPARE YOUNG TEETH FROM ANTIBIOTIC

According to various health professionals, prescribing the antibiotic amoxicillin to treat ear infections in young children may not be at all as effective as some might believe. And there is recent research that provides another potential reason to sidestep the use of amoxicillin in young children. According to researchers, children who take amoxicillin between the ages of one and three years of age have an elevated risk of developing fluorosis. This condition is characterized by teeth whose enamel becomes more porous, which results in staining and discoloration. While the cause of the problem has yet to be identified, this finding presents sufficient reason to give careful consideration to prescribing the medication for young children.

We'll be happy to answer any questions you may have on the subject of antibiotics. Your smile care needs deserve an exceptional dental office, with a professional care team who provides leading-edge care and more comforts that you ever thought possible in a dentist's office. We want to do more than meet your expectations - we want to exceed them. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we make it a point to get to know you and the specific needs of your family. It's important to us. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. Having nice looking teeth gives a boost to health and happiness. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

Women Invited To Share Quit-Smoking Success Stories

Are you a woman aged 25-49 who has quit smoking in the past one to three years?

You can share your story and help other women quit smoking.

An interviewer who will review their stories will contact women who call the toll-free number 1-866-586-3050. Up to 10 women will be selected to have their photos and stories used as part of a stop-smoking project sponsored by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. Their stories will run in radio, print and subway stories across Massachusetts.

Three out of four Massachusetts smokers say they want to quit. It takes most smokers five to seven quit attempts to quit for good. Those who use counseling support or medications greatly improve their chances of quitting.

"We know it's hard to quit smoking," said Gail Bork, program director for Bay State Community Services Tobacco Free Community Mobilization Network. "We also know that smokers who use stop-smoking medications and get support from a group, counselor or friends are more than twice as likely to be able to quit as those who try to quit 'cold turkey.'"

Free programs are available to help Massachusetts residents who want to quit smoking. The state's quitline at 1-800-TrytoStop offers information and free telephone counseling. Smokers and their families can also log onto www.trytostop.org for help to quit.

For more information, or to share quit stories, call toll-free 1-866-586-3050.

Quincy Comeback Falls Wide Left

By SEAN BRENNAN

After last Friday's Atlantic Coast League football showdown between Quincy High School and Falmouth High School, the league may want to take a page from the NFL and NCAA and institute some form of instant replay.

The Quincy Presidents, down 16-7, with just over two minutes to play almost completed what would have been a remarkable comeback over the Clippers of Falmouth. A disputed call of wide left on a Diego Arrendondo 37-yard field goal attempt with no time left on the clock, left the Presidents and their fans in a state of disbelief.

"From where I was standing I thought the attempt was good, but it wasn't, so what are you going to do," head coach Bob Noble said. "I'm disappointed with the loss, but I can't be unhappy or disappointed with the way the kids played, because they gave us everything they had."

The events that led up to the missed field goal seemed to suggest that the football gods were looking down on the Presidents. After watching Falmouth's quarterback, Mike Kotfilla (15 carries, 109 yards) eat up the clock during a 14-play, 67-yard fourth quarter drive that resulted in a 6-yard touchdown pass to Jon Nunez, and a two-score 16-7 lead with about 2:50 left, Quincy quarterback Matt Boyle responded in kind.

Boyle (12-21, 157 yards, two touchdowns), knowing he needed to score in a hurry, drove the Presidents' offense down to the Clippers' 42 yard line with just over two minutes to go in the game. On first and ten from the 42, Boyle, who played most of the game in the shotgun while running a spread offense, called out the play and looked to his right and then back to his left. Boyle recognized that senior Tom Hazelhurst was streaking towards the end zone in single coverage, and threw a perfect pass that Hazelhurst caught in midstride at the 5-yard line. Hazelhurst's speed and precise route running and Boyle's big-league throw brought the Presidents within three points at 16-13. Quincy went for the two-point conversion and failed, leaving open the possibility that a field goal would send the game into an overtime period.

Down by a field goal, Quincy needed to successfully execute an onside kick in order to have the chance to win or tie the game. Arrendondo's kick went the required ten yards and bounced off of a Falmouth player and right into the waiting arms of Hazelhurst. As the Quincy stands and sidelines erupted, Boyle and the offense took over at midfield.

North Quincy Gains Confidence But Not Win

FOOTBALL

The North Quincy Red Raiders football team may have lost their game last Thursday (Sept. 21), 20-16, to the Blue Devils of Randolph High School, but the team just may have taking a huge step forward in their development as a team on both offense and defense.

North Quincy was put up against the wall before the game's opening kickoff when it was decided that the team's scheduled home opener would need to be changed to an afternoon road game (a 4p.m. start) as a result of Veterans' Memorial Field not being ready for game play.

The Red Raiders jumped out to an early 7-0 first quarter lead on a highlight reel touchdown run of 62 yards by junior running back Terrence Sibley (17 carries, 108 yards). Sibley's run with 7:03 remaining in the opening quarter and placekicker Dave Guerriero's successful PAT seemed to instill a confidence on the Red Raiders' sideline that had been missing in the team's first two games, both losses.

Randolph, looking for its second win of the season, drove the ball 59 yards on their next possession, setting up first and goal from the North Quincy one yard line. The Red Raiders stopped the Blue Devils on first, second and third down, but on fourth down and goal, Randolph's quarterback, Paul Francois scored after calling his own number. The Devils attempted the two-point conversion but failed to find the endzone, making the score after the first quarter, 7-6 North.

The second quarter began with the teams unable to generate any consistency on the offensive side of the ball. North's defense held strong on the Blue Devils' first drive of the quarter, and on fourth down the Raiders' special teams came up with a huge punt block that gave the ol

AN EXHAUSTED SYSTEM

We may take an automobile's exhaust system for granted until something goes wrong. At that point, excessive noise, leaking exhaust gases, or lack of back pressure can make it nearly impossible to drive. Condensation and ordinary wear usually make it necessary to replace the muffler and exhaust pipes at some point in a car's life. With this in mind, it is best to get ahead of the game by having the exhaust system inspected at least every time the vehicle goes up on the lift. At the first sign of corrosion, rust, or road damage, have the necessary repairs and/or replacements made by an experienced technician. A damaged exhaust system is not a candidate for patches or inexperienced hands.

Exhaust systems impact many facets of your car's health. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we are trained to deal with your complete exhaust system, ensuring your safety and your car's performance. If you suspect exhaust problems consult an expert either by calling 781-843-1550, or coming to 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree . Sunoco and most major credit cards honored.

On first down, senior wide receiver Jim Atkins took a screen pass from Boyle 31-yards all the way down to the Falmouth 19-yard line. If not for a game-saving shoestring tackle from the Clippers' safety, Atkins would have walked into the touchdown with the winning score, but as it was Quincy had first and ten inside the Clippers 20-yard line.

The Presidents called the same screen play to Atkins on first down, but could not advance the ball, and after two more pass attempts failed, Quincy was faced with a 4 and 13. With the game clock winding down, Arrendondo and the field goal unit ran onto the field to try to send the game into overtime. A perfect snap and what looked like a successful 37-yard kick was signaled no good by the officials as the Quincy bench and fans went from exhilaration to disappointment. The kick went wide left by the slightest of margins, and the Presidents went home with a tough 16-13 defeat.

The excitement of the final three minutes capped off what was a well played high school football game. Quincy came out early in the first quarter in a no-huddle, spread formation offense with receivers on both sides of the field. Boyle finished off a 10-play drive with a jump ball fourth down pass that was batted around in the endzone before Quincy's Jared Tucker eventually came up with the football, putting Quincy up early, 7-0.

Falmouth responded to Quincy's offensive formation with their own unique style. The Clippers utilized the triple-option, a combination of three running backs lined up behind the quarterback. Quincy had a frustrating time trying to contain the triple-option while at the same time dealing with the resilient Mike Kotfilla. Kotfilla drove his team down the field for a score at the end of the first quarter. Nunez's one-yard touchdown run made it 7-6 Quincy. The successful two-point conversion put the Clippers up 8-7.

Falmouth did all they could to keep the dangerous Matt Boyle and his receivers off the field in the second-half with a pair of eight minute drives. The first drive ended with a missed field goal and the second resulted in the touchdown pass to Nunez.

"We ended up letting them control the ball a little too much and that ended up being the difference in the game," Noble said.

Quincy will take to the road once again this week when they travel to Plymouth North this Saturday. The game is scheduled to start at 1:00. At 1-1, the Presidents should be able to use the Falmouth game as motivation. The team showed poise on the offensive side of the ball, and with a quarterback like Matt Boyle and a handful of talented receivers, the Presidents should be able to recover from the kick that was called wide left.

North Quincy Gains Confidence But Not Win

fense and senior quarterback Shaun McBrien the chance to add to the team's lead.

The offense stalled when North fumbled away the ball on the Devils' 25 yard line, and Randolph wasted no time in driving down the field behind the running of seniors Lemuga Fonkem (25 carries, 107 yards) and Jacques Philippe (8 carries, 47 yards). A questionable roughing-the-passer call against the Red Raiders at their own 30 yard line with a little under a minute to go in the first half gave the Blue Devils a first and ten in the Raiders' red zone.

Randolph continued to pound the ball right up the middle of the Red Raiders defensive line, and with 36 seconds left in the half, Philippe ran for a four yard touchdown scamper. The successful two-point conversion by Philippe put the Blue Devils up by a 14-7 score at halftime.

The start of the second half began with a handful of Blue Devils' special teams penalties (three straight kick-offs out of bounds), and as a result the Red Raiders began their opening drive of the half at midfield. McBrien, looking to get the Raiders passing game involved, completed an out pattern for a first down to junior wideout Dennis Martin to begin the drive. McBrien would complete all three of his passes during North's 44 yard drive and on 1st and ten from the Randolph 15 yard line, McBrien bootlegged to the right and lofted a beautiful pass to the back of the endzone to junior wideout Adam Tragellis. The score and subsequent extra point tied the score at 14-14.

The Blue Devils, behind the solid running of their two senior backs, took the ball on their next drive all the way down into the North Quincy red zone. Red Raiders looked to their defense to come up and make a game changing play, and the defense responded.

On a rush to the right side of the defensive line, the Red Raiders got great penetration and a combination of North players gang-tackled Lemuga Fonkem, forcing a fumbled that was recovered by the Red Raiders.

With the score tied at 14, the Red Raiders took possession of the ball and immediately began to drive the field. A solid 8 yard run by Sibley resulted in a first down, but with about 2:30 minutes to play in the 3rd quarter, North committed an offside penalty.

In an obvious passing situation on first and 15, McBrien dropped back to pass and was intercepted by Remington Parker at the North Quincy 30 yard line. The two team's ended the third quarter tied at 14-14.

The final quarter's first drive saw the Blue Devil's running attack pound away for yards deep inside Raiders' territory. With 10:54 remaining in the contest, Phillipe took the handoff from Francios, and scored from 6 yards out to make it 20-14. Randolph's two-point conversion failed (the Blue Devils did not try a extra point all game), but the damage was done.

North Quincy showed the guts Coach Connor has been looking for all season on their next possession by driving 64 yards to the Randolph 4 yard line, but could not knock it in on their first three running attempts.

On fourth and goal, McBrien rolled to his right and had junior wideout Marcellus Lee open in the corner of the endzone, but the Blue Devils' Parker made his second big play of the day by deflecting the pass away.

North held strong on defense the rest of the way, and with time winding down in the 4th quarter, the Blue Devils faced a long 4th down and 15. Randolph head coach, Vernon Crawford, decided against punting the ball, and instead had his punter run out of the back of the endzone for the automatic safety making the score 20-16. North Quincy would get the ball back two more times in the quarter. After going four and out, the Raiders' defense gave the offense one more chance with about 30 seconds left in the game. McBrien and the offense made an effort to get the winning score, but on the last play of the game, defensive back Dominick Speranzo intercepted the desperation pass and the game ended, 20-16.

"I'm impressed with the guys," head coach Jim Connor said. "I think our program took a huge step forward today. We showed a lot of courage and effort after an ugly loss last week in Sandwich."

The Red Raiders (0-3) should be able to use this game and all of the positives that came out of it when they travel to Falmouth High School this Friday to take on the Clippers who are coming off an exciting 16-13 victory over Quincy High School last Friday.

Brandeis Defeats ENC Women's Volleyball

The Eastern Nazarene women's volleyball team could not hold on to a 2-0 lead against Brandeis, losing the final three games of the match, and falling in defeat, 3 games to 2.

All of the positive work that the Crusaders used to earn a 2-0 (30-26, 30-19) lead was washed down the drain as the Judges of Brandeis took the third game by a score of 23-20. Down 2-1, the Judges used that change in momentum to take the last two games by scores of 30-14 and 15-6.

The Crusaders were led by co-captains Amber Crow (17 kills) and Cristina Ludwick (31 assists and 24 digs). ENC's hitting errors and tentative play let Brandeis back into the match, and the Judges' Lorriane Wigenbach led her team's charge to victory with her all-around solid play on both the offensive and defensive side of the net.

Tie, Win For Red Raiders

GIRLS' SOCCER

By SEAN BRENNAN

The North Quincy girls' soccer team is on a serious roll.

After playing their first four games on the road, the Red Raiders tied the #8 ranked team in EMass, Marshfield High School, at home last Wednesday, 2-2. North Quincy then came back to defeat Nauset High School, 5-2 at Teal Field on Friday. The team's record stands at an impressive 4-1-1.

In the Marshfield game, all of the scoring was done in the first half. The Red Raiders got on the board first when junior Mary Kate Stille found senior captain Megan Therrien at the 18 yard mark. Therrien, facing heavy pressure from the Marshfield defense, was able to get off a shot before getting upended. The goal gave North Quincy a 1-0 lead.

After a Red Raider turnover resulted in a goal for the Rams to tie the score at 1-1, Mary Kate Stille once again got the Raider's offense on the board. Senior forward Kristen Ruck found Stille with a beautiful pass and Stille capitalized. Stille got in behind the Marshfield defense and drew the Rams' goalie out of position and knocked home the shot to give North a 2-1 lead.

Exhibiting the skill and prowess that has them ranked as a top ten team in EMass, Marshfield got the equalizer less than five minutes after Stille had giving North Quincy the lead. At the end of the first half, the two teams were deadlocked at 2-2.

The second half was a defensive battle as neither team gave up many quality scoring chances. Sophomore keeper, Siobhan Carnell, was once again stellar in net as she picked off several Ram shots that were headed for the back of the net. North Quincy also received great performances from seniors Bridget Coleman, Tara Whooley, Ali Russell and Melissa Mendall. The standout performance of the match came from junior defender, Kerry Coughlin, who was a physical presence in the back and was responsible for winning every 50-50 ball that came her way.

The Raiders nearly won it late when a shot that was saved by Marshfield's goal keeper hit the crossbar and came back out.

"We really took it to them this game.We came in not fearing them and our attitude showed in our play," head coach Paul Bregoli said. "They are more skilled than we are, but we just wouldn't give them an inch. We were like bulldogs out there."

North jumped out to an early lead in last Friday's game against Nauset. Senior midfielder Keriann Cabral hit a through pass to senior captain Jillian Benn who headed the ball into the net for a 1-0 lead. Seven minutes later, Cabral found junior Emily Milone inside the box. Milone dribbled her way past four defenders before scoring to make it 2-0.

Early in the second-half, Therrien notched her third goal of the year on an assist from Mary Kate Stille. Therrien's goal was followed soon after by Milone's second goal of the game and fourth of the year. Benn completed the scoring when her direct kick from 22 yards found the right corner of the net for her third goal of the year. Also playing well for the Raiders against Nauset were Ruck, junior Paige Bonanni, Coleman and Whooley. Simone Leary also had a solid defensive game.

"We are playing our toughest schedule ever. So far we have been up to the challenge," Bregoli said. "We had a good week taking three points towards our goal of tournament qualification. If we can maintain our focus and attitude like we did versus Marshfield, this team could be special."

Curry Blanks ENC Men's Soccer

Eastern Nazarene College was shutout, 4-0, by the Curry College Colonels in Commonwealth Coast Conference men's soccer action. The Colonels, led by Chris Spreadbury's hat-trick, would not be denied their fourth win of the season

In the 14th minute, a Crusader defender committed a foul in the penalty box while challenging for a loose ball, giving Curry College a penalty kick. Spreadbury knocked home the free kick, and Curry was on its way to the victory. Spreadbury, the offensive star of the match, would later score two more times on breakaways to help finish off ENC.

The Colonels (4-3, 2-2) had a dominating advantage over ENC in shots on goal, 19-7, and Curry goal keeper, Clark Zelazo, registered the clean sheet with five saves. Crusader goal keeper, Steve Bracale, registered five saves, but it was not enough as ENC failed to earn their first win of the year.

Presidents Ladies Golf Highlights

The Presidents Ladies Association held their two day Crystal Cup event this past weekend at Presidents Golf Course. The event divided members of the Presidents Ladies Association into three divisions and produced a 1st Gross winner and a 1st Net winner for each of the divisions.

In other league action on 9/10, the Celtics faced-off against the Jaguars. The Celtic's goal was scored by Sophia Maniscalco and her goal was assisted by Julianna Kane. Great plays were made by the Celtic's Caoimhe Lavin, Kelly O'Connor and Anna Digrazio. Pramila Murry and Isabella Cobble played well for the Jaguars.

In the North Division, Stephen Abramowitz played Skoler Orthodontics. Goals were scored by Anastasia and Tatianna Silveria, Colleen Madden, Kristen Fahey and Kelli O'Brien. Playing for the first time in U10 league play, Jessica Fonseca and Tara Nealon played great.

Scores for the week of 9-17 included the Celtics defeating U-Rent It, 3-2, on goals from Bridget Hobin, Molly Minton and Natalie O'Donovan. Assists were credited to Minton, S. Maniscalo and J. Kane. Playing well for the Celtics were Alison Coleman, Shauna Canavan and Hayleigh Delaney.

U-Rent It goal scorers included Jamie Maede and Lauren Matthies, and Tayla Tervakoski, Aislinn Collins and Amy Thompson all played well.

The Quincy Sun used outstanding teamwork and solid play from Emily Tabeek and Alannah Bulger and goal keepers Courtney Santos and Jacqueline Zamora in its match versus Quincy Granite on 9/17. No score given.

North Division play saw Stephen Abramawitz score a 10-0 win over The Karsten Company. Goals were scored by Abby Akoury, Anastsia and Tatianna Silveira and Tara Nealon. Kelli O'Brien played great in net, and Abby Plourde, Lauren Carter, Mikaela O'Brien and Shauna O'Donovan all played a solid game.

U8 Girls results from the South Division for the week of 9/17 include all-around good play from both sides in the Team Timmons and Spillane Law Office game. For Team Timmons, Alicia Walker, Sydney Shuttleworth, Grace Stone and Colleen Trenholm did an excellent job.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks and the Raymondi Club got a great effort from all their players. The Raymondi Club, which was playing short-handed, had strong play from Whitney Marshall, Sarah McLoughney (who scored a goal) and goal keeper Rachel Beck. The Elks had good play by Shinead Hanley, Olivia Sialvicci and Casey Kelliher.

In other action, Reggie Oil played Rep. Bruce Ayers. Reggie Oil had an outstanding effort by Lauren Critelli, who scored the first goal and amazing saves were made by Maeve Heron, Danielle Parry and Madison Simon. For Bruce Ayers, Emily Christian, Liana Cunningham and Nicole Flora, played a great game.

In the game between Rural Lodge and Sweeney Brothers, Rural Lodge played well, even though the team was shorthanded. Goals for Rural Lodge were scored by Kelsey Dunn, Natalie Lunny and Kaleigh Manton. The Sweeney Brothers got great games from Sinead Kelly, Maeve Walsh and Isabel Doherty. Courtney Riser made excellent saves in net.

North Quincy (7-1) Battles Quincy

The North Quincy girls volleyball team will take its dominating 7-1 record into Quincy High School's, East Gym, on Wednesday, Sept. 27 when they take on the 5-2 Presidents.

Last Thursday (Sept. 21), the Red Raiders came out victorious against a very good Arlington Catholic team, 3-2. The match saw North Quincy take the first two games by scores of 25-17 and 25-20, but Arlington Catholic would not go quietly, taking the third game, 18-25. The fourth game was a close as a game can get. Arlington Catholic squeaked out a 24-26 victory.

In the deciding game five, North Quincy dominated all aspects of the court in route to a 15-3 win.

The Red Raiders had great play from all members of their team, and were led by senior Arta Dashi's 12 digs. Fellow team members, senior Virginia Wong and Julie Lynch, played pivotal roles in the victory. Wong had great net play and finished with eight kills, while Lynch finished the 3-2 victory with six aces.

Woodward Soccer Begins Season Undefeated

The Woodward School for Girls in Quincy have opened their 2006 varsity soccer season in resounding fashion.

The team's 3-0-1 record has been puncuated by senior Jasmin Johansen record breaking scoring streak. Johansen, along with the resyt of the Woodward team, have outscored their opponents 22-8 through the first four games.

In their season opening 4-1 victory against the Cambridge School of Weston, the team, behind Johansen's goal and two assists, took it to the Cambridge School early and often. Also scoring in the game were Aoife Leonard, Tatianna Rosado and Deidre McGarth. Goalie Mary Harris of Quincy made nine saves for the Wildcats.

On Sept. 20, the Wildcats traveled to Beverly to take on the Landmark School in Independent Girls Conference play. Johansen, a senior captain, became the school's all-time leader in goals scored and total points against Landmark. She scored five goals and contributed three assists in the game. Junior Michelle Norton finished the game with four assists.

Johansen continued her torrid scoring pace against Chapel Hill of Waltham on Sept. 22. The Wildcats dominated the game on both sides of the pitch, and finished off Chapel Hill, 7-1. Johansen (11 goals, 16 assists) and sophmore Tatianna Rosado each finished the game with three goals apiece. Eighth grader Kristen Bimmler from Quincy scored a goal to finish off the Wildcats' scoring spree. Mary Harris (Quincy) had four saves for the Woodward School.

The Wildcats, playing shorthanded and with only two of their regular starters, rallied back to tie The Montrose School (Natick), 3-3. Two Quincy residents, junior captain Diana Comerford-Mota and sophmore Jaimie Riley, both played weel defensively for Woodward. Comerford-Mota and Riley helped shutdown the Montrose offense and the Wildcats battled back from a 3-1 half-time defiect to earn the tie. Johansen (2 goals) and Deidre McGarth (1 goal) supplied the offense for the Cats.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

A person has to know what he should remember and what he should forget. We need to remember the wise lessons life has taught us . . . We also need to retain memories of experiences and great joys that have inspired us. But we also have to learn to forget the hurts and resentments, and forget the sting of failure, the bitterness of disappointment. Couldn't it be said that if you don't learn to forget, life may forget you?

We like what Norman Vincent Peale says about forgetting: "First there must be an act of will. Realize that some memories are not good for you. Start by telling yourself, 'I will forget these things.' It may be that after making a positive decision of this kind you will find yourself involuntarily thinking the same negative thought again. In that case simply continue to reaffirm your determination to forget and in time the memory will fade or at least lose its potency . . . The second element in purposeful forgetting is to fill the mind with more positive matters. If the mind is not occupied with something constructive the banished negative thoughts are bound to come traipsing back. To forget the past busy yourself with the present and the future."

To live a happy and successful life practice the art of forgetting . . .

RELIGION

Service Of Remembrance, Healing Sunday At Community United Methodist

A service of remembrance and healing will be held Sunday, Oct. 1 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

The 11th annual interfaith service commemorates lives lost to domestic violence and honors survivors.

Marjorie Clapprood, executive director of One Family, Inc., will be the featured speaker at the event which provides a time and place to mark both personal and communal losses, honor survivors who have reclaimed their lives, and to renew the commitment to ending family and partner violence and abuse.

The evening will include personal testimonials, musical performances, and a traditional candlelight vigil in memory of all Massachusetts victims who died Oct. 2005 to present.

A tee-shirt exhibit crafted by and for victims will be on display as well as critical resource information.

Childcare will be available.

The free public event is sponsored by the South Shore Coalition for the Prevention of Domestic Violence, Quincy churches, and area organizations and individuals.

Any donations will go to DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended), a comprehensive program in Quincy.

Quincy Community United Methodist Church is next to CVS across from the MBTA/Red Line/Wollaston, and is wheelchair accessible.

Street parking is available.

Quincy Community United Methodist To Celebrate World Communion Sunday

Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, will join all United Methodist Churches worldwide in celebrating World Communion Sunday Oct. 1.

At the 10:30 a.m. service, music from several different countries will express the global nature of Communion in Christianity. Sunday School students will bring a variety of breads forward and will place them on the altar; these same breads will be shared during Holy Communion.

This is the second year the church will celebrate World Communion Sunday in this way. People are asked to bring different kinds of sandwich fillings for the sandwich luncheon.

In addition to the worship service, Sunday School classes area also held at 10:30 a.m.

For more information, call the church at 617-773-3319.

Bethany Congregational Church

Bethany Congregational Church, 18 Spear St., Quincy Center, will have Sunday worship and church school at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Ann Rearick will conduct the service and preach a sermon entitled "What Do You Treasure?" There will also be a children's message.

Childcare will be available for infants and toddlers.

Fellowship follows the service in Allen Parlor. Light refreshments will be served.

Evangelist To Speak Sunday At Union Congregational Church

Jonathan Bernd of "Jews for Jesus" will speak at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd., Wollaston.

Bernd is an evangelist with the Boston branch of "Jews for Jesus." He and his wife Cindy live in the Boston area.

"Jews for Jesus" is an organization that proclaims that Jesus is the Messiah of Israel and the Savior of the world. It was founded by Moishe Rosen, a Jew who has believed in Jesus for more than 35 years. The organization has permanent branches in eight North American cities as well as over 127 volunteer chapters spanning some 41 states and five countries.

For more information, call 617-479-6661.

Quincy Point Congregational Church

World Communion Sunday will be celebrated at the 10 a.m. worship service. Sunday at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

The Rev. Ann Suzedell will preach. Deanna VanSchagen will serve as deacon of the day.

Prayers and readings in several languages will be offered by members and friends of the congregation.

An international brunch will follow the service in Social Hall.

Annual Block Party At Union Congregational Church Saturday

The second annual block party for the neighborhood and Wollaston community will be held Saturday, Sept. 30 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Union Congregational Church, corner of Beach St. and Rawson Rd., Wollaston.

Events will include a moon walk, basketball, face painting, book table, food table, free hot dogs and pop corn. Music will feature Mark Bishop Evans, a Christian folk singer.

The Trial Court
Probate and Family Court Department
NORFOLK Division
Docket No. 01P3169EP
Notice of Fiduciary's Account

To the persons interested in the estate of Marina Calabro late of Quincy, in the county of Norfolk.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the 1st, 2nd and final account(s) of David P. Calabro as executor (the fiduciary) of said estate has been presented to this Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account(s), you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Canton on or before the 20th day of October, 2006 the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney of the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account(s). If you desire to object to any item of said account(s), you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

WITNESS, HON. DAVID H. KOPELMAN, ESQUIRE, FIRST JUSTICE of said Court at CANTON this 5th day of September, 2006.

Quincy Residents Tour Wollaston Beach, Attend Public Hearing

Throughout the summer of 2006 the Commission hosted a series of public hearings in each of the "Beach Communities" of Lynn, Nahant, Revere, Winthrop, East Boston, South Boston, Dorchester, Quincy and Hull.

Hearings gave the public an opportunity to help the Commission get an accurate picture of the situation on each beach, share their dreams and aspirations for their beaches, and help identify opportunities and obstacles on the beaches.

Over the past two decades the public has invested more that $4.5 billion in water quality improvements in both Boston Harbor and the Massachusetts Bay. The Commission's work is to establish a series of short, intermediate and long term goals for the region's beaches, and a strategy for securing and managing the resources needed to do the job right.

State Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Bruce Ayers welcomed the Commission to Quincy and led a tour of Wollaston Beach.

SEN. MICHAEL MORRISSEY (left) leads a group of Quincy residents of a tour of Wollaston Beach for the Metropolitan Beaches Commission. After the tour, local citizens met with the Commission to inform them of what they like about the beach, as well as how it can be improved.

Ward 5 Councillor and Council President Doug Gutro is a member of the commission.

After the tour, citizens of Quincy met with the commission to inform them of what they like about the beach, as well as how it can be improved.

"Imagine you have a magic wand" said Save the Harbor/Save the Bay's Bruce Berman. "What would Wollaston Beach be like if you could have everything you wanted?"

The most popular topics included those of beach maintenance, lifeguard stationing, boardwalk access and the possibility of organized beach activities. Many residents noted the great improvements of water and sand quality throughout the years, as well as the excitement around the on-going improvements.

The Metropolitan Beaches Commission was created earlier this year to examine and improve upon the "State of the Beaches." Throughout the summer, public beach hearings have taken place the Commonwealths' beaches from Lynn to Hull.

RED FLAG of Mainland China flies alongside Old Glory atop the office of the Chinese United Association at Hancock and Beale Streets, stirring animosities in the heart of Wollaston.

Rally, Petition Drive Planned

Protests Heightened Over Chinese Flag

By TOM HENSHAW

The furor over the display of the flag of the People's Republic of China in Wollaston was raised up a notch Sunday with the reappearance of the banner and the entrance of Falun Gong, a religious sect that is anathema to Mainland China, into the fray.

And letters to The Quincy Sun continued to flog the red flag with its five gold stars as representative of Chinese communism and not a real cultural symbol or national flag.

"We talked to the building inspector (Jay Duca) and the Mayor's office and there is no legal issue," said Jimmy Liang, the unofficial spokesman for the Chinese United Association, which flew the flag over its headquarters at the corner of Hancock and Beale Streets.

"It's down now (Monday). We flew it one day (Oct. 1) for the National Chinese Independence Day. It won't go up again until we have talked to the neighbors. We want to hold a reception for them."

But Stephen Lancione of Milton said the flag was still flying Monday morning and Sun photographer Noreen O'Shea photographed it in place Monday afternoon. On Tuesday, however, both the banner and the American flag that accompanied it were gone.

Oct. 1, 1949 was the day the People's Republic of China was proclaimed by the victors after years of civil strife between Mao Tzedong's communists and Chiang Kai Shek's nationalists.

Building Inspector Jay Duca said no permit is needed to fly a national flag in the city.

John "Jake" Comer of Quincy, former national commander of the American Legion and an authority on flag etiquette, said the two flags were flown correctly, neither higher than the other and the American flag on the left facing the building.

Meanwhile, Lancione and Suan Kuo, a Vietnam-born former West Quincy man now living in Melrose, both members of Falun Gong, planned to start a petition for those opposed to the flag

Lancione said he will seek a permit to hold a rally and a parade at a time and place as yet undetermined with the License Board at the Oct. 10 meeting. City Clerk Joseph Shea said he could see no reason that the permits would not be granted.

Falun Gong, which is described by Lancione as a "meditative practice based on truth, compassion and tolerance," is a China-based philosophical or religious movement whose members have long been persecuted by the Mainland Chinese

NOW YOU DON'T. Flags were down on Tuesday pending meeting between Chinese United Association and its neighbors.

First Landtaking For Concourse Before Council

The first designated land taking for the extension of the Quincy Center Concourse was sent to the City Council by Mayor William Phelan Tuesday night.

The taking of Tan Line, a tanning salon in Parkingway was referred to two committees: the Finance Committee, chaired by John Keenan, and the Downtown Economic and Development Committee, headed by Leo Kelly.

A letter from City Solicitor Monica Conyngham to the City Council said that the city engaged two companies to appraise Tan Line property, but appraisals are not to be distributed to the public at this point. She said the documents are available for review by the City Council.

The letter also said that Thomas Cifrino, a representative of the owner of Tan Line, has indicated his intention to accept the city's offer, and they are in the process of finalizing an agreement.

The taking of a property on Revere Road was withdrawn from the Mayor's Office before Tuesday night's meeting apparently for further negotiations with the owner.

Other properties that have been designated for land taking are:

Alba Trattoria, a restaurant, Frantic Framers, the Holy Ground bar on Hancock Street; another hair salon on Revere Road, and part of the block that includes Napoli Pizza on Hancock Street, and a portion of Super Fitness gym's property.

City Council President Douglas Gutro said that the Council must first come to a vote in order exercise eminent domain, when a settlement isn't reached.

This is the first step in the eminent domain process, he said.

"The fact that these (property acts) are coming in suggests progress," said Gutro. "I anticipate that more will come in this fall for the Council to look at.

"It would be nice if they came in collectively, but when you have different owners, different attorneys, and unique tenant issues, it's easy to see why these are coming in separately. I would expect that we (the City Council) would try to act on all of them this fall.

Rep. Tobin Speaker At Montclair/Wollaston

State Rep. Steven Tobin will be the guest speaker tonight (Thursday) at a meeting of the Montclair/Wollaston Neighborhood Association at 7:30 p.m. at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Harvard and West Squantum Streets.

The meeting will update residents on current quality of life issues, and discuss current events, health care, a bill limiting class room size to 20 children and banning the use of cell phones while operating a motor vehicle.

government.

"I get threatening phone calls all the way from China," said Lancione. "The FBI is using 'routers' to find out where the calls are coming from."

"The Chinese communists want control," said Kuo. "They rule with total tyranny. They have labeled Falun Gong as a bad practice. It's a threat to their power."

Other critics of the flag were legion.

Nicholas Puleo, president of the Ward 5 Community Association, said the flag that "shamefully flew over the Wollaston business district, is synonymous with the evils of communism."

"Chinese culture is not represented in this flag," he wrote in a letter to the Sun. "It is dishonest and a distortion of history to say it is a cultural symbol. Clearly, this flag represents the tyranny and oppression of the communist way."

Gene Lee of Quincy said his parents were born and raised in China but he is a native of Boston so he probably does not have a high level of passion over the display of the flag.

"But I would rather not see the flag . . . fluttering outside . . . in Wollaston Center or elsewhere," he said. "The flag does represent communism and all its evil."

North Quincy Senior Stayout Committee To Meet Oct. 12

The first meeting of the North Quincy High School Senior Stayout Committee will be held Thursday, Oct. 12, at 7 p.m. in the Trophy Room at North Quincy High School, 316 Hancock St.

This will mark the 11th Senior Stayout, an all night, substance-free, after the prom party for all the school's seniors whether or not they attend the prom.

The committee is seeking especially parents of freshmen, sophomores and juniors to become involved in the event.

Open House To Celebrate New Turf At Stadium

Mayor William Phelan will host an "Open House" at Veterans' Memorial Stadium Monday to celebrate the installation of the new synthetic Field Turf. The 1 to 4 p.m. event will feature football, soccer, lacrosse and a barbecue.

The city has invested nearly $700,000 from the hotel-motel tax for renovating the facility and installing the new turf.

The stadium will be used for football, soccer, lacrosse and other community events and activities, Phelan said.

The new turf will be christened tomorrow (Friday) when North Quincy takes on Plymouth North at 7 p.m. in football.

A girls' soccer doubleheader is set for Saturday with Quincy and North Quincy varsities meeting at 1 p.m. and the jayvees at 3 p.m..

Quincy Youth Football will play its weekly schedule Sunday and the Quincy and Whitman-Hanson football jayvees will meet at 10 a.m. Monday.

"Residents of Quincy will be proud to have such a first-class facility in out great city," said Phelan. "With the support of the City Council, and through the hard work of the Park Department and the School Department, we now have a sports complex that our children will be proud to call home. This facility will have a positive impact on our entire park system."

"This facility receives a tremendous amount of use and is the centerpiece of our school athletic complex," Phelan added. "Few fields take the beating that Veterans' Stadium receives, having to serve two schools where most communities only have one. By the end of the year, the grass is nearly gone and the Stadium resembles a practice field. We will no longer have that problem."

"Field Turf" has been installed at more than 800 college and high school fields nationwide in the past five years, including UMASS-Amherst, Harvard University, and Rutgers University.

The installation process has been overseen by the Park Department since the Spring 2006. The complex subterranean drainage system is capable of handling more than six inches of rain without puddling. The carpet surface is divided into this grass-like fibers before being overlaid with sand and rubber particles. The end result is a turf very much like real grass and significantly different from the original Astroturf product.

"I want to thank the City personnel from the Park Department and School Department that worked nearly round-the-clock to get this field ready for this season. The quality of the end product is a testament to their commitment to the job," said Phelan.

Friends Of Wollaston Beach To Organize At Oct. 11 Meeting

City Council President Doug Gutro and Councillor Brian McNamee are sponsoring a meeting of residents who are interested in forming a Friends of Wollaston Beach organization.

The meeting will be held Wednesday, Oct. 11, at 7 p.m. in the Beechwood Knoll School, 222 Fenno St., for the presentation, discussion and possible enactment of bylaws for the group.

"I am grateful to those who have made an effort to get this group off the ground," said Gutro. "The efforts of the bylaw committee will shape this organization for years to come."

"Now is the time for beach lovers to unite," said McNamee. "If you are interested in being a Friend of Wollaston Beach and wish to have a voice in how it is organized, we need you at this meeting."

A public meeting to consider the creation of a Friends group for the state-owned beach in August drew more than 40 people.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Oct. 8, 1871, the Great Fire of Chicago breaks out in a barn behind the cottage of Patrick O'Leary. Winds blowing off the prairie fed the flames, eventually consuming a 4-mile-long and 2/3-mile-wide swath of the city.

• On Oct. 7, 1913, Henry Ford's entire Highland Park automobile factory is run for the first time on a continuously moving assembly line. A motor and rope pulled the chassis past workers and parts on the factory floor, cutting the man-hours required to complete one "Model T" from 12-1/2 hours to six.

• On Oct. 2, 1922, the New York Stock Exchange opens the doors to its new offices. Like its predecessor, the 11-story building was located in downtown New York City, at 11 Wall Street.

• On Oct. 3, 1941, the "Maltese Falcon," starring Humphrey Bogart as hard-boiled detective Sam Spade, opens. The film marked the first time Bogart's name appeared above the title of the movie on a film credit.

• On Oct. 5, 1950, the game show "You Bet Your Life," starring host Groucho Marx, airs its first TV episode. Thanks to Marx's sarcastic humor and improvised wisecracks, the show became a hit first on radio and then on television and ran until 1961.

• On Oct. 6, 1961, President John F. Kennedy advises American families to build bomb shelters to protect them from atomic fallout in the event of a nuclear exchange with the Soviet Union. One year later, true to Kennedy's fears, the world hovered on the brink of full-scale nuclear war when the Cuban Missile Crisis erupted over the USSR's placement of nuclear missiles in Cuba.

• On Oct. 4, 1970, singer Janis Joplin dies from a heroin overdose at the Landmark Hotel in Hollywood, Calif. Joplin's unrestrained personality and passionate, raspy voice made her a symbol of the intensity and rebellious spirit of the late 1960s. The single "Me and Bobby McGee" topped the charts in March 1971 after her death.

Owning City Hall

They say you can't fight City Hall.
But could you own it?

You might say that Connie Roberts Burke could. Possibly.

The wife of former Asst. City Clerk Tom Burke, she is a direct descendent of early settler Daniel French.

French and his wife, Hannah, owned the land on which old City Hall sits. They deeded it to the town of Quincy for $1,000 in 1884 to be used as the site of a "town house." (Town hall, city hall)

The deed has a stipulation:

"Always, however, upon this condition that said parcel of land shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a town house for said inhabitants and upon any breach of this condition, this conveyance shall be void to all intents and purposes."

So, it would appear, if the city ever abandons the building, uses it for anything else than a city hall, the land would revert back to the French family.

And, if the land were to go back to them, the building could go with it.

Old City Hall was designed by architect Solomon Willard and built in 1884 and occupied Nov. 1.

Willard received $280 for drawing up plans and supervising construction for five months.

It cost $19,115.93 to build, including 88 cents paid to John B. Riesler for lead to seal the chimney.

New City Hall, the glass reflective addition built in 1979 cost $1.9 million.

Wonder what the land French deeded for $1,000 in 1884 would be worth today?

THE DEATH LAST week of "Tokyo Rose" (Iva Toguri) at age 90 in Chicago brought back memories for local veterans who served in the Pacific during World War II.

She was one of several females broadcasting Japanese propaganda intended to demoralize U.S. fighting forces. But she was considered the real "Tokyo Rose".

A native American, she was born to Japanese immigrant parents in Los Angeles.

And, as the story goes, she was in Japan caring for a sick aunt before the attack on Pearl Harbor. And subsequently was forced into doing the propaganda on radio broadcasts.

The fleet was tuned into her, including my ship, the destroyer USS Cogswell.

She would say something like, "I wonder what your wives or girlfriends are doing back home tonight", inferring infidelity at home.

When our task force was caught in a typhoon in the South China Sea, she was telling us, "You're not going to get out of there alive." But we did.

She would also give phony reports of Japanese victories in various battles.

And there was the time she reported the Cogswell had been sunk. That kind of surprised us, but good for a laugh.

But we remember her most of all- and with a little fondness for the popular American music she played and the reason we tuned her in.

She was arrested for treason after the war, did some time and was pardoned by President Gerald Ford in 1977.

She claimed she was actually trying to make a farce out of the broadcasts to boost the morale of U.S. sailors, soldiers and Marines.

Don't know about that.

But, Rosie, thanks for all that great music.

IF ANYONE OUT there is wondering if Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly has any thoughts of retiring, forget it.

KELLY

Congressman Bill Delahunt is hosting a fundraiser for him Thursday, Oct. 12.

The "October Fest" event will be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Fox & Hound Restaurant, Sea St. Suggested donation: $100.

Leo loves that Ward 1 seat too much to even think of leaving it. And it appears, there's no one in that ward that could take it from him.

IF THERE WERE an honor such as "Dog's Best Friend", we'd nominate Bud Rines of Terne Rd.

RINES

Some years ago, Bud bought a fire hydrant for $75 at Duane's old salvage yard on Southern Artery.

He wanted his shepherd, Riley, to have his own personal hydrant. And he painted it purple so not to confuse the fire department.

Riley, who made use of it, is now gone but the hydrant is still in Bud's front yard.

And, he says:

"Any dog is invited to stop by."

PERSONAL: Thanks to readers Lillian Coughlin of Rhoda St. and Virginia Holdstock of Dunbarton Rd. for their cards and nice comments on The Sun starting it's 39th year.

Very thoughtful of you. And it's loyal readers like you that made it possible for us to reach our 39th year.

Thanks again.

Computer Shopping Seminar At Crane Library

A computer shopping seminar "Buying A New Computer: What You Should Know" will be held Oct. 10 at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

Whether trading in an old computer for a newer, more powerful model or looking to buy a second computer for the home, or even contemplating a first-time buy, it pays to know exactly what to get. This free program will de-mystify the jargon and guide through the most important considerations before making a purchase. No registration is required.

Upcoming CyberTalk programs include Online Shopping: eBay & More Nov. 14, and Handheld & Mobile: Technology on the Go Dec. 12. All programs are sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

For more information, call 617-376-1301.

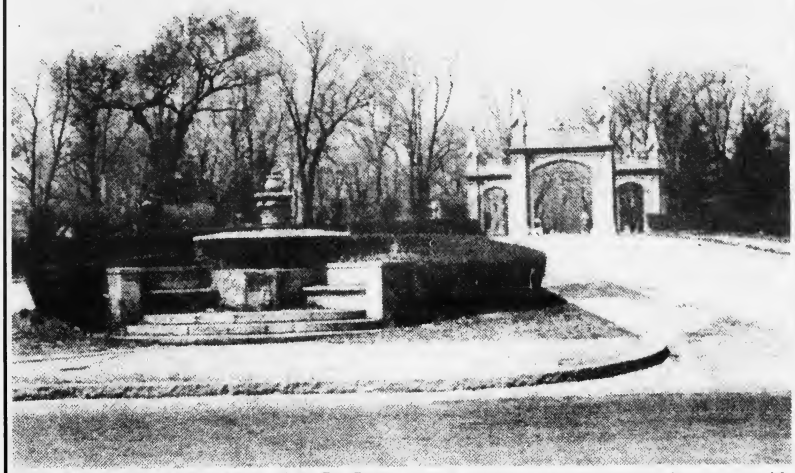
Scenes From Yesterday



THIS 1950's POSTCARD is a view of the Sea Street entrance to Mount Wollaston Cemetery. The Quincy granite drinking fountain for horses on the left was originally in Quincy Square, but was moved here in 1918 after its use was discontinued because of the influenza epidemic. The large gothic Quincy granite gate on the right, built in 1855 when the cemetery opened, was unfortunately dismantled in 1960. Today, only four stub-top pieces of the original columns remain as a gate. For over 45 years most of the other pieces have been stored out of sight in an old granite stone yard in South Quincy that is owned by the company that by contract with the city dismantled the gate. Recent efforts to get some of those pieces returned to the city to at least restore some of the original gate have been unsuccessful. Like our Granite Ball, that is now finally back at City Hall, this gate is an important icon of Quincy's granite legacy and it too should be returned to its original splendor. Hopefully some agreement can be reached to achieve this goal. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

China Flag Communist, Not Cultural, Symbol

History is something that guides us. Former Quincy City Councilor and Mayor Frank McCauley frequently reminds us that in order to know where you are going, you have to know where you have been. But sometime, to the detriment of all, history is distorted to promote personal agendas. Such was the case with statements made by Jimmy Liang in last week's article "Chinese Flag Still Stirs Emotions."

The flag of the People's Republic of China, the one that shamefully flew over the Wollaston business district, is synonymous with the evils of communism. It should stir emotions because it is the antithesis of everything that we, as Americans, believe in.

In 1949, chairman Mao Zedong hoisted the flag to the top of Tiananmen Square to celebrate the communist overthrow of the Chinese state. Artists from across China had competed to design contest for the flag, which was specifically commissioned by the Communist Party. Everything in the design of this flag symbolize communism.

The yellow start represents , not the president as Mr. Liang indicates, but the supremacy of the Communist Party. Earlier versions of the flag actually had a hammer and sickle within this star. The smaller stars represent the oppressive classes that citizens are fenced into. Even the red color of the flag is symbolic: designed to signify the blood of those who died for the communist cause.

Chinese culture is not represented in this flag. It is dishonest and a distortion of history to say it is a cultural symbol. Clearly, this flag represented the tyranny and oppression of the communist way.

Throughout our history, Americans have bravely fought, and died, to rid the world of such scourges. Even in our own time, young men and women lay their lives on the line to defend democracy. Is this the symbol we want our service men and women to come home to? Is it in any way appropriate for this flag to fly above our neighborhoods? The resounding answer is no.

Opposes Flying The Communist China Flag

I'm an Asian American... while my parents were born and raised in mainland China, I was born and raised in Boston. I probably don't have the high level of passion/emotion, both negative and positive of observing the China flag fluttering outside, as others do, in Wollaston center, or elsewhere. But I would rather NOT see the flag outside because:

• China is an arrogant human rights abuser.

• In order to accommodate the 2008 Summer Olympics, China has unjustly and ruthlessly evicted hundreds of people from their homes in order to build Olympic sites and accommodations.

• China would use force/aggression to make Taiwa part of China.

• Religious freedom is non-existent in China.

• The 1989 Tiananmen Square massacre in Beijing, the full details/truth have never been disclosed.

I could go on and on.

Robert Leung, a president of the Chinese United Association that raised the flag in Wollaston Center, is incorrect. The flag DOES represent Communism, and all of its evil.

Preservation Act Also A Privacy Issue

When the question goes on the Quincy ballot for voter acceptance of the Community Preservation Act, concerned citizens ought to know they will be giving up their privacy in attempting to qualify for the tax exemption.

They will be required to fill out the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Revenue form CPA4, which will ask for the complete income, savings and medical expenses of all household members, their social security numbers and copies of all household members federal and state income tax forms.

These forms will be held on file at city hall presumably under lock and key after being reviewed by departmental personnel, who may very well be your neighbors.

Interested voters should obtain the application form from the Department of Revenue website listed under their Division of Local Services, or through neighboring towns like Braintree, Weymouth or Hingham, that have the forms. They will then see the forms are more intrusive than even an application for welfare.

Quincy 2000 Offers $300,000 For Commercial Building Renovations

This Week
1995
11 Years Ago

By FRANK McCAULEY

The Quincy 2000 Corporation announced this week a new program to assist with the renovation and revitalization of commercial properties in Quincy.

Joseph Mannarino, executive director of Quincy 2000, announced that Quincy 2000 is providing approximately $300,000 in matching grants for facade improvements designed to increase business and employment opportunities by helping to create more attractive shopping and commercial areas and by restoring uses in vacant and underutilized buildings.

$250,000 APPROPRIATED FOR SIDEWALK WORK

The City Council approved Mayor James A. Sheets' request for a $250,000 appropriation for sidewalk work throughout the city. Sheets said that the money will be divided so that each of the city's six wards will receive $41,000 to $42,000 worth of work.

KEEPING UP WITH THE RED SOX

The Boston Red Sox were the East Division champions. The Sox, with a record of 86 wins and 58 losses, finished first in the division, seven games ahead of the New York Yankees who clinched the "Wild Card" berth.

The Red Sox were scheduled to play in the division series against the Cleveland Indians who won the Central Division with a record of 100 wins and 44 losses. (Ed. Note: the teams played a 144 game schedule because a strike that curtailed the 1994 season carried over into the early part of the 1995 season.)

Golden Cake

We had the almost usual gang over on the week-end, that almost usual rainy one.

I decided to make a great recipe for golden cake, which was one my mother made frequently. It's easy and can be made way before it is served.

Although this recipe was printed several years ago, I thought it was time again as a reminder of how good a home-made cake tastes compared to a mix. I whipped some fresh heavy cream and some fresh strawberries and even the little ones wanted seconds.

Golden Cake

1 stick butter (or margarine)
1 cup 1/4 sugar (I used one cup which I thought was sweet enough)
1 cup milk
2 eggs (slightly beaten)
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
2 1/4 cups flour
1 package fresh strawberries (frozen can also be used)
1 pint heavy cream (ready-whip of cool whip can also be used)

Pre-heat oven to 350 degrees. Place all the dry ingredients in a bowl. Then cream sugar and butter together until smooth. Add alternately the dry ingredients with the eggs and milk. Add the vanilla. Beat for 2 minutes.

Grease and flour a cake pan (or two if desired) Bake for 40 minutes if using a large cake pan and about 30 minutes if using two pans. Place a toothpick in to see if done or a thin knife.

When ready to serve, place a mound of cream over the top smothered with strawberries. I had extra cream and strawberries on the side. I used a little natural sugar with the strawberries for a sweeter taste.

Dinosaurs Topic For Kids At Library Oct. 21

There will be a session for children ages 7 and older at 10 a.m. and a session for ages 4-6 at 11:15 a.m.

Youngsters will learn about dinosaurs, what they were, what they ate and where they went, by examining real fossils and participating in a mini dinosaur excavation.

Required registration began Monday and may be done by stopping by the Main Library Children's Room or calling 617-376-2411.

Chef Norma Chang will make Chinese cooking fun for children age 6 and older in a special What's Cooking @ your library program Sunday, Oct. 29, at 1:30 p.m.

The program, "A Little Taste of China," will show the youngsters the different cooking appliances used in a Chinese kitchen and various artifacts used in a Chinese home.

The kids will also learn about the varieties of Chinese vegetables, rice, sauces and other ingredients and observe and sample the dishes prepared during the program.

In order to register for the program, call 617-376-2411 or stop by the Children's Room in the Main Library.

Storyteller Michelle Andrews will entertain children ages 2-5 accompanied by an adult with stories, songs and rhymes every Saturday in October at 10 a.m. No registration is required.

Liz Buchanan will present a concert of traditional and original music for kids ages 4 and younger accompanied by an adult Saturday, Oct. 14, at 2 p.m. No registration is required.

All of the programs are sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

John Hancock Walking Tour Saturday

Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly will lead a free John Hancock walking tour showing his "haunts" in Quincy, Saturday, Oct. 7.

Nine Youths Complete Red Cross Babysitting Course

Nine Quincy youths recently took a Red Cross babysitting course through the West Quincy Teem Program and the Ward 4 Community Center.

The 10-hour course focused on baby sitting skills and infant CPR.

All participants, ranging in age from 11 to 15, passed the requirement to become certified. Some of the skills include holding and feeding a baby, changing diapers correctly, how to handle choking, avoiding hazards, emergency situations, and how to build a babysitting resume for marketing.

More than 75 youths participated in the West Quincy Teen Program. The program included a night basketball league, community service, and job training. Renee Smith, the Ward 4 community center director, will supervise the babysitter's work, as the babysitters begin their new careers.

Those who are looking for a mother's helper or babysitter can call Smith at the Ward 4 Community Center at 617-786-0696.

Expects To Have Adequate Supplies

City Schedules Free Flu Clinics

Quincy is as well-prepared as possible for the coming flu season with three public clinics already scheduled for late November and an adequate supply of vaccine virtually assured.

"We have some vaccine on hand," said Cindy DeCristofaro, who is directing the Health Department in the absence of Andrew Scheele. "I understand we will have adequate supplies this year."

The public clinics are scheduled for:

• Saturday, Nov. 18, from 7 to 11 a.m. during a Safety Fair at the Koch Recreation Complex, One Merrymount Parkway.

• Sunday, Nov. 19, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Quincy Health Department, 1585 Hancock St.

• Wednesday, Nov. 29, from 10 to 11 a.m., at the Elks Lodge, 254 Quarry St.

Seven clinics for senior citizens will be held at their housing locations prior to the public clinics and police and firefighters will get their shots Nov. 15 and 17 respectively.

City employees will be served every Monday from 2 to 4 p.m. starting Nov. 20 and every Wednesday from 2 to 4 p.m. starting Dec. 6, at the Health Department.

The flu season is generally considered to run from November through February. Last season's shots were delayed when too few pharmaceutical companies turned out vaccine.

"We can't save whatever vaccine is left over from last year," said DeCristofaro. "The strain of flu varies from year to year and we have to have new vaccine."

Preparations for handling the unlikely possibility of a flu pandemic are stuck at the state level where Gov. Mitt Romney's $36.5 million plan is stymied by the Legislature.

The plan includes the acquisition of 5,000 hospital beds, 2,000 breathing respirators and medications to treat and prevent the flu in 44,000 people.

A pandemic describes a contagious disease that spreads more widely and rapidly than an epidemic.

The last pandemic, the Hong Kong flu in 1968, left 34 dead in the United States and the big one, the Spanish flu in 1918, killed 550,000 in the U.S. and up to 50 million worldwide.

"I'm sure the state problem will filter down to us," said DeCristofaro, "but meanwhile we've done some things in house.

"We've determined the clinic sites and figured the logistics of handling large numbers of people and held some tabletop exercises with other city departments."

Honored At 3-Day Open House

Artist Henry McDaniels Still Painting At 100

By MIKAELA SLANEY

Henry McDaniels, accomplished artist and son-in-law of former mayor Joseph Whiton, celebrated his 100th birthday Monday, the last of a three-day open house displaying his paintings.

McDaniels' son, Joseph McDaniels, and daughter-in-law Mary Wentworth McDaniels hosted the event, which drew family and friends, some from as far as Canada, where he lived as a child. Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi and his wife Sharyn joined the celebration. Raymondi presented McDaniels a certificate of congratulations on behalf of the City Council.

Before retiring at 69 years of age, McDaniels worked in advertising at CBS, and provided ads for TV Guide. He continued to paint after retirement. His latest piece, which was completed this July, "Fishing in the Rain," takes place on Trinity River in Florida. The painting was inspired by, but not a copy of an old photograph. His most popular piece, "The Best Time of Day," has sold copies all over the world, he said. One of his older paintings is featured on the cover of "Art of Angling Journal, Issue 2.

His art was sold in galleries in New York and on the West Coast. "But they've all folded," he said, "I lost five paintings at galleries." His paintings are now only available by request.

Born in Nova Scotia, he moved to Boston as a teenager. He studied art at Vesper George School of Art in Boston, and graduated during the Great Depression.

"I met my wife in the school so eventually we were married. And she was the youngest daughter of the mayor of Quincy, Mr. Joe Whiton, and the most beautiful girl you ever saw."

McDaniels' late wife, Edith Louise McDaniels Whiton, died in 2000. Her father was a member of the House of Representatives of a Norfolk County District. McDaniels said that he didn't have the opportunity to vote for Whitman. "That was before my time, but he was a wonderful man," he said.

"Just think back in those days, I thought I was doing pretty well, and then the Depression hit, and I had only 75 dollars to my name. And I was married, had a child coming, and I never let her father know. I just kept working until things got better, so I never needed to borrow anything. I refused to let him know."

On a salary ranging between $4,000 and $6,000 from freelance distribution of his artwork, McDaniels said he managed to buy a piano and put both of his sons through college with help from academic scholarships.

"You can't do that on that salary today," he said. "It would be totally impossible. But I pulled out of it and made it somehow."

McDaniels said that he lived to see Quincy change over the years, especially with a tremendous increase in development, housing and traffic.

"Fortunately, I think they've done a good job of keeping open spaces as much as possible. And we have a wonderful system of parks. I think this mayor currently keeps this in mind," he said.

"It's a changed world.

Artist Henry McDaniels Still Painting At 100

(Cont'd From Page 10)

I've seen changes you wouldn't believe. I've seen it all. Today, I sympathize with the young people, because there are so many problems.

"But I've had a mighty good life. I've been lucky. I've had problems, a number of heart attacks and things like that, but if you want to live, and you keep trying, I think you can always make it. It's just a question of keeping at it," he said.

McDaniels said he owes his longevity to a combination of genes, staying active, and doing what he loves, which for him is painting, walking and fishing.

For his birthday, he received letters of congratulations from Elizabeth Windson, Queen of England, Michaelle Jean, Governor General of Canada, the Prime Minister of Canada, City Council President Douglas Gutro, Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, Mayor William Phelan, and Rodney MacDonald, M.L.A., Premier of Nova Scotia.

Henry has three grandchildren, and 10 great grandchildren. Henry's other son Henry Edison McDaniels Jr. died in August at age 73. He lived in Maroneck and was buried in Wollaston.

QUINCY COLLEGE
BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Seeks Nominations for Board Members

The Appointing Council Shall Meet To Consider Qualified Applicants For Appointments To The Board.

Nominees are to be considered for appointment to fill vacancies.

Board members are advocates for the institution, and have certain governance and oversight responsibilities for the College as specified in the enabling legislation. Members are expected to attend regular meetings, ordinarily scheduled in the evening, and to participate fully as a member of specific subcommittees, usually meeting several times a month during the day. Additionally, members are participants in Commencement, College Ceremonies, and demonstrate in actions and word a commitment to the mission and purpose of the College. Members must submit an annual financial disclosure form to the City Clerk.

Interested individuals must submit a letter of interest and resume, to the Appointing Council, to be received on or before November 3, 2006. The Appointing Council shall meet to consider qualified candidates, and will provide an optional opportunity for interested parties to address the Appointing Council. The Council welcomes diversity in applicants and encourages anyone who believes he or she might contribute positively to the continued success of the institution to respond.

Recreation Dept. Skating Classes At Youth Arena

The Quincy Recreation Department's instructional ice skating program will conduct a nine week lesson program at the Quincy Youth Arena.

The cost is $70 for the session, including instruction and ice time. Participants need to provide their own skates which may be figure or hockey skates with single blades.

This traditional "learn to skate" program has provided children ages 6 through 14 the opportunity to learn skating fundamentals at a low cost for over 30 years.

Registration is on a first come first serve basis, and will be at the main office of the Quincy Recreation Department, 1 Merrymount Parkway, starting at 9 a.m. Oct. 4, and continue weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. as long as openings exist.

According to Barry Welch, director of recreation, the program will have two separate classes beginning at 3:10 p.m. at 4:05 p.m. Wednesdays, starting Oct. 18. Both classes offer the same levels of instruction.

Instruction will again be under the supervision of Anne Eagles, a United States Figure Skating Association professional, and will use their basic program.

For more information, call 617-376-1394.

Programs For Women, Kids At Ginger Betty's Bakery

Ginger Betty's Bakery, 215 Samoset Ave., Merrymount, is offering a story hour, including songs, poems and crafts, for preschool children each Wednesday at 9 a.m. The cost is $2 per child.

The bakery will also conduct Ginger Betty's Boot Camp for women on Thursday evenings with the classes in strength and conditioning exercises run by a personal trainer. Each class will end with a light nutritious dinner.

For more information on those classes and others, call the bakery at 617-472-4729.

Freemasons To Hold Open House Saturday

The Quincy Masonic Building, 1170 Hancock St., will open its doors to the public Saturday, Oct. 7, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. as part of "Square & Compasses Day," a statewide celebration of Freemasonry.

"'Square & Compasses Day' is a wonderful opportunity for the public to learn more about the Masons," said Jeffrey B. Hodgdon, grand master of Masons in Massachusetts.

"Although many have heard of our organization, few are aware that we are a part of any unbroken tradition of great men who have changed the world in ways both big and small.

Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, Thurgood Marshall and John Glenn, for example, all joined the Masons prior to achieving the successes we recognize them for."

More than 240 lodges across the state will host open houses at the same time in an effort to raise the awareness of the Masons and the their positive impact on the community.

The Quincy Masonic Building is home to three "Blue Lodges:" Rural Lodge, Macedonian Lodge and Milton Lodge, as well as the Order of the Eastern Star, DeMolay for Boys, Rainbow of Girls, Taleb Grotto and St. Stephen Chapter of the York Rite.

Echoing Benjamin Franklin in asking men "if they have greatness in them," the celebration challenges men with the question: "Is there greatness in you?"

AskaFreemason.org, a web site developed for the Day, featuring the voice of Shakespearean actor Richard Easton, will provide the public with general information, answer questions and help them find the closest lodge.

Freemasonry is the oldest fraternal organization in the world, dating back to the stonemason guilds of the Middle Ages. It was formally organized in London in 1717.

It is open to adult men of any race, religion, nationality, social and economic standing or opinion, offering them on opportunity for fellowship, charity, education and leadership.

For additional information, call 800-882-1020 or visit AskaFreemason.org or www.massfreemasonry.org.

Blessing of Pets At St. John's Church

A Job Well Done

On Monday, Sept. 18, at approximately 11:30 a.m., Officer Paul Matthews was dispatched to the Stop and Shop Supermarket on Newport Avenue to investigate a report of a purse snatching. Enroute to the call, Dispatch informed the officer that the victim told a security officer that her blue purse had just been stolen out of her carriage. The victim stated she left the carriage briefly while she waited in the deli line and when she came back, she discovered the purse was gone.

LT. DAN MINTON

Security Officer Anthony Marini contacted the police and helped the victim recall what credit cards in her purse needed to be cancelled. The security officer then reviewed the tapes in an attempt to identify a suspect and found a female walking out of the store hurriedly with a blue purse in hand. The tape was replayed for the victim and she positively identified the purse as hers.

Officer Matthews provided a description of the suspect as a white female in her mid-40s with a heavy build, dirty blonde hair and wearing a black top with blue pants. Officer Matthews, well aware the suspect would use the credit card as soon as possible, requested additional units to check local businesses. He also instructed the security officer to alert other local Stop & Shop Supermarkets.

Minutes later, Rick Ramos, the store manager at the Southern Artery Stop & Shop, called back stating a suspect matching the description just purchased eight gift cards valued at $550 and was walking out the door. Officer Matthews informed dispatch, who then sent Officers Tom Pepdjonovic and William Lanergan to the store. Since the officers were monitoring the original call, they were already in the area and confronted the suspect just outside the door. Behind the suspect, Ramos yelled out, "That's her, she's the one you're looking for."

The suspect then stopped and confessed, "I'm the one you're looking for – I have that lady's credit card." After giving her Miranda Rights, the suspect told the officers that she took the purse, left the store, removed the credit card and dumped the remaining contents of the purse in a North Quincy mailbox. Officer Lanergan told the suspect he was going to search her vehicle since it was part of a crime. The suspect then recanted, stating that the purse was on the front seat of her car. The purse, with $40 still in it, was recovered as well as the credit card. The card was removed from the suspect's front right pocket – then she was handcuffed and taken away.

The evidence – the video tape and the receipt for the gift cards – were taken as evidence for trial purposes. The suspect, a 41-year-old Weymouth resident, was charged with "larceny from a person" and "credit card fraud over $250 (felony."

Nice work!

Unfortunately, this happens much too often. A criminal sees the opportunity of a purse being left unattended, even briefly, and waits for the victim to be distracted. By keeping a purse over a shoulder or in a waistband pack, you will have physical control over it. This will reduce the window of opportunity for a criminal, who will most likely go to the next aisle looking for an unsuspecting victim.

File this under, "What were you thinking?" – On Sept. 26, at 8:05 a.m., Officer David Levine investigated a two-car accident at the intersection of Fenno and Marlboro Streets in Wollaston. The accident was caused by the failure of one driver to obey the stop sign. Officer Levine noted there were three young children in that car and they were not in child seats. When the driver opened the trunk to remove some belongings, Officer Levine observed two child car seats there. The driver said he was in a hurry and didn't have time to put the kids in the seats. His haste resulted in a car accident.

The other car in the accident ended up going through a fence and into a yard across the street. Fortunately, there were only minor injuries and students walking to school were not in the immediate area at the time of the accident.

Kitchen Sink Sprayer Has Lost Its Oomph

Q. The sprayer attachment on my kitchen sink just doesn't have the power that it used to. I tried scrubbing the front of the sprayer with a vinegar-water mixture and an old toothbrush, but it didn't help. Should I replace the entire sprayer attachment? — Sprayless in Seattle

A. Don't give up on the cleaning idea just yet. Mineral buildup can occur behind the sprayer's aerator, so disassemble the sprayer head by unscrewing the cap at the front. (Be sure to put the sink stopper in the drain in case any of the small parts fall out.) Visually inspect the aerator, cap and the interior of the sprayer for mineral buildup. Soak the smaller parts in a half-vinegar, half-water solution to loosen the buildup. Use your old toothbrush to scrub the sprayer and parts. Rinse all parts, reassemble the sprayer head, and test.

If the cleaning doesn't resolve the problem, check the sprayer hose for cracks or leaks. You may need a helper to operate the sprayer while you look at the hose under the sink. Hoses can crack at attachment points, so pay special attention to these. If you can't see any damage there, turn off the water at the shutoff valve, unscrew the hose from its sprayer nipple underneath the main faucet, and pull the whole sprayer assembly up and out. Then, unscrew the entire sprayer head from the hose (via the handle mount at the bottom of the head). You may see some damage here, from a corroded washer top to a cracked mount. You could just replace the washer, but it may be better, long-term, to take the entire assembly to the hardware store and purchase a replacement assembly.

If no damage is evident, the faucet's diverter valve may be faulty — usually from worn or cracked O-rings or washers. The diverter valve is located in the faucet body (in pullup-style faucets, beneath the center handle). You'll need to turn off the water flow, remove the faucet handle and, using needlenose pliers, carefully pull the small diverter valve from the faucet body. Clean in the vinegar-water solution and replace any damaged washers or O-rings. Reseat the diverter valve, reassemble the faucet and test the sprayer.

Mold And Mildew Solutions

(NAPS) It's not unusual to find mold and mildew in bathrooms, basements, laundry rooms or kitchens. Unsightly and often difficult to control, mold and mildew grow best in warm, humid areas of the home.

Cleaning may remove it, but the trick to controlling mold and mildew is to prevent them before they start. Follow these easy mold and mildew solutions from Zinsser:

Control Moisture: Keep airflow constant in high-humidity areas by installing exhaust fans. Remove excess moisture with a dehumidifier and consider replacing solid doors with louvered doors to improve ventilation. Eliminate stagnant water by wiping down shower walls after each use and cleaning spills from leaks, wet raincoats and laundry immediately. By improving airflow and eliminating moisture, it's easy to promote a dry environment that discourages the growth of mold and mildew.

Clean: Remove the mold and mildew with a cleaner specifically to formulate and remove mold and mildew stains, like JOMAX® Mold & Mildew Stain Remover. The fast-acting bleach formula cleans and removes mold and mildew stains from walls, ceilings and other surfaces prior to painting.

Prevent: After removing the mold and mildew, prevent them from coming back with two coats of PERMA-WHITE® Mold & Mildew-Proof Interior Paint. It's the only paint guaranteed to prevent the growth of mold and mildew for five years and is backed by a lifetime durability guarantee.

PERMA-WHITE beautifies as it protects. Available in three popular shines, the white finish can be tinted to any off-white, pastel or medium-tone color to match any decor. And it is durable and stain and moisture resistant to keep the point clean and fresh looking longer. Low odor and easy to use, it's great for painting bathrooms, basements, laundry-rooms, kitchens, and an high-humidity area where the growth of mold and mildew is a concern.

Maintain A Mold and Mildew-Free Home: Surfaces not painted with PERMA-WHITE may still develop the occasional mold and mildew spot or two. Use a cleaner such as JOMAX Mold & Mildew Stain Remover around sinks, bath and shower stalls, during weekly household cleaning. It is an easy, effective way to clean, remove and prevent mold and mildew stains and soap scum buildup on tile, fiberglass, grout, vinyl, plastic and more.

For more helpful mold and mildew solutions, call Zinsser at 732-469-8100, or visit www.zinsser.com.

Heat Pump Or Furnaces: How To Decide

(NAPS) If a new heating system is a possibility, a prospective buyer should consider the pros and cons of heat pumps and furnaces.

Both heat pumps and furnaces rely on heated air, as opposed to heated water, to distribute heat through a home. But that's where the similarity ends. While a furnace uses electricity or gas to produce heat, a heat pump reduces energy costs by extracting heat from outside air and circulating it through the house.

In warm weather, the process reverses, as the unit collects heat from the air inside the home and carries it outside.

Here are some tips on selecting the right system:

• Consider the climate. For those who reside in an area where the temperature rarely dips below 30 degrees, experts say a heat pump may heat the home more affordably than a furnace.

• Compare efficiencies. The efficiency of a gas furnace is indicated by the unit's Annual Fuel Utilization Efficiency (AFUE) rating, while the Heating Seasonal Performance Factor (HSPF) measures a heat pump's efficiency. The higher the AFUE or HSPF, the more efficient the unit and the less fuel it requires to heat a home.

• Electric furnaces are often considered 100 percent efficient. However, these units may be more expensive to operate, depending on the cost of electricity in the area. That's why it's also important to consider the cost of available fuels when making a decision, especially as the price of natural gas and oil continues to increase.

When comparing the efficiencies of heating systems, remember to compare the initial cost against the annual operating expenses.

• Some furnaces offer multistage and variable-speed to improve efficiency, maintain constant temperatures and reduce sound levels.

• Electronic controls on furnaces and heat pumps may offer tighter temperature control and the ability to program periods of temperature setback, improving both system efficiency and occupant comfort.

Veterans' Stadium Ready For Some Football

North Quincy Hosts Plymouth North On New Field Turf Friday At 7 P.M.

By SEAN BRENNAN

When the North Quincy football team takes the field against Plymouth North High School on Friday, Oct. 6 (7 p.m. start) the team will become the first of the many local high school sports programs to christen the new, state-of-the-art Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

On Monday, North Quincy/Quincy Athletic Director Jim Rendle confirmed the opening of Veterans' Memorial Stadium will indeed take place this Friday night at 7 p.m.

"The game is still on as scheduled," Rendle said. "We are all anxiously looking forward to it. The field is 98 percent ready to go, there are just a couple of things that still need to be fixed cosmetically.

"I think that the complex, including Adams Field and the new varsity stadium will be a gem for the city. This new field is really an exceptional schoolboy venue. We are all very excited."

The new stadium, which the two local schools will play on and one their fans will come to love, is an example of just how far athletic playing fields have come over the years. Made up of 90,000 feet of turf, 10,000 feet of wash stone and a comprehensive drainage system, the field will be used to host football, girls and boys soccer and boys and girls lacrosse games. The marks and lines for all these sports have been pre-sewn into the field turf, meaning there will be no need for any pre-game field preparation.

The actual length of the turf blades is 2 1/2 inches, but sometime before North Quincy is expected to kick-off, the turf will be mixed with a combination of sand and rubber. The combination of sand and rubber will bring the actual game-ready length of the turf down to a 1/2 inch.

Field maintenance will be heavily supported by the advanced drainage system. This system will have the ability to keep the turf puddle-free during the most serve of New England weather. The system will have the capacity to keep the field dry from rain in as heavy as six inches per hour.

The new field is designed to be able to host high school athletic events for the next 15-20 years without the need for replacement. A special machine will be used to sweep over the turf every so often to help keep the field clean and at the same time maintaining the 1/2 length of the playing field.

There will be restrictions on what will and will not be allowed on the field at Veterans' Memorial Stadium. Things such as gum chewing and the consumption of food and drink will not be allowed. The field is like a rug, and any food, drink or chewed gum that is spilt or spit out has the chance to stain and or ruin parts of the turf. In the event of an incident were blood of other fluids could stain the turf, there will be specialized disinfectants that will be used to clean the field.

The field is meant to be used only for scholastic sporting events and will not be open for public use. This policy is a continuation of the policy that was in place at the old stadium.

All of the field maintenance, besides the laying of the 90,000 feet of turf, has or will be done by the Quincy Park Department. The department's involvement in this maintenance will save the city $350,000, according to city officials.

Red Raiders Battle But Bow To Falmouth

FOOTBALL

Exhibiting the effort and tenacity needed to become a winning football program, the Red Raiders of North Quincy (0-3, 0-2 Atlantic Coast League) took another step forward in their rebuilding process during its 29-7 loss to Falmouth High School last Friday night.

"I don't, at all, have any doubt in our kids' heart or their toughness or their courage," head coach Jim Connor said. "That's something I wanted to establish early. Now we just got to clean up the little things."

Playing on the road and in front of a hostile and supported home crowd (the game was played in correlation with Falmouth's homecoming), the Red Raiders fell behind 29-0 with 8:02 left in the game on a touchdown run from Falmouth quarterback Mike Kotfilla. Instead of playing out the string, North Quincy forced Falmouth to punt on their next possession, helping to set up North's lone score.

Junior running back Terrence Sibley finished off the Red Raiders' impressive 39-yard drive with a three-yard touchdown run. Sibley's touchdown was followed by a successful extra-point kick off the foot of senior Dave Guerriero.

Sibley led the way on the ground with 14 carries for 40 yards and one touchdown. Senior quarterback Shaun McBrien completed 10 of 23 passes for 109 yards. McBrien connected with five different receivers during the game. Guerriero caught four passes for 32 yards to led the charge. Sophomore Lamonte Tombs reeled in three balls for 34 yards, and senior Adam Tragellis and juniors Dennis Martin and Sibley caught one ball apiece.

"I'm proud of the kids," Connor said. "A last-minute drive like that, and scoring, that shows me they have some heart in them."

Falmouth took control of the game on its first drive. A 12-play, 59-yard drive was capped off by a one yard touchdown run by Eli Olsen. Olsen finished the game with three touchdown runs.

North Quincy can look forward to playing the city's first high school football game on the new turf at Veterans' Memorial Stadium this Friday night (7:00) against Plymouth North High School.

Presidents Stopped By Plymouth North

The Quincy Presidents, coming off an emotional 16-13 loss to Falmouth High School on Sept. 22, came up empty this past Saturday in a loss to Plymouth North, 41-0.

Quincy, who faced the prospect of playing on the road against a Plymouth North team that was celebrating their school's homecoming, could not get its spread offense going versus a very stout Eagles' defense. Plymouth North held Quincy to very little offense throughout the game, and the Eagles took advantage of Quincy's poor special teams play in the second quarter to blow a close game wide-open.

The Eagles returned two punts, within two minutes of each other, 60 plus yards late in the quarter to take a 35-0 lead into the locker room at half-time.

Quincy could just never seem to get on track on either side of the ball, and to make matters worse, the Presidents lost two of their offensive stars, Jim Aikens and Diego Arredondo, to injury. Quarterback Matt Boyle and his superstar receiver, Tom Hazelhurst, were shutdown by the Eagles' secondary throughout the game.

Quincy (1-2) will look to get back in the win column this week against Whitman-Hanson High School. The game which was scheduled for Friday night at 7 p.m. has been changed to a Saturday afternoon tilt because of the continued threat of the Triple E virus that has disrupted the South Shore high school sports scene all season long. The Presidents will kick-off at 1 p.m. in Whitman this Saturday.

The team will make their debut on the new turf at Veterans' Memorial Stadium on Oct 13 at 7 p.m. against Atlantic Coast League powerhouse Marshfield High School.

SAFER, THE SECOND TIME AROUND

According to a recent study, the second-generation air bags on most vehicles built in 1998 and afterwards are safer than their predecessors. Designed to be less hazardous to children and small adults, the newer air bags are indeed safer for young children without putting adults at greater risk. Second-generation air bags include depowered models, which inflate with less force, and advanced air bags. While concerns had been raised that the depowered air bags could be unsafe for larger people, the new study found no trade-off given to large and small passengers. This seems to be a win-win situation, in which improved technology has led to improved safety for all.

As safety technology becomes more advanced, such as second-generation airbags, cars, trucks, and SUVs become safer to drive. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we embrace safety and want you to know that you, and your family's safety is our number one concern. Whatever your vehicle needs, we can provide at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree. Call 781-843-1550 today with any questions. "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

Tough Week Leaves North Quincy Girls At .500

SOCCER

Besides practice, hard work and talent sometimes a team needs a little luck, but unfortunately this past week any luck the North Quincy girls soccer team got was bad luck. The team had a tough week, going 0-3, losing to Plymouth North (2-1), Notre Dame Academy of Hingham (2-1) and to Sandwich (1-0). The Red Raiders' record now stands at 4-4-1.

After seeing a ball against Sandwich hit off an on-field referee and onto the waiting foot of a Sandwich player which resulted in the lone goal of the game, head coach Paul Bregoli knew luck was not on his team's side this week.

"We played a great game against Sandwich and Notre Dame, but any luck we had was bad luck," Bregoli said. "We didn't lose because of any lack of effort on our side."

North's opening week loss to Plymouth North set the tone for the next two games. The team had their chances against the Eagles to either take a lead or tie the game, but ultimately the they could not find the back of the net when it was needed most. Leading 1-0 after five minutes on a goal from Jillian Benn (4th of the year),assisted by Mary Kate Stille, the Red Raiders were called for a questionable foul with just over a minute left in the first-half. Plymouth North took full advantage of the foul, connecting on a 30-yard free kick goal to tie the game at 1-1.

The Eagles scored 13 minutes into the second-half and then used ball control and solid defense to help finish off the Red Raiders, 2-1.

Playing an elite non-conference opponent in the Cougars of Notre Dame Academy, the Red Raiders showed the grit that should take them far this season, but fell, 2-1.

"We played unbelievable against N.D.A.," Bregoli said. "This is the toughest schedule we have played in some time, and Notre Dame is a highly ranked team in Eastern Massachusetts. We played great defensively and had some opportunities,we hit the cross-bar, but we just couldn't get that tying goal."

The Cougars put the pressure on North Quincy early in the game, and took a 1-0 lead on a penalty kick four minutes into the game. North would respond on a Lauren Stille goal, that was assisted on by Mary Kate Stille, to tie the score at 1-1, but N.D.A. found the winner in the second-half.

Playing well for the Red Raiders in the loss were defenders Allison Russell, Tara Whooley and Melissa Mendall. Midfielder Keriann Cabral played well in defeat and Paige Bonanni played in her first varsity game.

North Quincy also lost their top points leader, Mary Kate Stille, to a mild-concussion. She will be out the rest of this week.

A bad bounce of a crossed ball is what doomed North Quincy against Sandwich High School. The Red Raiders found themselves in a defensive battle for most of the game, but one funny bounce off the referee with eleven minutes to play in the game sealed their fate.

Goalie Siobhan Carnell played great, and midfielder Bridget Coleman (seven blocked shots) helped keep Sandwich off the scoreboard throughout the first-half. Emily Milone was the offensive star of the match for North Quincy.

"We are in pretty good shape," Bregoli said. "We played seven of our first nine games on the road and have done great. Right now we are playing a little unlucky, but if we can get some consistent goal scoring would should be fine."

Red Raider Boys Eye Repeat Win At W-H Friday

The North Quincy Red Raiders boys soccer team, under the tutelage of head coach Rich Hanlon, are off to a 2-5-1 start to begin the 2006 season.

North began their season with a 1-1 tie against Milton High School. The team followed that up with a 2-0 loss to Plymouth North in a game that could have gone either way.

The Red Raiders already have an impressive 1-0 victory over a very good Whitman-Hanson team on their resume, and North will look to duplicate that result when they travel to Whitman this Friday for the much anticipated rematch (4 p.m. start).

This past week North Quincy took it to Brighton High School, and came away with a hard-fought 3-0 win. Led by junior John Cicciariello's two goals and freshman goalkeeper Ryan Louis' second career varsity shutout the Raiders earned their second win of the season. Junior Sean Clifford also tallied a goal in the contest.

North Quincy has ten games left and with their ever-improving defense the Raiders look to be a team that will only get better as the season progresses. The defense is led by junior captains Ryan Keaney and Dan Richards and are receiving solid support from juniors Marc DeLucia, Alex Brean and Tim Schow.

The forwards are led by Cicciariello, Luis Escobar, Besmir Sulejmani, Mike Prioli and Paul DeLucia.

"The team has shown continued improvement all year," head coach Rich Hanlon said. "We have ten games left, with two against Sandwich and Marshfield that will test us, but the remaining eight games are games we can win. If we can continue to improve I have high hopes for this team to make the post-season state tournament this year."

North Quincy's schedule includes two games against Quincy High School which are slated to be played on October 24th (at Veterans' Memorial Stadium) and October 27th.

HN Maritime Center Hosts Regatta

The Boston Irish Currach Rowing Regatta was held recently at the Houghs Neck Maritime Center.

The Boston Irish Currach Rowing Club was established in 1970 and has been racing their Currach's in local waters ever since. The Currach is a rowing boat that has been traditionally used by fishermen from County Galway in the west of Ireland.

This year's regatta was held at the Houghs Neck Maritime Center. Teams from Boston, Pittsburgh, Albany, Annapolis and Ireland competed in various races. Ten races were held for male and female competitors, including a 2,3 and 4 man/woman races as well mixed races.

After the regatta, the Boston team hosted a reception at Quincy Yacht Club for the racing crews to socialize

"This is what we envisioned when we established the Maritime Center and we look forward to hosting next year's regatta," Maritime Center President Bob Szabo.

All-Time Points Leader In Girls Soccer

Woodward School's Jasmin Johansen Something Special

By SEAN BRENNAN

Jasmin Johansen is something special.

For those of you who do not recognize the name, you haven't been paying enough attention to the city's high school sports scene. Johansen is now the all-time points leader for the Woodward School for Girls varsity soccer team.

With 11 games left in the regular season, Johansen, a senior captain, has already surpassed the old record of 142 total points and 80 goals. The Mattapan resident also holds the school record for the most goals in one game with six, but her success is not limited to just athletics. Johansen's 3.7 GPA and her membership, since her sophomore year, in the National Honor Society has earned her just as many accolades in the classroom as she has earned on the playing field.

Woodward, located on Hancock Street in Quincy Center, is an all-girls private school (grades 6 through 12) whose numbers reach anywhere from 140-180 students a year (180 this year). Johansen's varsity career began in the eighth grade, and she has worked hard to set the standards of leadership and responsibility that her teammates and classmates can emulate.

Even with all of her success, Johansen maintains a level demeanor that makes her not just an outstanding player and teammate, but also an ideal role model for all the young women attending The Woodward School.

"I've been on the team for five years and when I first joined the team I had a lot of role models. They (previous teams) might not have been the best players, but they showed the character and determination that I wanted for myself," Johansen said. "What I've learned from them, I want to pass on to this team and any girls who will be playing in the future."

JASMIN JOHANSEN of The Woodward School for Girls poses for a picture in the school's front foyer. Johansen recently broke the school's varsity soccer record for points scored.

Johansen grew up playing soccer in the Jamaica Plain coed youth leagues, and by the time she entered The Woodward School in the sixth grade she was well on her way to becoming a good soccer player, but finding out who she was as a person was something that Johansen still needed to discover. The Woodward School, her teachers, coaches and her fellow students helped her do just that.

"School has given me confidence as a young lady," Johansen said. "I used to be shy, but with the small classes and the tight-knit community one can really find herself. This confidence has made me better prepared for college (Johansen is applying early-decision to Spelman College in Atlanta, GA). I feel that I am very comfortable in my skin, and that is important both on the field and off the field. This confidence allows me to feel good about who I am."

And who she is is the leading scorer (11 goals, 4 games) for the Wildcats, helping the team to a 3-0-1 start in the Independent Girls Conference. Woodward, the smallest of the schools in the IGC and the only school without the benefit of a junior varsity program, and one of only a handful that does not have its own home facilities and playing fields, is off to one of its best starts in years. Head coach and athletic director Bob Giordano knew he had something special when he first met Johansen.

"Being with Jaz since the 6th grade, I've known what she is all about," Giordano said. "She has been our leader since the 9th grade. The team always comes first. Jaz was born into soccer, she has outstanding skills and if she was at Milton Academy or Thayer Academy she would still be a star soccer player. So, with those skills, her strength and quickness, she was just born to be a soccer player."

The school record and her obvious talent aside, Johansen and the Wildcats, have more work to do this season if they want to finish in the top four in the conference and finish in the First Division (the top 4 teams play for the IGC championship).

"With the small number of kids on the team, for us to make the 1st Division is tough, we've come close. About six years ago we finished a game over .500," Giordano said. "We have always been competitive, but we always seemed to lose those 3-2, 2-1 games.This is the first year we have a legit chance to break into the 1st Division."

No matter how the rest of the season plays out, Johansen will leave Woodward this spring as the all-time points leader, but the record, though nice, is not the legacy she wants to be remembered by.

"The record is a great honor to have, but that's not my main focus right now," Johansen said. "I would rather be known for my character and personality. What people admire about me and what they have learned from me is more important. The record is great, and I am proud of that, but I see it more as a record for the whole team. We have all gotten this accomplishment together, so if anything I would like to be remembered for my hard work and dedication to my school and to my team."

Tournament Of Champions At Presidents

Presidents Golf Course's Tournament of Champions took place this past weekend. The tournament, which was broken down into two divisions for both men and women, was based on a par 70 score.

In Division I men's action, Bob Meehan (72) finished in 1st Gross and Dave Pomarico (74) finished in 2nd Gross. Bill Robinson (69) 1st Net and Bob Lyons and Mike O'Neill (71) rounded out the 1st Division at 2nd Net.

With a 76, Pat Bergin took home 1st Gross in Division II play, and at 2nd Gross it was Mark Brambilla with an 82. 1st Net honors went to Paul Murphy (67) and tied at 2nd Net with a 70 were Mike Forristall and Tom Murphy.

Women's Division I results saw Melanie Curtin take 1st Gross with a 71 and tied at 2nd Gross with an 82 were Linda Goulet and Chris Fitzpatrick. Rusty Murphy's 69 was good enough for 1st Net position, followed by Mary Vonfreymann in 2nd Net with a 72.

Mal Nestor won at 1st Net (71), followed in 2nd Net by Gail Keefe (73) in Division II women's play.

Ricky Salvucci's Ace Highlights Quincy Match

GOLF

Quincy and North Quincy High Schools both matched up against Whitman-Hanson High School last Wednesday (Sept. 27) at Presidents Golf Course. The three teams decided to play together to help ease the congestion on their respective schedules due to previous rainouts.

Quincy, playing the role of the home team, lost to Whitman-Hanson in match play, 42 1/2 - 29 1/2 to drop its overall record to 0-7. The highlight of the match was a hole-in-one by Quincy junior Ricky Salvucci. Salvucci used a pitching wedge to score an ace on the 100-yard second hole, it was Salvucci's first ever ace. Salvucci won the No.3 match by a 5-4 margin.

The Presidents came within a foot of having two hole-in-ones in the match when Derek Miller, on the ninth hole, blasted his drive to within 12 inches of the cup. Miller's tee shot on the 345-yard, par 4 helped set up a tap-in eagle, and propelled him to a win in the No. 6 match. Miller finished with 6 1/2 points.

North Quincy, using the stroke play format, defeated Whitman-Hanson, 229-244. The Red Raiders (8-1) used the win to qualify for the Division 1 South Sectionals for the eighth time in nine years.

In the No.1 match, Jon Drooks shot an even-par 34 to lead the way for North Quincy. Also playing well were, Peter Dolbec (35), Rob McAloon (38) and Chris Boyd (39).

Quincy Legion Dart Team Competing In Minuteman League

The Minuteman Dart League, established in 1974, is a local competitive league that maintains a yearly average of over 4,800 members on over 600 teams, in 75 divisions in and around eastern Massachusetts.

In Quincy, there are over 50 teams who are sponsored by 34 different establishments. The league holds weekly games every Tuesday night and the gamesare played in numerous neighborhood taverns, restaurants, fraternal organizations and bowling alleys.

The league helps bring together people of diverse heritage and backgrounds and provides opportunities for valuable personal and cultural exchange. The MMDL has organized and established its activities in accordance with the principles of open membership, fair play and respectful competition, and in conjunction with the regular Tuesday night matches, the MMDL also runs a series of nationally respected dart tournaments including the MMDL Singles Championships held in April for league members only.

All of the teams consists of no more than nine players and all team players must be 21 and be registered in good standing with MMDL. Along with competitive play, the MMDL holds socially beneficial programs such as youth tournaments and charitable fund raising activities, while at the same time upholding strong ideals of service to the community.

North Girls Defeat Quincy In Volleyball

The Red Raiders (8-2) dropped the first game by a score of 20-25, but responded in resounding fashion by storming back to take the final three games, 25-10, 25-14 and 25-13. The Presidents (5-3), playing on their home court, were led to victory in game one by junior captain Liz Bock's (14 kills, six digs and four blocks) back-to-back kills which helped seal the first game for Quincy.

North Quincy's senior captain Maria Della Croce solid serving and junior Virginia Wong strong play the rest of the way helped the Red Raiders bounce back to win the match.

"It was a little bit of a slow start for us, but I think also we are pretty evenly matched teams, so whenever you get two teams like that in a gym with the energy that this game had, it can go either way," NQ head coach Kerry Ginty said. "They came out firing and we came out firing, the first game was tough and after we kind of got a bit more comfortable and we adjusted to the pace of the game."

Playing a strong overall match for the Red Raiders were Della Croce, Wong, Becca Goreham, Rebecca Stanton, Kathleen Lynch (two blocks) and junior Marybeth Torpey (four kills, eight digs and two aces).

The Presidents had good production from junior Hilary Mills, sophomore Elisa Lam (eight digs) and junior Alicia Woodbery (15 assists, 10 digs and four kills).

The two Atlantic Coast League rivals will match up once again on October 25th with the possibility that the league championship may be on the line.

FALL CAR CARE

Good Visibility Requires Vehicle Maintenance

Driving safely requires good visibility and a vehicle with good visibility requires regular maintenance, according to AAA Southern New England.

"Visibility is a critical component of driving safely because it directly affects the driver's ability to anticipate and respond to the driving environment," said Alfred Ruggiero, AAA Manager of Approved Auto Repair.

During AAA Car Care Month in October, AAA is urging motorists to consider visibility when maintenance is performed on their vehicle. Items that are necessary for good visibility are:

• Clear, clean windows unobstructed by decals, dark window tinting or objects that interfere with the driver's view of the road.

• Windshield wipers changed twice per year will ensure the rubber remains soft enough to efficiently remove water, snow and road grit from the glass surface.

• Vehicle lights, including headlights, brake lights, turn signals, parking lights, emergency flashers and the center, high-mounted brake light should all be inspected regularly and replaced immediately if needed. Lights can also become dirty which limits their brightness. They should be cleaned regularly.

• Mirrors must be clean, large enough and correctly angled to provide a complete view of all areas behind and to the side of the vehicle. Objects inside or outside the vehicle must not obstruct mirrors. They usually need to be reset when there is a change of drivers.

• A vehicle's air circulation system must function properly to quickly defrost or defog the windshield and other glass surfaces. Use an ice scraper to remove snow and ice before driving. Before turning on the defroster and blower, move the heat control to "hot" and allow the engine to warm up first.

If the windshield starts to fog on the inside, open a side window slightly and turn the defroster fan to its highest setting. Additionally, if the car's heating and air conditioning system has a setting for fresh air or re-circulated air, always select the fresh air setting while in the defroster mode.

• Sunglasses that do not have overly dark lenses can also be a significant aid to visibility when driving in bright-light conditions. Be sure lenses are kept clean. Glare can cause blind spots and driving fatigue. A good pair of sunglasses will help eliminate this. Eye-drops can be helpful for long-distance drives.

Soreness Is No Way to Judge Workout

Q: I started a new workout routine that I found in a magazine. I thought I would be sore after doing the workout twice, but I barely felt like I worked out at all. If I don't feel sore or tired, does this mean that it is not hard enough and should be changed?

A. The effectiveness of a workout routine should be determined by the results you see and not just how you feel. Exhaustion and soreness after a workout is a physical response to the exercise performed, but should not be used as a major measure of success.

The workouts in magazines usually give you guidelines on how to perform the exercises and a suggested number of sets, repetitions and weight. Since these suggestions are given as a general guideline to everyone reading the magazine, you will have to decide what will work best for you.

Determining how and when to change your workout program can be tricky, but you can use the acronym F.I.T to help you out. Designing your workout with the right Frequency, Intensity and Type can keep you working toward your goals and feeling confident in the effectiveness of your workouts.

Frequency is the number of times you are completing your workout program. One to three times a week may be recommended for strength-training workouts, while a frequency of seven days a week may be recommended for specific cardiovascular workouts.

The consistent frequency of your workouts is important to seeing results, but it is equally important to not overdo your workouts in order to achieve that feeling of soreness. Your soreness could be a sign of overtraining or lack of recovery time between workouts.

Intensity is important in developing a program that will not only help you see results but also keep you safe. The stress you place on your body through the intensity of your workouts through your sets and repetitions is an integral part of your workout. Too high an intensity could cause you to feel the soreness you seek, but it could also mean you're working yourself too hard.

For example, if the workout calls for you to do squats with dumbbells, choose the right weight by starting light and progressing after completing a few workouts safely and with the correct technique. This may require you to do the squats without the dumbbells at first, and then increase the intensity by adding the weights.

The type of exercise also should not be ignored. Predesigned workouts such as the ones in magazines usually give you a goal and explanation of what the workout is designed to accomplish. Be sure that the workout fits your needs. For example, if strength is your goal, then be sure the workout is structured to improve strength and not just cardiovascular endurance or flexibility.

Keep these factors in mind when trying new workouts, and use them as a guide to help you reach your goals.

'Guiding Stars' Helps Navigate Nutritious Foods

Hannaford Bros. Co. announces the creation of an in-store nutrition navigation system called Guiding Stars designed to make it easier for interested shoppers to choose more nutritious foods.

Guiding Stars, considered the first-ever storewide nutrition navigation program, began recently at its Quincy location, 475 Hancock St.

Unlike other systems currently offered, Guiding Stars is not limited to just store-branded products or just to packaged goods. More than 27,000 items in Hannaford stores have been analyzed to date, including all brands, fresh produce, meats, deli, bakery and packaged goods.

"It's not often that any retailer can say they're the first to promote a new offering," said Hannaford spokesperson Caren Epstein. "At Hannaford it's critical that we listen and respond to consumer needs as quickly as possible. Our research, including more than 3,000 Hannaford shoppers, shows that our customers want to eat better, but are confused by the volume and complexity of nutrition information. Guiding Stars will help by giving them a simple way to make more informed choices."

The system features a symbol of a figure with one, two, or three stars, which is on food shelf tags throughout all Hannaford stores. One star is considered good nutritional value, two stars is better, and three is the best nutritional value.

The foundation of Hannaford's unique navigation system is a proprietary formula (patent pending) used to analyze food products and give them a star ranking. It was developed by a scientific advisory panel including experts from the University of North Carolina, Dartmouth School of Medicine, Tufts University, the Muskie School of Public Service at the University of Southern Maine, Harvard University and the University of California-Davis. The panel drew from its own expertise and extensive research from national health organizations. Sources included the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, U.S. Department of Agriculture, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, national Academies of Science, and the World Health Organization.

The Guiding Stars criteria support the recommendations of the Dietary Guidelines for Americans 2005 and serves as a quick complement to the Nutrition Facts label and ingredient list. Foods are credited for minerals, vitamins, dietary fiber, and whole grains and debited for trans fats, saturated fats, cholesterol, added sugars and added sodium.

Guiding Stars relies on information provided from the Nutrition Facts label and the ingredient list. If the food is not packaged, like fruits, vegetables and meats, the data comes from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Because manufacturers' serving sizes vary greatly, a consistent unit of 100 calories is used to analyze foods.

Many foods throughout the store will not have stars for two reasons: either the food doesn't meet the nutritional criteria for a star; or the food is not rated. Some foods, (e.g. baby food) are not rated because regulatory bodies have not established guidelines for these products, they are not a significant source of nutrients (e.g., coffees, teas, bottled water and spices), or due to labeling inconsistencies.

Hannaford Bros. Co., based in Scarborough, Maine, operates 158 stores under the Hannaford Supermarket and Hannaford Supermarket and Pharmacy names.

You Are What You Eat

By NILS R. HOERNLE, M.D.,
Granite Medical Center

DR. NILS HOERNLE

"You are what you eat," it is sometimes said, but in a sense, you are also what your ancestors ate.

It is now becoming clear that our bodies function best on a certain type of diet, and that that diet was determined quite a long time ago. In fact, it is very similar to what our great-grandparents ate. Just as we inherited our eye color and facial features from our parents, and they from their parents going back many generations, we also inherited our metabolism - the ability to burn or store foods - from our ancestors.

In America today, the foods we eat are very different from the foods our ancestors ate, and from the foods our bodies run best on. As a result, most of today's illnesses come from eating foods that are not suited to our metabolism. Just as cars are designed to burn certain types of fuel, we are designed to run on certain types of food. If we put low grade fuel or dirty oil into our car, it will run poorly and eventually break down. In much the same way, eating the wrong types of foods causes us to run poorly by storing excess fat, producing damaging waste products, and gumming up our arteries. This translates into serious illnesses like diabetes, cancer and heart disease.

What then, are the right kinds of food to eat? Take a moment to consider what your ancestors ate. Even a hundred years ago, grains were whole and provided more fiber and nutrients than today's refined grains. There were far fewer carbohydrates, and even these were healthier. Potatoes were smaller and more nutritious, rice was long-grain and unpolished, bread was whole grain, and pasta was made from unrefined wheat. In addition to more whole grains, our ancestors also ate a larger proportion of vegetables, fruits, nuts, berries, fish and wild game.

This diet was very rich in antioxidants from the deeply-colored vegetables, fruits and beans. It contained healthy omega-3 oils and monounsaturated fats from fish and nuts and seeds. The protein from wild game was generally lean, and thus low in harmful saturated fat. This combination of a low saturated fat and high fiber diet resulted in less heart disease.

In contrast, the typical American diet is nearly the opposite of this. It is surprisingly low in fiber, vegetables, fruits, nuts and fish, and alarmingly high in refined carbohydrates. It is high in saturated fats from feedlot-fattened red meat, and from butter, cheese, palm and coconut oils. Moreover, it is high in hydrogenated trans fats, which raise bad cholesterol (LDL) and lower good (HDL) cholesterol.

Perhaps worst of all are the huge amounts of refined carbohydrates we consume. These are the "white foods," including potatoes, bread, rice, pasta, crackers, cereal, cookies, candy and sugar drinks. To get a sense of how widespread our carbohydrate consumption is, one has only to stroll through the middle aisles of the supermarket – the bread aisle, the cereal aisle, the cookie aisle, the soda aisle, and the snack and chips aisle.

These refined carbohydrates have been stripped of their fiber, vitamin and mineral content during processing. What remains is a skeletonized high-calorie fuel that rapidly enters the bloodstream as sugar and is quickly converted into fat. The end result is obesity, which often leads to diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure, sleep apnea, arthritis and many cancers.

In essence, the body we inherited from our ancestors isn't designed to run on the fuel we're feeding it. If we attempt to keep in mind what our ancestors ate, we can come up with a well-balanced and healthy diet that is wholesome and satisfying.

It is important to learn to read ingredient lists, and to choose healthy single-ingredient foods. The more ingredients, the less control we have over what we eat. Look for high fiber, high nutrient foods, including whole grains, wild rice, colorful fruits and vegetables, beans, nuts, fish, lean chicken, yogurt and virgin olive oil. This will keep your body running smoothly and prevent some of the most common illnesses. After all, if we wouldn't put low grade fuels and dirty oils into our cars, should we really be putting them into our bodies?

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

MAY WE, SOMEDAY, RE-GROW TEETH?

When you have a fractured or diseased tooth, the dentist has a variety of ways to restore it, including crowns, bonding, veneers, and onlays/inlays. However, if Canadian researchers have their way, another option may be available in the not-so-distant future. They have created a very small ultrasound machine that gently works on gums and stimulates tooth growth at root level from its position on a removal plastic crown. This tiny wireless device only requires daily activation lasting 20 minutes for four months to stimulate growth. While still in the prototype stage, the device could come into commercial use within two years. Until then, allow your dentist to show you how your smile can be restored to its former natural beauty.

If you have any questions about your chances for replacing lost teeth through the latest techniques call us at 617-479-6220. Our recommendations for dental treatment are always in the best interest of the patient. Always feel free to discuss your dental concerns with us. We can provide you with implants, dentures, bridges and crowns, as well as general dental treatment for the entire family. We offer complete dental health services for the whole family. We want you to look and feel your best. For a happy, healthy, and good-looking smile, we urge you to have a check-up soon. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Although the device mentioned above started out as a hand-held device, it was eventually shrunk to the size of a pea so it could be inserted in the mouth.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Cosmic changes create a potential for disruptions in your travel plans. In the meantime, you might want to consider shifting your focus to another area of your life that needs attention.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's a good time for beauty-loving Bovines to enjoy something special for the senses. It will restore your spirit and return you to the workaday world ready for the next challenge.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) With your planetary ruler, Mercury, going retrograde, you might want to slow down the pace in pursuing some of your projects. Rushing things could be counterproductive.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Tensions begin to ease in those once-testy relationships. This helps create a more positive aspect all around. Expect to hear news that could lead you to rethink a recent decision.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) The pace of activity that had slowed last week now begins to pick up. This is good news for Leos and Leonas who have career-building plans that need to be put into operation.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Venus offers encouragement to romance-seeking Virgos who are ready to get up, get out and meet more people, one of whom could be that long-sought soul mate.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) An ongoing problem with a co-worker might need to be sent to arbitration. Get all your facts together so that you have a solid base from which to make your argument.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You are usually decisive about most matters. But you might want to defer your decision-making this week until you get more facts. Someone is holding out on you.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) That quiet period is ending, and a new burst of activity creates some problems at the workplace. But things are soon resolved, and everything goes back to normal.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Relationships could be either helpful or hurtful as you pursue your career goals. You might have to make some difficult choices depending on what your priorities are.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You might still have some doubts about a career move that could involve a lot of travel. If so, continue to check things out until you feel secure about making a decision.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Love rules, as Venus continues to exercise her cosmic influence on both single and attached Pisces. New developments might cause you to change your travel plans.

BORN THIS WEEK: You often think of others before you consider your own needs. You enjoy helping people and would make a fine teacher or caregiver.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Recently we received a note from a reader suggesting that far too many Boards, Councils, Committees and even some individuals have an uncanny way of delaying indefinitely or avoiding completely making controversial decisions. . . Also enclosed was a clipping from an old publication which the reader felt was still appropriate today. I couldn't agree more. . .

TO AVOID MAKING DECISIONS

1. Profess not to have THE answer. That lets you out of having any answer.
2. Say that we must not move too rapidly. This avoids the necessity of getting started.
3. For every proposal, set up any opposite and conclude that the middle ground (no motion whatever) represents the wisest course of action.
4. Say that the problem can't be separated from other problems. Therefore, it can't be solved until all other problems have been solved.
5. Ask what is meant by the question. By the time it is clarified it will be time to go home.
6. Appoint a committee.
7. Wait until an expert can be consulted.
8. State in conclusion that you have clarified your thinking. This completely obscures the fact that nothing has been done.
9. Point out how the deepest minds have struggled with the same problem. This implies that it gives you credit even to have thought of it.
10. In closing, thank the problem. It has stimulated the discussion, contributed to our growth, opened up new vistas, shown the way, challenged our inventiveness.

Why can't we make timely decisions on important matters? I don't profess to have THE answer . . . We may need to consult an expert!

St. Chrysostom's Church Celebrates 50th Anniversary Of Building Consecration

St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of the consecration of the building at their Homecoming Extravaganza.

The parish was founded in 1892 and the former shingle-style building was replaced in 1950 by the current stone building, designed by renowned Boston architect Ralph Adams Cram. The building was paid off and consecrated Sept. 23, 1956 by the Right Rev. Norman B. Nash.

Highlights of the celebration included a visit by former Rector, Rev. Frank Greene who was the priest at the time of the consecration. There was a presentation of citation from City Council President Doug Gutro, and a blessing and dedication of the church's new wheelchair ramp. There was a launch of the new website, and a barbecue open to the public.

Entertainment was provided by the gospel singing group "Andrew and Expressions," and bagpiper Rob Haskell. All participants received a commemorative coffee mug.

Pet Blessing Sunday At Chrysostom's Church

The St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church will celebrate their St. Francis Day Pet Blessing Sunday, (Oct. 8) at 4 p.m.

Live pets, stuffed animals or photographs and mementos of pets may be brought to the annual blessing, held in the churchyard.

In the case of rain, the service will be moved inside. Refreshments will be served and the service is open to the public. For more information, call the church at 617-472-0737.

RELIGION

THE RIBBON CUTTING ceremony for the new wheelchair ramp at the church is performed by Dorothy Finlay (front) with assistance by her granddaughter, Tracy O'Sullivan.

Hundreds Enjoy Open House At Veterans Stadium

"Veterans' Stadium is now the crown jewel of our athletic facilities," said Phelan. "Young men and women, boys and girls, will be playing soccer, lacrosse, and football on this new surface for the next 20 years. This is a facility that Quincy can be proud of as we host more games than any other community in the region at this facility. increased ability for use at the stadium turn will also take the pressure off other fields and increase the overall conditions at most of Quincy's varsity fields."

The new field surface was christened Friday night with a football game between North Quincy High School and Plymouth North High School. Both varsity soccer teams played there on Saturday and youth football held their weekly schedule Sunday. Quincy High School junior varsity football teams hosted a game there on Monday morning.

"With two high schools, the stadium is home to six scholastic

Neighborhood Meeting Planned

Phelan Urges Calm On Chinese Flag Flying Controversy

By TOM HENSHAW

The great Chinese flag flap moved into the talking stage this week as Mayor William Phelan urged calm, a majority of city councillors remonstrated angrily and the Chinese United Association lost its most eloquent spokesman.

And for the second week there was no flag, either Chinese or American, flying over the CUA Headquarters USA in Wollaston pending a meeting with neighbors everyone knew was planned but no one seemed to know when.

"They have every right to fly the flag," Phelan told his Tuesday press availability. "It may not have been a great idea to have raised the flag without warning. It's best to take it down and let things calm down.

"Let's wait and hear from the organization after the public dialogue. We officials should take the same approach."

City Council President Doug Gutro, calling the issue the "most visceral" he's seen on the Council, brought it up in the meeting last week during a time allotted for members to speak out on any subject they wish and most councillors joined him.

Gutro said 75 protesters had contacted him and Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis suggested that the address and phone number of the Chinese United Association be given out so that more people can call them and protest directly.

At Large Councillor John Keenan, Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin and Gutro met with members of the CUA Thursday "to request them not to fly the flag because it is divisive and has caused resentment" until after they have met with neighbors."

"They agreed," said

Veterans To Hold Flag Protest Rally

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Quincy veterans will hold a weekend rally to protest the flying of the Chinese flag over the office of the Chinese United Association in the Wollaston business district.

The License Board Tuesday unanimously gave a permit to David Lawson, senior vice-commander of the George F. Bryan Post.

The rally will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the intersection of Beach and Beale Sts. where the building on which the flag has been flown is located.

Lawson told the board he predicted about 50-60 persons would participate.

Lawson said the rally would be "orderly" with a protest of "defrocking old glory." Lawson said there were red medallions placed over the stars of the American Flag covering all but four of the stars.

Crowley said "we don't want to plan the demonstration-this is your rally-but we do not want to disrupt any traffic on Hancock Street.

Acting Chairman, Health Commissioner Drew Scheele said the rally should not be right in front of the facility. (the former Blackwood Pharmacy.)

Also speaking at the meeting was Vincent Dolan, president of the Veteran's Council and Commander of the Quincy Veteran's Council. He reiterated Lawson's plan and reason for the rally.

Fire Dept. Testing, Flushing Hydrants

The Quincy Fire Department is conducting hydrant testing and flushing throughout the city during October.

If residents notice discolored water in their domestic system, the Fire Department advises them to run a faucet for a few minutes until the water clears.

The water will be safe to use.

football teams, a youth football program, more than 10 scholastic soccer programs, and a growing lacrosse program," said Phelan. "It receives a tremendous amount of use and subsequent wear. The new turn looks great now and will withstand the use that it receives and remain in good shape for years.

The stadium repairs are part of Phelan's Natural Resource Investment Initiative, a $10 million investment in Quincy's quality of life through park improvements and the protection of open space. Proceeds from the city's hotel/motel tax are being used to pay for the initiative.

The city has purchased Lot 23 and Bayswater Boatyard in Houghs Neck for recreational purposes.

Adams Field has been completely renovated and has hosted national events. The city built the first facility dedicated primarily to female sports at Mitchell/McCoy Field. Other improvements have been made to city beaches and parks throughout Quincy's neighborhoods.

Bellotti's Inmate Program Becoming Model For State

MICHAEL BELLOTTI

Thanks to a new and fully automated inmate evaluation process, the Norfolk County Sheriff's classification system is quickly becoming the model for other local and state agencies.

The criminal offender management tool, known simply as COMPAS, provides decision support within the classification system by identifying the risks and needs of each offender in the Norfolk County House of Correction in Dedham.

Other country correctional centers and the Massachusetts Department of Correction and state Parole Board have received demonstrations of COMPAS and are considering adopting the computerized assessment tool.

The Sheriff's Office is the first correctional center in the Northeast to implement COMPAS within a classification system.

"In corrections, classification is vital to the daily operations of the institution," Sheriff Michael Bellotti said. "This new tool provides us with better information and allows staff to have a greater understanding of the inmates they're dealing with every day. We're proud of our system and happy to share its success."

Through the use of COMPAS, the Sheriff's Office tracks and measures an offender's "risk scales," which include court records, criminal history and recidivism.

At the same time, COMPAS identifies "needs scales," which involve substance abuse, education, finances, mental health and parenting skills.

In the past, those working in classification depended mainly on subjective information such as gut instinct, personal knowledge and opinions to classify inmates.

COMPAS is an objective approach that provides centralized and measurable information, allowing correctional staff to develop a course of action for each inmate that determines programming, housing and reentry.

It is particularly helpful in the re-entry or "step-down" process that leads to community settings such as probation, parole and community corrections, including electronic bracelet monitoring and community service.

Because correctional workers get a much quicker and accurate snapshot of every inmate, the inconsistency and margin for error that were typical of the old subjective system have been eliminated.

"The consistent documentation of inmate behavior and adjustment becomes a motivator for inmates because they understand in a very clear and visible presentation why they are placed in a particular category and how their conduct changes their classification," Bellotti

Cooking Fires Targeted By NFPA Safety Week

Home cooking fires will be the target of National Fire Prevention Week Open House today (Thursday) from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the National Fire Protection Association headquarters, One Batterymarch Park, Quincy.

NFPA studies indicate that cooking fires are the number one cause of home fires in which 82 per cent of the 3,675 people who died in fires in the United States lost their lives.

In an effort to reduce the number of deaths, the NFPA is sponsoring its annual public awareness campaign, Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 8-14, under the title "Prevent Cooking Fire: Watch What You Heat."

Preschool and K-K1 youngsters from Quincy and Braintree will gather at NFPA headquarters to learn first hand about fire safety and meet Sparky the Fire Dog. Educational materials will be distributed.

The lessons include Fire Escape Planning; Stop, Drop and Roll; Crawl Under Smoke and Safety Sing-Along.

Your mortgage has a low rate.
You're keeping that loan.
But there's something you need money for.
Here's the way to get it...

Whatever your reason for needing or wanting the money, our Fixed Rate Home Equity Loan is the smart way to get it without touching your first mortgage and losing that low rate. You pick the term, up to 15 years. You tell us how much you want... from $20,000 and up. The rate is fixed – not adjustable! – so you know what your payments will be every single month. For example, you can have $50,000 right now for only $442.45 a month (on a 15-year loan). It's practical, fast and so easy. Come see us. Or call Richard Coleman or Angela Blanchard at 617-471-0750.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Oct. 10, 1845, the Naval School opens in Annapolis, Md., with 50 midshipmen students and seven professors. It officially became the U.S. Naval Academy in 1850, and a new curriculum went into effect, requiring midshipmen to study at the academy for four years and to train aboard ships each summer.

• On Oct. 15, 1917, Mata Hari is executed for espionage by a French firing squad. It is probable that French authorities trumped her up as "the greatest woman spy of the century" as a distraction for the huge losses the French army was suffering on the Western Front.

• On Oct. 11, 1923, three men blow up the mail car of a Southern Pacific train carrying passengers through southern Oregon in a botched robbery attempt. The bomb the thieves used was too powerful, and the entire mail car was blown to bits.

• On Oct. 9, 1936, harnessing the power of the Colover 266 miles of transmission lines to Los Angeles. When it was finished in 1935, Hoover was the tallest dam in the world.

• On Oct. 12, 1945, PFC Desmond T. Doss of Lynchburg, Va., is presented the Congressional Medal of Honor for outstanding bravery as a medical corpsman, the first conscientious objector in American history to receive the nation's highest military award.

• On Oct. 13, 1953, the Artmobile, the world's first mobile art gallery, part of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, begins touring Virginia with an exhibition of art objects, making its first stop in Fredericksburg.

• On Oct. 14, 1962, the Cuban Missile Crisis begins, bringing the United States and the Soviet Union to the brink of nuclear conflict. Photographs taken by a U-2 spy plane offered evidence of Soviet-made missiles in Cuba. During the next two weeks, the United States and the USSR would come as close to nuclear war as they

Insulting The Presidents

When Venezuela's Hugo Chavez called George Bush "the devil" at the United Nations it wasn't the first time a U.S. president was the target of insulting name-calling.

Ronald Reagan was called "a terrorist" and "a bum", Richard Nixon, Lyndon Johnson "liars", Abraham Lincoln a "huckster", John Adams, "eccentric", John Quincy Adams "repulsive".

But perhaps the nastiest barb of them all was the one from Hearst columnist Wesbrok Pegler about Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Pegler, who wrote like he started his day off with vinegar on his cornflakes and acid in his coffee said:

"It is regrettable that Guiseppe Zangara hit the wrong man when he shot at Roosevelt in Miami."

FDR

And author-columnist H.L. Menken lobbed this one:

"If (FDR) became convinced that coming out for cannibalism would get him votes he so sorely needs, he would begin fattening a missionary in the White House back yard..."

Those and other presidential zingers are passed along by colleague Tom Henshaw from the "Book of Insults & Irreverent Quotations" by Donald D. Hook and Lothar Kahn and "The Complete Book of U.S. Presidents" by William A. DeGregorio.

Here are some of them:

J. ADAMS

About John Adams: "He is distrustful, obstinate, excessively vain and takes no counsel from anyone." (Thomas Jefferson)

J. Q. ADAMS

About John Quincy Adams: "Of all the men whom it was ever my lot to accost and to waste civilities upon (he) was the most doggedly and systematically repulsive." (W.H. Lyttleton, governor of North Carolina)

About James K. Polk: "I more than suspect that he is deeply conscious of being wrong, that he feels the blood of this war, like the blood of Abel, is crying in the wilderness against him. He is bewildered, confounded and miserably preplexed man." (Congressman Abrham Lincoln on Polk and the Mexican war)

About Abraham Lincoln: "He is a huckster in politics, a first rate, second rate man." (Wendell Phillips, abolitonist)

About John F. Kennedy: "I sincerely fear for my country if Jack Kennedy should be elected president. The fellow has absolutely no principles. Money and gall are all the Kennedys have." (Senator Barry Goldwater)

JFK

About Harry Truman: "It defies all common sense to send that roughneck ward politician back to the White House." (Senator Robert Taft)

TRUMAN

About Richard Nixon: "Nixon is a shifty-eyed goddam liar and people know it. He's one of few in the history of this country to run for high office talking out of both sides of his mouth at the same time and lying out of both sides." (Harry Truman)

About Dwight Eisenhower: "I think that when the President stops being president the best job we could give him in our country would be as director of a children's home. He would not harm children. But as head of a mighty nation he is more dangerous and might do a lot of harm." (Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet preimier)

EISENHOWER

About Lyndon Johnson: "He tells so many lies that he convinces himself after a while he's telling the truth." (Robert Kennedy)

About Gerald Ford: "He's a nice fellow but he spent too much time playing football without a helmet." (Lyndon Johnson)

About Ronald Reagan: "How can you take this man seriously? Perhaps even he doesn't know what he is talking about. He is the biggest liar of all the American presidents... the worst terrorist in the history of mankind... a mad man, an imbecile and a bum. His ideas are from the era of Buffalo Bill—not the nuclear age." (Fidel Castro)

REAGAN

About George H.W. Bush: "If ignorance ever goes to $40 a barrel, I want the drilling rights to George Bush's head." (Jim Hightower, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture)

Pretty strong words.

It would seem that every president moving into the White House should have one extra qualification: a thick skin. Or quickly develop one.

It's not always "Hail To The Chief". Sometimes it can be "Hell".

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1925 real photo postcard view of the original William B. Rice Eventide Home on Adams Street near Quincy Center. Rice was the original benefactor for what is now the Quincy Medical Center. He donated three acres of land and the first building to start Quincy Hospital in 1890. Its first purpose was to treat quarry workers suffering from lung disease or consumption. Rice also set up an endowment for a home for Quincy's elderly. When his wife died she donated their home and land shown here to establish the Eventide Corporation. In 1936, this house was demolished and the present sprawling Neo-Georgian brick faced building occupies the site. Now there are plans to demolish the present building and replace it with an attractive new modern facility. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Likens Chinese Communist Flag To Nazi Flag

Regarding the flag of the people's Republic of China flying in Wollaston:

Many have criticized this flag flying inside Quincy's Chinese community and many veterans have also been critical of this prominent display of a flag of repression.

I agree that the first amendment allows the flying of such a flag, but as far as I'm concerned, it is no different than flying a Nazi flag. Neither belongs displayed next to the Stars and Stripes.

Jimmy Liang says the flag went back up for the Oct. 1 Chinese Independence Day holiday. This flag is the flag of Mao Tzedong's Communist party. It isn't simply a national flag. It is an affront having it waving in the breeze next to the U.S. flag.

The Chinese United Association apparently forgot what the word "united" means. Here in the United States of America, it means all kinds of people come together as one people: Americans. We are a nation of immigrants.

Flying the flag of the People's Republic separates folks. The Chinese community in this country is diverse and the flag flying in Wollaston is not a flag of diversity, but rather the flag of a dictatorship.

Liang says he wants to talk to the neighbors. He says, "We want to hold a reception for them."

Welcome to the neighborhood? Throw a red flag up and think it won't matter?

I can live with that flag flying in Wollaston, but I don't have to like it. I certainly don't think it's very neighborly. I won't be going to any party over it.

It's the wrong flag to fly and be good neighbors.

Thanks For Listening To Radio Station WJDA

I feel a proper thank you should go out to everyone who was a former listener/advertiser/supporter of the former WJDA radio.

Generations of people grew up listening to 'JDA. Whether it was for the "no school" announcements when they were children, or whether it was always on at their grandmother's house, many people have fond memories of the station.

It was distinct honor, privilege, and joy to serve behind the mic. For the past 20 years of the station's history and to everyone who care enough about what was going on in their communities to tune in, I say "thank you."

Annual Halloween Festival At Germantown Oct. 28

The fourth annual Snug Harbor School and Germantown Neighborhood Center Halloween Festival will be held Saturday, Oct. 28, from 12 noon to 4 p.m. at the future home of the Center, the former St. Boniface Church, 333 Palmer St.

The celebration will include food, games, music, crafts, entertainment, face painting, a moonwalk, a costume contest, raffles, scary surprises and a haunted house. Proceeds will benefit the Center and the Snug Harbor School.

"This event not only creates a wonderful community gathering, but also raises greatly needed funds for two organizations that are dedicated to enriching the lives of children and their families in the Germantown community and throughout the city of Quincy," said event coordinator Jim Hennessy.

Sponsors of the festival include the honorary chairs Jean Kenney of Eastern Bank and Sam Rounseville of Century 21 Abigail Adams, as well as Rep. A. Stephen Tobin, South Shore Savings Bank and Altrusa international, Inc., of Quincy.

Hong Kong Flu Threat Seen Here

City Health Commissioner John T. Foley predicted that a new flu epidemic, Hong Kong Variety, will hit Quincy this winter.

"It could become quite a problem around Jan. 1," he said.

This particular version of the flu broke out in Hong Kong in June, spread to Honolulu and early last month reached the West Coast and is now moving eastward. Dr. Foley noted that there is a shortage of Asian Flu vaccine, but he has an order in for 4,000 doses and hopes to receive at least part of the order in the next two or three weeks.

Harry Potter Halloween Celebration At Quincy Community United Methodist

A Halloween Celebration that explores the magical realm of Harry Potter's Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry will be 1 p.m., Oct. 28, at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St.

Rev. Susan Jarek-Glidden of the church stresses that seats are limited for the event, which sold out last year.

Reservations may be made by calling 617-773-6854, or online at hogwartsparty@yahoo.com. Cost is $6 per person, $20 for a family of four, and children three years and under are free. Every child must be accompanied by an adult.

Jarek-Glidden said that last year's sold-out event was a "truly magical event for kids and adults. It was as if they were transported to a magical world."

This year's second annual celebration will be based on the latest movie, Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire, and plans to be even better than last year's. Children and adults will have the opportunity to receive a "magic wand," to be part of the Sorting Ceremony, and to participate in Quidditch.

Other events, such as an "underwater" experience and a maze, will be based on events in the movie. There will also be "classes" in Care of Magical Creatures and Defense Against the Dark Arts, and some additional fun surprises. The afternoon will conclude with a Halloween Feast.

Songteller Concert At Library Oct. 15

The Thomas Crane Library invites participants to "travel the world at your library" this year with new monthly series of cultural performances for all ages, Sundays from 3-4 p.m. at the library, 40 Washington St.

The series will feature music, dance, and stories from a variety of cultural traditions.

Oct. 15, "songteller" Janice Allen will take listeners on a rhythmic journey from the Georgia Sea Islands to the African continent, with a range of African and African-American percussion instruments and vocals. She combines a blend of African-American spirituals, gospel and Broadway musicals. Allen encourages audiences to dance and sing traditional African-American children's circle games.

Allen has toured nationally and made frequent concert appearances in Africa and Japan. She conducted the Boston children's choir that was featured at the Nelson Mandela Celebration at Boston Esplanade Hatch Pavilion before a live audience of over 200,000 people and a nationally televised audience. She is the winner of the 1989 Boston Parents' Paper Children's Entertainer of the Year award, and has performed lead roles in "Black Nativity," "Revels," and the Wheelock Family Theater musical "Sound of Music."

Other upcoming concerts at the library include South Indian music and dance, "Takademi," Nov. 19, and the "Chesara Trio," which features music from different lands for all ages Dec. 17.

All performances are sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library. For more information call the library at 617-376-1301, or visit www.thomascranelibrary.com.

Lions Club Pancake Breakfast Set For Oct. 29

The Quincy Lions Club will hold its annual Halloween Pancake Breakfast Sunday, Oct. 29, from 8 a.m. to 12 noon, at 1000 Southern Artery, Quincy Point. Donation of $5 may be paid at the door.

Children who attend the event in costume will receive a special Halloween treat as well as a free photograph taken with costumed characters. Raffle prizes will also be available.

Proceeds will go to the Quincy Lions Club programs that fund eye research and provide free eye exams, eyeglasses and other services to the blind and the visually impaired.

"The pancake breakfast is one of our most anticipated family events of the year," said Elaine duJardin, president of the Lions Club. "We hope everyone will come out and enjoy a delicious breakfast while supporting the Lions Club's many worthwhile service activities in our community."

Quincy Mothers' Cooperative Playground Open House Today

Quincy Mothers' Cooperative will host a fall open house today (Thursday) from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at Collins Rest-A-While playground, Merrymount Parkway.

Learn about the group's variety of mom, children and family events while socializing in playground fun. There will be refreshments.

The Quincy Mothers' Cooperative (QMC) is an independent organization for parents founded more than 25 years – with members from Quincy and surrounding areas. The group's mission is to provide a network of support through a variety of activities, social events and an active on-line group to celebrate the joys and address the challenges of parenthood.

To become a member of the cooperative, contact the membership coordinator at alicrehanfeeney@gmail.com or visit the website at QuincyMothers.com. Cost for membership is $20 per year.

For more information about the open house, contact Lisa O'Connor at 617-328-1300.

Sara Chung 'Principle Flute' At UMass-Amherst

SARA CHUNG

Sara Chung, a 2006 graduate of North Quincy High School, was selected as "principal flute" in the symphony band at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Chung, who lives in Merrymount with her family while not at the university, is a freshman majoring in music education and flute performance. She is studying the flute under the direction of Christopher Kreugar.

Chung was admitted to the university as a Commonwealth College honors student, which is a title given to those who graduate in the top six percent of their high school class.

Chung has studied flute, piccolo, piano and percussion instruments since the age of five. She has studied music, both vocal and instrumental, within the Quincy Public Schools, at the Brookline Music School, the South Shore Conservatory and the New England Conservatory Prep School.

She has participated in both the Junior and Senior Southeast District Bands, and the Massachusetts All State Band.

She has performed in Jordan Hall at the New England Conservatory, Sanders Theatre at Harvard University, The Hatch Shell, and at Symphony Hall in Boston.

Most recently Chung was the principal flutist in the Massachusetts Lions Club All State Band, and at the Lions Club International Convention and parade this past summer.

She received several academic merit scholarships from the University of Massachusetts Honors College, The Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Education, the Quincy Retired Teachers Association, Quincy Education Association, and from the Maude M. Howes Music Scholarship Fund.

Sacred Heart School Welcomes Students, Families With Back-To-School Events

Sacred Heart School has started the year off with two "Back to School" events designed to welcome new students and families to the school and to provide some fun for all students.

On Sept. 9, Sacred Heart School's PTO invited all students, faculty and parishioners to a BBQ at Pageant Field.

The weather was wonderful and students enjoyed games, had sack races, and played baseball. There was face painting, a pot-luck dessert and salad table, and lots of fun.

John Himmel presided over the grill and dished up delicious hot dogs and hamburgers. Over 80 people attended the BBQ and the feedback from parents was extremely positive.

"The BBQ was fabulous" and "this event is a keeper" were just two of many positive comments heard by PTO President Maryclare Himmel.

The second back to school event was a "School-Mate Play Date" event for students in the pre-kindergarten, kindergarten, first and second grades. This was an outdoor play date held on Sept. 16th in the school yard.

Students bowled, played hopscotch, and jump rope, ran an obstacle course and played other games as parents talked and got to know one another.

This event is a nice way for parents to meet one another and the other children in their child's classroom.

Over 20 children and their parents attended this event. New students as well as returning students enjoyed the opportunity to play with their new friends.

Deval Patrick Here For Community Meeting, Fundraiser

The campaign train of Deval Patrick, the Democratic candidate for governor, was scheduled to pass through Quincy last night (Wednesday), pausing for a community meeting with voters and a fundraiser with financial supporters.

The community meeting was scheduled for 7 p.m. at Quincy High School where Patrick planned to discuss his vision for Massachusetts and answer questions in an open forum that was expected to draw voters from all over the South Shore.

More than two dozen political, business and community leaders were to host the fundraiser from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Common Market Restaurant, 110 Willard St., West Quincy. Suggested donations at the door were $500, $250 and $100.

The community meeting was planned to "reflect the grassroots spirit and passion that Deval Patrick is generating among voters across the state," said John Walsh of Abington, Patrick's campaign manager.

"We want to give people from Quincy and nearby communities the chance to meet Deval Patrick and join the effort to help Deval Patrick and Tim Murray (the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor) win in November."

City Councillor Jay Davis, one of the coordinators of the fundraiser, said the event would "give local residents an opportunity to support and hear directly from Deval Patrick and ask him questions about the future of the Commonwealth."

Patrick once held the top civil rights spot in President Clinton's Justice Department and served as general counsel and a senior executive at Coca Cola and Texaco. He has also been a lawyer for the NAACP's Legal Defense and Education Fund.

Residents of Quincy who wish to volunteer for Patrick's campaign should contact Sarah Compton at 978-201-9018 or visit the Quincy campaign office at 39 Washington St.

Annual DOVE Fundraiser Oct. 18 At Quarry Hills

"Harvesting Hope," the annual charity fundraiser for DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended), will be held Wednesday, Oct. 18, from 6 to 9:30 p.m. at Granite Links Golf Club, 100 Quarry Hills Drive, West Quincy.

Tickets at $100 per person and can be purchased by calling Julie at 617-770-4065 x 10 or by sending an e-mail to Julie at dove_secretary@hotmail.com.

The evening will include cocktails, a light dinner, live entertainment by Java Jive and a cash raffle with a prize of $1,000.

For 28 years, DOVE has provided emergency shelter and counseling for thousands of battered women and their children from Boston to Cape Cod.

The fundraiser is most important this year since the state cut off its funding as a economy measure.

Bellotti's Inmate Program Becoming Model For State

said. "This is an important enhancement of the classification system. We find that as needs are addressed, risk is reduced."

The COMPAS system collects ongoing inmate information that guides the classification process, addresses programming and housing issues, and assists in future decisions about transition planning.

"In short, the information allows us to see trends within the inmate population," said Bellotti. "We can then fill the gaps with appropriate programming and develop transition plans that provide a blueprint for accountability and success in the community."

Information is available to staff in all departments of the correctional center, thereby eliminating informational inconsistencies about inmates from department to department. An inmate's classification can change based on his behavior and program participation, as well as the inmate's legal status with the courts.

This changing classification drives an inmate's gradual "step-down" and eventual release into society.

"That's our ultimate goal," said Bellotti. "We don't want a revolving door here. When these offenders leave, we want to see more success in the community. We want to reduce the rate of recidivism, and the results we're seeing now are better than ever."

The National Institute of Corrections (NIC), an agency of the U.S. Department of Justice, recognizes COMPAS as a validated tool whose results have been tested and upheld in the court of law.

Flu Clinic Correction

In the flu clinics story in the Oct. 5 issue of The Quincy Sun the time of the Nov. 18 clinic at the Koch Recreation Complex should have read from 1:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., not 7 to 11 a.m. as printed.

The Sun regrets the error.

Germantown Beach To Be Dedicated To Snug Harbor Sailors

The beach near the rotary on Palmer Street in Germantown will be dedicated Thursday, Oct. 19, at 10 a.m. to the memory of those who once resided at the now defunct Sailors' Snug Harbor.

The dedication of Sailors' Snug Harbor Beach will be led by Mayor William Phelan; Jay MacRitchie, executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority, owners of the beach; and City Councillor Leo Kelly, chairman of the Quincy Beaches and Coastal Commission.

QHS Parent Council To Meet Tonight

The Quincy High School Parent Advisory Council will hold its first meeting of the year tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in the Pride Room at Quincy High School.

The Council welcomes parents of the 9th grade class. The meeting is open to the public.

Firefighters To Be Honored

Five retiring Quincy firefighters and officers will be honored at a retirement banquet Monday, Oct. 23, at Florian Hall, 55 Hallet St., Dorchester.

They are Capt. Clinton Tierney, Lt. John Barber and Firefighters Charles Walter, Dominic Conso and Richard Murphy.

Quincy College Health Expo Oct. 17

Quincy College will present the third annual Quincy Health Expo Tuesday, Oct. 17 from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Atrium of President's Place, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The event is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun and Lincoln Property Company, President's Place.

The goal of the annual expo is to promote physical and mental health for people of all ages and bring various community-based organizations together in order to collaborate on effective ways to improve the health and wellness of Quincy residents. Now in its third year, this free community event continues to grow as hundreds of South Shore residents are expected to attend the expo.

Joe Bradley, executive director of College and Community Development, said:

"The health expo focuses on general wellness, and will highlight health issues specific to the South Shore Region."

Over 30 exhibitors, including Quincy College RN students, are expected to be on hand with demonstrations, free prizes, snacks, and helpful tips. Representatives from the South Shore YMCA will offer free fitness consultations along with body fat analysis. Quincy Medical Center staff members will provide free blood pressure screening. Bone density screening will be available through the Norwell Visiting Nurse Association.

Quincy College RN students will present information on various topics including diabetes, hypertension, skin cancer, prostate cancer, AIDS, organ donation, and child car seat safety. Other exhibitors include: Blue Hills Tobacco Free Community Coalition Network, Quincy WIC Nutrition Program, South Bay Mental Health, DPH Health Education & Outreach Program, Superfitness, Hospice of the South Shore, Food Addicts in Recovery Anonymous, and the Quincy College human Services Program.

For more information on the Health Expo, contact Joe Bradley at 617-984-1778.

Spaghetti Dinner Fundraiser For Ramos-Donnelly Family

A spaghetti dinner fundraiser for the Ramos-Donnelly family, the Quincy who lost their home and belongings to an explosion, will be Saturday, Oct. 21 at 6 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus, 48 Schoosett St., Rt. 139, Pembroke.

There will be a D.J., raffles, and a silent auction. Admission is $25 per person. There will be a limited number of tickets available at the door. Donations and a check for the proceeds of the event will be presented to the family.

The Ramos-Donnelly family experienced a life-changing event, when on June 28, a back-up of gases in the basement caused an explosion that made their home uninhabitable.

The family of six lost not only their roof, but all the contents of their home from the fire, smoke and water damage. All of their furniture, housewares, clothing and personal belongings were destroyed.

On Sept. 5 the house was demolished and trucked away, leaving only a hole in the ground where it had stood, but that hold may not be vacant for long. The family is planning to have a prefabricated house from Pennsylvania delivered to the site in four sections and assembled where the old home stood. The family plans on moving into the new home by Jan. 1.

Insurance has covered the reconstruction of the house, but not the replacement of their belongings. Furniture, appliances, bedding, housewares and clothing are needed.

Donated items are needed for silent auctions, and local businesses are invited to donate gift cards for the raffles.

Contributions for the silent auction and raffles can be sent to: Angela Ramos/ Robert Donnelly Family Relief Fund, c/o Gallagher Bassett Services, Inc., 100 Grandview Road, Suite 406, Braintree, MA 02184, Attn.: Lauri Lancaster or Dawn Smith.

The Angela Ramos Donnelly Family Relief Fund is open at Century Bank, 651 Hancock St. for anyone wishing to make donations.

To have a donated item picked up, or to purchase tickets for the dinner call Dawn Smith at 781-849-9090, ext. 224.

Veterans To Hold Flag Protest Rally

(Cont'd From Page 1)

He said there would be "no violence" as "we are proud of the American Flag.

Scheele said there would be no parking on Beale, Beach and Hancock between 9 a.m. and 12 noon. After that he said persons may use benches along the way.

Before Lawson's prevention, Stephen Lancione of Milton, of Concerned Citizens and Suan Kuo told the board that their goal was to protest for two weeks and do it in "good taste and in a meaningful way."

However, neither man had a date for the rally and were told to come back at the next meeting.

Crowley told Kuo that he had been receiving anonymous post cards" regarding the protest. Kuo said he did not know of any cards.

Special Ed. Subcommittee Meets Oct. 17

The first meeting of the School Committee's Special Education Subcommittee will be held Tuesday, Oct. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Parker Suite of the Quincy Public Schools Administrative Annex, 70 Coddington St.

The subcommittee will meet four times a year with parents to discuss issues and concerns unique to the special education community.

"These meetings are great opportunities for parents to become more informed, and to learn more about available resources within the system," said School Committeeman Jim Timmins, chair of the subcommittee.

Other members include Kevin Mulvey and David McCarthy.

"Kevin, David and I have worked over the summer with the superintendent on various issues and we are excited to share with parents the results of that work," said Timmins.

He explained that the initial meeting of the subcommittee will focus on a presentation of the new communication protocol for parents dealing with the IEP process.

"The superintendent and his staff are implementing a system to improve how parents and school staff collaborate to meet the unique needs of our special education students," said Timmins.

"There have been new staff added and a new procedure introduced — all directed at making things easier for parents to work with their school in the interests of their child."

Parents are warned that parking can be difficult due to evening classes at Quincy College. But there is ample parking in the Vo-Tech gym parking area and a lighted footpath up to Coddington Street.

GOUT

Gout is a painful condition marked by swelling, redness, and increased warmth in the skin or joint, most often in the big toe area and sometimes in the knee joint. Gout can also present itself on the top of the foot, the heel, and the ankle joint and resemble an infection. It is caused by an accumulation of uric acid in the blood due to abnormal metabolism of purines, which are found in iron-rich foods. Substances that have been linked to episodes of gout include red meat, alcohol, aspirin, and certain high blood pressure medications. More common in men than women, gout is characterized by sudden, intense attacks that often strike first thing in the morning.

Because your feet are the foundation of your entire body, keeping them strong, healthy, and pain-free is fundamental to your well-being. When foot problems like gout do occur, correcting them early on often leads to the correction of aches, pains, and problems in other parts of the body. If foot problems point to trouble elsewhere in the body, we will work with the members of your healthcare team to ensure your good health. Treat your feet to the best of care – call us at 781-986-3668 for consultation at 999 North Main Street, Randolph, in the MEDICAL OFFICE BUILDING. Office hours are also available at Quincy Medical Center and Milton Medical Building. I am affiliated with the Brockton and Good Samaritan Hospitals.

HINT: Treatment for gout typically includes medication to relieve acute symptoms. Lifestyle changes are commended for chronic cases.

Phelan Urges Calm On Chinese Flag

(Cont'd From Page 1)

Gutro. "They said they will hold a forum but no date was set."

Meanwhile, Jimmy Liang, the restaurateur who has been acting as unofficial spokesman for the Chinese United Association. bowed out of the picture.

"I am no longer involved," he told The Quincy Sun Tuesday afternoon. "I acted as liaison between the city and the association. I was never with the organization.

"I am willing to assist anyone, the city or the association, with the language barrier but I am taking myself out of the situation."

Liang said he was disappointed with the actions of a majority of the city councillors. "It doesn't seem like they intend to solve the problems," he said. "The mayor is doing a good job."

Mayor Phelan, whom Keenan said met with the CUA Friday, came down firmly on the side of the association, whose mission he described as "helping those Chinese people who are new to the city —a worthy mission."

"It's their national flag, recognized by the United States government," he said. "First amendment rights apply. The city can't tell anyone they cannot fly their flag. Every city councillor understands that."

Phelan said his office has received numerous calls about the flag flying over the building at the corner of Hancock and Beale Streets, which some regard as the symbol of Communist China rather than a national symbol.

"Most of the calls were from non-Asians," he said. "Many were not pleasing to hear. The undertones were not nice. Some were outright nasty. None were from the Asian community."

The Mayor said members of the CUA "wish to have a community meeting of sorts to explain their position, why they want to fly the flag of their country alongside the American flag. What kind of forum, I don't know.

"They want to be good neighbors. They hope to educate their neighbors why they want to fly the flag in a harmonious way.

Home Buyer Education Series Offered In Mandarin Chinese

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) and Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) is offering a first time home buyers workshop series in Mandarin Chinese.

The free workshop, consisting of two sessions, will be held Saturday, Oct. 21 and 28 from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the fourth floor conference room of QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The workshop is being held to serve the needs of the many Mandarin speakers moving to the South Shore, said John Brothers, QARI's executive director.

"Mandarin speakers need to know about and be able to take advantage of the same home buying opportunities as other home buyers," Brothers said.

The workshop will provide a comprehensive review of the home buying process, said QCAP Housing Coordinator Rona Goodman. Mandarin-speaking real estate professionals will cover topics ranging from mortgages to home insurance.

In addition, participants who complete the 10-hour program may be eligible for downpayment/closing cost assistance of up to $10,000 and for the soft second program. Participants may also use their certificate of completion to obtain a low rate loan through MassHousing or MassHousing Partnership.

For more information about the program and to register for the workshop in Mandarin, contact QARI at 617-472-2200.

For more information about the workshop and to register for the workshop in English, contact Rona Goodman at QCAP, 617-479-8181 ext. 115 or go to www.qcap.org.

QCAP's first time home buyer workshops are open to all prospective buyers, regardless of income level or town of residence. QCAP also offers monthly home buying workshops in English.

Neighborhood Housing Homebuyer Workshop At Roche Bros. Oct. 12, 14

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore will hold a first-time homebuyer workshop Thursday, Oct. 12 from 6 to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Oct. 14 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Roche Bros., 101 Falls Blvd., Quincy.

The workshop is co-hosted by Sovereign Bank.

The workshop is open to everyone regardless of income. Attendance at both sessions is necessary to receive a homebuying certificate.

All potential first-time homebuyers are encouraged to attend the educational workshop. Participants will have an opportunity to speak with a lender.

Topics include mortgage options, legal aspects of the homebuying process, home a home inspection works, and other presentations from real estate related professionals.

Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

Fee is $15 per person. For more information, call 617-770-2227 ext. 31.

Homebuyer Seminar At Mount Vernon Mortgage

Mount Vernon Mortgage Corporation will sponsor a free homebuyer seminar Saturday, Oct. 21 from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at 500 Victory Rd., Marina Bay, Quincy.

The seminar is free for residents of Quincy, Weymouth, Hingham, Hull, Braintree and surrounding communities.

Pre-registration is required. Call 781-337-2432 ext. 16.

Participants will learn the basics of the mortgage and homebuying process from industry professionals. The seminar is intended to help first-time homebuyers and may be beneficial to current homeowners planning to buy a new home.

Topics covered include working with a Realtor, understanding the mortgage process and the importance of a pre-approval, the attorney's role in the process, home inspections, and more.

Presenters are Mount Vernon Mortgage Corp., Century 21 Tullish & Clancy, Law Office of John Amendolare and Total Exposure Home Inspection.

Broken Storm Window

Q. When I was replacing the summer screens with winter storm windows last week, I found that a shovel handle had fallen against the stacked windows, cracking the top one. These are metal frame storm windows, and I'm not sure that a replacement is available. Is it possible to replace the glass myself? — John H., Concord, N.H.

A. It is possible to do the replacement yourself, but be sure to wear heavy work gloves for safety when removing or installing the glass. If the cracked glass is still in one piece, cut two pieces of cardboard to the same size and tape securely against both sides of the glass and around the window frame. Take the entire storm window to the home-improvement store (or, to the window's manufacturer, if possible). Employees can help you find either a replacement storm window, or glass of the same dimensions as the original.

(Readers who have storm windows with shattered glass need to remove all broken glass and measure the dimensions of the frame to and any replacement hardware so that the glass seats correctly in the frame. Working in a safe area, remove the damaged glass by unscrewing the retaining screws from the top rail and carefully sliding the rail from the glass. Pull downward gently, and be careful not to damage the L-shaped corner keys of the frame.

Fitting the new rubber gasket to the new glass can be a challenge for a first-timer. The gasket should be twice the thickness of the inside edges of the frame opening, and must be placed around the glass pane before installation. Wear gloves and carefully fit the gasket to the glass. At the corners, you'll need to make a little cut in the gasket to make it fit comfortably. Cover all four sides and trim away the excess.

Slide the glass into the channels on the sides and push down into the bottom of the frame. (This may be a two-person job.) Once seated, replace the corner keys in the top sides of the frame and the ends of the top rail. Gently push the top rail into place until the top and side corners are flush. Replace the retaining screws.

Third Quarter Real Estate Activity For Norfolk County

Top dollar volume of real estate sales in Norfolk County for the third quarter was down 19 percent from the same period a year ago, reports Norfolk County Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell.

According to O'Donnell's report, volume was down $1.8 billion compared to the third quarter in 2005.

A total of 4,527 deeds were recorded at the Norfolk Registry during the period. "Notwithstanding the decreased number of sales," O'Donnell said, "the average reported sales price increased slightly to $611,292, up four percent from the third quarter of calendar 2005. "It should be noted," he added, "that this average includes both residential and commercial properties."

Mortgage activity declined sharply both in terms of number of filings and dollar volume on a year-to-year basis. There were 12,066 new mortgages recorded in the third quarter showing a total dollar amount of $3.4 billion. The total number of new mortgages was down 25 percent and the total dollar amount was down 39 percent from $5.6 billion in mortgages recorded July-September of 2005.

"The decline in mortgage volume is related to the interest rate environment," O'Donnell said. "It is important to note that mortgage filings do not necessarily represent a change in overall indebtedness. Many mortgages refinance existing debt, or secure equity credit lines that may not be drawn in their entirety."

Tips To 'Fix' A Mortgage Problem

By JOHN ADDISON

(NAPS) There's good news for homeowners who fear their mortgage may hold a shocking surprise.

Unless holding a fixed-rate mortgage, interest rates on mortgage may adjust in the coming months.

The worst-case scenario, for some, is that they could be forced to sell their home or lose it to foreclosure when they can no longer meet their monthly mortgage payment.

For protection, find out the following information:

• The maximum interest that can be charged.

• The maximum an interest rate could rise at one time.

• The index that is used to determine the interest rate.

• The original interest rate.

• How often the interest rate can change.

If the mortgage is an Adjustable Rate Mortgage (ARM), interest-only or other type of loan, there could be substantial increases in monthly mortgage payments, possibly by 50 percent.

According to The Wall Street Journal, that's what some homeowners with interest-only loans could be facing when rates adjust. Experts say that in some cases, ARM borrowers may not even know the maximum rate they can be charged if rates should climb.

Many homeowners are finding that the safest way to protect their home is to refinance into a fixed-rate loan. Because the interest rate stays the same during the life of the loan, a fixed-rate loan can often take the guesswork and, in some cases, the anxiety out of a home loan payment.

For many, the path to less stressful homeownership may start with a review of the terms of their current mortgage. Those who have interest rates that can adjust upward are advised to consider refinancing into a fixed-rate loan.

The guidance of a financial professional can often be helpful when making changes such as these. For example, the financial professionals at Primerica have created a guide that shows how to take control of finances. To get a copy of "How Money Works," write to Primerica, 3120 Breckinridge Blvd., Duluth, GA 30099, ATTN.: Corporate Relations or call 770-5646329. For more information, visit www.primerica.com.

John Addison is Co-CEO of Primerica, a subsidiary of Citigroup, Inc.

How Many Lights Does It Take To Change The World?

(NAPS) It can be as easy to make a difference in the home and community as changing a lightbulb.

With the coming of shorter days and falling temperatures, people have a tendency of spending more of their days inside with the lights on. A lightbulb can affect the temperature, ambiance and mood, as well as change a household's bottom line.

One dollar in every five spent on electricity goes to pay for lighting, making it one of the easiest areas in the home to save energy. That's about $200 per year spent on lighting the home. Energy Star-qualified lightbulbs are cost effective because they can last more than seven years compared to about 11 months for an incandescent bulb. That's eight times longer.

A compact fluorescent lamp screws into a regular lightbulb socket but has a longer life and uses less electricity. There's also no loss in lighting quality with compact fluorescents. Energy-efficient lightbulbs with Energy Star seal offer the same warm, bright light as always before. There are also lightbulbs available that simulate daylight, to give the rooms a natural look.

Traditional incandescent bulbs generate 10 percent light and 90 percent heat. Because Energy Star-qualified lightbulbs run cooler, they make the home more comfortable.

Those who choose an Energy Star-qualified lightbulbs make a difference for the environment by reducing air pollution and greenhouse gas emissions. If every household in the United States changed just one incandescent lightbulb to an Energy Star-qualified bulb, the combined efforts would save more than 5.6 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity. That's enough to light all the households in Washington, D.C. for almost 11 years.

Also, the same action would prevent 8.9 billion tons of carbon dioxide gas from going into the air. A comparable fact would be like removing 780,000 cars from U.S. roads end to end, stretching from Atlanta to Los Angeles.

People across the country are joining the U.S. Department of Energy, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Housing and Urban Development by pledging to switch one lightbulb at home to an Energy Star-qualified bulb. Last year, 70,000 people signed Energy Star's Change a Light, Change the World Pledge, saving more than 23 million kWh of energy and preventing over 18,500 tons of greenhouse emissions. This year, the goal is to get half a million people to take the pledge.

For more information, visit www.energystar.gov/changealight.

A Job Well Done

On Monday, Sept. 25, at approximately 9:45 a.m. Officers Steve O'Donoghue and Paul Jackson were dispatched to Buckley Street on a call of a "B & E in Progress (breaking and entering). While enroute, the dispatcher informed the officers that two males were attempting to break into a basement apartment and gave descriptions.

LT. DAN MINTON

Officer Jackson arrived on scene first and spotted three males – two who matched the description, walking a block away on Morton Street. Officer O'Donoghue assisted and they checked out the males.

One male (suspect #1) was holding a Sony portable radio and the second male (suspect #2) was attempting to hide something under the midsection of his sweatshirt. Suspect #2 was directed to unveil what he was hiding and out came two boxes of Barilla spaghetti (with brown tape on the ends) and a Panasonic tape recorder. The third made (suspect #3) was standing next to two boxes of Barilla elbow pasta on the ground.

As officers detained the suspects, Sgt. Steve Igo assisted Officer O'Donoghue, went to Buckley Street looking for signs of a break. Upon checking one home, the officers noted a screen in the rear of the house had been slashed. With officers surrounding the home, Officer O'Donoghue pulled the screen up and then pushed the window up so that he could go inside. As he checked the home, Officer O'Donoghue saw the kitchens were opened and there were two boxes of Barilla spaghetti there, with brown tape on the ends – the same tape on the boxes that the suspects had.

As Sgt. Igo attempted to contact the owner, Officer O'Donoghue interviewed the caller, who said that she heard a doorbell ringing and thought it was heres, so she went to her door. She stated no one was there but two males were at the front door of the adjacent home. She watched as the two males left the front door and then walked to the rear of the house. It was at this point that the witness decided to call "911." She then looked out her window and saw them lifting up the window and pulling up the blinds inside.

Officer O'Donoghue returned to the location where the three suspects were being detained and placed them under arrest. A knife was also found on suspect #2, which was believed to be the instrument used to cut through the screen.

The suspects, ages 15, 16 and 17, and all from Quincy, were charged with "breaking and entering in the daytime with the intent to commit a felony." The owner was contacted and confirmed that the radio and tape recorder were his, as well as the spaghetti.

Nice work!

In this particular case, the witness didn't wait for the suspects to break in. She sensed something was wrong because she did not recognize the suspects and believed they had no reason to be there. Her prompt action in calling "911" resulted in the apprehension of the three suspects.

If you see something suspicious, don't wait to call. Let us investigate and reduce the chance of a crime occuring.

Harvard Vanguard Physicians To Accept Tufts Medicare Preferred

Harvard Vanguard Medical Associates announces their physicians will participate in the Tufts Medicare Preferred HMO, beginning Jan. 1, 2007.

Physicians at Harvard Vanguard will not accept Harvard Pilgrim's First Seniority products next year. This change affects approximately 850 Medicare beneficiaries who currently receive insurance coverage through Harvard Pilgrim's First Seniority and who see their doctors at Harvard Vanguard's Quincy location.

Only patients of Harvard Vanguard with First Seniority are affected by this change.

The 850 patients presently covered by First Seniority can maintain their physician relationships and comprehensive coverage by enrolling with Tufts Medicare Preferred. Additionally, Harvard Vanguard will continue to accept traditional Medicare and Medicare Supplement.

According to Richard Lopez, M.D., Deputy Medical Director, Harvard Vanguard physicians conducted an extensive evaluation of the health plans available to Medicare beneficiaries, as well as the best fit for the practice.

"We believe it is in the best interest of our patients and our practice to partner with Tufts Health Plan," Lopez said.

"Tufts Health Plan shares our vision for the very best care of Medicare beneficiaries and continues to expand its programs to complement what we do as caregivers. It's an exciting opportunity and we anticipate that patients will be comfortable with Tufts Health Plan's substantial track record as an excellent health plan."

For Medicare beneficiaries who are patients of Harvard Vanguard living in Plymouth and Barnstable counties, this will be the first time since 2003 that they will have access to a Medicare Advantage product.

The enrollment period for these First Seniority members began Oct. 1 and continues through Dec. 31st. Harvard Vanguard encourages its patients with questions to call its hotline at 1-800-376-8949 or to contact their physician's office.

Dance-Inspired Workouts

Q. I enjoy dancing and started taking a dance group exercise class twice a week. Each class lasts about an hour and we move the entire time, leaving me exhausted at the end. Compared with other types of cardio activities such as the treadmill or biking, could I just use my dance class as my cardiovascular workout, or would I need to do more?

A. Dancing is an excellent form of exercise and is becoming increasingly popular thanks to television shows featuring dancing, and DVDs, videos and group exercise classes focusing on dance-inspired workouts.

Dance styles ranging from ballroom and Latin dance to hip-hop, funk and many more are being used to give exercisers a workout that's both challenging and fun. The moves done while dancing are definitely beneficial cardiovascular exercise, and how much you challenge yourself will determine how many calories you burn.

On average, a dance class where you move the entire time can burn 300-400 calories. Just keep their heart rate elevated throughout a dance group-exercise class because they're not thinking about exercising but just having fun. Also, the challenge of learning new dance styles and choreography keeps participants excited.

Dancing is a great workout, BUT it cannot be the only type of exercise in which you participate. Since you attend class twice a week, you would still need to exercise an additional two to three days a week. This should include some type of strength training and additional cardiovascular workouts.

A balanced workout is important for promoting overall fitness and would include at least four days a week of cardiovascular exercise and at least three days a week of strength and flexibility training.

Keep dancing your way to a fit lifestyle.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. Andrea Renee Wyatt, M.S.S., C.S.C.S., is a certified personal trainer with an extensive background in strength and conditioning as well as therapeutic recreation. If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at

FORMING A BOND WITH THE DENTIST

If you have chipped, discolored, or stained teeth, you can benefit from one of the most cost-effective cosmetic procedures that your dentist can provide. Composite resin bonding involves the application of a durable resin to teeth that fill in spaces and irregularities and/or cover discoloration. Aside from being relatively easy to apply, the resin is color-matched to your natural tooth color, which, combined with the fact that it can be shaped and contoured, creates a very natural-looking restoration. Moreover, composite resin bonding is virtually pain free and requires only a single office visit. If you are concerned about the color, shape, or condition of your teeth, ask if dental bonding may be an appropriate restoration solution for you.

Bonding can be used to improve the color of a tooth, or close unsightly gaps. We invite your questions, and we can offer important oral health guidelines for the entire family – for the young to the young at heart. Beautiful smiles are a team effort. If you're looking for a family dentist at this time, please call 617-479-6220. It is never too early to start good dental habits. Our "personal touch" philosophy is reflected throughout our practice in many ways. Enjoy modern dentistry with old-fashioned personal attention. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we make dental visits a positive experience. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. In many cases, composite dental resin may also be used to fill in a cavity caused by tooth decay.

QMC Honored For Excellence In Cancer Care

For patients with cancer and their families, there is good news about access to quality cancer care services and advanced treatment programs in their community.

Quincy Medical Center (QMC) has received an unconditional three-year approval as a Community Hospital Cancer Program from the American College of Surgeons' (ACoS) Commission on Cancer (COC).

Following a daylong survey last spring, QMC received the highest possible quality rating with no deficiencies, a distinction shared by less than half of all COC-approved programs. In addition, QMC received eight commendations for areas of excellence that exceeded the COC's stringent accreditation standards.

"Quincy Medical Center's oncologists and surgeons have dedicated their lives to providing patients with the best possible cancer care in the community," said Gary Gibbons, MD, FACS, Quincy Medical Center President and CEO. "This recent top accreditation from the American College of Surgeons acknowledges the high quality, multidisciplinary cancer care services performed each day at Quincy Medical Center."

QMC's Cancer Program offers compassionate care and state-of-the-art diagnostic and treatment services in the community for individuals with all types of cancer. The highly trained QMC staff — which includes medical and surgical oncologists, radiation oncologists, pathologists, clinical nurses, clinical dietitians, social workers and rehabilitation specialists — work closely with patients and their families to provide expert care through all stages of diagnosis, treatment and post-treatment physical therapy.

Quincy Medical Center is a 234-bed acute care community-teaching hospital providing South Shore residents with comprehensive medical and surgical services. The medical center's Alliance for Quality with Boston Medical Center (BMC), formed in 1999, brings academic medicine to the community.

Red Raiders Bow To Plymouth North

By SEAN BRENNAN

Last Friday night's football game between the Red Raiders of North Quincy and the Eagles of Plymouth North opened a new chapter for high school sports in Quincy. When the two teams kicked off at 7 p.m., it marked the opening of the new and improved Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

The Red Raiders, playing in front of a packed and supportive home crowd, took to the turf in search of their first win of the season, but Plymouth North had other ideas. The Eagles (3-1, 3-0) scored early and often against North Quincy (0-5, 0-3), and rolled to a 40-16 win.

Plymouth North dominated the North Quincy Red Raiders in the first half, and the Eagles entered the break with a commanding 26-0 lead. The Eagles' defense did not allow the Red Raiders' offense to get anything going in the opening half, holding North Quincy to zero first downs.

"We were so happy to be playing at home, under the lights in front of a big crowd, I don't think we had our heads in the game in the first half," head coach Jim Connor said.

MIKE FOLEY, a sophomore at North Quincy High School, sings the National Anthem before the start of Friday night's game.

The Eagles, who were led by sophomore runningback Wesley Richard's 11 carries for 96 yards and 1 touchdown, pulled all of their starters midway through the third quarter.

Although the game was out of reach, the Red Raiders continued to battle for all four quarters in front of their home crowd. North Quincy junior Jon Cahill made the biggest defensive play of the second half when he ripped the ball away from Plymouth North's Corey Kneeland and took the recovered fumble 62 yards for a touchdown with 3:32 left in the third quarter.

The Red Raiders, who are on the road this week against Dennis-Yarmouth High School (Friday 7 p.m.), are back home at Veterans' Memorial Stadium on October 20th when they square off against Nauset Regional High School.

North Quincy is averaging 11.6 points per game and are allowing their opponents to score an average of 28.6 points per game.

The much anticipated North Quincy/Quincy game will be held on Nov. 23 at Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

WHAT TO TAKE FOR THAT BURNING FEELING

If your engine is idling rough, it may be that you have a burned valve. This can be diagnosed with a compression test that measures the pressure in all cylinders. When the pressure gauge reads lower than normal, pressure is leaking out of the combustion chamber. A burned valve, which can no longer hold a leak-free seal due to overheating, is usually limited to exhaust valves because they run much hotter than intake valves. To repair a burned valve, it is necessary to remove the cylinder head, replace the bad valve, and reface/repair the valve seat. If one valve has failed, preventive maintenance and common sense usually dictate that they all be replaced while you are at it.

At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we recommend you bring your car to us immediately if you sense a rough idle. By taking care of the problem was soon as possible, we might be able to prevent further costly repairs. Preventative maintenance is always the most cost effective way to keep your car in great shape. We are located at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree, our phone number is 781-843-1550. Sunoco and most major credit cards honored.

HINT: A bad exhaust valve will also appreciably increase exhaust emissions because it allows unburned fuel to leak into the exhaust

TOM HAZELHURST'S one-yard touchdown run came at the end of an impressive 11-play, 52-yard drive for the Presidents in the first half of Saturday's game at Whitman-Hanson.

Presidents Can't Stop Whitman-Hanson

By SEAN BRENNAN

The Quincy High School football team, playing a road game at Whitman-Hanson High School on Saturday afternoon, fell to 1-3, 0-3 in the Atlantic Coast League with a 35-19 loss at the hands and feet of the Panthers.

The Presidents, playing in an all-important Atlantic Coast League game, could not stop the Panthers' vaunted running attack. Whitman-Hanson's senior co-captain Ben Ford ran the ball seven times and racked up an impressive 153 yards and two touchdowns on the day. Ford had runs of 36, 4, 15, 21, 34 and 44 yards and five of his seven runs either went for a first down or a touchdown.

On the first series of the game, W-H's Luke Kelliher took a toss sweep 21 yards and on the next play Ford ran a sweep left for 36 yards and his first touchdown. The Panthers drove the ball 68-yards in five plays (all on the ground) on their opening drive.

Their next W-H scoring drive was more of the same. The Panthers covered 62-yards on seven plays and Nate Clergy scored on a 23-yard run up the middle for a 12-0 lead.

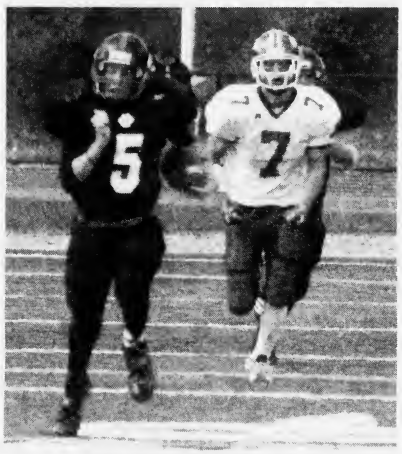
The Presidents got on the board in the first half when Tom Hazelhurst finished off an 11-play, 52-yard scoring drive with a one yard touchdown plunge. The score at the half was 21-7.

Ford finished up his day with a 44-yard touchdown run in the third quarter to give the Panthers a 35-7 lead.

A bright spot for the Presidents in the second-half was the play of sophomore Mark Gilbody. Gilbody had touchdown runs of 1-yard and 3-yards late in the game to account for the final Quincy points.

The Presidents are averaging 11.5 points per game while allowing their opponents an average of 24.5 points per game.

Quincy will finally get the chance to play in front of a supportive home crowd at Veterans' Memorial Stadium this Friday night (7:00 p.m.) when they host Marshfield High School. The game, an Atlantic Coast League showdown, will pit the Presidents against one of the toughest and most skilled high school teams in the state. Marshfield, a perennial Super Bowl contender, will have its hands full with the Presidents, and the large crowd that is expected to attend.



QUINCY'S JARED TUCKER is in full pursuit of a Whitman-Hanson player during Saturday's game.

Colby-Sawyer Downs ENC Men's Soccer

Colby-Sawyer's Doug Currie shot to the near post in the 31st minute beat onrushing Eastern Nazarene goalkeeper Steven Bracale to give the Chargers the 1-0 lead. Throughout the game, both teams had several chances in front of the opponent's goal, and the last opportunity for ENC came when Drew Krause's shot attempt deflected off the far post and back onto the field in the waning moments of the game.

24 Teams Compete In Wiffle Ball Tournament

The Quincy Recreation Department recently held its annual citywide Wiffle Ball Tournament with 24 teams competing at Bishop Field.

Each of the city's four districts entered two qualifying teams, setting up an eight-team, double-elimination tournament in three age groups.

In the Senior Boys Division, Billy Kiley and Brendan Glynn of Squantum playground, coached by recreation leader Rich Russo, captured the title. Runners-up were Tom Mahoney, Jay Maven and Brendan Meyers of Faxon Park, coached by recreation leader Peter Gilcoine.

In the Junior Boys Division, two teams from Forbes Hill battled for the championship, with Adam Nazzaro, Joe Alibrandi, Tyler Braun and Zach Stearns coming out on top. They were coached by recreation leader David Finnegan. Runners-up were Darren McGrath, Michael McGrath, Mike Alibrandi and Matt Doyle.

In the Midget Boys Division, Jake Bergonzi, Quinlan Evans and Colin Evans of Beechwood won in extra innings over O'Rourke playground. They were coached by Alex Jorgensen. Josh Hayward, Brandon Beal and Andrew Jaehnig, coached by Chris Boyd, represented O'Rourke.

The participants played hard throughout the extreme heat, which resulted in many extra-inning games. First- and second-place winners received gold and silver Wiffle Ball trophies.

The tournament was run by Jimmy Burke, assisted by Meaghan Foley, Bonnie Hirtle and Dan DiNardo.

FALL CAR CARE

Good Visibility Requires Vehicle Maintenance

Driving safely requires good visibility and a vehicle with good visibility requires regular maintenance, according to AAA Southern New England.

AAA urges motorists to consider visibility when maintenance is performed on their vehicle. Items that are necessary for good visibility are:

• Clear, clean windows unobstructed by decals, dark window tinting or objects that interfere with the driver's view of the road.

• Windshield wipers changed twice per year will ensure the rubber remains soft enough to efficiently remove water, snow and road grit from the glass surface.

• Vehicle lights, including headlights, brake lights, turn signals, parking lights, emergency flashers and the center, high-mounted brake light should all be inspected regularly and replaced immediately if needed. Lights can also become dirty which limits their brightness. They should be cleaned regularly.

• Mirrors must be clean, large enough and correctly angled to provide a complete view of all areas behind and to the side of the vehicle. Objects inside or outside the vehicle must not obstruct mirrors. They usually need to be reset when there is a change of drivers.

• A vehicle's air circulation system must function properly to quickly defrost or defog the windshield and other glass surfaces. Use an ice scraper to remove snow and ice before driving. Before turning on the defroster and blower, move the heat control to "hot" and allow the engine to warm up first.

If the windshield starts to fog on the inside, open a side window slightly and turn the defroster fan to its highest setting. Additionally, if the car's heating and air conditioning system has a setting for fresh air or re-circulated air, always select the fresh air setting while in the defroster mode.

• Sunglasses that do not have overly dark lenses can also be a significant aid to visibility when driving in bright-light conditions. Be sure lenses are kept clean. Glare can cause blind spots and driving fatigue. A good pair of sunglasses will help eliminate this.

North Quincy Shuts Out Quincy, 4-0

GIRLS' SOCCER

By SEAN BRENNAN

This past Saturday, on an unseasonably warm fall afternoon, the Red Raiders of North Quincy High School lined up against the Presidents of Quincy High School in the schools' inaugural girls soccer game at the new and improved Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

Playing on the new FieldTurf, and in front of about 300 supporting fans, the two schools played the first soccer game, either boys or girls, at the Stadium since the renovations were finished early last week.

North Quincy struck first at the 9:30 mark of the first half when Lauren Stille tallied her third goal of the year after receiving a pass from her sister Mary Kate Stille. Six minutes later, the Red Raiders got on the board again. Senior captain Jillian Benn took a pass from Emily Milone and streaked past the last Presidents' defender and scored from 20 yards out.

North, as it had throughout the entire first half, controlled the tempo of the first half with precise passing and ball control. With three minutes left in the half, the Red Raiders' Keriann Cabral found Mary Kate Stille at the 18 yard line, and Stille found the back of the net for her sixth goal of the season.

Up 3-0 at half-time, the Red Raiders substituted frequently throughout the second half, but still managed to control play by using possession soccer and a lock-down defense. North Quincy closed out the scoring for the 4-0 victory late in the half when senior forward Carolyn Casper scored her first varsity goal with the assist credited to Kristen Ruck.

Playing well for the Red Raiders were Amy Carchedi, Brittany Folkins, Tara McFarland and Paige Bonanni. North Quincy's Siobhan Carnell picked up her second shutout of the season in the win.

The Quincy Presidents' Sarah Troy, facing pressure all game long, played well in net, and made a handful of saves that kept her team competitive throughout the game. Julie Kisielius, Katherine Shea and Bridget Hawko all played a good game for the Presidents.

The two schools' jayvee soccer teams played immediately after the varsity game was over, and North Quincy beat Quincy 3-0. Devon McKay, Michell Gardiner and Lily Man scored for the Red Raiders and Jessie Howlett earned the shutout.

Red Raiders Improve Record With Wins Over Quincy, Fontbonne

The North Quincy girls soccer team finished last week with a 2-1 record. With wins over Fontbonne (3-1) and Quincy (4-0) and a loss at Whitman-Hanson (2-1), the Red Raiders' record now stands at 6-5-1.

In their game against Fontbonne Academy, the Red Raiders trailed, 1-0, at the end of the first-half. The team was called for seven offside penalties in the game's first 40 minutes of play.

North got the equalizer five minutes into the second half as junior midfielder Paige Bonanni scored her first varsity goal off of a corner kick. Junior Emily Milone laid up a perfect ball to Bonanni, who one-timed the ball inside the near post. Milone scored the game-winner twelve minutes later on a pass from Lauren Stille. Sophomore forward Kerry Donaghey scored the Raiders final goal when she finished off a rebound of a Lauren Stille shot that had banged off the post.

Allison Russell, Tara Whooley, Tara McFarland and Brittany Folkins all played well in the win.

The game against Whitman-Hanson, the #4 ranked team in Eastern Massachusetts, was a tale of two halves for the Red Raiders. North had the better of play in the first half getting good scoring chances from Megan Therrien and Mary Kate Stille early, but it was the Panthers who struck first. Devon Prada collected a rebound and put the ball past a diving Siobhan Carnell for the 1-0 lead.

The Raiders limited their guests to a few good chances the rest of the half as Bridget Coleman and Keriann Cabral alternated in marking W-H's Kristie Mewis, a member of the U.S. National team, and effectively shutting her down.

North got the equalizer from Lauren Stille who rifled a bullet to the far post after taking a Emily Milone pass at the 18 yard mark.

The second half belonged to Whitman-Hanson. The Panthers controlled play and limited the Red Raiders to two quality chances the entire half, while at the same time putting continuos pressure on the defense and Carnell. Whitman-Hanson eventually found the back of the net, and was able to finish off North, 2-1.

Jillian Benn, Danielle Kelly, Tara Whooley and Melissa Mendall all played well in the loss.

YOUTH SOCCER HIGHLIGHTS

In Quincy Youth Soccer Under 12 Girls action the Coyotes defeated the Panthers 3-1 behind goals from Hannah Zunnass, Amelia Wool and Jennifer Dunphy. The Panthers' goal was scored by Jennifer Scarnici. Samantha Miner, Molly Meehan and Ali Reardon all played great for the Panthers and Julianne Carcy, Lauren Campo and Niamh Brennan played well for the Coyotes.

In other action, the Wildcats beat the Huskies 4-2. Goals for the Wildcats were scored by Alyssa Lydon, Callie Cabral and Jaclyn Scuzzarella and Lauren McLaughlin, Abigail Albertson and Christine Kelliher all played well. The Huskies got two goals from Roisin Henry and received solid play from Sophie Lee, Jillian O'Leary, Rachel DeMelino and Mallory McKinnon.

Chaislyn Burgio and Brianna Foley each scored a goal in the Cavaliers 2-1 win over the Terriers. Julie Bloomer scored the only goal in the game for the Terriers. Madison McBirney, Renee Pattern, Anna Canavan, Ashley Catizone and Erika Histen all played well for the Cavs. Playing well for the Terriers were Jane Minton, Courtney Smith and Rachel Ring.

In a close game, Bates & Riordan defeated the Rebels 3-2 behind goals from Kayla Sugrue and Dominique Lucier. Katie White and Caitlyn Bulger scored for the Rebels. The Rebels got good play from Libby Doyle, Natasha Sautter, Carly Scoiaro, Julia Himmel and Meghan White. Bates & Riordan received solid play from Lindsay Nazzaro, Siobhan Flynn, Kaitlyn O'Sullivan, Kackie Jordan and Maeve Rogers.

250 Ride In Joseph Conti Memorial Motorcycle Run

The recent eighth annual Joseph Conti Memorial Motorcycle Run raised more than $5,000 for the Joseph Conti Memorial Fund, a charity that assists local causes.

This year, the money raised will be donated to the fundraising effort to help Maria Cochrane, widow of Quincy Police officer James Cochrane who died in September.

More than 250 participants enjoyed a beautiful day that culminated in a barbecue and event at Pat Flanagan's in Quincy Center.

"I want to thank all the riders and businesses that contributed to our success," said event organizer Kim DiBona, sister of Joseph Conti. "I appreciate their continued support as we memorialize my brother in helping those in need."

Colby-Sawyer Blank ENC

A resilient Eastern Nazarene College women's soccer team played Colby-Sawyer tough, but could not find the back of the net in a 2-0 loss on Oct. 2nd.

The Crusaders, who are battling numerous injuries to their starting eleven, played the Chargers even through the first half, but Colby-Sawyer took the lead in the 58th minute on a free kick goal by Jessica Foster. Foster's shot beat ENC goalkeeper Melaina Genovese to the far post. In the 81st minute, the Chargers' Katie Fitzpatrick scored her team's second goal, and the Chargers hung on for the win.

Saving potted mums

When the flowers decline, move the mum pot to a cool, well-lit place. Remove any foil or plastic wrap, and don't over-water. As spring approaches, acclimatize the plant, moving it outside to shade during the day and inside at night. Plant them outdoors in a sunny spot when frost danger has passed.

DIED IN THE FIRST HALF OF 2006

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Someone from your past could arrive with welcome news concerning your future. Meanwhile, avoid taking sides in a workplace confrontation until you have more facts to go on.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A decision about a relationship could have longer-lasting consequences than you might imagine, so be sure of your facts before you act. A trusted friend can help.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A strained relationship could be restored with more personal contact between the two of you. Letting others act as your go-between only adds to the ongoing estrangement.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) New facts could mean taking a new path toward a goal you've been hoping to reach. However, be sure all your questions are answered before you undertake to shift directions.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This is a good week for all you fine Felines to turn your attention to some important considerations, such as your health, your job situation and the status of important relationships.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Avoid making a quick decision about a matter that needs more study. Keep your mind open for possibilities, even if they don't seem plausible — at least not yet.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might welcome the emphasis on openness in relationships that mark this period. But it's a good idea to avoid sharing personal secrets with people you hardly know.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) There are still some questions that need to be asked and answered before you can feel confident enough to make a potentially life-changing decision.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Some lingering effects from a now largely resolved workplace confrontation could make things difficult for you. Act on this before it becomes serious.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You feel you're finally in control of your own life after months of making compromises and concessions you never felt comfortable with. Congratulations.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) No sooner do you decide to pass on one job offer than another suddenly turns up. This one might not have everything you're looking for, but it's worth checking out.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Congratulations. With Jupiter's strong influence dominating this week, don't be surprised to get some good news about a troubling financial matter.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are usually kind and loving. But you can be highly critical of those who don't measure up to your high standards.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Someone once said, "It takes a heap of living in a house to make it a home." All of us know what a house is; how sad it is that so many people do not know what a home is!

Home is where people love each other. Home is where we learn to overlook each other's faults and experience the joy of forgiving as well as being forgiven. Home is where children play, laugh, sign and cry and are comforted by someone who cares. Home is where children are taught by precept and example . . . where personalities are formed and sent into the world.

Home fosters many memories and also should provide the opportunity for meditation, or what someone has called therapy of solitude. Each of us need a quiet time for himself or herself.

Honesty begins at home. Respect for law and order begins at home. Love begins at home. A sense of duty begins at home. Respect for people of other colors and creeds begins at home. And religion has its first beginnings in the home.

Yes, indeed, – Home is far more than a residence; home involves the character of living that goes on inside the house. . .

Awakening Spirit Yoga At First Church Of Squantum

The children of Awakening Spirit Yoga at The First Congregational Church of Squantum recently conducted a yoga museum.

As part of the living museum, the children pretended to be statues, staying perfectly still, while holding a unique yoga pose. Students also demonstrated yoga asanas (postures) they have learned throughout the year, ending with a brief meditation and honoring of teacher and parents.

Students in the class also displayed their artwork that represented what they learned about yoga. In addition to the children learning physical yoga and meditation, students were taught about Karma Yoga – a yoga of selflessness and love. Through the Christian Children's Fund, students and teacher now sponsor a two-and-a-half year-old Eastern Ugandan child, Richard Ekwelu.

The children earned money by doing chores at home, or by donating some of their savings. One student earned money by helping her mom teach Irish Step, while other students had a lemonade stand.

Students wrote letters and drew pictures to send to Richard and his family.

Money the children donated bought gifts that were sent for Richard's upcoming birthday in October.

Yoga helps children and adults to transform the body, mind and spirit. It also increases muscle strength and flexibility while invigorating the immune, cardiovascular and respiratory systems.

The style of yoga that is taught by Donna Chaput, R.Y.T., C.Y.T. is Kayli Ray Tri Yoga flows – a complete hatha yoga method. The art and science of Tri Yoga is economy of motion, wave-like spinal movement and meditation in motion.

For more information on classes, call (617) 875-7379.

Weekend Demonstrations Protest 'Red' Chinese Flag

By TOM HENSHAW

Some 60 demonstrators, many of them veterans of the Korean and Vietnam wars, turned out over the weekend to peacefully protest the display of what they viewed as the Chinese Communist flag over a Wollaston office building.

They walked, chanted and held signs while motorists honked their approval of the protest, directed at the newly opened offices of the Chinese United Association, which views the red flag with yellow stars as a cultural symbol.

"There were a lot of non-veterans, too," said Stephen Dunlea, commander of the Morrisette American Legion Post. "There were people with sons in Iraq and fathers in other wars. There were even some Chinese who escaped from the communists."

Like Kevin Peng and his wife, who came all the way from Manchester, N.H., just to hold their four-by-six bilingual sign, the English half of which read, "China's New Era Begins When Communist Party Ends."

No one from the Chinese United Association was available for comment.

The Chinese flag flew alongside the American flag twice over the building at the corner of Hancock and Beale Streets, once in late September for the opening of the CUA office and again on Oct. 1, which was described as the Chinese Independence Day.

It was particularly galling since Oct. 1 in 1949 was the day Mao Tzedong proclaimed the People's Republic of China and the Nationalist Chinese and their red, white and blue with white sunburst flag was banished to Taiwan.

Both the Chinese and American flags were removed after the protests started.

Members of the City Council who have met with the CUA say they have been assured that the association will not fly the flag again until they have conferred with neighbors but such a meeting has failed to materialize.

Dunlea said the offices of the Chinese United Association appeared to be closed during the demonstration, which lasted from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and continued on Sunday.

"If there was anyone in there they didn't make themselves obvious," he said.

Police weren't very obvious either. There was no detail to watch for untoward incidents. Every now and then a police car rolled by, apparently on routine patrol. There were no incidents.

There are no immediate plans for future demonstrations.

"Hopefully, we won't have to go again," said Dunlea. "But we will if we have to."

Ordinance Would Protect Neighborhoods

Permit Parking Proposed For Some Streets

By MIKAELA SLANEY

Neighborhoods surrounding commercial and other non-residential areas may soon be protected from additional vehicles under a residential parking program introduced at Monday night's City Council meeting.

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin said that several residents in his ward approached him looking for relief from the inconvenience of vehicles parked in front of properties that surround the Quincy Medical Center (QMC) area.

Coughlin submitted an ordinance, designed three years ago, which will allow distinction between residential vehicles and other vehicles through visible permits. Those vehicles without residential or visitor parking permits would be found in violation, he said. The fee to obtain a residential parking sticker would be $10 annually, under Coughlin's proposal.

The parking restrictions would be void on legal holidays, Sundays from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturdays, religious holidays, on streets bordering religious institutions during worship, or bordering a school or other building during a community function.

The parking program will only affect selected streets, he said. For a street to be selected, a neighborhood must submit a petition including the signatures of at least 50 percent of residents living in that neighborhood who think it's necessary.

Coughlin said that it was not designed to be a city-wide program.

"There are clearly neighborhoods throughout the city that don't need this type of attention, on the other hand for those that do, I think we need some sort of tool in the tool box that we don't have right now," he said. "Hopefully it will provide some benefit and relief to those who need it."

City Council President Douglas Gutro spoke favorably for the program. "I hope it gets actualized," he said.

The program is set to be reviewed further by the Ordinance Committee of the City Council.

Phelan Names Kenneth Burke

First Neighborhood Code Enforcement Officer

Mayor William Phelan has named Kenneth Burke as the City's first Neighborhood Code Enforcement Officer.

Burke is an 18-year veteran of the City's Parking Control Division where he has served as a Parking Control Officer.

"Mr. Burke brings the right combination of code enforcement experience and people skills to this position," said Phelan. "As a brand new position, this job will be a challenge to anyone and I think that Kenny Burke is up to that challenge. I look forward to supporting him as we continue to work to improve Quincy's neighborhoods."

Burke will work in the Inspectional Services Department. He is expected to begin in the new position next week.

The Neighborhood Code Enforcement Position was a main component of Phelan's "Neighborhoods First!" initiative. City Councilors Jay Davis and John Keenan also issued a City Council resolution in support of the city creating the new position. The City Council approved Mayor Phelan's appropriation for the new position in the Fiscal Year 2007 budget.

The position will be responsible for enforcing many of the quality of life ordinances that affect the neighborhoods, dealing with issues such as unkempt properties, excessive paving, illegal rooming houses, illegal trash disposal, dumpster violations, nuisance properties, and more.

"This issue was a top priority of the Neighborhoods

Bay State Community Services

'Best Kept Secret' To Mark 35th Year

By TOM HENSHAW

It began 35 years ago in a cubby hole next to the Bargain Center when a Quincy pediatrician and his friends sought to bring aid and comfort to the often neglected men and women who suffered from drug and alcohol abuse.

They called it Survival, Inc., and when Dr. Charles Djerf broached the subject of drugs, people recoiled for this was the suburbs and things like that happened only in the big city and a downtown office was no place to treat its addicts.

But Survival, Inc., not only survived the less than enthusiastic reception, it prospered.

DR. CHARLES DJERF

KEN TARABELLI

A week from today, Thursday, Oct. 26, the lineal descendant of Survival, Inc., known as Bay State Community Services, Inc., with 250 employees dealing in substance abuse, domestic abuse, mental health and more, will honor those who helped make it what it is.

And what it is, they say, is the best kept secret in town.

The Evening of Appreciation will begin at 6 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m., at the Neighborhood Club, 27 Glendale Rd. Tickets are $75 per person or $700 for a table of 10.

Among the honorees will be the late Dr. William "Bill" Tilden for whom Granite House, a residential treatment center for adolescents with mental health issues, will be renamed for Dr. Tilden, who was its director from 1999 to 2004.

Others to be cited include Thomas Williams, Henry Levin, Salvatore Puccia, Colleen Maimaron and Quincy Medical Center, which is remembered particularly for taking Bay State Community Services under its wing when it was threatened with bankruptcy.

The gala will also serve as an independence celebration of sorts as the organization cuts its final ties with Quincy Medical Center and establishes of a new and independent board of directors, which has been in place since February.

Board members include Ken Tarabelli, president; Marta Reese, treasurer; Thomas Williams, secretary; David Keefe, chair; Robert King, vice chair Richard DeCristofaro; James D. Asher; Simon Chan; William Kelley; Janet Powell; Carl Soderstrom; Ralph Yohe.

"The agency has been a huge success," said Tarabelli, who has been its executive director since 1975, the longest continuously serving leader of a human service agency in Massachusetts.

"We're growing all the time. The community is looking for outreach. They're looking for us to go out to them in their homes. We have always done that."

Survival, Inc., began in a sea of controversy.

"For one thing, it opened a resident treatment center in downtown Quincy," said Tarabelli. "That wasn't done in the early '70s. For another, it hosted a methadone center. Those are still controversial."

Tarabelli joined the group late in 1975 when Survival, Inc., operated on a slim $200,000 budget. It's $14 million today, funded in part by grants from the state Departments of Social Services, Public Health and Mental Health and the Norfolk County Sheriff's office.

"My background was in general social services," he said. "These personal problems all go together. They cut across department lines. We added a lot of child abuse and other services. We reached out to more."

Survival, Inc., became Bay State Community Services in 1991 when it merged with the South Shore Council on Alcoholism of Quincy and four other community-based agencies that delivered services to cities and towns in southeastern Massachusetts.

They included the Mayflower Mental Health Association of Plymouth, the Center for Community Counseling and Education of Walpole and Billing Home Services of Norwood.

Now, Bay State Services has facilities in 10 cities and towns from Lowell in the north to Walpole in the south with its main office at 13 Temple St. and most of its programs based in Quincy.

Substance abuse is still a major function but it also operates a teen emergency shelter in Weymouth, a domestic abuse program in Dedham, a family outpatient clinic in Norwood and a driver alcohol education program in Franklin.

Impact Quincy, with its Office of Juvenile Justice Delinquency Prevention and Substance Abuse Coalition to Prevent Underage Drinking is part of Bay State Services, as is Project Safe, dealing with domestic abuse and general violence.

And so is the Blue Hills Tobacco-Free Community Mobilization Network.

"All the problems are pretty much the same," said Ken Tarabelli.

Sleepless Nights Discussion Topic

Dr. Gabrielle Freedman will discuss the problems seniors might have in getting a good night's sleep Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 10 a.m. at the Fenno House, 540 Hancock St., Wollaston.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Seeks Nominations for Board Members

The Appointing Council Shall Meet To Consider Qualified Applicants For Appointments To The Board.

Nominees are to be considered for appointment to fill vacancies.

Board members are advocates for the institution, and have certain governance and oversight responsibilities for the College as specified in the enabling legislation. Members are expected to attend regular meetings, ordinarily scheduled in the evening, and to participate fully as a member of specific subcommittees, usually meeting several times a month during the day. Additionally, members are participants in Commencement, College Ceremonies, and demonstrate in actions and word a commitment to the mission and purpose of the College. Members must submit an annual financial disclosure form to the City Clerk.

Interested individuals must submit a letter of interest and resume, to the Appointing Council, to be received on or before November 3, 2006. The Appointing Council shall meet to consider qualified candidates, and will provide an optional opportunity for interested parties to address the Appointing Council. The Council welcomes diversity in applicants and encourages anyone who believes he or she might contribute positively to the continued success of the institution to respond.

Davis Tables Raymondi Resolve

Council Vote On Question 1 Blocked

By MIKAELA SLANEY

A packed crowd, including package store owners, trickled out of the council chambers Monday night, when a resolution for the City Council to oppose ballot Question 1 was killed before it was introduced.

Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis objected to the resolution proposed by Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi that sought to put the council on record in opposition to allowing food stores to sell wine.

Davis' action automatically tabled the matter without discussion and in effect also killed it.

The next council meeting won't be held until after the Nov. 7 election.

Davis said he had insufficient time to research the resolution and make a decision.

Raymondi's resolution claimed that the law would also include convenience stores, drug stores and some gas stations that sold food.

According to Raymondi's resolution, if Question 1 is approved, it would increase drunk driving and underaged drinking. The resolution asked residents for their support in opposing Question 1.

The resolution asked residents to support the resolution. Several package store owners attended the meeting.

Davis later told The Sun that he objected to the matter because he felt unprepared to vote in either direction. He said that he had been unable to review the resolution due to a family emergency which caused him to be out of town for the weekend.

"I didn't have sufficient time to research the resolution that I felt comfortable that I could debate the matter," he said.

Raymondi's resolution said that voting "yes" on Question 1 would increase the number of liquor licenses in the state by almost 3,000, nearly double the current amount. The increase for Quincy was estimated at 71 percent.

The resolution claims that although voting "yes" would promote convenience, supermarkets would not have the incentive to police underage drinking with wine accounting for only a small percentage of their products.

It also said that Question 1 would "jeopardize the economic vitality and safety of communities in Quincy as neighborhood businesses are replaced by national megastores."

At a press conference Tuesday, Mayor William Phelan said that he was not going to take a position on Question 1.

"The voters are intelligent enough to make up their own minds," he said. "I haven't given it enough study. I'll look into it. Maybe I'll talk about it next week."

Peter Kessel, vice president of Massachusetts Package Store Association, attended Monday's City Council meeting, and later told The Sun that the opinions of the Quincy package stores were "prevented from being voiced."

He said that he represented package store owners in opposing Question 1.

In a letter to The Sun, he said:

"Over 10 local package store owners waited almost three hours to make a unified presentation, but were denied the opportunity to do so by the single "objection" of Davis, which ceased any further discussion of the motion at that particular meeting. This opportunity is lost forever to these storeowners, as there is no other time available prior to the November election.

"Question 1 in the upcoming election seemingly puts large grocers against small package store owners, which is not the case.

"Question 1 is a hastily prepared piece of legislation which is aimed at bypassing the state legislature under the disguise of "convenience." The initiative allows 18 year olds who are not of age to purchase alcohol, to vote on its increased availability at many of these mini-mart and convenience type stores where their peers, classmates and friends currently work.

"The package store system here in Massachusetts works... adding 2,879 more alcohol distribution points would only undermine the effectiveness of law enforcement and result in lowering Massachusetts to the level of those 34 or 35 other states that allow increased alcohol distribution points, which is almost three times higher.

"While the price that was paid by the local storeowners was a rude lesson in local politics, the more significant "price of convenience" may be realized by Massachusetts residents in the form of increased adverse effects through increased availability to minors if Question 1 were to pass," said Kessel.

New Material Sidewalks Proposal Meeting Oct. 24

The Public Works Committee of the City Council will hear a presentation by Rubbersidewalks Inc. regarding a modular sidewalk system, 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 24 at the Council chambers.

The California-based company will propose a plan to adopt sidewalk material that they say is an environmentally-friendly, safe, flexible alternative.

According to Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, cities across the country, including Boston, California, Washington and New York, have installed, or are considering the installation of this type of sidewalk.

All are invited to attend the meeting.

Looking for an investment that's guaranteed to grow?

What's the main problem with stock market investments and mutual funds? Simple – you just can't be sure that your money will grow. In fact, you can't even be sure that your principal won't shrink. And while no one would deny that market-based investments should at least be considered as part of a diversified investment plan, sometimes you have money you don't want to put at risk in any way. Maybe it's money you're going to need soon. Maybe it's your IRA or Roth IRA. Maybe you're a conservative saver who simply wants investments that are guaranteed to grow. We understand. Which is why we don't sell stocks. We don't sell mutual funds. We don't sell annuities. Colonial Federal is a community bank providing competitive-rate options for today's conservative saver. If you're looking for a safe investment that's 100% guaranteed to grow, come see us. • On Oct. 21, 1797, the USS Constitution, a 44-gun U.S. Navy frigate built to fight Barbary pirates off the coast of Tripoli, is launched in Boston Harbor. During the War of 1812, the Constitution won its enduring nickname "Old Ironsides" when shots seemed to merely bounce off the ship's sides.

• On Oct. 17, 1906, Wilhelm Voigt, a 57-year-old German shoemaker, impersonates an army officer and leads an entire squad of soldiers to help him steal 4,000 marks. Voigt, who had a long criminal record, humiliated the German army by exploiting its soldiers' blind obedience to authority and getting them to assist in his audacious robbery.

• On Oct. 20, 1930, Sherlock Holmes debuts on the radio starring William Gillette as Holmes. In 1939, Basil Rathbone took on the part, supported by Nigel Bruce as his faithful sidekick, Watson. The program ran, with different actors and some interruptions, until 1956.

• On Oct. 22, 1942, child star Annette Funicello is born in Utica, N.Y. Funicello became a featured Mouseketeer on Disney's Mickey Mouse Club and later starred in several Disney features, including "The Shaggy Dog" (1959).

• On Oct. 18, 1961, the movie version of the Broadway musical "West Side Story" opens at New York's Rivoli Theater. The musical retold the story of Romeo and Juliet, but set the action in contemporary New York.

Special 'Thank You' For Veterans

Edward McAllister has a special "thank you" for U.S. military personnel serving in Iraq or Afghanistan or about to be sent there.

It's a free wedding ceremony.

McAllister, who lives on Unity Street, West Quincy, is one of more than 60 members of the Massachusetts Justices of the Peace Association offering that unique service.

McALLISTER

He and his fellow justices have volunteered to officiate free of charge at weddings of servicemen and women when they return from active duty in Iraq or Afghanistan or soon to be deployed there.

Also eligible are those home on leave from those two war torn countries.

McAllister, a veteran himself who served with the Mariner during the Korean War, says:

"This is our way to show our support and appreciation for what they are doing for us over there."

McAllister also is offering the free ceremony for those coming back from the two countries to return to civilian life.

And is even making the offer to service personnel on active duty in other areas overseas.

"I will be happy to perform a free wedding ceremony for them in the Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth area," McAllister says.

Justice Elizabeth Brennan Germelli, president of the MJPA, notes qualified military personnel need only to provide proper documentation of their service and a valid Massachusetts marriage license.

Fees for marriage performed by justices of the peace are regulated: $75 in the community where the justice is commissioned and $125 outside.

McAllister, a retired motor vehicle manager for the old New England Telephone Company (the good old days), has been a justice of the peace for three years and has performed more than 100 marriages.

He'd like to add some of those free ones.

He can be reached at 617-773-0144. Or at his email address: user850377@acs.com.

He'd like to hear from you.

JACK RAYMER is back in football.

The former Quincy High School head coach is now assistant coach to Steve Treister at Milton High School.

Raymer, whose coaching career goes back to 1971, led the Presidents for 12 years before retiring in 1992.

RAYMER

But the score wasn't always the important thing. Just as important to him-if not more so- was helping his kids go on to college.

He's now Dean of Students at Quincy and is still guiding kids to college.

IT MUST HAVE been another one of those senior moments.

"Gotcha!," former Quincy resident Paul Judge now living in Salisbury, MD writing kiddingly:

"I gotcha in July, 1999. I gotcha again for the Sept. 14 rerun of your Sunbeams column which had President Truman roaring through Quincy during his 1948 election campaign."

TRUMAN

"He stopped, visited the Presidents Adams' burial site and gave a five minute speech on the steps of the church in Quincy Square."

He's right, President Truman did stop and speak here from the steps of the First Parish Church at 7 a.m. Oct. 28. Paul, then a 16-year old QHS student was there to hear him.

I corrected that slip in a subsequent column. And then went and recycled the one with the error.

What I had done was to confuse Truman's 1948 campaign train stop with the one that roared through Quincy in 1952 on to Brockton.

Truman in 1952 was campaigning for Adla Stevenson. He passed up Quincy on Oct. 18 in favor of Brockton apparently knowing that Stevenson's own campaign train would stop in Quincy nine days later.

And I should have known better about the mix-up because I was on Stevenson's train covering his campaign when he stopped here.

Thanks again, Paul for setting me straight. Maybe this time it will stick.

Incidentally back in those days, Quincy was still a Republican town.

In 1948 the city went for Republican Tom Dewey over Truman by 1,453. And in 1952, World War II hero Dwight Eisenhower, running as a Republican swamped Stevenson here by just under 10,000 votes.

And, if there's anything wrong with those figures, I'm sure I'll be hearing from Frank McCauley.

Urges 'No' Vote On Question 2

On the November ballot, Question 2 (Nomination of Candidates for Public Office) deserves a "No" vote because the changes in voting procedures are confusing and complicated.

A candidate's name could be listed many times on the ballot. This is called cross endorsement. Voting should be simple enough for the voter to understand. Remember the confusion in Florida's Presidential election? Why should Massachusetts be saddled with a chaotic situation after each state election? The State Legislature, after a thorough study, voted unfavorably on cross endorsement.

How much will Quincy pay for the new additional programming technology? How much will the machines read the several votes? No price tag comes with the petition. Once again the taxpayer will pay the price for the resulting confusion and the new technology with their additional taxes. Question "2" deserves your "NO" vote.

From Leader To Last: The Demise Of Our State Parks

Massachusetts' character comes from the state's classic New England landscape — from the sweeping hills of the Berkshires to the pine forests and sandy beaches of Cape Cod. In a sense, this landscape defines Massachusetts. As home to the nation's first public park, Massachusetts has a long legacy of public land preservation. Unfortunately, many of our treasured places are endangered - symbols of a system in decline.

Included in the Commonwealth's beautiful landscape is almost a half a million acres of public land, encompassing hundreds of public forests, parks, and reservations. On the South Shore, we enjoy public treasures from the Quincy Shore and the beautiful Mt. Blue Spring at Wompatuck to the sandy beaches of Nantasket Beach and Wollaston Beach and the pine barren forests of Myles Standish. These jewels and others in the Massachusetts State Forests and Parks system support dozens of rare species and critical natural communities, boast champion tree sites and exemplary old growth – forests undisturbed for centuries. Our public parks, reservations and forests annually attract more than thirty million visitors who walk, play, camp, bike, hike, and otherwise enjoy these natural resources.

Despite the critical importance of state lands to Massachusetts, our forests and parks system is in crisis. A 1994 report commissioned by the state legislature found the system overburdened, sparsely staffed and poorly maintained. Twelve years later, our state forest and parks system is struggling more than ever. Since 2001, the budget for the system has declined approximately 30 percent. Full-time staff have been cut by 20 percent since 2000. Once a leader, Massachusetts currently ranks 48th out of the 50 states in per capita spending on parks and recreation.

South of Boston, problems at Wollaston Beach and Myles Standish are symptoms of a system in decline. Local favorite, Wollaston Beach, is plagued by litter and debris. At Myles Standish, illegal off road vehicle (ORV) use destroys the trails. With insufficient funding, public treasures like Wollaston and Myles Standish are poorly maintained, inadequately patrolled and left to deteriorate.

These are just a few examples. From littered trails to decaying bathrooms, this degradation jeopardizes these critical places and cannot continue. More than a century after Massachusetts established the first regional park system, we have fallen from leader to last. Our elected officials must follow these 'trail markers' to ensure that Massachusetts leads again:

First, they must restore funding for our forests and parks system. An additional $10 million per year over the next four years would get us headed in the right direction. This is less than $1.60 per person and a small price to pay to preserve our parks, playgrounds and forests for our kids and their kids.

Second, they must promote better management and planning. Our system currently lacks long term planning and stewardship. Without this, ad-hoc decisions are made under the radar or at the behest of commercial interests that compromise preservation and belie public trust.

Third, the state must reinsert citizen participation into the process. In the late 1990s, the Legislature dissolved the Citizen Advisory Committees, organized around properties or clusters of properties. These Committees offer input on management, help with maintenance and provide a crucial public forum to share information and build consensus with local community members.

A recent fight over proposed logging at Robinson State Forest in Agawam highlights the need for better management and increased citizen participation. Local residents were unaware of the state's plans to thin the forest and are now at odds with state officials about the cutting plans and the existence of rare plant and tree species in some of our most cherished woodlands. Without adequate resources, proper management and citizen stewardship, places we love and enjoy will continue to be threatened.

Charles Eliot, a nineteenth century advocate for green spaces, explained that for people to be healthy and happy, they "must have space for air, for light, for exercise, for rest and for the enjoyment of that peaceful beauty of nature, which because it is the opposite of the noisy ugliness of towns, is so wonderfully refreshing to the tired souls of townspeople."

These public places were set aside to protect and preserve our heritage and natural treasures for future generations to enjoy. We cannot continue turning our back on that legacy.

29 Years Ago

By FRANK MCCAULEY

City Councillor James A. Sheets figured that Quincy lost more than $1.5 million due to unauthorized dumping at the city disposal facility over the prior four years.

Sheets said that "private commercial packer trucks were overusing the disposal by as much as 48 percent." He recommended that dump fees be raised and that strict controls be placed on dumping.

SHIPYARD WORKERS RETURN TO JOBS

Shipbuilders began trekking back to work at the General Dynamics Shipyard this week with no one apparently overjoyed by the contract that ended the three month strike. Shipyard officials said that there would be some layoffs of returning workers in certain departments where there was not enough work to keep a full staff busy.

HARRINGTON WINS RE-ELECTION STATUS

City Councillor Dennis Harrington was restored to the second spot on the Councillor at Large ballot in the Nov. 8 city election. Norfolk County Superior Court Judge Henry Chimielenski ruled that Harrington was a candidate for re-election despite the fact that he was the Ward 6 Councillor, and seeking a Councillor at Large seat.

Arts & Entertainment

'Cinderella' To Open ENC Cove Stage Season

The Communication Arts Department of Eastern Nazarene College will present Rodgers & Hammerstein's 1957 made-for-television musical, Cinderella, for its Homecoming musical.

Performances will be Oct. 19 and 20 at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 21 at 8 p.m., Oct. 26, 27, 28 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets for general admission seating are $12. Children 12 and under are $10. Educational matinees are offered Oct. 19, 20 and 26 at 10 a.m.

Cinderella's story, a reminder that dreams can come true, has been reinvented countless times, from its ancient mythical roots to contemporary adaptations including ballets, operas, novels and film. Rodger's and Hammerstein's score includes the ballads "In My Little Corner," "Do I Love You Because You're Beautiful," "Impossible," and the "Stepsisters' Lament."

LESLIE WOODIES (right) is director and choreographer and Jose Delgado is music director of the musical 'Cinderella.' present by the Communication Arts Department of Eastern Nazarene College.

Award-winning professional guest artists Leslie Woodies and Jose Delgado will direct this magical story of dreams and love. Woodies, director and choreographer,, was a soloist with the Boston Ballet Company, toured the U.S. and Europe in Dancers and played Cassie in the New York Shakespeare festival production of A Chorus Line. Delgado, the music director, is an ENC alumnus and has been recognized with several awards by the Independent Reviewers of New England. He regularly directs in professional theatre such as Speakeasy Stage Company and the Lyric Stage Company.

Manet Community Health Center Gala Reception, Auction Tonight

Manet Community Health Center, Inc. will hold its third annual Gala Cocktail Reception and Silent Action tonight (Thursday) from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club in Quincy.

The event was planned by Manet's Development Committee, including Betty Swanton, Barbara Morris, Rob Littlefield, Carolyn Cashman Skaves, Linda Kelly, Patrick Queally, Kathleen Robinson and Joe Renzi.

Manet Community Health Center is a non-profit, community-based health care organization offering primary care and support services to residents of Quincy, Hull and surrounding towns on the South Shore at five separate sites. We have been providing health care services for more than 27 years, caring for approximately 14,000 patients in more than 55,000 visits annually.

Senator Michael Morrissey is the honorary chairman and John M. Silva, president and CEO, Hometown Health Center, Schenectady, NY is the master of ceremonies. Silva was recently awarded The John Gilbert Award by the National Association of Community Health Centers.

Carolyn Cashman Skaves will be recognized for her commitment and philanthropic leadership to Manet Community Health Center, with the presentation of the first Manet Community Medallion Award.

The list of auction items include Tom Brady, Tedy Bruschi and Richard Seymour signed Patriots shirts and other autographed sports memorabilia, works of art, figurines, a large variety of gift certificates, including Jordan's Furniture, numerous gift baskets, jewelry, Longaberger baskets, a night at the Clarion Hotel in Hull or the Marriott in Quincy.

This is the only fundraising event sponsored by Manet. Revenue from the auction directly supports the many underfunded programs that Manet offers to its 15,000 patients.

Tickets are $50 per person or $450 for a group of 10. Tickets may be purchased before the event by contacting Lyn Dionne, Director of Development at 617-376-3030, Ext. 253,via email at ldionne@manetchc.org or you may buy tickets at the event.

New Lunch Program A Hit At Sacred Heart School

The National School Lunch Program that began at Sacred Heart School in North Quincy last month is a hit with students.

Through the program, the school is able to offer students in Pre-Kindergarten through Grade 8 lunch each day at a reasonable cost to families. The lunch includes milk and a healthy snack.

In just one month participation has increased from 175 meals to 200 meals a day, notes Principal Katherine Hunter.

Daily menus, she said, include such items as tuna salad, pizza sticks and barbecued pork sandwich.

She said the school is thankful to a group of dedicated volunteers who organize and distribute the meals each day.

Diners Urged To 'Taste Quincy' Restaurants Oct. 23-27 Week

Quincy is the dining capital of the South Shore and a large slice of its more than 200 restaurants is out to prove it during "Taste Quincy Week" Monday, Oct. 23, through Friday, Oct. 27.

Some of the city's best eateries will offer specials, such as a $20 or $25 dinner for two, a $10 or $15 lunch for two. Some of the finest specialty food shops will offer special discounts.

It is the second such demonstration of gastronomic excellence for the city of Presidents. Celebrate Quincy! Restaurant Week brought hundreds of food aficionados to Quincy last February.

"The fall, Quincy Arts Alive! is working in conjunction with the Quincy Restaurant League to expand the event," said Mark Carey, executive director of Discover Quincy.

"Dozens of restaurants are participating in 'Taste Quincy' Restaurant Week. This is the perfect opportunity for dining enthusiasts to 'taste' all that Quincy has to offer."

Participating restaurants include: Adams Pub, Atlantic Restaurant, Burke's Seafood, Cucina Mia Cafe, Early American Restaurant, Emma's Breakfast & Lunch, Fajitas & Ritas, Finian's Restaurant & Pub,

Five Spices Restaurant & Pub, Fowler House Cafe, Fox & Hound Restaurant, Fuji 1546, Hancock's at the Marriott, Henry's Root Beer Stand, Heritage Cafe, The Irish Pub, Italy's Little Kitchen, Kagawa Sushi Bar & Restaurant, Mandarin King, Pepper's Grill, Punjab Cafe, Quincy Dynasty, Siro's at Marina Bay, Taste of Taiwan, The Fours, Tullio's Restaurant & Grotto and Villa Rosa Restaurant.

Taste Quincy Week is organized by the Quincy Arts Alive! Initiative and the Quincy Restaurant League and funded in part by a grant from the Massachusetts Cultural Council.

Anita's Chicken Nutty Strips

There are tons of ways to cook chicken, and I'm' always looking for a new way to prepare it.

A visit from our niece Anita netted a great recipe which I hope you will try and enjoy as much as we did.

The recipe calls for frying the chicken, but I usually place it on a greased cookie sheet and bake.

NUTTY CHICKEN STRIPS

1 cup soft bread crumbs
1/2 cup chopped almonds
2 tablespoons chopped cilantro (or parsley)
1 1/2 teaspoons curry powder
1/4 cup flour
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 pound chicken tenders
1/4 cup vegetable oil (if frying)

In a large plastic bag, combine the bread crumbs, almonds, parsley and curry powder. Place flour in a shallow bowl (I use a paper plate.) Beat the egg and milk.

Dip the chicken strips in the flour, then the egg mixture . Place the chicken in the bag and shake to coat.

Now, the chicken can be either cooked in a large skillet, or placed on a greased cookie sheet and baked in a 350 degree oven for about 25 minutes, turning once.

Here is a dipping sauce which is optional.

8 ounces plain yogurt
2 tablespoons fresh cilantro or parsley
1 tablespoon honey

VFW Ladies Auxiliary Seeking New Members

The Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 613 is seeking eligible ladies to join their rank.

Those eligible for membership to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Ladies Auxiliary are wives, widows, mothers, foster and stepmothers who perform the duties of parents, grandmothers, daughters, foster and stepdaughters, sisters, half sisters, foster and step sisters of veterans of honorable services in the Unites States Armed Forces, who are authorized to receive a campaign medal or ribbon for overseas service.

In addition to overseas service, President George W. Bush recently signed into law HR3838, which extends membership eligibility of Veterans of Foreign Wars to veterans who received "hostile fire" or "imminent danger pay," enabling ladies to join the Ladies Auxiliary VFW under this eligibility.

Those seeking membership must be at least 16 years of age and a U.S. citizen. Proof of eligibility is shown on the veteran's separation document, DD214, or by certifying that the veteran received "hostile fire" or "imminent danger" pay.

Member benefits include: cancer grant (two free in a life time), cancer insurance (included in the dues), other insurance, free travel service, the opportunity to apply for a VISA credit card, discounted shopping, discounts on magazine subscriptions, and many other benefits.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW is one of the largest volunteer groups in the nation, raising over $3 million annually to fund cancer research. The 671,501 members advocate for veterans and those currently serving the country, and their families. Members also volunteer at veteran's administration medical centers and nursing homes throughout the country, and for organizations such as the March of Dimes, the Special Olympics, the Ronald McDonald House, and the Make a Wish Foundation.

Membership fee is $20 for the first year and $14 yearly thereafter. Those interested can also join as life members.

For an application or for more information, call Beulah Wiltshire, membership chairman, at 617-472-7596.

Scary Stories On Tap At North Quincy Library

Children ages 8 and older should be prepared to be scared when they attend Librarian Cathy deVeer's program of creepy tales Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 7 p.m. in the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, 381 Hancock St.

Cathy promises that these stories will be so scary that parents are urged not to bring any children younger than 8. No registration is required.

Atherton Hough School Gym Dedicated For James Riley, Sr. Sunday

The Atherton Hough School Gymnasium will be named the "James 'Red' Riley Sr. Gymnasium" at a dedication ceremony, Sunday, Oct. 22 from noon to 2 p.m. at the gym.

School Committeeman Dave McCarthy will be a speaker.

The Riley family urges the public to join in celebrating James Riley Sr., who died in 2003, for 25 years of service as a custodian for the school.

"Our father loved the children of the Houghs Neck community, and took great pride in his work," said Cathy Riley, daughter of James Riley Sr. "We know he would be very proud of this recognition."

He was a man who loved his school and took great pride in his job, she said.

Bryan McCauley Logue Participates In Jimmy Fund Family Tradition

Bryan McCauley Logue, 17, a senior at North Quincy High School, recently followed in the footsteps of his grandfather, former Mayor Frank McCauley, when he walked the 18th annual 26.2 mile Jimmy Fund Walk.

Like his grandfather, he finished in under seven hours.

The event, sponsored by the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute of Boston, raises funds through pledges. Proceeds benefit Jimmy Fund cancer research at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute of Boston, which concentrates on children.

BRYAN MCCAULEY LOGUE

In 1990, Frank McCauley participated in the 2nd annual walk, raising $4,215, the second highest raised by over 1,000 participants, he said. At that finish line was his daughter, Jennifer Logue, and her 19-month son Bryan, who would participate in the walk 16 years later.

In 1993 Jennifer Logue walked a half marathon (13 miles) in the Jimmy Fund walk, in the name of family member Louis Craig of Quincy, who was being treated at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

Architectural Heritage Slide Show At Library

A free slide lecture on the architectural heritage of Boston, entitled "The Four Shapes of Boston," will be presented Wednesday, Oct. 25, at 7 p.m. in the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

The program traces the city's topography and architecture from 1630 to the present in four chapters — Surviving (Colonial Period), Settling (Federal Period), Spreading (Victorian Period) and Soaring (Contemporary Period).

The presentation will be made by Boston by Foot, the architectural walking tour service.

A brief meeting of the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library will precede the slide presentation.

Children's Costume Parade Among Festivities

Quincy Center Harvest Festival Saturday

The Quincy Business Association will hold its 16th annual Harvest Family Festival Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Hancock Street from Granite Street to Revere Road will be closed to vehicular traffic turning that section into a pedestrian mall.

A highlight of the all-day event will be the annual Children's Costume Parade for those in kindergarten through grade 5.

Registration for the parade will be at 1:30 p.m. at the QBA office, 1416 Hancock St. The parade will start at 2 p.m.

A judging panel will select the winners in several categories for youngsters under age six and those six and over. Winners will be awarded trophies.

The parade gives those participating in the contest a chance to give their Halloween costumes a trial run.

The Quincy Police and Fire Departments will conduct a Children's Safety Program throughout the day with finger printing, safety demonstrations and tips for a safe Halloween. Some bicycle helmets and finger printing kits will be among giveaways during the day.

There will also be music, entertainment and merchandise from local businesses and invited vendors. Restaurants will offer food specialties with dining inside and out.

"Sidewalk Sam" will be here from 10 a.m. to noon.

Boston radio station Oldies 103.3 will be on hand from 12 noon to 2 p.m. "The Rolling Bones" will perform live music from 1 to 5 p.m.

Rain date is Saturday, Oct. 28.

For more information call the QBA office at 617-471-3232.

Leaf Blowers Make Fall Clean Up A Snap

By Samantha Mazzotta

Generator Safety Is No Joke

Hurricane season may be winding down in the southern states, but winter is fast approaching, along with the potential for storms, blizzards and other wild weather that can cause power outages. Many homeowners have a generator to get through such emergencies, but they may not be aware of the safety issues presented by these small combustion engines. The following guidelines are offered by Briggs & Stratton, a generator manufacturer:

—Generators produce carbon monoxide, an odorless, colorless gas that can cause serious health problems in small amounts and is deadly in large concentration. Never run a generator in an enclosed area, and never run it inside your home — even in the garage, even with the windows open.

—Always place a battery-powered carbon monoxide detector in the living area of your home when running a generator. Ideally, place a second detector near or in the area where the generator is running, in case the exhaust enters the home.

—Do not operate the generator near combustible materials.

—Be absolutely safe when refueling; gasoline and its vapors are extremely flammable. Allow the generator to cool for at least two minutes before filling the tank.

—Make sure extension cords are of the grounded type (three-pronged, all-weather cords), and are rated for your generator. Also, do not coil them — make sure they lay flat and in an open area, because they can get very hot.

—Never plug the generator directly into an outlet. Have a qualified electrician install a power transfer switch.

—Maintain the generator regularly, according to the manufacturer's directions. If you do not use the generator for at least 30 days, purchase a fuel stabilizer to add to the gas in the tank.

—Do not operate the generator in wet conditions (rain, snow or floods); protect it from the elements, and keep it off the ground.

More information on generator safety, choosing the right generator for your home, and other issues, can be found at generator dealerships, manufacturer Web sites like www.briggsandstratton.com, or at the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (www.cpsc.gov).

When leaves pile up, it's time to start the leaf blower.

The Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI) reminds homeowners that fall clean up is easier with a leaf blower, and today's models are 70% cleaner and quieter than 1995 models. Current leaf blowers are now quieter than the average vacuum cleaner, making them an environmentally friendly way to clean up the yard as well.

"Leaf blower users need to make safety and courtesy their priority," says Bill Harley, OPEI President and CEO. "These machines are tools, not toys, and need to be treated as such. Reading the owner's manual is a must before operating a leaf blower."

When using a leaf blower, operators should:

• Wear eye and ear protection and put long hair under a cap

• Wear a dust mask in dirty or dusty conditions

• Keep children, pets, and others away from the work area

• Do not point the nozzle at any person or pet

• Be courteous when using a leaf blower

• Work at reasonable hours

• Check local ordinances for operating times

• Lower throttle speed

• Use nozzle attachments to reduce sound levels

• Only operate equipment in well ventilated areas.

OPEI is committed to providing information on the safe and courteous operation of leaf blowers. The website - www.opei.org - has helpful materials about leaf blowers including: a Flash presentation titled "Leaf Blowers: Concerns, Perceptions, Facts and Solutions;" a training manual titled "Leaf Blowers: A Guide to Safe and Courteous Use;" and a fact sheet on leaf blowers; and a list of OPEI member leaf blower manufacturers. Copies of materials are available.

The Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI) is the international trade association which represents manufacturers of outdoor power equipment, component and attachment suppliers, as well as industry-related allied services.

For more information, visit www.opei.org.

Computer Seminar At Norfolk Registry Nov. 2

Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell will host an informational seminar on computer assisted land records research at the Registry of Deeds in Dedham Thursday, Nov. 2 from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The seminar is intended for both real estate professionals and the public.

The program will include a brief presentation, written reference materials, and hands-on exercises. There will be opportunities for both basic and advanced questions and answers.

Computer assisted land records research is available both at the Registry and on the Internet at www.norfolkdeeds.org.

"These services have proven valuable tools for our customers," O'Donnell said, "and we hope that this seminar will be helpful and informative."

There is no charge for the seminar, but persons planning to attend are asked to register by phone (781-461-6104) or email (registerodonnell@norfolkdeeds.org). Include your name, address and a daytime phone number when you register.

The Registry of Deeds, located at 649 High St., Dedham, is the principal office for real property in Norfolk County. The Registry receives and records hundreds of thousands of documents each year and is a basic resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate and accessible land record information.

For more information visit www.norfolkdeeds.org or call 781-461-6116.

Tips To Winterize A Swimming Pool

(NAPS) Now is the time to start planning pool closing and winterizing.

Colder weather can mean substantial damage to pool surfaces and pool equipment. Taking the time to winterize now will save time and money on unnecessary repairs next year.

Pools that are not winterized properly are susceptible to:

• Freeze-thaw damage to pool surfaces

• Damaged or broken pool equipment

• Underground pipe damage.

Every year, hundreds and even thousands of dollars are spent repairing pools that were not closed properly the previous fall. Pool owners who endured such repairs are often surprised to learn how easily the damage could have been prevented.

Here are some helpful tips to protect a pool and ensure easy opening next year:

• Conduct a final pool water test. Visit a local store to receive a quick, computerized water analysis to ensure water is balanced.

• Brush the walls of the pool and vacuum thoroughly. Clean the skimmer basket and lint trap.

• Use a special filter cleaner to thoroughly clean the filter. A dirty filter can cake and harden over the winter, leaving a messy and difficult cleanup job.

• With the pump and filter on, add the appropriate amount of winter shock around the edges of the pool. Wait an hour and then add winter algaecide. Keep the pump and filter on for another hour.

• Drain the pool, then add pool winterizing antifreeze to pipes and equipment.

• Finally, cover the pool to protect it from winter winds, leaves, dirt and debris.

A pool is a major investment. Protecting it with BioGuard pool care products means being able to enjoy it for years to come.

Visit a BioGuard dealer or www.BioGuard.com for [illegible]

Energy Saving Features For Long-Term Savings, Comfort

(NAPS) Building a new home can be an exciting and rewarding experience. Throughout the design process, there will be many important decisions, one being ensuring that the home can keep cool in the summer and warm in the winter.

Homeowners wonder which insulation to use, which energy-efficient windows, whether to use a furnace or HVAC.

Increasing a new home's energy efficiency will have a significant impact on long-term operating costs and provides a comfortable living environment with preferable temperatures and fewer drafts.

U.S. homes account for 21 percent of the nation's energy use. An energy-efficient home is a key ingredient to responsible growth as the population and size of new homes increase.

Approximately 1.2 million new single-family homes are built in the U.S. each year, with the average new-home size increasing significantly, from 1,645 square feet in 1975 to 2,434 square feet in 2005, according to the National Association of Home Builders. As the size of homes grows, so will the increased strain on wallets, the U.S. energy supply and the environment.

There are several ways to build a home to ensure that it efficiently keeps temperatures comfortable. One of the most cost-effective ways of doing so is by properly insulating the home with the latest insulation technology to maximize its energy efficiency potential.

"The most effective insulation products on the market today completely fill wall cavities, eliminating all gaps and voids where energy can escape," said Dean Johnson, host of the national home improvement show "Hometime."

"Homeowners should also use insulation that doesn't contain volatile organic compounds (VOCs) such as formaldehyde, which may have long and short-term adverse health effects. In tighter-built, more energy-efficient homes, indoor air will not mix as frequently with fresh outdoor air, so it's important to remove sources of formaldehyde from the home to reduce the potential for poor indoor air quality."

One example of an insulation product that is helping homeowners realize significant savings on heating and cooling bills, without sacrificing indoor air quality, is the Johns Manville Spider Custom Insulation System. Spider is a formaldehyde-free fiberglass insulation and is ideal for new home construction because it sprays into wall cavities and fills all nooks and crannies to provide a superior insulation barrier. Spray-in products such as Spider are installed by a professional and will significantly reduce heating and cooling costs, saving a typical household an average of $300 per year.

Properly insulating a new home will continue to save money and may also increase the resale value. Building a home is a big investment of time and money. Doing it right the first time around will make the entire experience, and the time spent in the home, that much more enjoyable.

To learn more about how to properly insulate a home and the positive impact insulation can have on the environment, go to www.jmhomeinsulation.com.

POINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Protecting The Home, Family And Property

(NAPS) In many cases, the best way to protect the home is through caution and common sense.

Kwikset has teamed up with nationally syndicated columnists and radio talk show hosts The Carey brothers to offer tips for keeping family and property safe:

1. Going out of town?: Give neighbors a house key to check the home. Another idea: Install a Kwikset Powerbolt® and provide a temporary code for neighbors to use. Powerbolt provides the convenience of keyless access, operates on just four AA batteries and permits access with a personalized code or a key.

2. Parking outside? Don't keep a home address on anything found within a car. Also, never give house keys to a valet service, just the ignition key.

4. Been living in the same house for over five years? "You might consider changing the locks," said Morris Carey. "After this long you begin to forget about the number of different people that had access to your home." Closely inspect deadbolts every six months for tampering and excess wear. Replace outdoor locks with Grade-One deadbolts or new locks to ensure the best security possible.

5. Traveling? Don't put a home address on luggage tags. Put the office address or just list a cell phone number.

6. Coming home late? Have keys ready so as to not be fumbling for them at the door. Another solution is to install a Kwikset Powerbolt to not worry about keys at all.

7. Taking a trip? Leave a car parked in the driveway. Better yet, ask a neighbor to park in the driveway to give the appearance that someone is coming and going regularly.

8. Hectic schedule? Don't give specific schedule information on outgoing voicemail or on automated "out-of-office" email replies. Offer a cell or alternate number on the message instead.

9. Is every door secure? Keep the door from the garage into the house locked even if the main garage door is closed. It can be helpful to install and use deadbolt locks on exterior doors leading into the garage as well as entry doors leading into the house.

10. Have an easily accessible backyard? Install a secure fence to prevent someone from gaining access to the home through the back door. James Carey suggests planting hearty and fast-growing bushes. "This will give your home an extra barrier of protection around the perimeter of the property."

For a detailed home security analysis, contact a bonded locksmith. Visit www.kwikset.com for additional safety tips.

OFFICER JAMES 'JAMIE' COCHRANE

A Night To Remember Officer Jamie Cochrane

By OFFICER BILL WARD and LT. DAN MINTON

On Sept. 10, Quincy Police Officer James "Jamie" Cochrane lost his life due to injuries in a motorcycle accident.

All members of the Quincy Police Department are still mourning over the loss of our friend and brother office.

Jamie worked most of his career as a member in the Motorcycle Unit of the Special Operations Division. He was an extremely hard working police officer who handled every assignment with true professionalism. Jamie received many commendations and citations from citizens and supervisors alike.

Friends and neighbors remember "Jamie" as a "great man," "a man who always put other people's needs in front of his own." His huge smile and infectious laugh brightened so many people's days.

Jamie had the ability to adapt to any situation, whether it be cradling an injured person in his arms or leading other officers through doors to arrest wanted felons. He was a person to emulate.

Most importantly, Jamie was a great husband – he loved his wife Maria dearly; often recounting stories of the great times they had together. Our thoughts and prayers are with you, Maria.

His passing has not only left a void in the police department, but the community as well.

Members of the Quincy Police Department invite the public to "A Night to Remember Jamie Cochrane." This event will be held Friday, Oct. 27 at 7 p.m. at the IBEW Local 103 Hall, located at 256 Freeport St., Dorchester.

Tickets are $25 and may be purchased at the door. We hope to see you there!

All other donations can be made to "Friends of Maria Cochrane," P.O. Box 690268, Quincy, MA 02269-0268.

Presidents No Match For Marshfield

QB MATT BOYLE is taken down for a sack during the first quarter of play versus Marshfield High School. The Rams held the Presidents to 40 total yards of offense through three quarters of play last Friday night. Quincy Sun Photos/Robert Noble

By SEAN BRENNAN

For the second time in as many weeks, a Quincy high school football team opened their school's home schedule at the renovated Veterans' Memorial Stadium with a dud.

Last week, it was North Quincy who was on the wrong end of a lopsided loss (a 40-16 defeat to Plymouth North) to an Atlantic Coast League powerhouse, and last Friday night it was Quincy High School's turn.

The Presidents (1-4, 0-4) were looking for the city's first win at the new field, but the Rams of Marshfield High School (5-1, 4-1) had their own ideas. Marshfield, a serious contender for a post-season Super Bowl berth, scored early and with relative ease against the Presidents. The Rams found the endzone on four of their first six possessions, and held a commanding 20-0 halftime lead.

The Rams defense held Quincy's first-team spread formation offense to a paltry 40 yards of total offense through the first three quarters. The Rams' defensive line continually pressured quarterback Matt Boyle (4-12, 27 yards) into hurried throws and their relentless pressure forced two critical Quincy turnovers in the first half.

Marshfield came out of the gates firing on all cylinders, and used a 12 play drive to make the score 7-0 with 3:54 left in the first quarter. The Rams, behind a huge offensive line, wore down the Presidents on the drive with 11 running plays, with the biggest play being a 33-yard pass from quarterback Kurt Leone (5-7, 117 yards) to Jerome Freed that put the ball on the Presidents' 8-yard line. Three plays later Wendall Chipman (11 carries, 58 yards) scored from one yard out.

On the Rams next possession, the Presidents fired up their bench and the small home crowd when the defense forced Leone to fumble the ball at the Quincy 17 yard line, but Boyle and the offense could do nothing with the turnover (three plays, minus 15-yards). With Tom Hazelhurst punting from the back of his own endzone, Marshfield got the ball back with great field position at the Quincy 28-yard line. One play later the score was 14-0. Leone took the snap, rolled to his right and found a receiver open in the back of the endzone for the backbreaking score.

Quincy could not find a way to stop the Rams' running game all night long (Marshfield had over 100-yards on the ground), and with Leone dropping back to throw seven times all game, Marshfield ate up the game clock on the ground from beginning to end.

"We gave up too many big plays tonight," Quincy head coach Bob Noble said. "How many third downs did they convert? Quite a few. We had them and we let them off the hook."

Marshfield would score one more time before the half on a 23-yard pass from Leone to senior Steven Good, to take the 20-0 lead.

Quincy's Jared Tucker took the opening kickoff of the second half up to the 34-yard line, and the Presidents got a first down run from junior Diego Arredondo before punting the ball back to Marshfield. The Rams' Chipman scored from 2 yards out at 4:50 of the third quarter to make the score, 27-0. Marshfield's Philip Whitaker finished the scoring in the fourth quarter on a 4-yard touchdown run.

The Presidents replaced their first team offense midway through the final quarter, and the second team added a spark on a cold Friday night. Sophomore quarterback Mark Gilbody and sophomore wide receiver Sean Gray each contributed positive plays during a late drive. The final play of the game, a Gilbody sack, summed up the entire night for the Presidents. The Rams dominated from start to finish and Quincy was left wondering what hit them.

Quincy did receive solid play from a number of players including senior captain Camillo Arredondo (6 tackles, two solid kick returns), senior captain Charlie McGee (all over the field on defense), sophomores Aldo Villena and Louis Jean-Evens and senior Mark Cugini.

The Presidents will have the opportunity to earn some much-needed wins at Veterans' Memorial Stadium over the next month as they host Dennis-Yarmouth this Saturday at 5 p.m. before going back on the road on Oct. 27 to play Nauset. Quincy will finish their 2006 schedule with three home games against Plymouth South (11/4), Sandwich (11/10) and North Quincy (11/23).

Men's Drop-In Basketball Program Begins Oct. 30

Barry J. Welch, Director of Recreation, announces the Quincy Recreation Department will supervise a Men's Drop-In Basketball Program at the Atlantic Middle School gymnasium on Monday evenings.

The program, which begins Monday, Oct. 30, runs from 6-8 p.m. each Monday, throughout the winter with the exception of Monday holidays. Each week pick-up teams are formed from those who are in attendance and games are played.

There is a $5.00 fee payable each week at the door. New participants are always welcome.

Locker room facilities are available and the activities are supervised by Quincy Recreation staff.

The school is located on Hollis Ave. in North Quincy and the gym is at the rear of the parking lot.

Raiders Fall To D-Y, 17-14

The Red Raiders football team took to the road this past weekend in search of their first win of the season, North Quincy came close, but ultimately fell to Dennis-Yarmouth High School, 17-14, in Atlantic Coast League play.

North Quincy (0-6, 0-4), coming off a 40-16 loss to Plymouth North High School, played with more intensity on offense and defense against Dennis-Yarmouth, but the final score did not go in their favor.

Red Raider senior quarterback Shaun McBrien threw two touchdown passes in defeat. McBrien found junior Dennis Martin early in the game to put North Quincy on the scoreboard. Senior placekicker Dave Guerrero successfully connected on the point after attempt.

Later in the game, McBrien hooked up with senior Adam Tragellis for a touchdown strike. Guerrero's extra point finished the scoring for the Red Raiders.

The schedule does not get any easier for North Quincy in the coming weeks as the team will host Nauset High School this Friday night (7 p.m.) at Veterans' Memorial Stadium, and in two weeks travels down to Marshfield to take on the league-leading Rams.

The Red Raiders final three games of the season include a home game against Whitman-Hanson (11/3), an away game versus Plymouth South (11/10), and the annual Thanksgiving Day game against Quincy on Nov. 23rd.

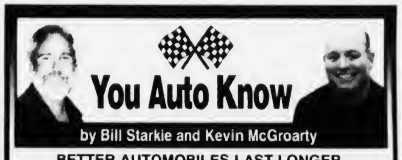
Quincy-North Quincy Football Hall Of Fame Annual Meeting Oct. 21 At Sons Of Italy

The Quincy/North Quincy Football Hall of Fame's annual fall meeting will take place on Tuesday, Oct. 24 at the Quincy Sons of Italy at 7 p.m.

The agenda at the meeting will include the announcement of new inductees, advanced ticket sales for the upcoming banquet ($30) and nominations and elections of 2006 Officers.

On Tuesday, Nov. 21, the Quincy/North Quincy Football Hall of Fame Banquet will be held at the Quincy Sons of Italy. The event will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Donations, advertisements for the Ad Book, and sponsorship funds ($30) are needed and welcomed. Checks can be made payable to: Q/NQ Football Hall of Fame, 22 Gramplan Way, Weymouth, MA 02188.



BETTER AUTOMOBILES LAST LONGER

It used to be that the benchmark for a car's longevity stood at 100,000 miles. Today, this odometer reading is commonly being exceeded, which gives an indication of how advanced technology, improved engines, and synthetic oils have exerted a healthy influence. According to a report recently released by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the typical passenger car now readily surpasses 150,000 miles, at the same time that most pick-up trucks, sport utility vehicles, and vans are surpassing 180,000 miles. Only ten years ago, most passenger cars were breaking the 125,000-mile mark while light trucks typically reached the 150,000-mile barrier. Of course, all the technical improvements in the world will not overcome poor maintenance. Adhere to the owner's manual recommendations.

Although initial quality is a huge factor in longevity of your vehicle, proper maintenance is the true key to longevity. Raiders Need A Point For Tournament Berth

GIRLS' SOCCER

By SEAN BRENNAN

With only two Atlantic Coast League games left on their schedule, the Red Raiders' girls soccer team needs just one point to qualify for the Division I South Sectional Tournament for the tenth straight year.

North Quincy (8-5-1) will make the trip down to Dennis-Yarmouth on Friday, and will finish their 2006 regular season next Tuesday (5 p.m.) at Veterans' Memorial Stadium versus Quincy. The Red Raiders beat the Presidents in the two teams first match, 4-0.

On Monday (10/16), North Quincy earned some revenge on ACL foe Plymouth North. Having already lost to the Blue Eagles earlier in the season, 2-1, the Red Raiders overcame an early 1-0 halftime deficit with a dominating second half performance, and won a critical league game, 2-1.

The game did not start off the way the Red Raiders would have hoped, as Plymouth North came out early and controlled the pace of the game. The Blue Eagles were rewarded for their tenacity five minutes into the game on an own goal by North. An Eagles' corner kick deflected off of two Red Raider defenders and rolled into the net, and if not for the stellar play in goal from Siobhan Carnell, North Quincy may well have been down by three goals at the half.

North, sensing the game may be slipping away, came out with a vengeance and took over the game in the second half. With Emily Milone, Jillian Benn and Keriann Cabral controlling play at the midfield, and midfielder Bridget Coleman effectively shutting down Eagles' star Shana Follette, the Red Raiders upped their pressure. After head coach Paul Bregoli made a tactical change (moving Coleman to forward and defender Kerry Coughlin to outside back), North found the equalizer.

A Coleman feed to Lauren Stille led to a Stille cross to a streaking Cabral who buried the pass from the 18-yard mark for the tying goal. The score was Cabral's first career goal. Tied at 1-1 with 15 minutes left, Stille came through again with a beautiful cross to senior captain Megan Therrien. Therrien wasted no time in finding the back of the net for her fourth goal of the year. The Red Raiders completely dominated the final minutes and came away with an impressive and important win, 2-1.

Amy Carchedi, Brittany Folkins, Paige Bonanni, Tara Whooley, Kerry Coughlin and Melissa Mendall all played solid games for the Red Raiders.

On Columbus Day, North Quincy dispatched of Plymouth South, 4-0. Scoring goals for the Red Raiders were Mary Kate Stille (2 goals, 3rd leading scorer in the ACL), Emily Milone (1 goal, 1 assist), and senior midfielder Natalie Djerf (1st career varsity goal). North got good performances defensively from Tara Whooley, Ali Russell and Danielle Kelly while sophomore Siobhan Carnell recorded her third shutout of the year.

Milone's assist was historic as she is now the all-time assists leader for the North Quincy program. Milone has also moved into third place in scoring as well.

A 4-0 loss to Marshfield High School on 10/12 spoiled an otherwise successful week for the Red Raiders, but the team can still qualify for the post-season with either a tie or win over their next two games, and once the post-season starts, anything is possible.

Woodward Week: 1-2

The Woodward School for Girls' varsity soccer team finished with a 1-2 record in three games last week. The Wildcats played Brimmer & May, The Waring School and Gann Academy.

On Oct. 5th. Woodward defeated Brimmer & May, 6-1. Jasmin Johansen and Deide McGarth each had two goals in the win. Tatianna Rosado (one goal) and Michele Norton (1 goal, 3 assists) completed the scoring for the Wildcats.

On Oct. 6th, the Wildcats fell to The Waring School, 7-2. Rosado scored both of the Wildcats' goals in the loss. Woodward goalkeeper Mary Harris, of Quincy, recorded 10 saves in the loss.

Against Gann Academy on Oct. 10th, Woodward fell in defeat, 4-0.

North Quincy Shuts Out Plymouth North

GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL

The North Quincy girls volleyball team continues to steamroll all challengers in Atlantic Coast League play this season. The Red Raiders defeated Plymouth North High School last Friday, three games to none.

North Quincy, a perfect 10-0 in league play, 12-3 overall, was led by senior captain Maria Della Croce's five aces. The visiting Red Raiders won in straight games, 25-13, 25-10, 25-19.

North Quincy heads to the road this week for two out-of-conference games against Arlington Catholic (Monday) and Boston Latin (Tuesday) and the team visits Dennis-Yarmouth on Friday in ACL play.

Quincy Defeats W-H; Improves League Mark To 8-1

The girls volleyball team at Quincy High School is rolling right along in Atlantic Coast League play. After the Presidents' win against Whitman-Hanson last Friday, their league record now stands at 8-1. The team's overall record is 8-6.

Against the Panthers, the player of the match for Quincy was junior Alicia Woodberry. Woodberry tallied 18 assists, six digs and two kills to help led her team to a three games to none win. The final scores for all three games were 25-14, 25-19 and 25-19.

Other team members making positive contributions for Quincy were junior Liz Bock (14 kills) and Marybeth Torpey (5 kills and 2 aces).

The Presidents, who play three league games this week against Dennis-Yarmouth (Monday), Marshfield (Wed.) and Falmouth (Friday), will play their much-anticipated rematch against North Quincy on October 25th. Quincy fell to the Red Raiders in a close match two weeks ago.

Dolbec, Griffin Lead Red Raiders Past Presidents

GOLF

Last Thursday at Presidents Golf Course, the Red Raiders of North Quincy High School teed-up against the Presidents of Quincy High School in an Atlantic Coast League showdown.

North Quincy (13-2, 7-0) defeated Quincy (2-13) by a score of 233-261. Seniors Peter Dolbec and Mikey Griffin each shot a 1-over 35 (through nine holes) to help pace the Red Raiders.

Also playing for North, were fellow seniors Jon Drooks and Rob McAloon. Both Drooks and McAloon shot a 5-over 39 for the day.

The Presidents, playing their last match of the year, received impressive performances from juniors Kevin Shea and Ricky Salvucci. Shea shot a 4-over 38, while Salvucci finished with 7-over 41.

The Red Raiders have qualified for the South Sectional post-season tournament.

Quincy Youth Hockey, Arena To Host Gala Event Nov. 4

Quincy Youth Hockey and the Quincy Youth Arena will host a gala event on Saturday, Nov. 4 at the Sons of Italy Hall on Quarry St. in Quincy from 7-11 p.m. to thank and recognize all who have contributed to Quincy Youth Hockey's 40 years of success.

The genesis of Quincy Youth Hockey began forty years ago when an ad was placed in the newspaper inviting youngsters to come and participate in a hockey program at the Ridge Arena in Braintree. Forty-two kids answered that advertisement and the program was off and running. The organization was formed in 1967.

The Quincy Youth Arena, which was built in 1973, would not have been completed if not for the 100 families who put up $100 apiece for start-up funds and all of the other residents who donated their expertise that helped in the building of the arena.

Quincy Youth Hockey is hosting this gala as a way to thank those first founders and all who have walked through their doors and donated their time as coaches, players, directors, bingo workers, fundraising committee members, referees, scorers, players and parents. The gala will be a chance for the extended hockey family to come and reminisce.

The ticket price is $25 and includes music and hors d'ouvres. For more information call Michelle Stenberg at 617-479-8371 or Doreen Hayes Hayward at 617-472-5896.

Presidents Basketball Tryouts Nov. 2, 9 At Broad Meadows

The Presidents Travel Basketball Program will begin the season with open gym time for prospective players and parents to meet coaches and prepare for tryouts.

Boys in the 5th-8th grade are welcome to participate while coaches run through two nights of drills and scrimmages. Sessions will be held at the Quincy High School Voc-Tech Gym Thursday Oct. 19 and Oct. 26 from 7-9 pm. There will be $5 fee per session for open gym nights.

Tryouts are scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 2 and Thursday, Nov. 9 at the Broad Meadows Middle School from 7-9 pm. (There is no fee for try-outs.)

Call Andy Myers (617-471-7920) for more information.

Additional information on the South Shore Youth Basketball League will be distributed at the gym sessions and try-outs.

The 2006-2007 Coaching Staff is Bob "Moose" Cochrane (5th grade), Parker Scott (6th grade), Mat[illegible] Rampoini (7th grade), [illegible] Andy Myers (8th grade).

North Quincy Nipped By Plymouth South, 2-1

BOYS' SOCCER

Playing a tough league opponent in Plymouth South, the Red Raiders of North Quincy fell, 2-1, in a hard-fought Atlantic Coast League boys' soccer game last week.

North Quincy (2-9-1,1-7) trailed 1-0 with 15 minutes left in the contest, but the Red Raiders' top goal scorer, Shane Regan, tallied a goal late in the second half to even the score at 1-1.

Plymouth South would later go on to score the winning goal late in the second-half and hung on to secure the victory, but the hard work and toughness that his team showed did not go unnoticed by North Quincy head coach Rich Hanlon.

"The team played a strong game against Plymouth South," Hanlon said. "Shane Regan continues to show why he is our team's top goal scorer. We played them tough, but just couldn't get that tying goal."

The Red Raiders hosted Marshfield High School at Teal Field last Thursday and lost to a very good Rams team, 6-1. Shane Regan scored the Red Raiders' lone goal and North Quincy could not prevent Marshfield from clinching at least a share of the Atlantic Coast League regular season title in their first year as a member.

The Red Raiders are scheduled to play Sandwich High School (Wed.) and Dennis-Yarmouth High School (Friday/Teal Field) this week in ACL play.

Plymouth North Blanks Presidents

The Quincy boys' soccer team lost last week to the Blue Eagles of Plymouth North in Atlantic Coast League play.

The Presidents played well against Plymouth North High School, but could not find the back of the net, and were shutout 2-0. Blue Eagles goalkeeper Matt Bruninghaus made four saves to earn the shutout.

The Presidents will look to get back on track this week when they play three league games against Whitman-Hanson (Monday), Marshfield (Wed.) and Falmouth (Friday).

Quincy and North Quincy will finally meet later this month (10/24 &10/27) after numerous cancellations of previously scheduled games. Both games will begin at 7 p.m. and both games will be played at Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

James Fitzroy Chairs Golf Professionals Meeting

James R. Fitzroy, superintendent and director of Norfolk County's Presidents Golf Course in Quincy and Milton, recently chaired the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America (GCSAA) Government Relations Committee in Washington, DC.

The committee, comprised of nine golf course superintendents from seven different states, convened at the offices of Reed Smith Shaw & McClay LLP, the GCSAA's legislative representatives.

Fitzroy, a member of the GCSAA's Board of Directors, met with staff from Senators Edward M. Kennedy and John F. Kerry to discuss issues affecting the golf course industry.

"I'm pleased Senators Kennedy and Kerry provided a forum for beginning a dialogue regarding our industry," Fitzroy said. "Golf has a huge impact on the Massachusetts economy; it employs over 28,000 full and part time workers and has a $2.5B net sales business for the Commonwealth."

JAMES FITZROY

Priority issues for the GCSAA include:

- Making golf accessible to all persons by promoting policies and practices that consider the needs and safety of all golfers
- Environmentally responsible golf course siting and construction
- Use of reclaimed or effluent water for golf course irrigation when the water quality is suitable for plant growth
- Comprehensive immigration reform that includes guest worker provisions and is not limited to border security.

"Our association has 21,000 members dedicated to making golf more enjoyable to those who play the game. But more importantly, we are committed to sound environmental practices and making the game and those who are employed in the industry inclusive," Fitzroy said.

The GCSAA is the professional association for the men and women who manage and maintain golf facilities in the United States. Headquartered in Lawrence, KS, the association provides education, information, and representation to more than 21,000 individual members.

Fitzroy, a member of Board of Directors of the GCSAA since 2005, has been Superintendent of Presidents Golf Course since 1975 and served as president of the Golf Course Superintendents Association of New England.

Presidents Golf Course is located at 357 West Squantum St. in Quincy. For more information, call Presidents at 617-328-3444.

FALL CAR CARE

Winterize Vehicles Before Winter Starts

Autumn is here, which means cold, sleet and snow are not far behind for much of the country. Those who live in a climate that experience harsh winter weather conditions are advised by the Better Business Bureau (BBB) to start winterizing their car before driving conditions get dicey.

"No one has a crystal ball to predict exactly when the first snowfall or sub-zero temperatures will arrive," said Paula Fleming, vice president of communications and marketing for BBB. "We urge car owners to take steps now to help ensure that their vehicles will run smoothly and not put family members at risk this winter.

Fleming said that proper car maintenance also benefits the family's budget. "Installing a clean air filter and driving on properly inflated tires, for example, can improve your car's gas efficiency. That is going to save you money at the pump."

To help the family vehicle make it through winter's worst, BBB recommends the following protective measures:

- Read the owner's manual to make sure a vehicle is up-to-date on recommended maintenance.
- The car battery should be in top condition as it takes more power to start a car when it's cold outside. Check to make sure the cables are clean of corrosion and dirt, and the connections are tight.
- Make sure the cooling system is working efficiently. Flush and refill the radiator and add anti-freeze if necessary.
- Be sure tires, including the spare, are in good condition and properly inflated. Thin or uneven tread wear can be very dangerous in winter weather. Also check brakes and brake fluid level.
- Change oil and the oil filter. Check the owner's manual for different grades of oil that are recommended for winter. Maintaining a full tank of gas and adding a deicer to the fuel can help keep moisture from forming.
- Have a professional inspect and replace the air filter, rubber hoses and drive belts. Old, damaged or loose hoses and belts can pose a danger in severe weather conditions.
- Inspect headlights and flasher hazard lights and check wipers and washers to make sure they are in good working order. Fill washers with windshield washer fluid that is appropriate for cold weather. Consider switching to winter wiper blades, which function well under extremely cold and snowy conditions.
- Be sure the heater, defroster and exhaust system are working properly. Make prompt repairs if needed.
- Equip each family vehicle with winter safety supplies, including an ice scraper, spare bottle of washer fluid, battery jumper cables, warm clothing, first aid supplies, traction and bottled water and high-energy snack bars. Encourage family drivers to always travel with their cell phone.

Unless a service pro, it's best to engage the services of a reputable auto repair shop to perform these procedures.

"Ask friends and family for recommendations and check with BBB at www.bosbb.org about the shop's reliability," said Fleming. "You should also look for auto repair facilities that display certification, like an Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) Seal."

ASE certifies the competency of auto technicians through a series of standardized exams in different specialties, brakes, transmissions, engine repair, etc.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

FROM START TO FITNESS

by Andrea Wyatt M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

Recycled Exercises?

Q. I have exercised for most of my life, and at the age of 55 I continue to work out three to four days a week. It seems that many of exercises today are the same as the ones done years ago, such as lunges, squats, etc. If many of these exercises are the same, then why do we see so many "new" workout trends in magazines and television? Are they really "new" workouts, or just recycled fitness?

A. The fitness industry has evolved over the past 30 years from aerobic classes, to gyms equipped with weight-training machines, to at-home fitness with its own equipment and DVDs. Today you may see many of the same exercises that were performed in years past, but with a new twist and hopefully a safe technique that helps to promote great results.

Exercises such as lunges and squats are classic exercises that have been researched and modified over the years. Techniques taught 15-20 years ago are changing as research discovers safe and more effective uses of these exercises to maximize results. Of course, you will find misuses of these exercises too, as not every "new" fitness trend has the exerciser's best interest in mind.

You may have heard the expression, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it," and this can also apply to many exercises. Although research is more thorough in the fitness industry today and technology has provided a society where exercise can be done virtually anywhere, there are many types of workouts that are still effective today. The basic push-up, lunges, squats, pull-ups, medicine ball training and interval training are all a part of Fitness 101 and continue to be used today with great effectiveness.

What IS different today are the people who take part in exercise programs. In the past, organized exercise was not the only form of exercise most people completed weekly. Today there are many people who only exercise in the gym or as part of an organized exercise program (i.e., gym workouts, DVDs at home, etc.), if at all.

Today's adults and children live more sedentary lives, leading to the development of many creative programs to spark the interest of the non-exercisers. In the past the challenge was to encourage people to try something new, and today, unfortunately, the plea is to get people to exercise as a matter of life and death.

Although there are many exercises that seem to be recycled, there are many exercises and exercise techniques that are new and offer great benefits, such as cardiovascular training, different methods of strength training and the importance of flexibility and core stability.

A blend of old and new is the best way to continue to develop safe and effective exercise programs, no matter what the year.

If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at letters.kfws@hearstsc.com or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

WATCH WHAT YOU DRINK, SPORT!

If you exercise regularly and drink energy drinks and citrus-flavored sports beverages, you may be compromising the health of your tooth enamel. While citrus juices and colas are known to contain acids that eat away at tooth enamel, sports enthusiasts may not be aware that energy drinks and sports beverages contain other organic acids that can accelerate the damage sustained by enamel. According to a recent study, the most damage is done to teeth by lemonade, followed by energy drinks, sports drinks, fitness water (which often contains citrus flavors), iced tea, and color. Ideally, dentists would like to see everyone drink water when he or she is thirsty. Short of that, try drinking other beverages through a straw.

It has long been known that good nutrition and a well-balanced diet is one of the best defenses for your oral health. Providing your body with the right amounts of vitamins and minerals helps your teeth and gums – as well as your immune system – stay strong and ward off infection, decay and disease. We provide quality dental care in a warm and caring environment to all family members. Call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. Your oral health requirements, from restorative to cosmetic considerations, will be met with the latest available technology by our caring staff. Our office is located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

EMPLOYEES, FRIENDS and family members of Quincy Credit Union recently participated in the Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk for the Marie Curry Fund. The walk, which began in 1998, raises funds to provide free cancer screening for uninsured and underinsured men and women. The event, which featured other local business, as well as cancer survivors and their families, raised $130,000 which will enable QMC to provide high quality cancer screenings and services. Quincy Credit Union was established in 1937 and offers membership to persons who live or work in Norfolk, Plymouth Counties, Dorchester, and any family member.

Delahunt's Office To Host Workshop Friday At Crane Library

Forum On Medicare 'Doughnut-Hole

The office of Congressman Bill Delahunt will sponsor forums this fall to help area seniors get tips on how to cope with gaps in coverage under the new Medicare Prescription Drug "Part D" program.

The workshop will be held Friday, Oct. 20 from 10:30 to noon at the Thomas Crane Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

According to a recent report released by the House Ways and Means Committee, it is estimated that over 140,000 seniors and disabled workers in Massachusetts, roughly 90% of newly enrolled Medicare Part D beneficiaries, are at risk of forcing a gap in their coverage that has been dubbed the "doughnut hole."

"The doughnut hole could not come at a worse time for our seniors. With winter coming and energy and prescription drug costs on the rise, far too many seniors may end up going without important life saving medicines. That is wrong." said Delahunt, an outspoken critic of the new Medicare Part D program.

The forum is designed to help seniors who now face a gap in their coverage and need help understanding their options in addressing the problem. In attendance will be representatives from SHINE (Serving the Health Information Needs of Elders), a federal-state program to help seniors understand their health insurance options. Counselors will be available to provide assistance in filling out applications for the state's program at the Oct. 20 forum.

In the past, Delahunt has encouraged seniors to sign up for the state's Prescription Advantage Program which works together with the Medicare Part D plan and offers a variety of benefits including coverage through the Part D "doughnut hole". Open enrollment for Prescription Advantage ends November 15, 2006. Enrollment for new participants to Medicare Part D begins on November 15, 2006 and ends December 31, 2006. Seniors who are currently enrolled in a Part D plan may use this enrollment period to switch to a different plan should they choose.

Under Medicare guidelines, a beneficiary falls into the "doughnut hole" and becomes responsible for the total costs of all medications once they have reached the initial coverage limit of $2250. This coverage limit is arrived at by taking into consideration the full cost of the drugs, not just the beneficiary's out-of pocket cost-sharing. For example, if a drug costs $150 and the beneficiary's co-payment is $40, the full $150 counts towards the initial coverage limit. Beneficiaries continue to pay premiums without any drug coverage for the next $2850 in drug costs.

Anyone unable to attend the information sessions may visit www.house.gov/delahunt for answers to common questions about the new prescription drug benefit. Seniors can also call Rep. Delahunt's office toll-free at 800-794-9911 (South Shore) or 800-870-2626 (Cape & Islands) for more information.

Manet Community Health Center Hosts Diabetes Support Group

Manet Community Health Center hosts a monthly diabetes support group the last Wednesday of each month from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. at 110 West Squantum St., North Quincy.

The group meets to provide an opportunity for people with diabetes to learn from each other and to receive support for the many challenges that diabetes can generate. Manet hosts the meetings in response to requests from those who completed diabetes education classes.

Discussions center on issues that are affecting participants in their daily lives while peers offer support and encouragement to take steps toward improving overall health.

The group is hosted by a member of Manet's Clinical Support Team who can answer questions.

Participants do not have to be a patient at Manet to attend. Friends and family members are also welcome.

Registration is not required and the meetings are free.

The dates through the end of the year are Oct., Nov. 29 and Dec. 27.

For more information, contact Denise at 857-403-0800.

ANTI-COMMUNISTS. Veterans hold flag and sign outside offices of Chinese United Association in Wollaston. Left to right, Vernon Williams of Holbrook, American Legion Post 294; Ed Melia of Quincy, Korean War veteran; Ross Breen of Braintree, Vietnam veteran. Their sign says, 'Jimmy, this is the dialogue. No commie flags in Quincy," a reference to former CUA spokesman Jimmy Liang. Quincy Sun Photos/Robert Noble

CHINESE PROTESTER Kevin Peng and his wife came all the way from Manchester, N.H., to demonstrate their displeasure with the particular Chinese flag that has flown over the Chinese United Association office in Wollaston. The English word in their sign read, 'China's New Era Begins When Communist Party Ends.'

First Neighborhood Code Enforcement Officer

(Cont'd From Page 1)

First' surveys returned by Quincy citizens," Phelan said. "They should know that we have listened to their concerns and will continue to work with our residents to improve our neighborhoods. It is my hope that the Neighborhood Code Enforcement Officer helps residents address those nagging issues that detract from the quality of life in our city. With support from various departments, I am confident that it can be done."

Mayor's Commission On Women To Host 'Ladies Night Out'

The Mayor's Commission on Women is hosting a 'Ladies' Night Out' Sunday, Oct. 22, from 5 to 9 p.m. at the Eugene Thomas Salon, 11 Revere Rd., Quincy.

Lauren Jiggets, WLVI Ch.56 news reporter, will emcee a fashion show featuring apparel from TJMaxx. Other specialty services will be featured at the event dedicated to help women look good and feel good at the same time.

Stylists from the Thomas salon will be available for consultation on cuts and color processing, skin and nail care, makeup application and product recommendations. A certified, licensed massage therapist will also be on hand to demonstrate relaxation techniques for a total body and mind experience.

The first 25 guests will receive an express Tarot card reading. In addition, each guest will receive a ticket for a grand prize drawing of $150 worth of hair services at the salon. The winner will be announced at the end of the evening.

Tickets may be reserved or purchased at the door for $25. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Germantown Neighborhood Center for their upcoming annual "Holiday Fund" which helps Quincy families in need during the holiday season. Light refreshments will be served.

To reserve tickets, or for more information, call 617-786-8523.

Marina Bay Gains Five Studio Apartments

Marina Bay, 7 Seaport Dr., was given the green light by the Special Permit Granting Authority of the City Council Monday night to create five new studio apartments within the building.

The proposal, by Core Investments, includes relocating the fitness center, reducing the size of the common social room, and eliminating excess parking spaces in the parking garage.

The public hearing yielded no written or spoken opposition or support.

The Planning Board recommended approval of the amended proposal at a meeting Sept. 11, if exterior improvement conditions were met.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

People make various provisions in their wills. As well all know, a will involves arrangements for giving, while living. Cash, property, commendations, awards, wardrobes, etc. are all left behind when the time comes. In one way or another such things are left behind to serve others. This sort of thinking prompts this question: "What is one of the greatest gifts you can leave to others?"

An unknown author answers the question rather nicely... Read it..."If I can leave behind me, here and there... A friend or two to say when I am gone... That I had helped to make their pathways fair... Had brought them smiles when they were bowed with care... The riches of this world I'll carry on... If only three or four shall pause to say... When I have passed beyond this earthly sphere... That I brought gladness to them on a day when bitterness was theirs... I'll take away more riches than a billionaire leaves here"...

OBITUARIES

Virginia McCarthy, 85

Virginia's Day Care Owner

A memorial service for Virginia (Burke) McCarthy, 85, of Plainville, formerly of Quincy, owner of Virginia's Day Care in Wollaston, was held Oct. 14 at Hamel, Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

She died Oct. 10 at home.

Mrs. McCarthy owned the day care for 35 years.

After she retired, she enjoyed walking through the Public Gardens in Boston and the North End.

VIRGINIA McCARTHY

Wife of the late John P. McCarthy, she is survived by a daughter, Mildred Prue of Plainville; three sons, Jay McCarthy of Plainville, Joseph McCarthy of Ohio and Tom McCarthy of Attleboro; a sister; seven grandchildren and two great-granddaughters.

Burial was private.

Mary J. Coughlin, 85

Retired Account Clerk

A funeral Mass for Mary J. (Morrison) Coughlin, 85, of Quincy, a retired account clerk, was celebrated Tuesday at St. Brendan Church in Dorchester.

Mrs. Coughlin died Oct. 14 at home in Quincy.

She retired from the Mattapan Chronic Disease Hospital in the late 1970s after 10 years. She previously worked for the City of Boston's Auditing Department for 11 years throughout the 1950s.

Born in New York City, she was raised in Boston and graduated from the Boston Business School.

She lived in Quincy for 11 years.

She is survived by her husband, Daniel E. Coughlin; two sons, Dennis Coughlin of Dorchester and John Coughlin of Jacksonville, Fla.; three daughters, Mary E. Caiani and Brenda Coughlin, both of Quincy, and Judith Curley of Dorchester; three grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Dorchester.

Funeral arrangements were made by Alfred D. Thomas Funeral Home, Milton.

Helen I. Carbonneau, 54

Nurse's Aide

A funeral service for Helen I. (Ross) Carbonneau, 54, of Quincy, a nurse's aide, was conducted Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Mrs. Carbonneau died Sunday at her home after a brief illness.

Born in Chelsea, she was raised and educated in Boston. She lived most of her life in Dorchester before moving to Quincy 15 years ago.

She is survived by a daughter, Lisa M. Ross of Quincy; a sister, Anna Hogrell of Raynham; two brothers, Gawaine Ross of Marlboro and Kevin Ross of Plymouth; a grandchild; and many caregivers.

Interment was private.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Patricia A. Smart, 74

Former Switchboard Operator

A funeral Mass for Patricia A. (Kelley) Smart, 74, of Quincy, a former switchboard operator for the Quincy Police Department, will be celebrated Friday at 10 a.m. at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, 227 Sea St., Quincy.

Mrs. Smart died Sunday at Quincy Medical Center.

She worked for the police department from 1972 until her retirement in 1997.

Mrs. Smart was a member of the Houghs Neck American Legion Post Ladies Auxiliary.

Born and raised in Braintree, she lived in Quincy since 1964.

Wife of the late Richard L. Smart, she is survived by two sons, George A. Smart and Steven A. Smart, both of Quincy; a daughter, Susan Salmon of Quincy; a grandchild; and many nieces and nephews.

Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Carol A. Bondarick, 63

Bartender At Alfredo's Restaurant

A funeral service for Carol A. (Powers) Bondarick, 63, of Quincy, a bartender, was conducted Wednesday at 11 a.m. at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Mrs. Bondarick died Oct. 14 at Quincy Medical Center after a long illness.

Born in Boston, she was educated in Boston schools. She had lived in Quincy for the last 39 years.

She worked as a bartender for more than 25 years at Alfredo's Restaurant in Quincy.

Mrs. Bondarick enjoyed reading and spending time with her grandchildren.

Wife for 46 years of the late Paul R. Bondarick, she is survived by two daughters, Corrine A. DiNapoli of Quincy and Kerry Ann Grant of Quincy; a sister, Joan Sprague of Weymouth and a brother, Robert Powers of Abington; five grandchildren, two great-grandchildren and many nieces and nephews.

CAROL A. BONDARICK

She was also the mother of the late Michael L. Bondarick and the late Paul R. Bondarick, Jr.

Interment was in Saint Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Dana Farber Cancer Institute, 10 Brookline Place West, 6th Floor, Brookline, MA 02445.

Cian Joseph Crowley

A funeral Mass for Cian Joseph Crowley, seven months old, was celebrated Wednesday at 10 a.m. in St. Ann's Church, 757 Hancock St., Wollaston.

He died Oct. 13 after a brief illness.

He is survived by his parents, Jennifer (DeLee) and John Crowley of Quincy; maternal grandparents, Charles and Barbara DeLee of Hilton, N.Y.; paternal grandmother, Josephine Crowley of County Cork, Ireland; godparents, Ted Crowley and Sharon Maley; and many aunts, uncles and cousins.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Flooding Solution Seen Slow, Costly

By MIKAELA SLANEY

Tensions rose at Monday's City Council Ordinance Committee meeting, as Commissioner Steven O'Donnell warned of a slow recovery time, and a $50 to $70 million price tag to solve chronic flooding throughout the city.

Councillors took turns expressing concerns over the heavily-affected streets in their wards, as O'Donnell and Frank E. Occhipinti, senior engineer of Weston & Sampson Engineers, Inc., addressed the issues.

Weston & Sampson is conducting studies and cost estimates for the project. Occhipinti said that current cost estimates are four or five times as high as earlier estimates.

"I gave you a price, and there was a lot of disbelief in the price," said O'Donnell. That's why Mr. Occhipinti is here."

O'Donnell said the Department of Public Works is currently focusing on prop-

To Save Taxpayers Money

Energy Audit For Over 40 Municipal Buildings

The city will conduct an extensive energy audit of more than 40 municipal buildings which Mayor William Phelan says is a major effort to save hundreds of thousands of taxpayer dollars.

Honeywell, Inc. has been selected to conduct the audit and make recommendations on improving heating and electrical systems as well as inspecting the physical condition of the buildings.

The city will be taking advantage of a new state law that allows communities to make energy conservation and efficiency improvements with financing creating by savings in energy bills.

After a Request for Proposal process, the city's Energy Management Committee selected Honeywell, Inc.. Honeywell has recently completed a similar successful effort for Somerville.

"Not only will we be realizing significant financial benefits, but it's the right thing to do from an environmental standpoint as well," said Phelan. "We expect that the energy audits will recommend a number of efficiencies and improvements to our systems and our buildings; improvements that will save our taxpayers from paying much higher bills over time. This effort will have significant, positive, long-lasting financial impacts for our city."

Honeywell will audit heating bills, electricity bills, water conservation, and the condition of roofs, windows, and brick-work at all municipal buildings. Honeywell will then make recommendations to the City on how to capture savings through improvements to systems, infrastructure, and building repairs.

The Energy Management Review team consisted of Public Works Commissioner Steve O'Donnell, Assistant City Solicitor Robert Quinn, and Director of Building Construction and Maintenance J. Michael Ryan.

"There is much work to be done, but that is good news," said Ryan. "With the aging infrastructure that we have, primarily in our school buildings, it is obvious that this is an area that we can capture significant savings over time. An investment in studying our energy efficiencies is one that will pay significant dividends for years to come."

O'Donnell, noted: "The City could make significant improvements to heating systems and electrical systems that in some cases are 50-70 years old and would otherwise have to be replaced using hundreds of thousands of taxpayers' dollars. With our energy management program, we aim to improve conditions in our school

City Tackling Graffiti Problem

Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly expressed concerns over rampant graffiti to Commissioner Steven O'Donnell at Monday night's Ordinance Committee meeting.

Kelly said that he noticed graffiti throughout the city on mail boxes and buildings.

O'Donnell acknowledged the problem, and said that he has met with community police to address the issue. O'Donnell said that a neighborhood watch program and police are aware of the issue. "They have made a couple of arrests," he said.

O'Donnell said that graffiti is also found on schools, recreation yards, cemeteries, and street signs. "We replaced over 30 signs in Fennel Street for safety issues," he said.

O'Donnell said that a "graffiti truck" is travels city streets daily watching for vandalism.

Kelly said he was disappointed that tax dollars had to be used on something that is preventable. "This fellow could be working somewhere else instead of cleaning up after foolishness," he said.

'Make Winter Warmer'

Energy Efficiency Program Friday At Germantown Center

"Make Winter Warmer," a program on heat savings, will be 11 a.m. Friday, Oct. 27, at the Germantown Community Center, 333 Palmer St.

The program, sponsored by Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP), will teach how to save money on heating.

Participating advisors include:

- Energy Bucks fuel assistance and efficiency clients.
- Beth Ann Strollo, QCAP executive director.
- Ann Malley-Laneau, national grid manager.
- Matthew Dugan, KeySpan Energy Delivery residential energy efficiency programs manager.
- Tom Clasby, Quincy Council on Aging director.
- State Senator Michael W. Morrissey.
- State Representative Joseph R. Driscoll.
- Councillor John Keenan.

The program will feature on-site demonstrations on how to cut energy bills by up to 30 percent.

Massachusetts utilities partnered with local community action programs to create "Energy Bucks," designed to help income-eligible families in Massachusetts save on their energy bills by participating in fuel assistance, discount rates, and energy-efficiency programs.

QCAP operates the federally-funded Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) in Quincy, Milton, Braintree, and Weymouth, providing assistance with heating bills for low-income households. Last winter, QCAP served nearly 4,000 families through their fuel assistance program.

Energy Bucks is sponsored by National Grid, NSTAR Electric & Gas, Unitil, Western Massachusetts Electric Company, Bay State Gas, KeySpan Energy Delivery, Berkshire Gas and the Cape Light Compact in collaboration with the Massachusetts Association for Community Action (MASSCAP) and the Low-Income Energy Affordability network (LEAN).

To find out more about participating in Energy Bucks, residents can call QCAP at 617-479-8181 ext. 101 or log on to www.energybucks.com.

For more information call 617-933-5017.

House Explosion Questions Remain Unanswered

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi was searching for answers as an invitation to Fire Chief Timothy Pettinelli and state Fire Marshall Stephen D. Coan went unfulfilled at Monday night's Ordinance Committee meeting.

They were invited to update the public as to what measures are being taken to prevent future explosions like the one that claimed home of the Ramos-Donnelly family at Craig Avenue on June 28. Investigations so far point to a backup of gases in the basement.

Members of the Ramos-Donnelly family were present and visibly stirred at the meeting.

Raymondi said that he wanted Pettinelli and Marshall to attend the meeting and comfort neighbors of Craig Avenue that the explosion was a unique situation that would not be repeated.

"A house blows up and the fire chief just blows it off," said Raymondi. "This is the second time the fire chief ducked this City Council. The first time was unacceptable, and the second time is more than unacceptable."

Pettinelli was unavailable for comment.

The Ramos-Donnelly family is planning to have a pre-fabricated house delivered to the site in sections, and assembled where the old home stood. The family has plans to move into the new home by Jan. 1.

Insurance covered reconstruction of the house, but not the replacement of their belongings, and people are encouraged to donate. The Angela Ramos Donnelly Family Relief Fund is open at Century Bank, 651 Hancock St. for anyone wishing to make donations.

To have a donated item picked up call Dawn Smith at 781-849-9090, ext. 224.

'Make A Difference Day'

Mayor's Drive To Stock Food Pantries Saturday

If the holidays are a time for giving as well as receiving, then the season begins Saturday with the Mayor's fourth annual holiday drive to fill the city's food pantries for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

This year, the men and women who deliver the mail have joined Mayor William Phelan's small army of volunteers to pick up donations of non-perishable food around the city.

They're calling it "Make a Difference Day," a celebration of neighbors helping neighbors.

"The residents of Quincy have always responded to a call for help and I ask you for your help again this year," said Phelan.

"There are people in our community that depend on a helping hand from time to time and our local food pantries provide an invaluable service to our community."

Participation on the part of the community is simple:

Just leave your contributions of non-perishable food on your doorstep near the mailbox and they will be picked up by the mail man or woman on his or her regular deliveries of mail.

The suggested items include cranberry sauce, gravy, stuffing, pasta, spaghetti sauce, canned green beans, canned corn, rice, peanut butter and hamburger helper. Fresh produce and meats cannot be accepted.

"I want to thank the hard-working men of the Post Office who agree to this extra work to help those in need," said Phelan. "I appreciate all they do to contribute to the success of our efforts."

The mailmen conduct their own yearly food drive in May, with an assist from the city.

Saturday's donations will be taken to the Quincy Center, North Quincy and Wollaston Post Offices where they will be picked up by volunteers and taken to Koch Park & Recreation Complex at One Merrymount Parkway.

It is recommended that the volunteers use the Furnace Brook Parkway-Southern Artery route to the complex since Hancock Street will be crowded with cars and buses due to a band competition.

Volunteers are still needed between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m. Saturday to pick up the donations, sort and box them and distribute them to seven food pantries around the city.

Five major pantries include the Germantown Neighborhood Food Pantry, 5 Bicknell St.; QCAP Food Pantry, 328 Granite St.; Interfaith Social Services, 105 Adams St.; Quincy Crisis Center, 282 Billings Rd.; and the Salvation Army, 6 Baxter St.

"With increased costs for heating, food, prescriptions and other daily necessities, the burden on the food pantries grows," said Phelan. "I ask for your help in helping them help others."

The annual holiday food drive has grown into one of the most productive in the three years since it was launched by Mayor Phelan in response to a Project Bread report that showed high levels of poverty in parts of Quincy.

Since November, 2003, the campaign has raised more than 16,000 pounds — that's more than eight tons — of food for the needy. A total of 4,000 pounds was donated in 2005.

"Last year alone, they served more than 1,200 Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners," said Health Commissioner Drew Scheele. "That's not counting the dinners at the Elks, the K of C and others. It shows you how much this drive is needed.

Mass, Burial Friday For Quincy Viet Casualty

A Mass of Christian burial will be celebrated Friday, Oct. 27, at 10 a.m. in St. Mary's Church for Air Force Major Charles Bifolchi, the Quincy man whose plane was shot down Jan. 8, 1968, in Vietnam.

The celebrant will be Chaplain Thomas Keane, a retired Air Force colonel.

At the same time, in Fort Myers Chapel in Virginia, a mass will also be celebrated prior to graveside services and his burial of his remains with full military honors in Arlington National Cemetery.

The remains of Major Bifolchi, a graduate of Quincy High School, were recently recovered and identified in Vietnam.

'Make A Difference Day'

Mayor's Drive To Stock Food Pantries Saturday

If the holidays are a time for giving as well as receiving, then the season begins Saturday with the Mayor's fourth annual holiday drive to fill the city's food pantries for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

This year, the men and women who deliver the mail have joined Mayor William Phelan's small army of volunteers to pick up donations of non-perishable food around the city.

They're calling it "Make a Difference Day," a celebration of neighbors helping neighbors.

"The residents of Quincy have always responded to a call for help and I ask you for your help again this year," said Phelan.

"There are people in our community that depend on a helping hand from time to time and our local food pantries provide an invaluable service to our community."

Participation on the part of the community is simple:

Just leave your contributions of non-perishable food on your doorstep near the mailbox and they will be picked up by the mail man or woman on his or her regular deliveries of mail.

The suggested items include cranberry sauce, gravy, stuffing, pasta, spaghetti sauce, canned green beans, canned corn, rice, peanut butter and hamburger helper. Fresh produce and meats cannot be accepted.

"I want to thank the hard-working men of the Post Office who agree to this extra work to help those in need," said Phelan. "I appreciate all they do to contribute to the success of our efforts."

The mailmen conduct their own yearly food drive in May, with an assist from the city.

Saturday's donations will be taken to the Quincy Center, North Quincy and Wollaston Post Offices where they will be picked up by volunteers and taken to Koch Park & Recreation Complex at One Merrymount Parkway.

It is recommended that the volunteers use the Furnace Brook Parkway-Southern Artery route to the complex since Hancock Street will be crowded with cars and buses due to a band competition.

Volunteers are still needed between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m. Saturday to pick up the donations, sort and box them and distribute them to seven food pantries around the city.

Five major pantries include the Germantown Neighborhood Food Pantry, 5 Bicknell St.; QCAP Food Pantry, 328 Granite St.; Interfaith Social Services, 105 Adams St.; Quincy Crisis Center, 282 Billings Rd.; and the Salvation Army, 6 Baxter St.

"With increased costs for heating, food, prescriptions and other daily necessities, the burden on the food pantries grows," said Phelan. "I ask for your help in helping them help others."

The annual holiday food drive has grown into one of the most productive in the three years since it was launched by Mayor Phelan in response to a Project Bread report that showed high levels of poverty in parts of Quincy.

Since November, 2003, the campaign has raised more than 16,000 pounds — that's more than eight tons — of food for the needy. A total of 4,000 pounds was donated in 2005.

"Last year alone, they served more than 1,200 Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners," said Health Commissioner Drew Scheele. "That's not counting the diners at the Elks, the K of C and others. It shows you how much this drive is needed.

Mass, Burial Friday For Quincy Viet Casualty

A Mass of Christian burial will be celebrated Friday, Oct. 27, at 10 a.m. in St. Mary's Church for Air Force Major Charles Bifolchi, the Quincy man whose plane was shot down Jan. 8, 1968, in Vietnam.

The celebrant will be Chaplain Thomas Keane, a retired Air Force colonel.

At the same time, in Fort Myers Chapel in Virginia, a mass will also be celebrated prior to graveside services and his burial of his remains with full military honors in Arlington National Cemetery.

The remains of Major Bifolchi, a graduate of Quincy High School, were recently recovered and identified in Vietnam.

Democrats To Honor Bellotti

Frank Bellotti, who has been faithfully there to honor other city Democrats, will be on the receiving end Sunday.

BELLOTTI

The former lieutenant governor and attorney general, will be presented the Dennis Ryan Outstanding Democrat Award at the 19th annual Quincy Democratic City Committee Breakfast.

The breakfast will be at 10 a.m. in The Tirrell Room of the Quincy Lodge of Elks, 254 Quarry Street.

Worcester Mayor Tim Murray, Democrat candidate for lieutenant governor will be among those attending.

"Frank is most deserving of the honor," says Committee Chairman Chuck Phelan. "He goes back to when Democrats were scarce in Quincy, and did a lot to change that."

PHELAN

Phelan notes that Bellotti was the keynote speaker at the very first breakfast 19 years ago.

"He spoke on 'Why I am A Democrat'," Phelan recalls. "It inspired young Democrats to be active in the party and to seek office."

The Dennis Ryan Award, the Democratic Committee's most prestigious, is named for the late clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court who was know as "Mr. Democrat".

Quite appropriate for Bellotti to receive it.

Tickets for the breakfast are $20, and can be obtained at the door or by calling 617-472-7736.

Bellotti put Quincy on the state political map in 1962 when he was elected lieutenant governor in his first run for state-wide office.

He later lost a bid for governor, but came back to be elected attorney general.

The year he was elected lieutenant governor he came out of political no-where, a virtual unknown.

Bellotti's previous political experience was an unsuccessful run for Norfolk County district attorney when the county was as staunch Republican as it is now Democratic.

And he served as county coordinator for John F. Kennedy in 1960. Kennedy returned the favor as president by endorsing him for lieutenant governor.

Though a newcomer, 1962 was also the year he showed the veteran pols that he had brass.

He had enough delegates lined up ahead of time to win the convention's endorsement for lieutenant governor.

But the big boys tried to get him to step aside in favor of then Lt. Gov. Edward McLaughlin who lost the endorsement for governor to Endicott Peabody.

No way, Bellotti told them. He wasn't moving aside.

"I gave six and a half months of my life campaigning already," he told them. "We've (his supporters) have all worked hard for this and I'm not going to get out now."

During those six and a half months, Bellotti had quietly criss-crossed the state lining up delegate support. No one was paying much attention to him except the delegates he was winning over.

When the Democratic convention opened in Springfield that year, the so-called political experts considered him as just one of six lieutenant governor candidates.

But unknown to them, he virtually had it all wrapped up thanks to his delegate missionary work during those six and a half months.

He brought a lot of fresh air to Beacon Hill.

So, step up and take a bow, Frank. You deserve it.

Delahunt To Sponsor Forum On Domestic Violence Oct. 30

The office of Congressman Bill Delahunt will sponsor a forum of housing for domestic violence survivors Monday, Oct. 30, from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

Representatives of Greater Boston Legal Services will be on hand to explain the options available to victims of domestic abuse under the provisions of the Federal Violence Against Women Act (VAWA).

"Violence against women is the worst kind of crime," said Delahunt. "These funds will help survivors who have the courage to end the cycle of abuse to find a way out to protect themselves and their children.

"Working collaboratively, we can ensure the timely access for women and children fleeing from an abusive home and facing the daunting task of finding adequate shelter while they put their lives back together."

Topics of the forum will include new obligations imposed on housing providers by VAWA and problems providers may face as well as discuss new ways advocates and providers can work together to protect survivors.

As Norfolk district attorney for 21 years, Delahunt was a pioneer in the effort to address domestic violence, establishing the first-in-the-nation office to combat spousal abuse and provide services to survivors.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1915 postcard view of the Yule Hotel that was located at 632 Washington St. in Quincy Point. Today, this is the site of the Teamwork Physical Therapy building located between Washington Court and Baker Avenue. The Yule family operated this as a hotel and boarding house mostly for workers at the shipyard. In the early 1920s, Mary Yule opened the Casino Theater across the street for vaudeville and silent movies. It later became the Lincoln Theater and then added candlepin bowling alleys. Mrs. Yule operated the candy store and concession business in front of the theater for many years. The theater site is now home to the Re-Max Realty Co. Now, It's Quincy's Turn

Quincy has a lot going for it. The city has wonderful parks and beaches; it's rich with history; and it has a diverse and growing population.

Currently, the city is experiencing a development boom. Growth and development are good for the city, but if development is not done in a smart way, it could negatively impact our quality of life. Many other cities and towns in Massachusetts are also concerned about how to grow while successfully maintaining and improving their communities.

In response to this concern, the Commonwealth passed the Community Preservation Act (CPA) in 2000. The CPA helps communities control development by protecting open space, by maintaining recreational sites, by creating affordable housing opportunities, and by preserving historic sites. Over 100 communities are already enjoying the benefits of the CPA; I think now it's Quincy's turn.

Since the CPA's inception in 2000, the residents of Quincy (by buying and selling homes) have contributed millions of dollars to the Massachusetts' Community Preservation Trust Fund, but only cities and towns that adopt the CPA can access that fund. That means towns like Scituate, Braintree, Weymouth, and Hingham, which have already adopted the CPA, can enjoy the money contributed by Quincy residents, but we can't.

Saving open space and preserving historic sites improves our quality of life, adds to our property values, and protects unique aspects of our city. Creating affordable housing allows those who provide essential services in our community (teachers, firefighters, police officers, and municipal employees) to actually live in our community. The sooner Quincy adopts the CPA, the sooner we can use our money to grow in a smart way.

Open Letter To The Traffic Engineer

Congratulations on your new position. I hope you do well, and I know you might have "a lot on your plate, but could there be better traffic designs/crosswalks at both high schools, North Quincy and Quincy High?

Both schools are heavy-traffic areas, and many students from both schools have had near misses getting hit by cars. For example, Quincy High's crosswalk does not even have a traffic light, and cars go zooming around corners. And because the street is heavily parked, there's less time for both drivers and pedestrians to see each other.

North Quincy High School's situation is very similar... heavily-parked, busy intersections, heavy foot traffic, but inadequate traffic lights, or not enough.

Could there be crossing guards at the schools? Whatever, these dangerous situations must be corrected as soon as possible.

22,000 Revaluation Impact Notices To Be Mailed

This Week
1983
23 Years Ago

By FRANK McCAULEY

Impact notices informing Quincy residents of new valuations placed on their properties will be in the mail Nov. 14.

The 22,000 notices are being prepared by the Assessors' office along with letters explaining the reasons for the revaluation and how the figures were determined.

Mailing impact notices is the latest step in the court-ordered revaluation procedure that began four years ago with the appropriation of funds to hire a revaluation firm.

Taxpayers who wish to appeal their valuations will have until Dec. 2 to make an appointment for a hearing. Hearings will begin Nov. 21.

TOBIN SAYS HE'S READY FOR A JUDGESHIP IF OFFERED

Energy Audit For Over 40 Municipal Buildings

buildings and save money at the same time."

The audit should take approximately three months to complete. Honeywell will then present recommendations to the City and the City will then decide how to proceed with the recommendations.

"We continue to seek ways outside of our regular municipal budget to improve the quality of life in our city," said Phelan. "Whether it is the hotel/motel tax to improve our recreational facilities and protect open space; or State, Federal, and private funds to build ramps at Crown Colony and help build the new Quincy Center Concourse, we will be as creative as possible in our efforts to help our city move forward avoiding any impact to our local taxpayer."

"Our energy management effort is a good example of how government can be creative in improving services to citizens."

Colleagues To Hold Benefit Friday For Jamie Cochrane's Wife

Jamie Cochrane may be gone but he is certainly not forgotten.

Friends and colleagues will pay tribute to the late Quincy motorcycle officer at a benefit for his wife Friday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. in IBEW Local 103 Hall, 256 Freeport St., Dorchester.

Cochrane, an eight-year veteran of the Quincy force and a member of the Special Operations Unit, died Sept. 10 from injuries sustained the previous day when his motorcycle was struck by a car on Southern Artery.

Tickets to the benefit are $25 and donations of items to the live/silent auctions may be made to the Friends of Maria Cochrane, PO Box 690268, Quincy 02269-0268. For more information, contact 617-745-5756.

Ghostly Historic Figures To Return For Cemetery Tour

The Adams National Historic Park will hold its annual candlelight tour of the Hancock Cemetery Friday, Oct. 27, free of charge, between the witching hours of 7 and 9 p.m.

Ghostly apparitions of historic figures will share stories and obscure facts about Quincy's past and its historical characters in one of New England's oldest burial grounds.

Shades of Quincy's long-departed first families, the Adamses, the Quincys and the Hancocks, will be present in the old graveyard on Hancock Street next to City Hall.

After haunting the cemetery, all souls will repair to the Adams National Historical Park Visitor's Center for a touch of seasonal "spirits."

For more information, call 617-770-1175 or visit http://www.nps.gov/adam.

Haunts To Reign Saturday At Germantown Center

Ghosts, goblins and other figures of fright and fun will be active Saturday, Oct. 28, from 12 noon to 4 p.m. at 333 Palmer St., home of the Germantown Community Center and the Snug Harbor Elementary School.

There will be a costume contest at 2 p.m., plus games, food kids' crafts, raffles, a moonwalk and scary surprises all for a cost of $4 — $3 if you come in a costume — to enter the Haunted House.

The proceeds will benefit the Snug Harbor School and the Germantown Neighborhood Center.

Sponsors of the Halloween festival include the South Shore Savings Bank, Altrusa International Inc., Quincy, State Rep. Stephen Tobin, Jean Kenney, mortgage lender, Eastern Bank, and Sam Rounseville, realtor, Abigail Adams Agency.

French Students Visit In NQHS Exchange Program

North Quincy High School is hosting 20 exchange students from Bourges, France as part of a cultural exchange program with Lycee Sainte Marie.

Lycee Sainte Marie students and their chaperones arrived Oct. 16, and are set to return tomorrow, (Friday). They were scheduled to attend classes, and give cultural presentations in French classes at the high school and middle schools. Educational and historical excursions were planned, with the possibility of apple picking, and visiting a Celtics exhibition game.

NQHS French teachers Aliza Schneller and Amy Roth, and their students planned the event. North Quincy High School students are planning to visit France for next April vacation.

The exchange was initiated two years ago when students from Quincy visited France on April vacation. They stayed with host families and experienced city life from a French perspective. The students attended classes at their host school and spent the weekend visiting the countryside with their families, or participating in cultural activities throughout Bourges.

Participants hope to follow last year's successful exchange. In October of 2005, students from Bourges came to Quincy for a 10 day visit. They visited Boston, Cambridge, Salem and Plymouth. Highlights of the visit included participating in the witch trials at the Salem Witch Museum, learning colonial songs and dances at Plimouth Plantation, shopping on Newbury Street and visiting the Church of the Presidents.

The Quincy School Committee presented the French visitors a "Plaque of Friendship" to be displayed at the Lycee Sainte Marie. A farewell dinner, hosted by the Cultural Exchange Committee, was held on the last day of their visit at the Three Seasons Restaurant. Host parents, teachers, committee members, students and guests attended the event.

The cultural exchange is supported by the Quincy Public Schools and the State Street Corporation and Boston Financial Data Services.

Preservation Act Info Meeting Tonight

An informational meeting on the Community Preservation Act (CPA) will be tonight (Thursday), 7 p.m. at Squantum School, 50 Huckins Ave.

The meeting is sponsored by a committee of the Quincy Environmental Network.

The CPA is a statewide legislation that provides new funding sources that can be used to address three core community concerns: acquisition and preservation of open space, creation and support of affordable housing, and acquisition and preservation of historic sites.

Question 4 on the November ballot will ask voters whether or not the city should adopt the CPA. Quincy residents are encouraged to attend the meeting to learn more about the CPA.

At First Parish Church

John Adams To Be Honored With Presidential Wreath Oct. 30

The annual presidential wreath will be laid on the tomb of John Adams in the United First Parish Church, Monday, Oct. 30, commemorating the 271st birthday of the second president of the United States.

The service, to be held at 12 noon in what has come to be known as the Church of Presidents, will feature guest speakers who will reflect on the life and times of Adams, who was born Oct. 30, 1735.

The program also will feature the music of the Navy Brass Ensemble from Newport, R.I.

The National Anthem and Pledge of Allegiance will be lead by Lt. Commander Raymond Hurd, commanding officer of the U.S. Navy Operational Support Center, Quincy, representing President George W. Bush.

JOHN ADAMS

A moment of reflection will be lead by Arthur W. Durcharme, director of the Historic Interpretive Program. This will be followed by a prayer by Rev. Sheldon W. Bennett, Minister of the United First Parish Church. He will also deliver the closing benediction.

Speakers will include: Kirt Switzer, chair of Board of Governors of the church, Mayor William J. Phelan, Lieutenant Brendon McShane, executive officer of the USS Constitution (Old Ironsides).

Mary Harris, a student of Woodward School for Girls, Class of 2007, (she was chosen for being a seven-year student of the school, and a role model for other students, according to Tom Wesner, headmaster of the school). Other speakers include Jim Taylor, editor-in-chief of Adams Papers, Massachusetts Historical Society, Caroline Keinath, deputy superintendent of Adams National Historic Park, Dr. Edward Fitzgerald, Quincy Historical Society, Douglas Adams, Lt. Commander Raymond Hurd, and William Westland, of the church.

The laying of the Presidential Wreath, including a Naval hymn, will be by Hurd, Naval personnel and guests.

Music will also be provided by Soloist Dorothy Adams, Organist Kathleen Adams of the American Guild of Organists, the Annisquam Village Church Choir of Gloucester, the Salt marsh opera Chorus of Stonington, CT, and the U.S. Navy Brass Ensemble of Newport, RI.

The service will conclude with the official presentation of the White House wreath which will be laid on the John Adams tomb in the church crypt, where his son, John Quincy Adams, and their wives also are buried.

Adams served as president from 1797 - 1801 and vice president under George Washington from 1789 - 1801 and vice president under George Washington from 1789 - 1797 and lived to see his son, John Quincy, become the sixth president of the United States.

He died at his home in Quincy July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

FROM START TO FITNESS

Body Needs Time to Recover

Q. My exercise partner designed a workout that has us doing total-body strength training every session. We work out five days a week for about an hour, splitting the time between cardiovascular exercise and strength training. Since we began this program I have seen some results, but I have not stopped being sore. Is it normal for me to stay sore, or should we change our workouts?

A. Designing a workout that will show results while keeping you safe in the long run can be challenging. The first point to remember is that "more is not always better." Our desire to see results can motivate us to try to do as much exercise as possible in hopes that we can shorten the time it takes to reach our goals. Remaining sore after each workout is a sign that your body needs more recovery time.

It is great that you and your exercise partner have made the time to work out five days a week and that you are seeing results. I would encourage you to continue to make that time available, but I would suggest using that time in a different manner.

Your body needs time to recover between workouts so it will be ready for the next session. Remaining sore day after day could limit your body's ability to work as effectively and efficiently during the next workout, actually keeping you from reaching your goals over time.

Try completing your strength-training total-body workout three days a week, along with cardiovascular exercise for 30 minutes within that hour. Be sure to design your strength-training workouts appropriately so that the weight is not too heavy. Remember, the weight you choose to lift should be able to be completed with proper technique. Having to lose your technique would suggest the weight is too heavy.

On one of the other two days of the week you work out, I would recommend cardiovascular and flexibility training. Try cross-training, where you use different forms of cardiovascular exercise such as walking/jogging, cycling, in-line skating, etc. Also consider interval training, which involves alternating between easier to harder intensities throughout your cardiovascular workout. Again, be cautious not to raise your heart rate too high (where you do not see a considerable amount of recovery one minute after the exercise is complete).

Alternating your strength and cardiovascular workout days should help your body recover from soreness and help you continue to see results.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. BANK OF CANTON was a sustaining sponsor this year for the Annual Quincy Medical Center (QMC) Cancer Walk held recently to benefit The Marie A. Curry Fund. This annual event helps QMC provide free cancer screenings and services to non-insured and under-insured men and women throughout the South Shore. Team Bank of Canton consisted of employees, their families and friends, who raised more than $3,250 to benefit the fund, helping to raise a grand total of more than $130,000 for the Marie A. Curry Fund.

Athletic Performance And Nutrition

By Dr. JAY PROVENZANO and Dr. ANN DOGGETT

No matter what type of athlete you are, professional or weekend warrior, young or old, what you eat and drink can be the difference between first and last place, or just keeping up with your teammates. Good fat, protein and complex carbohydrates are all part of a diet for optimal performance and recovery.

Practice and training alone can not guarantee success. You need tremendous amounts of energy and endurance reserves to fuel your body to its full potential. Unfortunately, as Americans, we eat too much fat and sugar from fast foods that taste great, but lack the nutrients the body needs to function efficiently. Athletes are no exception to this fact.

Often times we eat protein that is difficult to digest and not enough complex carbohydrates such as vegetables, brown rice and dried beans. Simple sugars such as soft drinks, jams and jellies, and candy provide few nutrients but a lot of calories, and actually use up some of our important vitamins and minerals.

An optimum diet can improve athletic performance significantly. For example, scientists have found that by adjusting what runners eat and drink before a race, endurance can be increased by 200 percent or more.

Did you know 75 percent of Americans are chronically dehydrated? Water is the most important, yet overlooked, nutrient by athletes. When exercising, people sweat to keep the body cool. Athletes can lose an excess of several liters in a one-hour period. Also, many sport drinks contain a large amount of simple sugars, dyes and unnecessary calories. Water is the perfect solution.

Fat intake should be adequate to provide essential fatty acids and fat-soluble vitamins, as well as to help provide adequate energy for weight maintenance. Overall, diets should provide moderate amounts of energy from healthy fat. There appears to be no health or performance benefit to consuming a diet containing less than 15 percent of energy from healthy fat. Good fats include: organic meats, olive and flaxseed oils (unheated), almonds, walnuts and cold water fish, such as halibut, salmon, sardines and trout. The same diet structure should be adapted by everyone. Athletes need to increase their calorie consumption because they are expending more energy.

Protein's most important functions in the body are to support growth and to repair body tissues. Many people feel athletes need a high-protein diet to support muscle growth, despite the fact that researchers have repeatedly proven this false. Good-quality proteins from naturally-raised meats, fresh fish, nuts and seeds will all serve your body's protein needs. They also provide important minerals for better performance, on and off the field.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

GETTING TO GUM DISEASE'S ROOT CAUSE

If left untreated, gingivitis (the mildest form of gum disease) can progress to periodontitis. In such cases, plaque spreads below the gum line where toxins produced by bacteria irritate the gums. This produces a chronic inflammatory response in which gums separate from the teeth and too-supporting bones and tissues degenerate. Eventually, teeth may become loose. To avoid these problems, the dentist must take a fairly aggressive approach to treating periodontitis. Root planing and scaling is a process by which the dentist uses specialized tools to scrape between the gums and teeth, down to the roots. The dentist will usually treat one-quarter of the teeth at one time using local anesthetic. This treatment is very effective and causes little discomfort.

Although gum disease is the major cause of tooth loss in adults, in many cases it is avoidable. We work with our patients so they can achieve and maintain a beautiful smile and healthier gums and teeth. We take the time with our patients to explain their treatment options and inform them of additional preventative care. Most adults with gum disease are unaware that they have it. Periodontal disease is usually a slow, painless, progressive disease. You need not lose your teeth to gum disease. If diagnosed early, the teeth can be saved. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we are currently accepting new patients. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

Halloween Safety

Halloween is one of the most thrilling nights of the year for children. Sadly, it is also one of the most dangerous.

Children are four times more likely to die as pedestrians on Halloween than on any other night of the year. The risk of unintentional injury also goes up significantly.

LT. DAN MINTON

To help make this Halloween safe, here are some safety tips:

- Costumes should not be cumbersome or too long. A mask should not limit your vision. Make the eyeholes bigger if needed.
- Wear costumes with reflective markings and bright colors.
- Carry a flashlight, a watch and a cellphone.
- Adults should accompany children under age 12 as they trick-or-treat.
- Attach the name, address and telephone number to the costumes or clothes of children under 12, in the event that they get separated from adults.
- Teach your children their phone number.
- Set a time for independent children to return home.
- Plan the route with your children, only in familiar areas.
- Never trick-or-treat alone. Have a parent or at least two buddies with you.
- Tell your children never enter a home or apartment building unless accompanied by an adult.
- Restrict trick-or-treating to homes with outside lights on.
- Children should not cut across lawns. There are hidden hazards such as clotheslines or lawn ornaments.
- Have children bring their treats home before eating them. Parents should check to ensure that the treats have not been tampered with.
- Avoid fruit or treats that have not been pre-packaged. If you have any doubts about a treat, just discard it.
- Go from house-to-house on the same side of the street. This reduces the amount of times needed to cross the street.
- When you need to cross the street, first look to the left, then to the right, then back to the left.
- When crossing the street, make eye contact with the driver to ensure that they see you.
- For motorists, use extra caution. Slow down in residential neighborhoods.
- Enter and exit driveways slowly and carefully.
- Homeowners should avoid real flames in pumpkins.
- Pets should be kept inside.
- Yards and steps should be cleared.
- As always, be very cautious of strangers.

To make this the best Halloween, parents – go out with your children – make it safe – make it fun – and make some great memories for the family.

Have a happy and safe Halloween!

NEUROMAS

Do you ever feel pain between your toes while walking? Or feel like there is a pebble in your shoe? If your shoe is pebble free, you could have a neuroma. A neuroma is a benign growth of nerve tissue. When neuromas develop, they frequently occur on nerves between the toes. Symptoms include burning, tingling, numbness, or pain between the toes and the ball of the foot. Symptoms often are exacerbated when weight is placed on the foot. Sometimes patients experience swelling at the site. Neuromas develop from various causes, including a high arch or flat foot that causes instability around the toe joints. Nerve damage from injury, improper footwear that squeezes the toes, and repetitive stress are other causes.

Do you have pain that sounds like it might be a neuroma? Do you suffer from other painful foot conditions? Don't hide behind these five dangerous words – maybe it will go away. We can treat foot problems effectively and efficiently with medication, surgery, or other less-invasive procedures such as exercise and orthotics. Don't take your feet for granted – call us at 781-986-3668 for an appointment. We're located at North Main Street, in the MEDICAL OFFICE BUILDING. Office hours are also available at Quincy Medical Center and Milton Medical Building. I am affiliated with the Brockton and Good Samaritan Hospitals.

HINT: Early treatment for neuromas is advised to help prevent the need for surgery.

'Due Diligence' Essential Whether Buying Or Selling A Home

Environmental Property Evaluation

(NAPS) For those buying or selling a home, conducting the proper research and "due diligence" is essential before making any purchase decisions.

Homebuyers may research many factors related to a property, such as details about the surrounding neighborhood, the quality of the school system or the local crime rate. However, many often overlook one of the most critical elements of due diligence that can have the greatest impact on the quality of the investment: the risk of environmental contamination.

According to the nation's leading provider of environmental information reports, Environmental Data Resources (EDR), one of the most important considerations when buying or selling a home should be the environmental risks associated with the property and its surrounding area.

Issues such as whether the home is in close proximity to a leaking underground storage tank or old landfill, next door to a hazardous waste site or perhaps even a clandestine "meth" drug laboratory, are equally as important for one's financial and physical well-being as knowing if the home is structurally sound and in a safe neighborhood. Contaminants on or near a property not only pose serious health consequences, but can have a serious impact on the value of a property as well.

In commercial real estate, environmental due diligence has been a standard practice for nearly 20 years. Commercial real estate professionals use environmental information reports to better understand the environmental risks associated with a property and increasingly residential real estate buyers, sellers and professionals are doing the same.

Environmental information reports provide important information on known and potential contamination that exists on a property or in the surrounding neighborhood. Today, homebuyers, sellers and agents are utilizing residential environmental information reports to find out the "health" of a particular property or neighborhood and ensure a wise investment. Because contamination is often the result of long past activities and usually shows no visible signs of the dangers it poses to residents through toxic air, water or soil, professionally prepared environmental risk reports usually provide the only way to screen for these types of issues.

So how can people make sure not to miss this step in the "due diligence" process?

• Ask the real estate agent. Real estate agents often have access to environmental risk reports and data.

• Seek help from a qualified professional home inspector. Home inspectors are increasingly offering environmental information reports. For example, all Pillar to Post home inspectors now offer the EDR Neighborhood Environmental Report. Visit www.pillartopost.com to find an inspector.

• Search government records. Federal and local government agencies, such as the EPA, keep records of environmental contamination.

For more information on environmental risks in residential real estate, or to learn how to obtain a Neighborhood Environmental Report, visit www.edrnet.com/residential.

Neighborhood Housing Homebuyer Workshop

Neighborhood Housing Services of the south Shore and American Home Mortgage will co-host a first-time homebuyer workshop Monday, Oct. 30 from 6 to 8 p.m., and Saturday, Nov. 4 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The workshop will be held at Thayer Public Library, 798 Washington St., Braintree.

Attendance at both sessions is necessary to receive a homebuying certificate.

All potential first-time homebuyers are invited to attend the educational workshop. Participants will have the opportunity to speak with a lender.

Topics include mortgage options, legal aspects of the homebuying process, how a home inspection works, and other presentations from real estate related professionals.

Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

There is a $15 fee per person. For more information, call (617) 770-2227 ext. 31.

Tips to Lower Your Electric Bill

Q. I was reviewing my electric-bill charges, and I found that my kilowatt-hour usage was much higher over the past two winters than I remember from earlier years. How is this possible, when I haven't installed any new appliances or heating systems, or increased my average electric usage (as far as I'm aware)? How can I lower the amount of electricity I'm using, especially considering prices these days? — Dan in Minneapolis

A. The first thing to do is contact your electric company and explain your findings. The customer-service representative might have some immediate suggestions for you in regard to finding a source of the increased usage.

You can perform a quick check of the meter, on your own, to see if power is being siphoned off — unlikely, but possible. Turn off all power at the circuit box, wait five minutes and check the meter. If it continues to turn, power is still being drawn for some reason. Contact the electric company immediately to have a technician investigate.

Another option is to take advantage of the free or low-cost energy audit that electric companies offer. The company either will send you an audit kit, or send a technician. This is a great, inexpensive way to find areas where heat is being lost. Because you have owned this home for several years, there's a possibility that insulation and weatherstripping have been damaged or are breaking down.

Common areas for air leaks include small gaps around joists, sills and windows, which can appear after several years due to the natural settling of the foundation and constant expansion and contraction of building materials through the seasons. Dryer and bath vents, as well as fireplace dampers, are culprits, too. Wall outlets are not always insulated and can be a source of heat loss; insulating pads can be installed behind the plates.

Attic insulation should be somewhat lofty, not compressed tightly (if you're not certain, write down the rating on the backing paper and look at a new sample at the hardware store for comparison); it should also be properly rated for your insulation zone. And check weatherstripping around windows and doors for deterioration.

One caveat: Don't plug up building vents installed during construction, such as attic, soffit or crawl-space vents; these create an airflow envelope around the house to prevent mold and other health hazards.

Keep Old Man Winter Out Of The Home

(NAPS) According to the U.S. Department of Energy, heating accounts for almost half of the average family's winter energy bill, making it by far the largest energy expense for most homes. So to keep Old Man Winter's grip from your wallet, the following tips will assist in combating the cost of heating.

• Inspect areas around windows and doors, gaps along baseboards, mail chutes, and entry points for power lines, ducts and vents for air infiltration. If a draft is present, use a caulk such as Polyseamseal® All-Purpose Adhesive Caulk and/or weather stripping to seal the areas. This simple effort will alleviate the potential for heat loss and can help reduce heating bills by as much as 10 percent. For more information, visit www.polyseamseal.com.

• Purchase a do-it-yourself window insulation kit to add an additional barrier to your home-winterization program. Most insulation kits consist of a clear film and double-sided installation tapes. With the heat of a hair drying, you can create a tight, transparent barrier between the window and the inside of your house, keeping the heat in and the cold out. The Duck® brand Roll-On Window Insulator Kit is an easy-to-install kit that doesn't require any extensive measuring. Roll-On Insulator Kits are suited for a number of window sizes. Visit www.duckproducts.com for more information.

• Install fire-retardant socket sealer behind electrical sockets located on walls making up the perimeter of your home. Don't forget to check for worn doorstops at the bottom of doors too. Be sure to seal as many areas of the home as possible.

• Hire a heating professional to inspect the home's system before winter arrives. The professional will advise as to what needs to be done to maximize heating system efficiency, including tactics such as vacuuming vents and other heating components and replacing filters. To find a professional, visit the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors Association website at www.phccweb.org.

• Check to make sure the attic, crawl spaces, exterior and basement walls, ceilings and floors are insulated to the proper levels. Visit a home center to learn about recommended adequate insulation levels and then go home and measure. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, if the home is properly insulated, you can save nearly 30 percent on home energy bills.

• Have your chimney cleaned and inspected. You can lose much heat and money through your chimney, especially if your damper does not operate properly. Log on to www.ncsg.org, the website of the National Chimney Sweep Guild, for more information.

By conducting a home-winterization program, you'll be warmer and, most importantly, you'll be able to say you've kept Old Man Winter out of your home and wallet.

Computer Seminar At Norfolk Registry Nov. 2

Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell will host an informational seminar on computer assisted land records research at the Registry of Deeds in Dedham Thursday, Nov. 2 from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The seminar is intended for both real estate professionals and the public.

The program will include a brief presentation, written reference materials, and hands-on exercises. There will be opportunities for both basic and advanced questions and answers.

Computer assisted land records research is available both at the Registry and on the Internet at www.norfolkdeeds.org.

"These services have proven valuable tools for our customers," O'Donnell said, "and we hope that this seminar will be helpful and informative."

North Quincy Dominates Nauset, 32-0

Red Raiders, Connor Earn First Victory

By SEAN BRENNAN

FOOTBALL

At a cold and wet Veterans' Memorial Stadium last Friday night, the North Quincy Red Raider football team and head coach Jim Connor, forever placed themselves in the city of Quincy football record book.

North Quincy (1-6, 1-4) dominated the Warriors of Nauset High School from the opening kickoff till the final whistle blew, and won their first game of the 2006 season, 32-0. Connor, who is in his inaugural season on the sidelines, earned his first career victory as a varsity head coach behind an impressive performance from his entire team.

The Red Raiders' offensive line helped set the tone of the game on the team's first play from scrimmage. Junior running back Terrence Sibley (12 carries, 116 yards, 1TD) took a handoff from quarterback Shaun McBrien, followed his blocks, and took it to the house for a 69-yard touchdown run. Dave Guerriero's extra point attempt was good, and the Raiders led 7-0 with 8:36 left in the first quarter.

Running behind an all-senior offensive line, the North Quincy running attack controlled ball possession all game and racked up ridiculous numbers against the weaker Nauset High defense. The Red Raiders' Sibley, Guerriero (6 carries, 28 yards, 2 TD) and Danny Jackson (8 carries, 44 yards, 1 TD) accounted for 227 yards on 38 attempts on the ground.

"We really opened up the running game," Connor said. "Our offensive line stepped up big. The five seniors (Phil Kelly, Ben Johnson-Tattlebaum, Roger Cufaude, Nick Poli and Nick Gizzarelli) led the way and played their best game yet."

Nauset (0-6, 0-5) took the ensuing drive after the Sibley touchdown run down the field, but came up short on a 4th down and 4 play deep in Red Raider territory. North Quincy received solid defensive play on the drive from senior Steve Matos and junior Jon Cahill, whose deflection of a pass on the fourth down play turned the ball back to the Red Raiders' offense.

McBrien (6-7, 105 yards), playing his best game of the year, directed the Raiders back down the field on an impressive 11-play, 77 yard drive. A heavy dose of Sibley, Jackson and Guerriero and two productive scrambles by McBrien, brought the ball all the way down to the Nauset 1-yard line. On first and goal from the 1 yard line, Coach Connor called on his O-Line one more time, and they responded by opening a huge hole to the left that Guerriero smashed through for the score. The missed extra-point left the score at 13-0 North Quincy.

Nauset got the ball back with just under 5 minutes to play in the first-half, but the Raider defense continually put pressure on the quarterback, forcing errant throws. Guerriero got a sack on an all-out blitz forcing the Warriors into a third and long, and Jackson stepped in front of a Nauset receiver and intercepted the pass from Nauset quarterback Seymour Connor. North Quincy ran the clock out on the half, and entered the locker room with momentum and confidence.

With a commanding lead on the scoreboard and in time of possession, the Red Raiders surprised the Warriors by coming out on the opening drive of the second-half by throwing the football all over the turf. McBrien was spectacular on the drive. He moved around in the pocket, found open receivers, and showed some serious senior leadership. After Sibley ran for 8 yards on the first play from scrimmage, McBrien completed a pass to Jackson for a Raider first down, and North Quincy had Nauset on the ropes once again.

On 3rd down and 2 from the Nauset 42, McBrien, noticing that Nauset was geared up for the run, changed the play at the line of scrimmage, and found a wide-open Marcellus Lee for a huge third-down completion of 15 yards. After a small gain on the ground on first down, McBrien went back to the air and found a streaking Guerriero down the right sideline. Guerriero made a beautiful one-handed grab and strolled into the endzone for a 22-yard score. His ensuing extra-point made the score, 20-0.

Down by 20, the Warriors' offensive attack was shutdown the rest of the half by the Red Raider defense. North Quincy limited Nauset to nine yards of total offense in the second-half, with the only first down that Nauset got all half coming off a Red Raider penalty. For the game, North allowed only 60 yards of total offense.

"Our defense has been strong the past two weeks," Connor said. "We're tackling well, and every week we are getting better."

The Red Raiders and McBrien put the nail in the coffin late in the third quarter during another solid drive. McBrien, facing a 3rd and 19, threw a pass to Guerriero, who made his second big catch of the half, and North Quincy was once again inside the Nauset redzone. After a Guerriero run and a facemask penalty on Nauset, the Raiders had a first and goal from the 3 yard line. On the next play, Jackson followed his line into the endzone for the 26-0 lead.

The fourth quarter saw more of the same from the Raider defense and offense. Nauset could get nothing going offensively, and the Raider offense continued to pound the ball and eat up the game clock. McBrien capped off his night with a quarterback sneak for the final points of the game with 8:10 left in regulation.

"Shaun had his best game of his career," Connor said. "He's a threat with both his arms and legs. He played like a true captain tonight."

When the horn sounded at the end of the game, the North Quincy bench and home crowd celebrated their first win of the year. The victory was a complete team victory through and through. It was also historically significant. It marked the first-ever football win by one of the city's two high schools at the new Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

North Quincy will have their hands full this Friday when they travel to Marshfield to take on the league leading Rams. The Raiders will look to their offensive line to once again control the line of scrimmage, and if they can get an effort from their defense like the one the team received against Nauset, then McBrien and the improved Red Raiders have more than a fighting chance to pull off the upset.

Makini Thompson, Seminoles Visit Boston College Friday

VOLLEYBALL

Former North Quincy High School and current collegiate volleyball standout, Makini Thompson, returns to the Quincy area on Friday, Oct. 27, when the Florida State Seminoles take on the Boston College Eagles in Atlantic Coast Conference League (ACC) women's volleyball action.

The match will begin at 8 p.m. at Conte Forum on the campus of Boston College.

This will be the second meeting of the season between the two teams, with the Seminoles winning the first match in Tallahassee, 3 games to 1. In that contest, Thompson had a match high 16 kills.

Thompson, a six-foot junior, is the leading hitter on the Florida State squad, ranking in the Top 10 among all ACC players in kills, hitting percentage, and points per game. Florida State is currently in third place in the ACC with an 8-2 record. The team's overall record stands at 14-5.

GET BETTER MILEAGE WITH DIFFERENT GAS

Higher gasoline prices have driven Americans to look for ways to get better fuel mileage. One of the more interesting fuel-saving strategies involves filling tires with pure nitrogen, the gas that makes up 78% of the air we breathe. Nitrogen is the gas that is preferred by NASCAR divers. Some of nitrogen's advantage rests with the fact that its molecules are larger than oxygen. Consequently, they leak out more slowly, maintaining proper tire pressure longer (which increases gas mileage). Unlike oxygen, which contains water, nitrogen better resists heat buildup. Nitrogen also reduces oxidation, which can deteriorate tires from the inside. These are all important advantages for vehicles equipped with tire pressure monitoring systems that are sensitive to pressure changes.

At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we'll be happy to go over the advantages of filling your tires with nitrogen. Even if you don't fill your tires with anything but regular oxygen, we can check them for proper inflation, and evaluate wear. Good tire care is imperative to good car care. If you have questions regarding tires please come to 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree, or call 781-843-1550. Open: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm

HINT: According to the U.S. Energy Department, vehicle owners can achieve 3.3% better mileage by keeping their tires properly inflated.

Team Hofbrau Wins Fast-Pitch Softball Title

The Quincy Merchant's Fast-Pitch Softball League has recently finished the 2006 season. The league, which has been a city institution for 30+ years and consists of 10 teams, crowned the Hofbrau as league champion. This is the second straight year that the Hofbrau has won the Quincy Merchant League title, and it is the team's six overall league championship.

The Hofbrau swept the championship series, four games to none, over arch-rival Cottage Tavern. The team received great pitching from Steve Lannan and had timely hitting from the entire lineup throughout the series. Jim Dennis, a Quincy native, was named MVP after hitting .700 for the series, while catcher Greg Harper was named runner-up MVP, supplying the team outstanding defense behind the plate.

"Jimmy was our spark-plug, and he really got us going every night out there," longtime coach George Murphy said.

The championship trophy was presented by Ward 1 City Counselor Leo Murphy, and a cookout celebration followed the team's win at Coach Murphy's house in the Hough's Neck section of Quincy.

MVP JIM DENNIS and MVP runner-up Greg Harper celebrate with the championship trophy.

The Quincy Merchant's Fast Pitch Softball League runs from the beginning of May until the playoffs end at the end of September. The league is currently looking to add teams to its 2007 format. Any person or establishment looking to put together a team for next year can contact league president, Billy Scannell (617-633-9226), for information and details about league rules and registration.

Presidents Let Dolphins Slip Away, 12-6

By SEAN BRENNAN

The Quincy Presidents learned the hard way last Saturday afternoon against Dennis-Yarmouth High School that sometimes you should just stick with what is working, and not with what might surprise or catch your opponent off-guard.

The Presidents (1-5, 0-5) were in an ideal position to shift the balance of power against the Dolphins on their first drive of the second-half already down 6-0. After a bad punt from the Dolphins gave Quincy the ball at midfield, senior runningback Tom Hazelhurst (23 carries, 150 yards) and junior runningback Diego Arredondo muscled their way through the Dolphin defense all the way down to the Dennis-Yarmouth 3-yard line. Hazelhurst had runs of 19 and 11 yards on the drive and Arredondo chipped in with a run of 16 yards to help set up a first and goal to go for Quincy.

The play in question happened on a play-action bootleg to the right by Quincy quarterback Matt Boyle. Boyle was flushed out of the pocket by the backside of the defensive line, and fumbled the ball while under heavy pressure. The Dolphins recovered the loose ball at their own 24-yard line, and the momentum shifted back to Dennis-Yarmouth.

"The play we called was a bootleg, and based on the previous time we called it, we expected them to go hard to the fake," head coach Bob Noble said. "But their backside defensive end didn't bite at all, and it broke apart immediately. As a coach, this is one I have to say is on me. We should've stayed with what was working."

The direct result of the costly turnover was a seven-play scoring drive for the Dolphins that was capped off by a 31-yard touchdown run that increased the lead to 12-0. Dolphin quarterback, Nick Montalto, executed on two third down attempts to keep the scoring drive going, and the Presidents were faced with a two score deficit with just over a quarter and a half remaining in the contest.

Quincy would get on the board in the final quarter on a drive that featured Hazelhurst getting the majority of touches out of the backfield. Hazelhurst, the offensive star of the game for the Presidents, bullied his way down to the 12-yard line before senior Camillo Arredondo burst through the middle for a touchdown run. Diego Arredondo's extra-point attempt was blocked and the score with 6:54 left in the game was 12-6.

The Presidents made a valiant effort to score in the final minutes of the game, but even after another first-down run from Hazelhurst, Quincy's hope for a potential tying or winning score fell by the wayside with 1:58 left in the game.

The loss was even more disheartening for Quincy and their fans because the defense played exceptionally well all game long. Dennis-Yarmouth could never get on-track offensively, and the Presidents limited the exciting Montalto to very little in the passing game, but the turnovers hurt. Besides the costly fumble by Boyle in the third quarter, Quincy lost two turnovers in the first-half, one of which resulted in an early touchdown for Dennis-Yarmouth.

"Turnovers killed us tonight," Noble said. "We played well enough to win. Our defense did what it had to do for us to win."

But they didn't, and the Presidents now have to travel down to Nauset High School on Friday to take on the Warriors. The game will feature the last two teams in the Atlantic Coast League who have yet to win in league play this season.

Nauset is coming off a blowout loss to North Quincy, and will be geared up to take on the Presidents, but the Warriors are also allowing a league high 33.3 points per game and had a tough time handling the Red Raider running attack last Friday night. If Quincy goes into this game with a run first mentality, then the Presidents should be able to enjoy their long journey back home from the Cape.

Basketball Camp At Vo-Tech Gym Nov. 2-4

The Nothing But Net Basketball Camp will be holding its camp Nov. 2nd through Nov. 4th at the Quincy Vo-Tech Gymnasium.

Camp dates and times are as follows: Thurs. Nov. 2nd from 7-9 p.m., Fri. Nov. 3rd from 6-9 p.m., and Sat. Nov. 4th from 9 a.m.-1 p.m.. The cost of the three day camp is $75. The camp is intended for players in grades 6-8.

The camp staff includes directors James Quigley and Bob Fisher and coach Dave Parry.

This camp is designed to offer its participants the opportunity to learn the fundamental skills of basketball that generations of high school players have built their games on, while in a safe and fun environment, and to increase individual skills through station work, mass drills and games. All aspects of the game will be taught with the latest techniques, tactics and drills used by top high school coaches.

Meet The 'Ideal' Captain Of The Quincy-North Quincy Co-Ed Cross-Country Team

Matt Meyers: Exceptional Runner Is 'An Amazing Kid'

By SEAN BRENNAN

The ideal captain of a high school sports team needs to be someone who is dedicated to their team and school(s), someone who is responsible and accountable on the playing field and in the classroom, but most importantly, someone with whom other team members can look to for leadership and guidance.

The Quincy/North Quincy High School co-ed cross-country team is captained by a student-athlete who possess all of these qualities and much more.

Dedicated to his team, check. A top-notch student, check. An active member of his community, check. Someone who puts the needs of others before his own, check. Sound to good to be true? Well, for the cross-country team at Quincy/North Quincy, it isn't.

Quincy High School junior, Matt Meyers, is not just a good runner, he is also a candidate for Eagle Scout, an active member of his church group and an A+ student. Meyers has helped the combined cross-country team of Quincy and North Quincy to a 4-4 record on the season, and at the same time he has found time in his schedule to tackle pre-college courses at school, actively pursue his Eagle Scout badge and he even found time this past summer to travel to Ecuador to help build a community center in the poorest part of that country.

Meyers, who began his running career in the sixth grade, takes his position as co-captain as seriously as he takes everything else in his life. He understands his role and relishes the position his coaches have put him in.

"I have probably been on the team the longest, and I know my job as captain is to push the whole team to be as consistent as we can be," Meyers said. "It is my responsibility to watch over the freshmen, help them out and really just make sure everyone is having a good time."

Meyers, whose best time for the standard 2.5 mile course cross-country teams run is 14 minutes, has taken the confidence that oozes from him while running into the classroom as well. Meyers is a participant in a program at Quincy High School that centers around preparing high school students for a future in the engineering field. Project Lead The Way is an academic program that offers students the opportunity to take courses such as Pre-Calculus, Principals of Engineering, Civil Engineering and Architecture during their junior and senior years as a way to gain earn college credit at such engineering schools like Worcester Polytech Institute (WPI).

"I love to work with my hands and starting projects from scratch to see what I can build," Meyers said. "Being able to take courses through Project Lead The Way is giving me a step forward in my goal to get into the engineering field."

This past summer, Meyers combined his love of engineering and community activism during a trip to Ecuador with his church group from the Old South Union Church (South Weymouth). Meyers, along with 60 other volunteers, traveled to South America to do what he does best, build something from scratch. Meyers, who lived with a local family while abroad, went on the trip because it seemed like the right thing to do.

"I helped to build a community center just east of the capital of Quito," Meyers said. "The first day we mixed concrete for the ground floor and carried bricks to build the walls. The third day we spent all day from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. pouring concrete on the third floor. I really don't know what spiked me to make the trip, I heard about it and thought that it would be good to go."

His time spent in the classroom, running cross-country and volunteering abroad aside, Meyers is also in the process of beginning the final push to become an Eagle Scout. As a member of Troop 22 in Braintree, Meyers has selected his final project to complete his Boy Scout journey. Incorporating his love of the outdoors and his innate ability to build, Meyers has begun to organize his fellow troop members to help him build a new picnic area at the Blue Hills Reservation.

"Saturday (10/21) will be my first day on the project," Meyers said. "I am building a new picnic area at Houghton's Pond that will be equipped with a volleyball court, tables and space for people to enjoy the outdoors. This project will require me to use all the leadership abilities that I have. You need to show leadership, control and supervise volunteers, contact groups and corporations for monetary needs and generally take charge. I am hoping to finish by December."

It may seem that Meyers has too much on his plate to be successful at everything he has thrown himself into, but his head coach sees it quite differently.

"Matt is an easy kid to deal with. He is bright and easily picks up concepts and is able to balance all the things he is doing in his life," head coach Geoff Hennessy said. "He is an amazing kid, and is the type of kid you want leading your program."

For a person as young a Matt Meyers (he is only 16) to have the energy and willingness to lead by example in the classroom, on the track and in the community is something special. He is not just talk. He is as genuine and as real as any junior in high school can be.

The ideal team captain, check, check and check.

Men's Drop-In Basketball Program

The Quincy Recreation Department will supervise a Men's Drop-In Basketball Program at the Atlantic Middle School gymnasium on Monday evenings.

The program, which begins Monday, Oct. 30, runs from 6-8 p.m. each Monday, throughout the winter with the exception of Monday holidays. Each week pick-up teams are formed from those who are in attendance and games are played.

There is a $5.00 fee payable each week at the door. New participants are always welcome.

Locker room facilities are available and the activities are supervised by Quincy Recreation staff.

The school is located on Hollis Ave. in North Quincy and the gym is at the rear of the parking lot.

For more information, call the Quincy Recreation Office at 617-376-1394.

North Quincy Girls Secure 10th Straight Tourney Berth

By SEAN BRENNAN

SOCCER

The North Quincy girls soccer team, with their win last Friday versus Dennis-Yarmouth High School, is headed to its 10th straight Division 1 South Sectional tournament appearance.

The Red Raiders, who needed just one point to advance as of press-time last week, earned the right to play in the post-season with a 2-0 victory over fellow Atlantic Coast League member Dennis-Yarmouth last Friday afternoon.

North Quincy (9-5-1) and Dennis-Yarmouth played to a 0-0 half-time score, but after the scoreless first-half, the Red Raiders broke the deadlock early in the second-half.

Junior MaryKate Stille would make the score 2-0 later in the second-half when she scored on a semi-breakaway after receiving a pass from her sister, Lauren Stille.

"The game conditions were awful, it was rainy and windy all game long," head coach Paul Bregoli said. "But we controlled play at the midfield position, limited their chances with our ball possession and short passing game and overall the team played a real good game."

Dennis-Yarmouth's Gabby Jatkola, the leading scorer in the Atlantic Coast League South Division, was held without a point by North Quincy senior defender Bridget Coleman. Coleman was asked to mark Jatkola all game long, and came through with a great defensive game.

Midfielders Jillian Benn and Keriann Cabral played well at the midfield position for the Red Raiders against the Dolphins of D-Y, and junior forward Paige Bonanni filled in admirably for Emily Milone late in the contest. Milone had to leave the game after taking a fall midway through the second-half.

Senior sweeper Melissa Mendall played her best game of the season, and finished the game with four blocks of Dennis-Yarmouth shots. Siobhan Carnell made ten saves to earn the win and the shutout.

"Right now we are 9-5-1 and we would probably be in the middle of the tournament seeding if the season ended today," Bregoli said. "But we have four games left (Quincy, Medford, Notre Dame Academy and Hanover) and hopefully we can move up and maybe earn ourselves a home tournament game."

Under the guidance of head coach Paul Bregoli the Red Raiders have been a familiar face in tournament play for the last decade, and this year is no different. Bregoli's squad has the offense (the Stille sisters, Milone and Cabral), the defense (Tara Whooley, Coleman, Allison Russell and Mendall) and the goaltending (Carnell) to make a serious run in the South Sectionals this season.

Their tournament position will be announced after the regular season ends on Nov. 2.

Quincy Youth Soccer Highlights

In local youth soccer news, Under 8 Boys North action for the week of Sept. 24th was reported as follows:

Colonial Federal Savings received good play from Cormac McAdams, John Paul Kelly and Nicholas Ouellette. Thomas MacDonald Insurance team saw Ronan O'Farrell, Conor McDonald and Evan Ross play well, while the Paul Harold Club got solid play from Tom Koch, Aidan Brown and Eoin O'Sullivan. Liam Rogers, Griffin Lynch and Liam O'Connor shined for A Hohmann Oil & Plumbing, and Sam Jarpe, Zach Murray and Abdel Elhashhash stood out for the Morrissey Senators. Flavin & Flavin got good play from John MacDonald, Owen Carberry and Callum Chattentum.

FALL CAR CARE

AAA Offers Winter Automobile Advice

(AAA) Winter driving is tough on motorists and vehicles. To help drivers make it through the toughest winter conditions, AAA Southern New England offers the following tips:

Charge: Cold weather is tough on batteries. At zero degrees, a car's battery loses about 60 percent of its strength. At a comparatively mild 32 degrees, a battery is 35 percent weaker. Keeping battery terminals clean helps, but a battery performance test performed by a qualified technician will help determine whether a car's battery is strong enough for winter starts.

Get A Grip: Before winter arrives, make sure the car is equipped with tires that are able to handle New England's winter weather. For most motorists, all-season tires are adequate. In more northern or mountainous regions, switching to snow tires may be needed. For those using snow tires on a front-wheel-drive vehicle, four snow tires are required.

See And Be Seen: Danger must be seen to be avoided. Driving with a snow-covered windshield, windows, side-view mirrors or lights invites a crash. Clear windows, mirrors and lights with an ice scraper, brush or spray de-icer. Make certain windshield wipers and defrosters are in good working order and that washer reservoirs are filled with no-freeze windshield washer fluid. Remember to clean snow off the roof of the vehicle.

Slippery When Wet: In temperatures at or above 32 degrees, a thin layer of water can cover the ice, causing extremely slippery conditions. The distance needed to stop on ice at 32 degrees is twice as long as zero degrees.

Keep The Engine Cool: Make certain cooling system antifreeze is mixed with an equal portion of water for maximum protection.

Fast Solution: A squirt of de-icer spray is a quick method to overcome frozen door locks. Once thawed, lubricate the lock with silicone or lightweight oil-avoid penetrating oils.

Air It Out: Even when temperatures are frigid, don't be tempted to start the car in a closed garage or idle the engine for long periods of with the windows closed. Carbon monoxide, present in exhaust fumes, is almost impossible to detect and can be fatal when breathed in a confined area.

Finish Up: Road salt, slush and grime are especially hard on a car's finish. To help prevent rust and paint damage, keep cars washed and waxed. A full or self-service car wash makes the job easier when temperatures are low.

Strong Battery Boosts Winter Car Starts

(AAA) One of the best ways to protect against winter car trouble is to be certain the battery is fully charged and in proper working condition, according a AAA Southern New England.

"When the temperature drops to near zero, the number of calls AAA receives from stranded motorists soars," said AAA Approved Auto Repair Manager Alfred Ruggiero. "The most common cause of these cold-weather breakdowns is a weak or dead battery."

AAA recommends motorists have batteries tested to closely monitor its condition, especially batteries more than two years old. "Although batteries can carry warranties of four years or more, a warranty is no guarantee an older battery will continue to work in severe weather," he said.

The most common sign of a weak battery is an unusual sound coming from the starter motor when the ignition key is turned, indicating difficulty in starting the engine.

If the vehicle is difficult to start, check that the battery connections are tight and no corrosion is present on the battery terminal. To remove corrosion, use an old toothbrush to clean the cable connectors and terminals with a solution of baking soda and water. Next, inspect the tension of all drive belts. They should flex no more than one-half inch. If the battery's fluid level can be checked, make certain the fluid covers the battery plates. If no problems are found and the vehicle is still difficult to start, drive to a service station or auto parts store to have the battery and charging system tested and, if necessary, replaced.

Besides weak or dead batteries, starting problems can be caused by malfunctioning alternators or starter motors. A qualified repair facility can make an accurate diagnosis and repair.

If the vehicle will not start, use caution and follow instructions in the owner's manual when attempting a jump start. If unsure about the proper procedure, call AAA or another qualified professional for assistance.

To help avoid winter breakdowns, AAA recommends motorists have their cars and trucks thoroughly inspected before cold weather arrives. In addition to the battery, fluids, belts, hoses, filters and tires should all be checked.

Because of the difficult driving conditions often encountered in the winter, motorists should also be sure their lighting systems, brakes and windshield wipers are functioning properly.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Mars, your ruling planet, begins a journey that will open up a growing number of possibilities. Put that surging Arian energy to good use and explore it to your heart's content.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This is the time to prepare for a career move coming up next month. Update your resume. Get those proposals in shape. And don't forget to buff up that Bovine self-confidence.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your Gemini instincts will guide you to the right people who might be able to help you get over that career impasse that has been holding you back. Expect to make changes.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You're getting closer, but you still have a ways to go before reaching your goals. Continue to stay focused, no matter how difficult it can be for the easily distracted Moon Child.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your Leonine pride might be keeping you from getting to the source of a disturbing situation. Don't be shy about asking questions. Remember: Information is power.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) It's a good time to shake up your tidy little world by doing something spontaneous, like taking an unplanned trip or going on a mad shopping spree.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) This is a good week to get advice on your plans. But don't act on them until you feel sure that you've been told everything you need to know to support your move.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Be careful. You might be probing just a little too deeply into a situation that you find singularly suspicious. The facts you seek will begin to emerge at a later time.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) This is a good week to make new friends and to look for new career challenges. But first, get all those unfinished tasks wrapped up and out of the way.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Relationships need a fresh infusion of tender, loving care. Avoid potential problems down the line. Stay close to loved ones as the month draws to a close.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Take things nice and easy as you continue to build up your energy reserves for a big change that's coming with the full Hunter's Moon on Nov. 1.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) This is the absolute right time to let those often-hidden talents shine their brightest. You'll impress some very important people with what you can do.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are impelled by a need to find truth, no matter how elusive. You would make a wonderful research scientist or an intrepid detective.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Big pleasures and great happiness are but the consummation of many little pleasures and deeds of kindness bound together, as a loaf of bread is many crumbs in the aggregate. Happiness is to be found among life's common things. It is not the rare gifts, the possession of the few; it is not great wealth, great learning, great genius, or great power; it is not these things that make the possessors happy. It is good health; it is friendship; it is love of home; it is the voices of children; it is sunshine; it is a passing smile; it is a kindly word; a little gift bestowed anonymously; a little thoughtfulness here and there as the days slip by . . . It is the blessings that are commonest; not those that are rarest; it is the gifts of that God has scattered everywhere. These are the crumbs of happiness.

Do not scorn them, lest when the evening finds you, you may be hungered and disconsolate.

Paul Ricciardi, 90

Quincy Business, Civic Leader; Professional Life Included Shipbuilding, Granite Industry, Real Estate

A memorial service will be held at a later date for Paul Ricciardi, 90, of Quincy, well known on the South Shore for his years of business and civic activities as well as his allegiance to Quincy.

Mr. Ricciardi died Oct. 21 at home after a brief illness.

PAUL RICCIARDI

Mr. Ricciardi's professional life included shipbuilding, manufacturing of granite monuments and real estate development.

Born in Milford, N.H., he was raised and educated in Quincy. He was a lifelong Quincy resident and a graduate of Quincy High School.

During World War II, Mr. Ricciardi worked for the Bethlehem Steel Company at the former Fore River Shipyard in Quincy. He was one of only three men who were certified to lay the keel, the main rib of the ship, around which everything else is built. He was responsible for placing the superstructure, conning tower and command center of the aircraft carrier, USS Lexington.

In December, 1944 during Typhoon Cobra in the Philippine Sea (which today would be ranked as a category 4 storm), three U.S. destroyers capsized and sank. The Quincy built destroyer that Mr. Ricciardi's brother, Charlie, served on as a sailor, survived.

After the war, Mr. Ricciardi was the president and co-founder, with his father and brothers, of the Ricciardi Granite Company and the Quincy Memorial Company of West Quincy for 30 years. He was a member and past president of the Quincy Granite Manufacturers Association.

In the early 1970s, the company concentrated on masonry restoration, rehabilitating the Quincy Market buildings, the Mercantile and Union Wharf buildings in Boston, and many others throughout New England.

Focus later shifted to developing and constructing buildings with his two sons, Stephen and Paul. The company built more than 20 and a half million square feet and rehabilitated or constructed 12 buildings in Quincy Center.

He retired in 1992.

Throughout his life, Mr. Ricciardi was active in civic and municipal affairs and served on many city-wide boards and committees. He and his wife, Rose, were the founders of the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens. He was also instrumental in the founding of the WORK, Inc. program and in 1988 he was honored by their organization and awarded the Probus Award for his devotion and work with retarded citizens.

"He was a wonderful husband and a wonderful father, particularly to his daughter Gloria who was mentally handicapped," said his son Stephen C. Ricciardi.

"Paul and his wife Rose always kept Gloria at home and took very good care of her. They were devoted to their children.

"He loved the City of Quincy and was a good example and role model of civic leadership to his sons," Stephen Ricciardi added.

Mr. Ricciardi was a 56-year, Legion of Honor member of the Kiwanis Club of Quincy. He served as president in 1962, as a district lieutenant governor in 1964 and was currently the chairman of the Health Committee.

Mr. Ricciardi was a 32-degree freemason with 55 years of service. He was originally a member of the former Manet Lodge of Quincy and was currently a member of the Delta Lodge of Braintree and Taleb Grotto.

He had served as an instrumental representative for the Boy Scouts of America and was Quincy's chairman of the Red Feather Fund, now the United Way. His company organized the contribution and installation of the Quincy Veterans' Memorial Stadium field lights and also encouraged affordable housing.

In 1983, he was the recipient of the Paul Harris Fellow Award from the Quincy Rotary Club.

Mr. Ricciardi played the clarinet and had his own band in the 1930s. He enjoyed golf, bass fishing and family gatherings.

He was a lifelong member of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

He is survived by his wife of 66 years, Rose (Youdis) Ricciardi; a daughter, Gloria May Ricciardi of Quincy; three sons, Stephen C. Ricciardi of Quincy, Robert P. Ricciardi, PhD. of Philadelphia and Paul F. Ricciardi of Quincy; two sisters, Vi Savasta of North Providence, R.I. and Mary Sherman of Quincy; four brothers, Archie Ricciardi of Quincy, Joseph Ricciardi of Weymouth, Victor Ricciardi of Halifax and Peter Ricciardi of Quincy; five grandchildren and one great-granddaughter; and many nieces and nephews.

Visiting hours were Wednesday from 3 to 8 p.m. at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens, 371 River St., Weymouth, MA 02191.

Gerard E. Smith Sr., 76

Electrician With IBEW Local 103

A funeral Mass for Gerard E. Smith Sr., 76, of Quincy, formerly of Dorchester, a long-time member of the electrical union of IBEW Local 103, was celebrated Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mr. Smith died Oct. 19 at Quincy Medical Center.

Born in Boston, he was a triplet, his triplet brother James and triplet sister Ann. Along with his triplet sister and brother, he also had a set of twin brothers, Richard J. and Paul Smith and a brother Charles and two other sisters, Mary and Ellen. They grew up in Dorchester.

During his high school years, Mr. Smith played football for Boston Tech. After graduating from Boston Technical High School he entered into the U.S. Navy and served on the Joseph Kennedy destroyer.

He won many boxing titles during his navy career.

After his military service, Mr. Smith began working for Local 103 IBEW, where he worked for 55 years. He retired in 1992.

Mr. Smith was a member of AmVets Post 0146 and the McKeon Post in Dorchester.

He enjoyed golf, boats and boating.

GERARD E. SMITH SR.

Husband of the late M. Frances (Farragher) Smith, he is survived by three sons, Gerard E. Smith, Jr., of Marshfield, Michael J. Smith of Plymouth and Richard J. Smith of Hingham; a daughter, Margaret "Peg" Cammarata of Norwell; two brothers, James Smith of Braintree and Charles Smith of Quincy; and a sister, Ann Scott of Scituate.

He was the brother of the late Mary Davis, the late Ellen Richardson; the late Richard J. Smith and the late Paul Smith.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

RELIGION

Quincy Community United Methodist To Hold Blessing Of Animals Sunday

Quincy Community United Methodist church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, will hold a Blessing of the Animals Sunday, Oct. 29 at 10:30 a.m.

The public is invited to bring a pet in person, or bring a photo of the pet.

"Each person will have to use her or his best judgment as to whether or not a pet should attend," said the Rev. Dr. Susan Jarek-Glidden, pastor. "Personally, I'll be bringing a photo of my Siamese, because she doesn't like crowds and will only be very upset if I brought her in her carrier. Other pets enjoy people and would be well-mannered.

"We want everyone – pets and people – to have a great time," Dr. Jarek-Glidden added, "so everyone has to make their own decision."

The public is also invited to bring photos, preferably framed, of past pets. The photos will be placed on the altar during the service.

A gift of the Quincy Animal Shelter will also be included in the worship service.

"Over the past month, Quincy Community has been taking up a special collection for the shelter," Dr. Jarek-Glidden said. "The shelter told us what its greatest present needs are, and Quincy Community has been collecting cat and kitten food, blankets, paper towels, bleach, and cat toys over the past month."

For more information about the service or about Quincy Community United Methodist Church, call 617-773-3319.

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN (left) was on hand at the recent launch of a new website for the Blue Hill Adventure and Quarry Museum. The aim of the website, www.bluehilladventure.org, is to attract more people to the events and activities of the organization and to promote a presence locally within the community and state and nationally, said Kuma Gupta (second from left), director of special events, who designed the website. Also attending the launch were (third from left) David P. Hogdon, founder, Linda Montillo of the Granite Company and Anne Ladd, webmaster. The organization hopes to work in partnership with other local and state organizations such as Discover Quincy, Quincy Historical Society and the Quincy Park Department to bring the rich history and nature's preserves of the Blue Hill area to the public.

Retirement Seminar At Milton Hospital

Milton Hospital will host a retirement income planning seminar Monday, Oct. 30 in the hospital's conference room A at 7 p.m.

The program is free.

Robert Romano, CFP, JD, and Gregg Rennie, CSA, RFC of Baystate Financial Services, will discuss how to avoid outliving assets.

The seminar will outline a strategy called the Income for Life model, an investment strategy with the objective of providing an inflation-adjusted income for the rest of your life.

For a complete list of Milton Hospital's Fall Community Education programs, call 617-696-88110, or visit www.miltonhospital.org.

Flooding Solution Seen Slow, Costly

erties affected by Fore River flooding, and those along Sixth Avenue. He said the DPW is working to curb the flooding problem by cleaning out old pipes and creating pumping stations.

But, he said, efforts to find a permanent solution are being delayed due to fluctuating cost estimates, lack of designated funding sources, and the slow process of following through with studies and plans.

"We have been working," said O'Donnell. "We've been chipping away at this thing. It's taking a long time to go from the planning stage to fruition... There really is no immediate relief."

O'Donnell also said that improvements have been slow due to the enormity of the problem, and a lack of focus on the issue in the past.

"A lot of the time we're spending out there should have been spent over the past 10 years," he said. "We went in and literally blew the dust off of old studies."

Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly, who made the resolution to conduct the city-wide study on flooding and sewage issues, later told The Sun that flooding issues are often over-looked as a priority because they are not in the public's eye.

"It's not a glamorous issue," he said, "but it probably causes more heartache and misery than any other issue."

Kelly said that DPW has plans to replace sewage pipes from the intersection of Edgewater Drive and Rock Island Road to the Quincy Yacht Club in the next couple weeks. He also said they are replacing tide chambers and storm drains to correct flooding at the Bayswater Boat area.

Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis commended O'Donnell on his efforts, but expressed frustrations in getting help from the state. "I look forward to a change of leadership," he said.

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi attended the meeting, though he is not a member of the Ordinance Committee, citing drastic flooding issues in his Ward. He said he could empathize with his residents after his own experiences with flooding.

"My car was under water," he told O'Donnell. "I mean, we can talk about the numbers all you want, but my Infinity will forever be smelly because of what happened... I'm going to ask, and it's a rhetorical question, what right does the city have to soil my basement? And the answer is, you don't."

Several residents were given the opportunity to speak out about their personal experiences. Many brought pictures of flooded property and vehicles.

"It's not just the water getting in. Your house stinks for days," said Francis Sedaro of Sixth Avenue. "I've seen the pipes cleaned. Cleaning the pipes doesn't do it. We pay a lot of taxes down there. People shouldn't have to live that way. The city is not that poor."

Lynda Ricciarelli said that she was forced to evacuate her home by boat last year during a flood. "It's a horrific thing and you relive it every time you hear rain." She said she lost two cars in the flood, but insurance only compensated her family with $4,000 for both cars. She said she wished Mayor William Phelan would make flooding issues his priority rather than the construction of a new high school.

Of the residents who spoke at the meeting, several expressed hopelessness, and threatened to either take legal actions or move out of the city.

"I hate to see the spirit of a neighborhood being broken," said Davis.

O'Donnell circulated a 2002 study to committee members that said the following streets are affected by flooding:

Connell Street, Alrick Road, Stedman Street, Robertson Street, Willard Street, Sheldon Street, Shirley Street, Glendale Street, President Lane, Monroe Road, Strutevant Road, Miller Street, Cross Street, Crescent Street, Copeland Street, Ida Street, West Street, Bayswater Drive, Winthrop Street, Parkhurst Street, Newbury Avenue, Hollis Avenue, Atlantic School, Edgemere Street, Putnam Street, Russell Park, Whitney Road, Carlisle Street, Quincy Shore Drive, Spence Avenue, Charlesmount Avenue, Craig Avenue.

The DPW is to continue updating the Ordinance Committee until there is a set study and schedule, and public hearings are to remain ongoing.

Can Healey Overtake Patrick?

45-50 Percent Turnout Seen Here Tuesday

See Sample Ballot On Page 14

As one of the most combative gubernatorial campaigns in recent years, comes down the home stretch, a 48-50 percent voter turnout is expected here in next Tuesday's state election.

City Clerk Joseph Shea sees that percentage of Quincy's 54,503 registered voters going to the polls.

"The turnout would be larger," he says, "if there were local state and county contests on the ballot."

Democrat Deval L. Patrick of Milton, who served in the Justice Department in the Clinton administration, holds what appears to be a comfortable lead according to polls as the campaign goes to the wire.

Patrick is making his first bid for state office and if elected, would be Massachusetts' first black governor.

Lt. Gov. Kerry Healey, the Republican nominee and other major contender, is running in second place if the polls are correct.

Boston businessman Christy Mihos, an independent, and Grace Ross, Green-Rainbow Party candidate, trail a distant third and

Expected Completion Date For New QHS: 2010

Michael Ryan, DPW director of Buildings and Maintenance, gives 2010 as the expected completion date for the new Quincy High School.

He and City Solicitor Monica Conyngham met with the City Council Education Committee Monday night, to give updates on progress in constructing a new high school.

"We're on schedule, and everyone's working hard to make it happen," he said.

Ryan addressed continued concerns over lack of parking, and said that 300 spots have been designated in construction plans.,

Councillor John Keenan expressed concerns when Conyngham said that a track was not included in high school designs. Keenan said that the track issue will continue to resurface, and asked for updates on track plans as the construction process continues.

"I went on record saying the bond included money for the track," said Keenan.

Ryan said that he will present plans to the public to gain approval for the exterior of the building. He said designs so far show yellow bricks.

Anne Mahoney, School Committee member, and Frank Santoro, principal of Quincy High School, also attended the meeting.

Sea Street Safety Committee Named

Mayor William Phelan has taken the first steps toward making Sea Street a more pedestrian friendly and safe roadway.

His vision includes transforming the main artery through Merrymount and Adams Shore to Houghs Neck onto a boulevard with a landscaped island, calm traffic movement and pedestrian safety.

To achieve these end, the mayor has named a Sea Street Safety Advisory Committee to work on the problem with the Department of Public Works and city traffic consultants.

Members of the committee include: Ward 1 City Councillor Leo Kelly, Pat Joyce, Elizabeth Binari, Elaine Dwyer, Kathleen Franco, Maureen Gibbons, Thomas McCormack, Daniel Molloy and Timothy Ross.

"I am committed to improving conditions along Sea Street and improving the quality of life in the Merrymount, Adams Shore, Germantown and Houghs Neck neighborhoods in the process." said Phelan.

Traffic safety along Sea Street was regularly mentioned in the Neighborhoods First surveys as a top priority in Merrymount and Adams Shore.

The committee is scheduled to begin meeting with the DPW and traffic consultants in coming months with a goal of presenting recommendations to the mayor in early 2007.

"I look forward to working with the community to implement some important improvements," said Phelan.

"We must focus on eliminating the history of serious pedestrian accidents that have plagued Sea Street.

"If we can improve the aesthetics in the process, that's even better news for the neighborhoods."

JENELLE KIMURA, 4, of Quincy, won Best Commercial Costume honors in the under age 6 group at the recent Quincy Business Association Harvest Festival.

Presidential Wreath, Tributes Honor John Adams

By MIKAELA SLANEY

A presidential wreath from the White House was laid on the tomb of John Adams on the 271st anniversary of his birthday, Tuesday, in the crypt of United First Parish Church.

Adams, hise wife, Abigail, son President John Quincy Adams and his wife Louisa Catherine are entombed in the crypt.

Church pews were packed as people paid respect to the second president of the United States, with prayer, speech, and songs. Speakers praised him for his support of education, love for his country, and love of his wife, Abigail, who many considered his equal, and the first feminist, said Arthur Ducharme, director of Historic Interpretive Program.

Rev. Sheldon Bennett, minister of First Parish Church, gave a prayer for the blessings of democracy, and for military personnel and civilians who "died in search of peace." Rev. Bennett also delivered the closing benediction.

Mayor William Phelan said that Adams, born Oct. 30, 1735, changed the country so that every child has the opportunity to reach for their dreams. He advised the audience to follow in Adams' footsteps and try to change the world for the better.

"I challenge all that gather here today to consider such an ambition," he said.

Lt. Brendon McShane, executive officer of the USS Constitution, spoke on behalf of the Navy.

"If he was here today... he would see a powerful force, said McShane. I think he would be pleased with the navy's reputation over the past few centuries."

McShane and F. Douglas Adams said that the navy was a priority for Adams.

Mary Harris, member of the Woodward School for Girls Class of 2007, spoke on behalf of her school. She was chosen as this year's speaker for being a seven-year student of the school, and a role model for other students, according to Tom Wesner, headmaster of the school. Harris said that John Adams was responsible for a component of the constitution that stresses the importance of the government's involvement in the school system. She said that Woodward students are direct beneficiaries of that part of the constitution.

"John Adams was never quiet about the importance of education," she said.

Dr. Edward Fitzgerald of the Quincy Historical Society agreed that education was a high priority for Adams. Fitzgerald said that Adams taught his son to read and write in 15 languages. He also said that Adams stayed true to himself, and often made decisions that kept him out of favor with the public, especially his bold decision to support the British during the Boston Massacre.

Jim Taylor, editor-in-chief of Adams Papers of the Massachusetts Historical Society detailed Adams' ties to Quincy. He said that even while carrying out presidential duties in Philadelphia, Adams returned to Quincy whenever possible. Taylor said that he did this to escape political life at the capital, to see his wife Abigail who remained in Quincy tending to home and family, and to stay away from diseases found in Philadelphia.

Taylor said that communication and photography were limited during the Adams presidency, and that because of this, many people then did not know as much about their own president as we know about him now. Taylor urged listeners take advantage and research Adams through letters and biographies, and resources at the library.

Caroline Keinath, deputy superintendent of Adams National Historic Park, spoke of the loss in Adams' life, the mourning that he felt over the deaths of his wife, children and friends. She said that Adams did not lead a "fairy tale" life, and that the only fairy tale is the romantic view that we adopt of the past.

William Westland of United First Parish Church, thanked the organizations who assisted in the anniversary celebration, and Kirt Switzer, chair of the Board of Governors of the church, introduced Phelan.

Following the program, guests were invited to pay their respects at the president's tomb.

The program featured the music by soloist Dorothy Adams, Kathleen Adams, American Guild of Organists, the Annisquam Village Church Choir, the Salt Marsh Opera Chorus, and the U.S. Navy Brass Ensemble.

QUINCY COLLEGE
BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Seeks Nominations for Board Members

The Appointing Council Shall Meet To Consider Qualified Applicants For Appointments To The Board.

Nominees are to be considered for appointment to fill vacancies.

Board members are advocates for the institution, and have certain governance and oversight responsibilities for the College as specified in the enabling legislation. Members are expected to attend regular meetings, ordinarily scheduled in the evening, and to participate fully as a member of specific subcommittees, usually meeting several times a month during the day. Additionally, members are participants in Commencement, College Ceremonies, and demonstrate in actions and word a commitment to the mission and purpose of the College. Members must submit an annual financial disclosure form to the City Clerk.

Interested individuals must submit a letter of interest and resume, to the Appointing Council, to be received on or before November 3, 2006. The Appointing Council shall meet to consider qualified candidates, and will provide an optional opportunity for interested parties to address the Appointing Council. The Council welcomes diversity in applicants and encourages anyone who believes he or she might contribute positively to the continued success of the institution to respond.

Some Improvements But:

Issues And Frustrations Over Fire Dept. Conditions

By MIKAELA SLANEY

"We all knew that there were risks that go along with this job when we took the job, but we thought the city would give us proper tools and the training to minimize the risks," Ernie Arienti told the City Council Public Safety Committee at Monday night's meeting.

Arienti, a member of the Fire Study Committee and president of the Quincy Firefighter's Union, expressed concerns over current fire station conditions.

He said the fire department lacks training, funding, and sufficient personnel. He said they must work with deteriorating communication systems and unsafe fire engines, and said that there is an inability to handle emergency situations, which is especially alarming in a post 9/11 situation.

Despite these conditions, Arienti praised the work of Quincy fire fighters, calling them the best around.

"All the city has to do is give us the tools, train us on the tools, then stand back and let us to our job," he said.

Arienti said that improvements have been made to the stations since the introduction of a fire study by MMA Consulting Group, Inc. But, he said, conditions are still far from satisfactory.

Arienti is not alone. Eighty-eight percent of fire fighters interviewed for the fire study said they were dissatisfied with current situations, Arienti said.

To meet long-term goals for the fire stations, Mayor William Phelan is supporting a five-year capital improvement plan backed by a $290,000 bond. Dave Murphy, assistant to the mayor, urged the commission to support Phelan's efforts.

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi and Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis shared concerns over the slow process of seeing any improvements.

"My frustration is that we vote for the money, and the auditor tells us in the next few months that hundreds of thousands of dollars were turned back because they were not used," said Raymondi. "I get frustrated."

Davis said he was frustrated to see money returned that was designated to mount computers on the fire engines.

According to Arienti, since the introduction of the study, asbestos has been removed from West Quincy Station, Squantum Station, Houghs Neck Station, and the North Quincy Station. Arienti said that asbestos issues will continue to be revisited.

Fire Chief Tim Pettinelli also said there have been small repairs since the study that don't require additional funding, but there are still many problems that need to be addressed.

Arienti raised issues over the following concerns:

• He said the fire department uses aging equipment and fire engines that may jeopardize the safety of the fire fighters, and efficiency of their work. He said that old engines, dating back to the '80s, have become worn from use, and many are not suitable to be on the road. "This is unsatisfactory," he said. "We have a graveyard of spare trucks, and we question the safety of many of them."

• Arienti also noted that radios and the communication system are in such disarray that there have been instances where they could not call in an alarm. "I just pray to God that this does not happen in the middle of an

$3 Million Appropriaton To Improve City Buildings

The City Council Finance Committee approved Monday night a $3 million appropriation to improve municipal buildings throughout the city.

Michael Ryan, director of Buildings and Maintenance, assured the Council that the appropriation would improve deteriorating conditions of municipal buildings, including floor boards, boiler and cooling systems, leaking, mold, and other common issues.

Ryan also said that some of the appropriation would address concerns outlined in the MMA Fire Study that details the corrosion of Quincy fire stations.

Ryan said the appropriation would also be used to improve conditions at the Marshal School, the Fore River Club House, and the Beechwood Knoll School.

A Question For Republicans

Local Republicans will probably take issue—at this question.

Where are you?

They seem to again be among the missing when you look at next Tuesday's state election ballot.

Democrat incumbents are running unopposed for re-election to seven local, state and county seats.

A lack of Republican challengers has become quite common in recent years, as we have noted in the past.

Next Tuesday, before the very first vote is cast, seven Democrats have a free ride to another term.

They are:

State Senator Michael Morrissey, state Reps. Bruce Ayers, Steve Tobin and Ron Mariano, Dist. Atty. William Keating, Register of Deeds William O'Donnell and Clerk of Courts Walter Timilty.

MORRISSEY

AYERS

TOBIN

MARIANO

Running as a Republican these days can be a frustrating experience. Quincy Democrats far outnumber them 25,045 to 6,175. That's pretty lopsided.

But there are 22,867 unenrolled (independent) voters who have a lot of political clout—voting either Democrat or Republican.

That seemed to be evident four years ago when Shannon O'Brien, the Democratic candidate for governor took Quincy over Mitt Romney by just one vote.

Lt. Gov. Kerry Healey, this year's Republican nominee, appears to have written Quincy off. Maybe she forgot O'Brien's one vote win here in 2002.

HEALEY

Healey has spent little time campaigning here and local Republicans haven't made much public noise in her behalf.

She was here for Mayor William Phelan's Garden Party at the Adams Mansion in the summer. And recently visited a local restaurant.

She may have been here more than that, but if so, it's been one of the best kept secrets in town. Her running mate, former Sturbridge state Rep. Reed Hillman has been out of sight.

Democrat Deval Patrick and Worcester Mayor Tim Murray between them have been here several times and have a satellite campaign headquarters here.

PATRICK

There was mixed support among Democratic leaders here going into the September primary. Some preferred Patrick, some Chris Gabrieli, others Atty. Gen. Tom Reilly.

But when the results were in, they closed ranks and united behind Patrick with rallies and coffee hours.

Republicans, however, have kept whatever activities they have had for Healey pretty quite. They are not organized as well as Democrats.

And that is rather frustrating for us at The Sun.

Democrats have been all over the city with activities and knocking on doors in support of Patrick. So Patrick gets the coverage.

Then comes the criticism that The Sun is one-way. But Republicans haven't given us much to cover. And you can't cover something that isn't happening.

And for the record, The Sun is an independent newspaper—not Democrat, not Republican—but independent.

Democrats have just been a lot better at getting their message out.

Democrats now far outnumber Republicans in Quincy and Norfolk County. Republicans once far outnumbered them.

But back then, Democrats were willing to run against strong Republican incumbents. They refused to throw in the towel.

Republicans, locally, are in a rut and need someone with some political savvy—enthusiasm and energy—to lead them out of it.

One party in complete control is not the way it is supposed to be.

FRIDAY IS A big day for the Arthur and Shirley Tobin family.

A. TOBIN

Grandson Matthew Tobin, 18, son of Mark and Judith Tobin, will graduate as a Marine at a ceremony at Parris Island, S.C.

It coincidentally marks the 55th anniversary of his grandfather's graduation there before going off to the Korean War.

Matthew's grandfather is a former Quincy mayor now clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court. His father, Mark, is assistant clerk magistrate of Norfolk Juvenile Court.

They and their wives will lead a family delegation flying out for the ceremony. With them will be:

Uncles state Rep. Steve Tobin, Quincy Police Lt. Brian Tobin and State Police Trooper Bruce Tobin; aunts Tracey Phelan, wife of Mayor William Phelan and Kelley Greenwood, wife of Quincy Police Lt. Donald Greenwood.

Matthew, incidentally, eventually would like to become a police officer.

Law and political careers seem to run in the family.

License Board Briefs

• Granted a common victualer license to Abedsiam Kottat, doing business as Newport Cafe, 25 Newport Ave. (former Blue Cross building.) The 10-seat cafe will be open seven days a week from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

• Granted a one day all alcoholic license to Joseph Perette for the Women's Association Golf Banquet, Saturday at the Presidents Cafe, 357 W. Squantum St.

• Continued until Nov. 14 a request by Brett Cogill of Quincy Auto Sales, 451 Quincy Ave. for a Motor II used car license.

•Continued until Nov. 14 a request of Saturn Auto Body, Inc. for a transfer of a garage/repair license held by Devco, Inc. 251 Water St.

•Continued until Dec. 5 a request of Java Java Drive Thru, 60 Quincy Shore Drive for a common victualer license. An independent traffic analysis has been requested.

Rev. Martha Swanson To Present New Book

The Rev. Martha Swanson will present her new book, "When the Sun Vanishes, New Hope for Dark Days," during worship services Sunday, Nov. 5, at Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd., Wollaston.

The Rev. Swanson is pastor of Christ Church in Middleboro and the wife of the Rev. Jack Swanson, pastor of the Union Congregational Church.

The public is invited to attend the event, which will begin at 10 a.m., and will include a coffee hour and book signing.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS OLD HOUGHS NECK postcard is titled "The lawn from the Great Hill House." The title is confusing because the Great Hill House had been torn down many years before this card was postmarked in 1929. The lawn shown here was once part of the hotel's property. The view is looking north, the end of Sea Street is on the right with the yacht club just out of sight. The Norteman family's well-known seafood pavilion shown on the right was built on the foundation of the old Great Hill House in 1895. Dunham's store and the post office are on the left. The old water tower on the top of Great Hill can be seen through the trees on the left. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Bar Association Denounces The Negative Portrayal Of Lawyers And The Law Profession

The officers of the Bar Association of Norfolk County, along with Bar Council members and a number of past Presidents of the Bar Association of Norfolk County met to discuss the recent attacks on the law profession.

There was a clear consensus that lawyers should not be attacked for what they do as lawyers. Everyone who participated at this meeting felt a letter should be sent denouncing the negative portrayal of lawyers and the law profession.

A minority of members who voted on this issue wanted a letter to be sent by the Bar Association of Norfolk County but not until after the election. A substantial majority of members wanted a letter written before the election given the attacks on what a lawyer does have taken place in the context of a political campaign.

The Bar Association of Norfolk County is not endorsing a candidate. It is just pointing out that this is not a Republican, Democrat, Independent or Green Party issue. Lawyers no matter their political beliefs do not want their profession demeaned and its practitioners vilified merely for doing a job.

The Bar Association of Norfolk County traces its roots back to a meeting of attorneys on Sept. 28, 1797, at the office of Samuel Haven. Attorney Haven's law office stood on the grounds of the estate located on the corner of High and Ames Street in Dedham. Our history as a nation is full of instances where lawyers stood up for individuals and causes. The United States Constitution which guarantees all of us rights and protections would be a meaningless document if lawyers did not champion those same rights and protections for everyone.

The history of zealous advocacy by member lawyers of this venerable bar association has been matched by the legal advocacy of others throughout this country's history.

John Adams, a resident of Norfolk County, and later this country's second President, defended in a trial British troops accused of the murder of colonists at the Boston Massacre. Six of those soldiers and their captain were acquitted. John Adams took on an unpopular case because he believed in the law.

The Bar Association of Norfolk County would like to think the same spirit that called John Adams to do a job as an attorney can still exist in our country today. More importantly it would be a shame if in doing a job, in doing a service, in assisting in the guarantee of liberties for all the lawyer that does a job would be attacked and have the law profession scorned.

Bar Association of Norfolk County

Opposes Preservation Act

On Nov. 7, Quincy voters will be asked to saddle themselves with an additional tax, the Community Preservation Act.

Apparently some folks think we're not taxed enough now, and that all the taxes we pay at present can't preserve what they want to preserve. It seems they want to shake the last few coins from our pockets. I'm sure some of their goals are desirable, but not everything desired is necessary.

I suggest placing a bucket in the lobby of City Hall. All the supporters of the Preservation Act can drop in their extra cash, and leave the rest of us alone.

Remember to vote "NO" on Question Four.

Quincy Honors Hero Son Lost 38 Years In Vietnam

He should have been 63 years old that day, celebrating the happy occasion amid children and grandchildren and looking to retirement after a long and productive life.

Instead, they buried what remains of Major Charles Lawrence Bifolchi in Arlington National Cemetery after 38 years in limbo, missing in action in the jungles of Vietnam.

And, at the same hour in his home town of Quincy, friends and strangers alike gathered in St. Mary's Church for a memorial mass for the man whose future was left on a foreign shore.

Some of those at the Mass remembered him vividly. Others barely recalled him. Some were not even born when his Air Force reconnaissance plane was shot down in Jan. 8, 1968.

About 100 people, many of them veterans, attended the mass, which included a military color guard and Taps sounded on the bagpipes by firefighters from Quincy and Brockton.

"May you truly rest in peace," said the Rev. Thomas Keane, a retired Air Force colonel, who presided at the mass with former Marines Dana Ahern as altar server and Daniel Curry as lector.

Major Bifolchi's cousin, Elizabeth Pare of Whitman, who was 12 when he was declared missing in action, and uncle, Matthew Bejma of Smithfield, R.I., were present at the Quincy services.

It was DNA from his late aunt, Louise Bejma, that enabled the remains found in Vietnam's Central Highlands to be identified as those of Major Bifolchi .

Other relatives made the trip to Arlington, including an uncle, Thomas Beary, who accepted for the family the folded flag that had been draped on the coffin.

But his older brother, Air Force Lt. Col. George Bifolchi of Colorado Springs, was socked in by an unexpected snowstorm and was unable to make the trip to the services.

He plans to visit the grave in the near future, he said, and then go to the Vietnam Memorial Wall to see his brother's name, located on Panel 33E, Line 79.

Major Bifolchi's father, Alfred, died in 1977, and his mother, Nora, followed him in 1988. Neither gave up the slender hope that their son might someday be found alive.

The major was buried with full military honors, including a 21-gun salute, a flyover by jet planes and a cortege from chapel to cemetery with his remains in a horse-drawn, flag-draped casket.

Charlie Bifolchi, Quincy High , Class of '61, had come home at last.

THE WINDOWS OF Montilio's Bakery on Adams Street were shattered during a two-alarm fire Friday night that caused an estimated $400,000 damage. Danny's Cleaners and Hair Quarters located in the same building were damaged by smoke. George Montilio, owner of the landmark bakery, is reopening part of it in a section of The Fruit Basket on Granite Street. The fire was believed caused by an electrical problem in the ceiling of the bakery.

Jubilee Celebration Nov. 8

South Shore Mental Health To Mark 80th Year

By MIKAELA SLANEY

South Shore Mental Health Center (SSMH) will celebrate its 80th anniversary Wednesday, Nov. 8, with a jubilee at Lombardo's, 6 Billings Rd., Randolph.

The open-invitation jubilee will feature a live and silent auction,, an award ceremony for those who have contributed to the organization, and music.

Harry Shulman, president and CEO of SSMH, said that he expects between 350 and 400 people to attend. He said that since this year is the 80th anniversary, this year's event would prove to be particularly distinctive.

"That's what makes this event very special," he said. "We really don't run an event every year, and we haven't had a lot of history doing fund-raisers. But we thought that given the special occasion... we would utilize this as a celebration. There aren't too many organizations that have been in the business for 80 years, especially in the South Shore."

Proceeds from the jubilee will benefit the organization, which provides behavioral care for those seeking mental health, especially those without insurance or government funding. SSMH provides for more than 10,000 clients annually.

An award show will recognize community leaders and partners who have contributed to the organization.

Award recipients include:

• Chazy Dowaliby, editor of the Patriot Ledger, with a "Community Service Award."

• Michael Bullman, vice president of Citizens Bank, with a "Community Partner Award."

• Congressman William Delahunt, with a "Legislative Humanitarian Award."

• Herbert Glanz, former chairman of the Board, with a "Distinguished Service Award."

• Lois Hirshberg, with a "Community Service Award."

• Theodore Kirousis, area director, of metro suburban, with a "Department of Mental Health Public Service Award."

HARRY SHULMAN

• Richard Pierce, of Housing Management Resources, with a "Distinguished Service Award."

• Dr. Michael Savage, executive director of the South Shore Educational Collaborative, with a "Community Partner Award."

Auctioneer and entertainer Kathy Kingston will auction off an array of items, including a six day, South African Photo Safari for two, sports tickets and memorabilia.

Shulman said that proceeds will help the organization continue providing services, fund the renovation of a building for children with significant medical and developmental needs, and upgrade household furnishings found in living quarters.

The new renovated building will feature an area for infants and toddlers with developmental delays to practice motor activities, a music room, and a parents room.

Music for the jubilee will be provided by pianist Kenny Moral, musical group The Ovations, and The Victorian Carolers. Internationally renowned watercolorist Misha Lenn agreed to donate a painting commemorating the occasion.

Shulman said that 'he would like to thank the following sponsors for their patronage: Citizens Bank, Blue Cross Blue Shield, Brewer and Lord, One Beacon Insurance, The Law Offices of Peter Eleey and Pinacle Financial Group.

SSMH is seeking for additional sponsors, either individuals, businesses, or organizations. Sponsors are encouraged to place an ad in the program book, donate an item for auction, or purchase tickets to the jubilee.

Tickets for the jubilee are $80 each, or $750 per table.

For more information call Amy Katz at 617-847-1915, or email her at akatz@ssmh.org. Additional information is available at the SSMH website: www.ssmh.org.

Chabad Series Explores Hidden Bible Messages

"Origins," a weekly parsha class that is one of a 12-part series on the book of Beraishit, is being offered Tuesday evenings from 7:15 to 8:45 p.m. at the Hingham Quincy Chabad, 1356 Quincy Shore Drive.

"Beraishit, Genesis, is the origin of all things," said Rabbi Shmuel Bronstein, who conducts the weekly class that started last Tuesday and continues into the new year.

"Beraishit is the first record of our universe and humanity's first encounter with themes such as time and space, life and death, jealousy, greed and murder, love, kindness and forgiving."

The series is part of the Jewish Learning Institute, which is geared for Jews of all backgrounds seeking a deeper understanding and appreciation of Jewish thought, heritage and tradition.

The fee is $10 per class or $60 for the complete series of 12, including textbook.

Classes will integrate basic Judaism, Jewish history, Jewish mysticism and the Jewish calendar, practices and ideas through the study of primary sources, commentaries and group discussion.

"This course will offer fascinating perspectives and relevant lessons on stories such as Adam and Eve, Noah and the flood and others," said Bronstein.

"Many people know the basics of a biblical story and are not aware of deep and philosophical messages that are hidden within them."

For further information contact Rabbi Bronstein at 617-850-5935 or e-mail sbronstein@gmail.com or visit www.hqchabad.com

NOTICE OF JOINT PUBLIC HEARING

City of Quincy Planning Board
Department of Planning and Community Development

Notice of Joint Public Hearing
for
Urban Revitalization District Plan (URDP)

The City of Quincy Planning Board and the Quincy Planning and Community Development Department (PCD) will hold a joint Public Hearing on Wednesday November 8, 2006 at 7:00 p.m., in the 2nd Floor Conference Room, City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy for the purpose of providing the public an opportunity to comment on a proposed Urban Revitalization District Plan (URDP) to be filed pursuant to M.G.L. c. 121B, Section 48.

The City of Quincy Planning and Community Development Department is proposing the adoption of a URDP for a significant portion of Quincy Center. Once adopted by the City Council, the URDP will be submitted to the Massachusetts Department of Housing and Community Development for final approval.

Over the last thirty-five years, numerous attempts by the City sought to revitalize Quincy Center and return its historic vitality as a commercial center. The City has concluded that the ordinary operations of private enterprise, without public investment, will not make the area a significant destination location. The purpose of the proposed plan is to set forth a series of initiatives intended to stimulate private investment and to restore Quincy Center as a vibrant downtown area.

Written comments may be provided to the Department of Planning and Community Development which will be accepted until 4:00 p.m. Thursday November 9, 2006. Comments received before the Public Hearing on November 8, 2006 will be reviewed and included in the Public Hearing record.

A report on the Public Hearing will be placed on file with the City Council and will be included in the application submitted to The Massachusetts Department of Housing & Community Development (DHCD).

Copies of the URDP application, compiled pursuant to M.G.L. c. 121B, Section 48, may be reviewed in the Department of Planning at City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, 3rd Floor and in the Thomas Crane Public Library main branch at 40 Washington Street.

Sonoma Rd., Dimmock St. To Complete Busy Paving Year

Mayor William Phelan said Tuesday the city will complete one of the busiest paving years with re-paving projects in Squantum, Presidents' Hill, Adams Shore, and West Quincy.

Paving crews will begin renovating Sonoma Road in Squantum, Dimmock Street on Presidents' Hill, Perkins Street in West Quincy, and Braintree Avenue in Adams Shore in November.

Paving crews will begin renovating Sonoma Road in Squantum, Dimmock Street on Presidents' Hill, Perkins Street in West Quincy, and Braintree Avenue in Adams Shore in November, he said.

"I am pleased with the progress we have made in improving the overall condition of our city's streets this year, but I am committed to do even more next year," said Phelan. "We have included paving dollars in the municipal budget for the first time and we are prepping for a busy Spring paving season. Our residents have spoken clearly through our Neighborhoods First program and we are responding to their concerns."

According to the Mayor's Office, the city is close to a year ahead of schedule in implementing its Pavement Management Plan, a comprehensive analysis of all city street paving conditions and a subsequent 10 year plan to address street conditions.

In addition to the next phase of the Pavement Management Plan, next year will see paving associated with water and sewer projects along Edgewater Drive in Houghs Neck, along Quincy Shore Drive in North Quincy with Phase II of the sewer reconstruction project, and the normal schedule of sewer rehabilitation projects schedule for next year. The city will also be investing $2.2 million in sidewalk repairs, they said.

"We are in a position to address the issues that our residents identified as top priorities," Phelan said. "Street and sidewalk repairs were consistently listed as important to every neighborhood. We will continue to make improvements through the upcoming year."

New Owner, Name For Atlantic Restaurant

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

A popular Quincy Point landmark restaurant is changing ownership and name. The Atlantic Restaurant on 520 Washington St. will be known as Coop's Bar & Grille. Years ago the site began as the Knotty Pine. Since then there have been several others before Altantic.

The License Board voted unanimously Tuesday to grant the request for the transfer of the common victualer, all alcohol license from Petar and George Pepdjonovic to Mario Recupero.

Atty. Stephen Tobin, counsel for Recupero told the board that the outside of the building will go through some change, but the inside will only have some cosmetic changes.

Chairman Joseph Shea said that parking had been expanded with the new municipal parking area across the street from the restaurant.

Abutters said they hoped that there would not be any Karaoke or entertainment in the future and also said they were opposed to Keno being available.

Board members said that when the Pepdjonovics were having a special event, they had to come before the board for a temporary entertainment license. They said the same will hold true for the new owner.

Recupero said he hoped to open the restaurant by the first week in December.

Liquor Establishments Warned Of 'Sting'

Det. Lt. Peter Turowski, the city's liquor inspector and license board agent advised city bars and liquor stores to "be on their toes" for the possible "sting" operation through the up and coming months.

He said random compliance checks will be conducted for the License Board.

Unannounced visits will be made to check that liquor is not being sold to minors.

Several similar inspections have already been made this year and will be ongoing Turowski said.

Atherton Hough School Roof To Be Repaired

The city will undertake a comprehensive repair of the roof at the Atherton Hough Elementary School in Hough's Neck as part of the Mayor's Capital Improvement Program.

The City Council Finance Committee initially gave a favorable recommendation to a $3 million bond authorization that will allow for improvements to schools buildings, firehouses, and the DPW facility on Sea Street.

"I am excited that we can address the needs of our aging neighborhood schools," said Phelan. "The children of Hough's Neck rely on this school building for learning and a number of community uses. We strive to provide a better learning environment and a school that the Hough's Neck neighborhood can be proud of."

The City Council is expected to take up the bond authorization at its Nov. 13 meeting. The bid process would begin shortly after the funding authorization and work should begin in early 2007.

Phelan presented his 5-year Capital Improvement Program to the City Council in June. It represents a comprehensive analysis of the city's needs for building and vehicle repairs and replacement.

The long-term plan, Phelan said, is the first capital plan in city history and emulates successful plans implemented in Newton and Brookline. The city also followed guidelines established by the state for establishing capital improvement plans.

"We are investing in our streets and sidewalks, and in our municipal buildings and vehicles," Phelan said. "These are some of the most important services that municipal governments provide to residents and we will continue to listen to the input from the public's "Neighborhoods First!" surveys and meetings."

Wollaston Beach Walk Saturday

The Park Department's Environmental Treasures Program will offer a free walk along Wollaston Beach Saturday, Nov. 4 at 3 p.m.

Dr. Phil McLaren, professor of marine biology at Eastern Nazarene College, will identify marine life.

Council President Doug Gutro will discuss beach improvements.

Participants should meet in front of the Wollaston Yacht Club.

'Tanline' Accepts Terms From City For Landtaking

By MIKAELA SLANEY

The owner of "Tanline," which, at 148 Parkingway is located at the center of the Concourse Project, accepted the value given by the city, to take his property by eminent domain, said Dennis Harrington, planning director.

Harrington told the City Council Downtown Committee Monday night that the owner accepted the proposal from the city without negotiation, because he had been considering moving his business anyway.

"He has been wanting to relocate for some time," said Harrington, "we're confident that a proper amount has been offered."

"Tanline" is to be demolished making way for the concourse which is designed to connect Burgin Parkway with McGrath Highway across Hancock Street.

Nine parcels of commercially zoned land valued at $7,986,200 are to be affected by concourse plans, and Mayor William Phelan appropriated $10 million for the landtaking.

The remaining 8 parcels include:

150 Parkingway, Superfitness.

1586 Hancock St., Modern Formal Shop.

1601 Hancock St., a vacant lot.

1563 and 1597 Hancock St., movies and registry.

1570 through 1576 Hancock St., Granite City Tattoo.

1596 through 1602 Hancock St., City Financial.

11 Revere Rd., the Holy Ground Retail.

14 Revere Rd., The Eugene Thomas Salon and Endless Sun Colusion Salon.

Harrington said that so far landowners have been accommodating in the landtaking.

"There's certainly no animosity in the relocation procedure," he said.

Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis urged Harrington to ensure immediate demolition of buildings after the acquisition of that property.

"The quicker the building comes down, the quicker it looks like we're making progress," he said.

With Harrington's assurance, the Downtown Committee of the City Council accepted the terms unanimously.

Major Repairs For Fore River Clubhouse

The city is planning major renovations to the Fore River Clubhouse in Quincy Point.

The renovations were included in the Mayor's Capital Improvement Program endorsed by the City Council at Monday night's Finance Committee meeting.

"The repair of the Fore River Clubhouse was a primary promise of our 'Neighborhoods First' program," said Mayor William Phelan. "This facility has been a valuable neighborhood asset to the people of Quincy Point for close to 100 years. I am proud that we are ensuring that this neighborhood has a community center for years to come."

The city will replace the aging heating system that has failed repeatedly in recent years. in addition, repairs to the floor through the hall will be made, he said.

"The community relies on this facility," said Phelan. "We have many valuable programs for our seniors at this location. The neighborhood told us they wanted to repair the building and we have listened. That's what I promised, and that's what I will deliver."

Repairs will begin in late 2006 and should be completed in early 2007, he said.

QUESTION 1
LAW PROPOSED BY INITIATIVE PETITION

Do you approve of a law summarized below, on which no vote was taken by the Senate or the House of Representatives before May 3, 2006?

SUMMARY

This proposed law would allow local licensing authorities to issue licenses for food stores to sell wine. The proposed law defines a "food store" as a retail vendor, such as a grocery store, supermarket, shop, club, outlet, or warehouse-type seller, that sells food to consumers to be eaten elsewhere (which must include meat, poultry, dairy products, eggs, fresh fruit and produce, and other specified items), and that may sell other items usually found in grocery stores. Holders of licenses to sell wine at food stores could sell wine either on its own or together with any other items they sell.

The licensing authorities in any city or town of up to 5000 residents could issue up to 5 licenses for food stores to sell wine. In cities or towns of over 5000 residents, one additional license could be issued for each additional 5000 residents (or fraction of 5000). No person or business could hold more than 10% of the total number of the licenses that could be issued under the proposed law. Such licenses would not be counted when applying the laws that limit the number of other kinds of alcoholic beverage licenses that may be issued or held. Any applicant for a license would have to be approved by the state Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission, and any individual applicant would have to be at least 21 years old and not have been convicted of a felony.

In issuing any licenses for food stores to sell wine, local licensing authorities would have to use the same procedures that apply to other licenses for the retail sale of alcoholic beverages. Except where the proposed law has different terms, the same laws that apply to issuance, renewal, suspension and termination of licenses for retail sales of alcoholic beverages which are not to be consumed on the seller's premises, and that apply to the operations of holders of such licenses, would govern licenses to sell wine at food stores, and the operation of holders of such licenses. Local authorities could set fees for issuing and renewing such licenses.

A YES VOTE would create a new category of licenses for food stores to sell wine, and it would allow local licensing authorities to issue such licenses. — YES

A NO VOTE would make no change in the laws concerning the sale of wine. — NO fourth respectively according to the polls.

The question: How accurate are the polls and can Healey come on to overtake Patrick?

Worcester Mayor Tim Murray is Patrick's running mate. Reed Hillman, former state representative from Sturbridge is on the ticket with Healey. John J. Sullivan, Winchester town moderator is running with Mihos. Martina Robinson, a Belchertown resident and disability rights activist, is teamed with Ross.

Millions of dollars have been spent by the candidates—especially Healey and Patrick—in a blitz of television ads including negative ones that have turned some voters off.

Quincy is a Democratic city, but four years ago Democrat Shannon O'Brien won here by only one vote over Republican winner Mitt Romney.

The city had 52,977 registered voters then with 58 percent turning out for that election.

Two Quincy Democrats are facing opposition.

Congressman William D. Delahunt has two challengers for his 10th Congressional seat: Republican State Rep. Jeffrey E. Beatty of Hyannis and Peter A. White, Yarmouth Hotel manager running as an independent.

State Treasurer Timothy P. Cahill is opposed by James O'Keefe, Somerville Green-Rainbow Party candidate.

Shea says this year's turnout would be higher if there were local state and county contests on the ballot.

But State Senator Michael W. Morrissey, State Rep. Bruce J. Ayers, Rep. A. Stephen Tobin and Rep. Ronald Mariano are unopposed.

So are Norfolk County Dist. Atty. William R. Keating, Clerk of Courts Walter F. Timilty, Jr. and Register Of Deeds William P. O'Donnell.

Only county contest is for commissioner with incumbent Peter H. Collins challenged by Thomas E. Gorman, Dedham Republican.

But there are four questions on the ballot which Shea says are drawing increasing interest and could boost the turnout.

They are:

Question 1: Do you support the sale of wine in food stores?

Question:2 Do you support nomination of candidates for public office?

Question 3: Do you support Family Child Care providers? This would allow unions to organize employees in day-care centers operated in homes.

Question 4: Shall the City of Quincy accept the Community Preservation Act?

Other contests on the ballot:

Middlesex County Dist. Atty. Martha Coakley, Democrat, Larry Frisoli, Belmont Republican are contenders for the attorney general's office that Thomas Reilly left in his unsuccessful bid for governor.

Secretary of State William F. Galvin, Democrat is opposed by Jill E. Stein, Green-Rainbow Party candidate from Lexington.

Auditor J. Joseph DeNucci is opposed by Rand Wilson of Somerville, Working Families Party candidate.

Fourth District Councillor Christopher A. Iannella, Jr., a Democrat, has no opponent.

Quincy's 30 voting precincts will be open from 7 a.m.to 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Shea notes that Quincy is not among the 139 communities that have a question on their ballots calling for an immediate ending to the Iraq war and bringing home all American troops.

He also reminds voters that this year's ballot is two-sided with the names of the candidates and Question 1 on the front and Questions 2, 3 and 4 on the back.

With the city's approximate 5,000 Asians as registered voters, Shea again this election has printed posters in Chinese and Vietnamese identifying the locations of the city's 30 polling places and other voter information.

The posters are being placed at the voting precincts, in public buildings and in the windows of businesses with high visibility.

And there will be 11 translators at the six heaviest Asian populated precinct in North Quincy and Wollaston.

Those precincts are:

Ward 3, Precincts 4 and 5, Wollaston School, 205 Beale St.

Ward 5: Precincts 4 and 5, Beechwood Knoll School, 225 Fenno St.

Ward 6: Precinct 1, North Quincy High School, 318 Hancock St. and Precinct 2, Sacred Heart School, Hancock St. and Glover Ave.

Vote Machines For Disabled Available For Quincy Election

Voting machines that are accessible to voters with disabilities will be available in 28 Massachusetts communities, including Quincy, when the polls open on Election Day, Tuesday, Nov. 7.

This equipment will not replace existing voting equipment used by the cities and towns but will supplement it. Each voting system will provide a voter verifiable paper trail.

"This is a major step toward ensuring that voters with disabilities can, for the first time, cast their ballots without the assistance of another person," said State Secretary William Galvin.

"We are continuing to field test three machines to make sure what Massachusetts adopts to meet the Help America Vote Act requirement is the most accessible, secure and reliable machine available."

Galvin said the further field testing is necessary given the importance of procuring the most appropriate voting system accessible for voters with disabilities and the amount of money to be expended.

The three types of voting machines that will be used are the AccuVote Tsx with a voter verifiable paper audit trail, and the AutoMARK voter assist terminal , and e-Slate with voter verifiable paper trail.

The AutoMARK machine will be used at each of the polling places in Quincy.

In addition, Galvin has hired a voting systems expert, Dr. Michael Shamos of Carnegie Mellon University to examine the security aspects of the equipment being used.

He concluded that all three systems are sufficiently secure for use.

Beechwood Preschoolers 'Color Their World'

Preschoolers at Beechwood On The Bay recently participated in "Coloring Our World" creating an art mural on the 1950's stockade fence that separates the school from the Squantum Navy Base Housing.

Sharron Beals, the center's director, told the story of the fence:

"The 53-year-old fence is destined for replacement by our Suffolk construction neighbors. Until then, the fence was old and drab. It was the what the children saw each day when active on their playgrounds.

The fence "beautification" began when high school volunteers (Rotary Interact Service Clubs from NQHS and QHS) volunteered one Saturday to paint and spruce up the center's play ground.

"We had so many wonderful volunteers we ran out of work assignments," said Beals. "The young people then suggested we paint the fence and later got creative adding trees, birds and flowers to a portion of the fence."

In the weeks that followed, Beechwood preschoolers, aged three through five-years-old, began to paint their versions of their "colorful world," and constantly discusses the project.

Some of the students' comments:

"We are painting flowers, trees, bugs and birds," said Andy Ryan. "All the stuff we see every day."

"Pretty soon the pretty leaves will fall off," said Everett Ortiz. "But this pretty fence will be here even when the snow comes," continued Matthew McCratic.

"It is hard work, but we can do it!" said Marchello Chaisson.

Issues And Frustrations Over Fire Dept. Conditions

emergency situation," he said. He also noted that some radios were so old that are literally being held together with rubber bands.

• He also the "Voc Alarm System" has only been working intermittently, and often the department does not know whether a station has received a dispatch call, or not, which could cause a delay in response time. "That little amount of time could be life or death," he said.

• Arienti said the Fire Department has not had a training division since the beginning of June. "We are looking to not only get our training officer back, but our training department back," he said. "With all the training that we are mandated to have in this post 9/11 world, we are falling far behind."

• He expressed concerns over a statistic citing 86 percent of fire stations in the state "unable to handle any disaster, whether manmade or natural, due to lack of training and a lack of state funding."

Kelly reaffirmed his original stance at the introduction of the study, to oppose the suggestion to close the Germantown and Quincy Point fire stations, and open a new station between the two near the intersection of Sea Street and Palmer Street.

Discussions between the Fire Study Committee and the City Council are to remain ongoing.

Members of the Fire Study Committee are Pettinelli, Arienti, Tom Bowes, Secretary of Firefighter's Union, Murphy, assistant to the mayor, and Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin.

ABCC Upholds License Suspension At Marina Bay

An appeal to the Alcohol Beverage Control Commission (ABCC) by the Water Club at Marina Bay regarding a 20-day suspension for a violation last December was upheld according to the License Board at Tuesday's meeting.

The board, on a motion by Health Commissioner Drew Scheele voted unanimously to suspend the all alcohol, common victualer license from June 1 through June 10 for 10 days with the other 10 days placed on file for one year.

Chairman Joseph Shea said the owners may appeal to the Superior Court and added that a letter regarding the date of closing be sent to the owners.

Board Turns Down Karaoke License Request

The License Board unanimously denied a request for Tom-Tom Music Box for a common victualer Karaoke license because of its location at 28B Billings Rd.

Chairman Joseph Shea said the 600 square foot area is just "too small and an inadequate" space for that kind of business, and presents "safety problems" with overcrowding issues.. He said he would ask Dean Rizzo, of Quincy, 2000 to help Angel Chan find a new site.

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele said he was "not against the concept" and agreed with Shea about the size. He made the motion to deny the request

Police Chief Robert Crowley, who seconded the motion, said he also had a problem with the location and the overcrowding issue.

Owner Chan appealed to the board explaining that he wanted to start the "business small" to accommodate under 20 persons so he could handle it easily.

Home Design Ideas And Inspiration

(NAPS) For home decorating, some homeowners look for their inspiration from the pages of top magazines that feature furniture and accessories that demonstrate today's best thinking in home design trends.

One of America's top interior designers, Patricia Crowl, decorated each room of the home with products exclusively available at Wal-Mart.

"We wanted to take the design expertise of each magazine and show consumers how to apply it to their own homes," she said. "The house illustrates how to get the look of luxury at an affordable price."

The show house also offers the latest new trends in home decorating this season:

• How to use everyday items in unusual ways: For example, placing mirrors on a dining room table for ambiance and flair, and using outdoor products such as garden urn and patio cushions as decoration for the living room.

• Using a unified color scheme: The use of a single color palette with accent colors sets the tone for a calm room without being boring. This also makes a seamless transition from one room to the next.

• The technique of layering makes a warm and cozy atmosphere without spending a fortune: This can be achieved with rich and colorful throws, pillows, cushions and accessories.
